RUSSIA BEGINS EVACUATION OF TROOPS FROM IRAN

300-Mile Border Of France, Spain Closed by French

Trade Relations Broken Off; Closure Devoid of Drama

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Hendaye, France, March 1. (AP)—France broke off all commercial relations with Spain today by closing the 300-mile long border between the two countries in protest against the continuance in power to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime.

The official closure, effective at midnight, was devoid of drama. As the hour passed, frontier guards patrolled both sides of the border as usual. The weather was blustery and rainy.

Actually, the frontier was closed two hours before midnight when the customs offices finished the day's work. The Paris Express arrived an hour late, but was permitted to cross, carrying the last regular travellers, mostly Belgian, Portuguese and Spanish Nationals.

The French action effectively severs all commercial intercourse between the two countries, including telegraph, postal, rail and road communications. Foreign diplomats, Red Cross and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration workers are excepted from the ban on travel, as are Portuguese, French and Spanish Nationals returning home.

Spanish officials refused one diplomat, the French Vice-Consul at Barcelona, permission to return to his post. No reason was given.

The last person to try to cross—and fail—was a young German attempting to return to his family in Spain. He had entered France illegally and had been apprehended. French officials were trying to send him back before the border closed, but Spanish officials didn't want him either.

The only commercial traffic which will be permitted between the two countries is food en route to Portugal or Switzerland, and U.N.R.R.A. supplies in transit through Spain. Some concern was expressed here that this might further cut the already slim French food supply, since France has been importing quantities of fruit and fish.

Missing Child Is Back Home, Nursemaid Held

Annapolis, Md., March 1—(AP)—Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Taylor of Charlotte, N.C., were reunited today with their four-year-old daughter, Terry, who disappeared three days ago and was found here last night.

A 19-year-old nursemaid who posed here as Terry's mother is being held for North Carolina authorities, who charged her with kidnapping.

Police said the young woman was known by at least three names.

She told police here she was known in Charlotte as Rosemary Johnson; in Annapolis, where she was hired Wednesday as a maid by a naval officer's wife as Rosemarie McKay, and she signed a statement waiving extradition to Charlotte as Geraldine Ann Green.

The child and the nurse were found on a tip from Mrs. Helene Seay, wife of Capt. George Cameron Seay of the naval academy. The child and the nurse were at the Seay home.

The young woman, police said, came to Annapolis at the end of a journey which started out as a trip to a Charlotte soda fountain with Terry and a soldier.

Mrs. Seay said the nurse posed as a destitute widow of three weeks with a four-year-old child. The "mother" called the child, "Jerry."

The alarm for the child was spread when the nurse failed to return to the Taylor home Tuesday.

This was the story of the succeeding events which police quoted the nurse as relating:

The nurse asked a soldier parked in a car nearby to take her to a soda fountain. Terry came along but Tondra stayed in the park.

Cornwall's Man Of Mystery to Be Held Another Week

Cornwall, March 1—(CP)—The unbending arm of the law reached out today to delay a reunion between the mysterious Dr. Heflin and his 21-year-old bride of a month who says she has more love than ever for her handsome six-foot husband who in two days has undergone a rapid transformation from a graduate in medicine to an escaped German prisoner of war and then to plain John Galbraith.

Magistrate P. C. Bergeron accepted a recommendation from Crown Attorney John G. Harkness to delay consideration of an appeal for bail pending confirmation of charges said to be held against Galbraith at Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Harkness said he has been notified orally of the charges by Lethbridge police and that they suggested sending an escort here to take him west to stand trial.

Galbraith himself did not appear in court. Neither did his bride, the former Joyce Rabin whom he married last month after a whirlwind 12-day courtship. However, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Max Rabin whose husband is a prominent merchant, attended and listened attentively to proceedings. Galbraith was remanded for a week, without leaving the jail, on charges of failing to produce a National Registration card and failing to report a change of address.

S. E. Fennell, Cornwall lawyer, made the appeal for bail. He was acting for Rolphe Danis, Galbraith's counsel. Mr. Fennell argued that the man was held on minor charges and has been in custody for some days. He suggested that bail be set at a small sum but guaranteed a reasonable sum to assure his reappearance in court.

After the bail hearing, Mrs. Rabin said that Galbraith was not yet 21 and said her family is anxious to keep him from being sent back to Lethbridge, if possible. She said they wanted to make restitution and have him freed of the charges.

3,000 Dependents Of Canadian Servicemen Arrive Over Weekend

Halifax, March 1 (CP)—The first group of more than 3,000 dependents of Canadian servicemen to arrive here over the weekend will disembark from the liner Scythia this afternoon. The big ship is carrying approximately 1,000 war brides.

Expected tomorrow afternoon is the Acquitania with 1,500 dependents. She will be followed by the former hospital ship Letitia, due Sunday with 813 passengers.

10,000,000 Hours Spent Daily In Queues by Women of Britain

London, March 1—(Reuters)—More than 10,000,000 British house-wives wait on an average of one hour a day in queues outside or inside 600,000 food shops—a daily wastage of 10,000,000 hours, or 1,140 years.

Inside these 600,000 food shops 1,588,800 shop assistants struggle to serve the hungry and harassed 10,000,000. That is, 561,000 assistants fewer than in mid-1939 served Britain's shoppers before food rationing and labor shortage gave birth to the queue.

Medical experts blame at least 25 per cent of the common ailments afflicting the British public during the winter on lowered vitality caused mainly by queuing.

And industrial experts and psychologists say a vital factor in Britain's declining production is the apathy of the worker caused by such daily irritations as queuing.

Almost negligible in the early war years, the queue problem became more acute as victory drew nearer and Britain's belt was tightened. It reached its peak in 1945 after the war was won.

In July, 1945, at least 12 anti-queue associations were formed in Britain. Women besieged members of parliament with demands for anti-queue action; doctors began talking about "queue feet" which they compared with trench feet.

But queues persisted.

U. S. SHOWDOWN WITH SOVIET SEEN IN BYRNES SPEECH

Secretary is Against Red Army Deployment In Strategic Areas Of Europe and Asia

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 1 (AP)—A United States showdown with Moscow over the Red army's deployment in strategic areas of Europe and Asia was foreshadowed today by the stern new foreign policy enunciated by State Secretary Byrnes.

Direct and vigorous measures likewise were indicated against the Soviet policy of stripping property from liberated countries of former enemy satellites.

The Byrnes pronouncement in New York last night was generally interpreted here as heralding a tougher administration policy toward Russia all along the line, particularly with regard to Soviet expansionist tendencies, and the Kremlin's lone-hand manouevring in neighboring countries.

Three countries seemed likely to figure in the Soviet troop removal issue, information here indicated. They are Iran, Austria and China, but there are other areas less urgently involved.

Efforts have been under way for some time, it was learned, to get the Russians to agree to withdrawal of troops from Austria—but without success.

As for Iran, tomorrow is the generally accepted deadline for evacuation of Soviet forces there, but official reports reaching Washington say there is virtually no evidence that they intend to pull out by that time.

Meanwhile there is growing concern among many officials as to Soviet intentions in Manchuria in view of recent reports that Red army forces there show signs of staying on indefinitely.

The Manchurian situation is not considered by many authorities here to be critical at the moment, but private comment under-scored Byrnes warning that "we do not want to stumble and stagger into a situation where no power intends war, but no power will be able to avert war."

In addressing the Overseas Press Club last night, he laid down this seven point list of "must nots" for the world's nations:

1. "We will not and we cannot stand aloof if force or the threat of force is used contrary to the purposes of the (United Nations) charter.

2. "We have no right to hold our troops in the territories of other sovereign states, without their approval and consent freely given.

3. "We must not unduly prolong the making of peace and continue to impose our troops upon small and impoverished nations.

4. "No power has a right to help itself to alleged enemy properties in liberated or ex-satellite countries before a reparations settlement has been agreed upon by the Allies.

6. "We do not want to stumble war of nerves to achieve strategic ends.

6. "We do not wan to stumble and stagger into situations where no power intends war, but no power will be able to avert war.

7. "We must not regard the drawing of attention to situations which might endanger the peace as an affront to the nation or nations responsible for those situations."

Hitler Dazed by Failures As Early as January 1942 Had No Idea How to Win

By DANIEL DeLUCE

Nuernberg, March 1—(AP)—One month after he declared war on the United States, Adolf Hitler confessed he had no idea how to win it.

On a single afternoon—Jan. 3, 1942—Hitler attempted to console himself and official callers with these alibis:

"If the German army had only had six more days of good weather before the arrival of the mud, they would have thrust into Moscow. But under the unfavorable weather conditions there was nothing else to do but halt the offensive."

"Rommel's retreat was due to the Italian failure to protect supply convoys to Africa. One hundred and twenty tanks were waiting at Naples for shipment."

"The Italians are very reckless with their utterances. They have light-minded telephone conversations and use an insecure code."

"Naturally everything would be done to destroy Moscow and Leningrad . . . there was 42 degrees of frost, the people could hardly go out of doors and German soldiers' hands froze to their rifles."

"The loss of motor transport to the cold was the greatest German loss in the Russian winter. In the past month, only 3,000 soldiers were missing on the eastern front: only 100 amputations."

"No 'strategic withdrawals' are made. The Russians must pay with blood every day. The Russians use 10,000 to 15,000 men in attacking on a kilometre of front."

"The English send an entire fleet squadron against single coastal batteries on isolated Norwegian islands, and in this way achieve small successes. At important points such as Narvik nothing could happen."

"England wants to bring the United States forces to Libya because she fears that if the United States gets into East Asia territory it won't get out."

"If the war drags on, England will transfer her central direction to Australia and New Zealand."

"If England loses India, a world collapses. India is the core of the English empire. India has given England all of her riches."

PRIME MINISTER WILL STAY UNTIL TREATIES SIGNED

Mackenzie King Will Have Longer Record Than Sir John A. MacDonald After June 8th

By R. K. CARNEGIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 1. (CP)—On June 8, Mr. Mackenzie King will have served as Prime Minister for 6,939 days, one day longer than Sir John A. Macdonald held that post. The opinion here is that Mr. King will continue to head the government at least a year after he has passed Sir John's record.

Observers believe the Prime Minister will feel called upon to remain in office until the peace treaties have been signed. While the tentative date for the first peace conference is set for May in Paris, it may not start until a month or more later.

This conference will deal only with Italy and other minor powers. The conference to deal with Germany and Austria will have to await establishment of stable governments in those two countries and no one can tell how long that will require, perhaps into 1947.

Mr. King will continue to lead the government in the session which opens on March 14 and likely the session next year. During this period Liberal Party stalwarts will give deep consideration to his successor and will watch closely the showing made in the Commons by various Cabinet Ministers.

Opposition to be Tougher

Experienced Parliamentarians expect the official opposition will be much tougher this session and that will give those hopeful of taking over the leadership, an opportunity to show their mettle in the Commons.

Juror Takes Ill, Trial Postponed

Whitby, March 1 (CP)—Illness of a juror today forced postponement until Monday of the trial of Lorne Harris, young laborer charged with the murder last Nov. 10 of Mrs. Audrey Lyons in her nearby Ajax home.

The postponement was announced by Mr. Justice J. C. McRuer shortly after the Assize Court trial opened its third day. Dr. F. Cuddy, who previously had given evidence as to finding of Mrs. Lyons' body in her bedroom, said he had examined the juror and believed he would have recovered sufficiently to allow the trial to proceed Monday.

Testimony had been that the woman, wife of an airman on Newfoundland service, had been strangled with a portion of her pajamas. It also was testified that Harris was among those present at a party at Mrs. Lyons' home the night prior to finding of the body.

GENERAL CRERAR RETIRES AFTER BRILLIANT CAREER

First Native Canadian to Gain Rank of Full General While on Active Service

Ottawa, March 1—(CP)—The retirement of Gen. Henry Duncan Graham Crerar, 57, C.H., C.B., D.S.O., of Hamilton, Ont., who led the 1st Canadian Army throughout the campaign in Europe, was announced today by Defence Minister Abbott.

A statement said he would proceed on leave pending retirement after a 35-year career in the Canadian Army, during which he became the first native Canadian to gain the rank of full general while still on active service at the front.

Little more than a year ago, on Feb. 8, 1945, he threw one of the largest armies in history against the northern flank of the vaunted Siegfried Line. His command of some 500,000 embraced the Canadian Army and a large part of the British 2nd Army during the bitter battles of the Reichswald and Hochwald forests, which set the stage for the final British-American drive across the Rhine and into the plains of northern Germany.

Gen. Crerar returned to Canada last summer and recently concluded a grand tour of the Dominion to bid a personal farewell to thousands of the troops he commanded and receive civic and scholastic honors at many centres.

He received his early education at Hamilton and at the Royal Military College, Kingston, before accepting a position with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission at Toronto before the First Great War.

At war's outbreak, he was a lieutenant in the militia and went

Winston Churchill To Visit Ontario Says Premier Drew

Toronto, March 1—(CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario announced today that Winston Churchill will visit Ontario this year and will receive an honorary degree from the University of Toronto.

The premier said in a statement that when Mr. Churchill made plans for his present visit to the United States the Ontario government invited him here. When Premier Drew saw him in Florida in January the former British prime minister said he did not think it would be possible for him to make the trip.

However, since then Mr. Churchill has made plans to visit Viscount Alexander, Governor-General-Designate of Canada, later this year and will come to Ontario at that time.

THREE TORONTO BROKERS' HOUSES ORDERED CLOSED

Securities Commission Also Lifts Licences Of Three Securities Salesmen

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—The Ontario Securities Commission, continuing its campaign to clean up Ontario securities dealings, closed three Toronto brokerage offices and lifted the licences of three Toronto securities salesmen.

Brokerage houses which yesterday lost their registrations were, H. R. Bain and Co., Ltd.; M. F. Burrows and Co.; and Charles Spratt and Co.

Registration of the following salesmen has been cancelled: Garnett J. Parr (A. W. Ryder and Company), Harry L. Lesler (McLaughlin, Smilley and Company) and Julius Levine (at present unattached). One salesman, Jesse Jacobs of Toronto (John F. Burgess and Co.) voluntarily surrendered his licence.

As announcement of the Commission's latest move came late yesterday, it was made known that the registration of another Toronto broker, L. M. Atwell (Continental Securities Co.) had been surrendered voluntarily and that the Commission had dismissed appeals by two salesmen, Lewis Smithken and H. A. Norton, against cancellation of their registration, and of a broker, W. R. Manning, who lost his registration for "misrepresentation in advertising."

At the same time the Commission announced appointment to its legal staff of Henry R. Howitt of Guelph.

Canadians Should Not be Afraid To be Proud

London, Ont., March 1 (CP)—World leaders in many important fields during the war, Canadians should not be afraid to be proud, Gillis Purcell, General Manager of The Canadian Press said today in an address to journalism students of the University of Western Ontario.

In six years of war, Canada had grown up. Her soldiers, airmen and sailors were as good as the best, her economic experts showed the way to the United Kingdom and the United States, her industrial and research workers were outstanding. She had no reason to apologize for herself.

Canadian war reporters had compared favorably with the big-name correspondents of the United States and Britain. Canadian reporters, in fact, had scored world beats on the Dieppe raid and on the Sicily and Italy invasions.

SAILS FOR CANADA

Liverpool, England, March 1—(Reuters)—Bill Miller, of Wapella, Sask., who flew from Canada recently when his English wife was found strangled in a lane at Canterbury, England, today sailed for Canada aboard the liner Mauretania with his 10-month-old son Victor.

No arrest has been made in connection with the crime.

Canadian Govt. Agreed to Build Grotesque Artificial Iceberg in '44

Ottawa, March 1 (CP)—One of the war's most fantastic undertakings—"habbakuk" project—has come to light with the disclosure that the Allies planned to build in Canada great, 2,000,000-ton vessels of reinforced ice to serve as floating airfields during the assault on continental Europe.

A report on the work done in Canada, Britain and the United States and the reasons for abandonment of the weird project were released simultaneously in Ottawa, London and Washington last night.

Satisfactory results with a 1,000-ton model in Lake Patricia, near Jasper, Alta., actually were obtained before the project was shelved after it became evidence it would not be completed in time for the invasion and it was decided Pacific theatre conditions were not suitable for its employment.

The Canadian government had agreed to build one of the grotesque artificial icebergs during 1943-44. It would have been 2,000 feet long, 300 feet wide and 200 feet deep, with runways, internal storage space for aircraft and refrigeration equipment to keep the craft from melting away.

The report said cost was estimated at approximately $70,000,000—"comparatively low.. considering the size of the vessel compared with battleships or normal aircraft carriers."

Last of 600 British Troops Being Moved into Iraq

Tehran, March 1—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Prince Firouz said today that Russian troops had received their orders to begin the evacuation of Iran.

Prince Firouz said the Russians would leave Semnan, 100 miles east of Tehran, tomorrow—exactly on the deadline set by agreement of the Big Three with the Iran government several months ago.

Firouz said in a broadcast the commandant of the Soviet garrison at Semnan had asked permission to leave behind five sick soldiers and two doctors to care for them.

He added that he was notified by Semnan officials that the commandant had "received orders to begin evacuation of the city March 2" and that he would hand over Soviet installations on that date.

Meanwhile 600 British troops, the last of the British garrison, moved from Tehran yesterday and the last 200 of them were moving across southern Iran into Iraq today. The last American troops were withdrawn at the end of December.

Remain in N.W. Area—Moscow

London, March 1 (CP)—The Moscow radio announced today that Red army troops would start withdrawing tomorrow from those sections of Iran "which are undisturbed," but would remain in the northwestern area, which includes the province of Azerbaijan.

The Soviet government has informed Iranian negotiators that the withdrawal—due tomorrow from all Iran under an Allied agreement—will be limited to eastern areas of Soviet occupation in northern Iran "where the situation is relatively calmer," according to the broadcast.

An autonomous government was reported a month ago to have been set up in Azerbaijan province after Red army troops blocked off Iranian reinforcements ordered into the province to put down a revolt. Premier Ahmed Quavam Saltaneth announced Feb. 8, before he left for Moscow to negotiate Russian-Iranian differences, that he would not recognize the Azerbaijan regime.

The broadcast was the first definite indication from the Soviet capital what the Russians intended to do about the withdrawal of foreign troops, set for March 2 under the British-Russian-Iranian treaty of 1942.

It followed a statement at the foreign office here yesterday that all British troops would have been withdrawn by tomorrow, in strict accord with the treaty. The last of the United States forces assigned to Iran were withdrawn Jan. 1.

Manitoba—Fair and comparatively mild Saturday.

FISHERMEN ACTIVE

Welland, March 1—(CP)—More than 2,000 fishermen have been active recently in ice-fishing activities on Lake Erie in the Port Colborne-Fort Erie vicinity and according to county game overseer Roy Mumax "they all got the biggest catch."

Col. Juan Peron Forges to Front In Argentina Vote

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, March 1. (AP)—Col. Juan D. Peron, former Argentine vice president described as pro-Axis by the American State Department, forged into a two-to-one lead today in the indicated electoral vote on the basis of still-meagre returns from last Sunday's presidential elections.

Peron, however, was only approximately 5,000 votes ahead of his Democratic Union opponent, Dr. Jose Tamborini, in the popular vote. With about four per cent of the ballots counted, Peron led, 62,614 to 57,890.

A computation of votes for seats in the National Chamber of Deputies showed Peron forces far in the lead, with 62 places apparently assured as compared with 20 for the radicals and two for the progressive Democrats.

A tabulation early today showed Peron leading in six provinces having a total electoral vote of 152, and Tamborini in four provinces with a vote of 78. Ten of Tamborini's votes—from the province of San Luis, where the count is complete—were assured.

The possibility the outcome of the election might not be known for two more weeks was seen when the province of Buenos Aires decided that irregularities in six boxes were serious enough to cause the results to be thrown out. New elections wil be held in the disputed precincts March tenth.

Buenos Aires province has 88 electoral votes—largest number in the country—and the results of the election may hinge on the outcome there.

U.S. Strikes At-a-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

985,000 workers idle in continuing labor disputes.

Major developments:

Electrical—C.I.O. pickets and sympathizers, for the third straight day, plan to attempt to crash police lines at strikebound General Electric Plant in Philadelphia; yesterday's violence brings threat from C.I.O. Union leaders of a general strike call of 150,000 C.I.O. workers; Pennsylvania governor says he will send in state police and troops, if necessary, to maintain order.

Automotive—C.I.O. United Auto Workers and General Motors resume negotiations after lengthy night session surrounded by some expectancy, ends without agreement over issues in 101-day-old strike; no comment, no statement following discussions with G. M. president; U.A.W.-C.I.O. G.M. council opens two-day meeting in Detroit.

Communications — Country-wide strike of some 250,000 telephone workers still scheduled for March 7 but federal conciliators arrange for resumption of negotiations in New York Sunday between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers.

Steel — Nearly 600,000 of the 750,000 C.I.O. United Steelworkers who were on strike for four weeks covered by new contracts, most of them granting 18½ cents hourly wage hikes; steel industry moving rapidly back to normal; fabricating plants, employing about 188,000, still strikebound.

WING COMMANDER E. R. JOHNSTON AWARDED A.F.C.

Air Force Headquarters today announced that Wing Commander E. R. Johnston of 281 George Street, Belleville, has been awarded the Air Force Cross.

A similar award has been made to Wing Commander D. J. Brooker of Trenton.

The King's Commendation for Valuable Services in the Air has been awarded to Squadron Leader A. R. Ross of Trenton.

NEW CHILDREN'S PARK FOR FOSTER WARD

The City Parks Board in regular session last night unanimously decided to proceed with a children's park to be situated near the Ward Grocery on St. Paul Street in Foster Ward.

The new playgrounds will be the second of its kind in the city and will be modelled after the first one which was opened at the head of John Street, off Victoria Avenue last year.

The new playgrounds will be fenced in and is remote from highways, railway tracks and water, so that parents need have no qualms as to the safety of their children.

Up-to-date playground facilities such as slides, swings, sand-pits and other play paraphernalia dear to the heart of children will be available. The whole will be under expert supervision.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

An increase of $136,433.81 in customs and excise returns at the Belleville office for February, 1946, as compared with the same period one year ago was reported by customs officials here today. Returns for the month just closed $394,728.12 as compared with $258,284.31, for the same period one year ago.

LARGE DOE SEEN NEAR COUNTY HOME

Sight of a large and beautiful doe standing quietly in a field north of the county House of Refuge, was a pleasant sight for a Herchimer Ave., resident at an early hour this morning. The doe was seen at approximately 7.30 and after becoming aware of the presence of the humans, trotted to the edge of the field and leaped the fence to disappear in a south easterly direction. The doe was believed to have been browsing on trees in the neighborhood during the night.

The morning previous the tracks of a large buck had been seen on the westerly limits of the city, the tracks continuing down the bay.

FEBRUARY HAD MORE VARIABLE WEATHER

The month of February this year provided a little more variation than it did last year. The maximum temperature this year was 48 degrees as compared to 42 last year. On the other hand, the mercury dropped to 18 below zero on the coldest day this February while the coldest last February was 5.5 below.

Things were just about even in the matter of "zero" days, seven being recorded this year and six in 1945.

On the whole colder weather was experienced in February this year. The mean temperature was 15.5 as compared to 20.5 last year.

The rainfall was .81 inches this year and there was a snowfall of 20 inches. In February, 1945, the rainfall was 1.06 inches and there was 19.3 inches of snow.

The precipitation was 2.81 in February compared to 2.99 last year.

FIRE UNDER CONTROL

Liverpool, March 1 — (AP) — Fire among 1,000 bales of cotton aboard the 11,055-ton Swedish liner Drottningholm was brought under control early today after the dense fumes caused evacuation of passengers and crew.

Three firemen were overcome. Dockers unloading mail discovered the fire shortly after midnight.

TURNS BAR INTO TWO-FAMILY DWELLING

Littleton, Colo., March 1 (AP)— Charles N. Hockaday, 76, is doing all he can to alleviate the housing shortage. He converted his bar into a two-family dwelling. His silo was made into a three-storey one-room-per-storey home rented to a war veteran and his family. Now Hockaday is contemplating renovating chicken houses.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Timmins, Feb. 28 (CP)—Felix Chenier, 46, Timmins miner killed in a fall down a mine hole at the Hollinger Mine Saturday, came to his death accidentally, a coroner's jury said yesterday.

The jury recommended use of safety belts be enforced and that staging be erected around mill holes.

PRESIDENT?

The large number of voters which turned out in Argentina indicates that Dr. Jose Tamborini, ABOVE, has a good chance of winning the election, according to observers. Such a result would ease the inter-American tension, it is thought.

Maj. Foote, V.C., To Speak Here This Month

Honorary Major John W. Foote 41-year-old Protestant padre to the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, and the fourteenth Canadian to be awarded the coveted Victoria Cross, will be in Belleville on either March 13 or 20, it was learned here today. Major Foote will be the guest speaker at a banquet tendered to returned members of the armed forces of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Born in Madoc, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foote, the V.C.'s first parish was at Fort Coulonge, Quebec, in 1933 where he stayed for two years. Then he went to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope and remained there until he joined the army.

Offering his services as chaplain to the Canadian Army he was called in December, 1939, when he was sent to a composite unit of the R.C.E. in Toronto. In March, 1940, he was attached to the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry as its padre. He proceeded overseas in June 1940 and went to the 15th General Hospital in England, remaining there until his regiment arrived from Canada.

He went with his men on the famous Dieppe raid on August 19, 1942 and was recently awarded the Victoria Cross in recognition of his outstanding aid to the wounded. He was exposed to an inferno of fire but he carried wounded to regimental aid posts and also assisted medical officers.

Although offered several opportunities to get back to England, he refused and continued his courageous tasks until taken prisoner. He was liberated in April, 1945.

Income Taxpayers Urged to Complete Returns Early

Urging taxpayers to file their income tax returns as soon as possible to alleviate the inevitable last-minute rush, Income Tax Inspector Kenneth Reid, today stated that the deadline for the return of the forms is April 30. As far as his office is concerned there has been no information regarding the possibility of an extension of time for payment.

With the exception of the Farmers' Supplementary, and the T-1 Military, all tax return forms are available at the Front Street offices of the National Revenue Department.

The T-1 General form, Inspector Reid stated, has been expanded somewhat to allow for a simplification of calculation. It includes an additional form of instruction which will alleviate calculation headaches for those making out this form of return.

Corporations are still allowed to file returns within six months of the end of their fiscal year.

Inspector Reid was of the opinion that due to the fact there will be no Victory Loan within the next six months, the possibility of time extension for payment, as in other years, will be remote.

POLICE COURT

Although seventeen cases were listed on the morning docket, Friday's city police court was of brief duration as evidence in only one case was taken. Other cases heard in court were as result of intoxication charges with pleas of guilty being entered by the accused.

Howard Sandford, 17, was charged with doing wilful damage at a local poolroom when it was alleged a cash register had been knocked to the floor. Although a plea of guilty was entered, judgment was reserved until the matter of restitution was settled.

Four local motorists paid $2.00 each for infractions of the parking by-laws, while three others paid $4.50 on charges of disorderly conduct.

POLICE BLOTTER

It isn't often that farm livestock is seen roaming at will on Belleville streets, but just that was the sight which greeted eye of Mr. Art Galbraith, Charles St., when last night he saw a year-old calf nosing around his premises. Mr. Galbraith called the police department with officers "roping" the calf and placing it in the garage for safe-keeping. Efforts on the part of police to ascertain the owner met with failure and the city pound keeper Thomas Thorne was notified.

Clinton Townsend, 181 W. Moira Street, can be thankful for at least one thing. That is that thieves who stole his fifty-foot clothes line waited until the week's washing had been taken in. Yesterday Mr. Townsend complained to police that his line had been stolen.

The Belleville Agricultural Society after a delegation discussion with the City Parks Board last night, has decided to hold a series of harness race meets here this summer, in conjunction with a proposed circuit which will embrace several towns and communities of the district.

The Parks Board, gave unanimous assent to the delegation to use the track in the Exhibition Grounds here and set aside June 19 and July 24 as dates for two meets. The Board also decided to repair any track deficiencies and extend every effort as far as their activities are concerned to make the meets a success.

The Board also proposes to build new horse stables to replace those destroyed by fire last year. Secretary Orland Pinkston stated today that modern stables with up-to-date facilities for horses and horsemen are included in construction plans.

There is a strong possibility that the Kinsmen Club of Belleville will be joint sponsors of the harness meets. President Elmer Sandercock of the Belleville Fair Board stated. Fair Board officials are awaiting the decision of the clubmen which, it is expected, will be made at the regular weekly meeting on March 18th.

Cost Accountants Hear Industrial Psychologist

On Tuesday evening the Bay of Quinte Chapter of Cost Accountants were privileged to hear an interesting and instructive talk by Dr. H. Moore of the firm Stevenson-Kellogg Limited.

It was the Chapter's regular monthly dinner meeting at the Bar-B-Q private dining room. Among the guests were local industrialists and superintendents.

Dr. Moore's subject was "Supervisory and Administrative Personnel — Their Selection and Development." Dr. Moore stressed the point that psychology is not a cure-all in solving the proper occupation of a person but merely a guide. Many men are given supervisory positions mainly because they are first class mechanics or professionals, but there were many who could not convey to those in their charge the wishes or requirements of their company.

Another case quoted was that of men with domestic difficulties, these men cannot fulfill their business capacity if worrying over conditions such as these. In some cases an understanding by all parties concerned, the man can be straightened away. Executives should take special care in selecting their junior executives, making certain the man has initiative, courage and honesty. After this, the company should see that the man has the opportunity to learn and fit himself for higher positions.

Dr. Moore stated he had interviewed many returning servicemen and had noted with admiration the carriage, alertness and respect for authority.

The speaker was introduced by Mark Vanner and the appreciation of the Chapter was voiced by Lorne McDougall.

Speaker Emphasizes Need for Christian Men in World

An inspiring address and challenge to club members was given by Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church, who spoke to members of the local Y's-Men's Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting held on Thursday evening. Mr. Smith recently returned to Belleville after serving as padre with the Armed Forces.

Celebrating his 20th anniversary as an ordained minister, Rev. Arthur Smith emphasized the need for Christian men in the world of today. He recalled interesting experiences in Europe where he served as army chaplain and in closing pointed out that "the world, and I mean Canada too, cannot be at peace unless we get on the high ground where we can see the Cross".

Rod Wilson introduced the guest speaker, while Bob Hinchey expressed club appreciation. Dinner guests for the evening were members of the newly formed "Phalanx Club".

BLAMES WIFE FOR PAINTED TOE NAILS

Springfield, Mass., March 1 — (AP)—"My wife did that," said a blushing unidentified mail carrier as removal of a shoe and sock revealed toe nails painted bright red. Fellow workers had removed the sock to examine the carrier's leg, injured when he fell on a slippery sidewalk.

C.N.R. Veterans Announce Closing Of Cigarette Lists

First Belleville organization to send cigarettes overseas to local boys in the fighting services, the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Association has now announced the closing out of its cigarette lists, their last list going forward this week.

Total number of cigarettes sent overseas by the local C.N.R. organization was given as 2,152,000, the cost of the "fags" being $7,162.32.

In closing out their overseas cigarette list, the local association through its fag fund chairman, Mr. Albert H. Jones, expressed its appreciation to all who had supported the fund since its inception back in August 1940. The association particularly thanked the many women who through supporting different projects assisted in raising money for the fund.

Not only was the C.N.R. Veterans' Association the first to send cigarettes overseas from Belleville, the organization also continued sending fags the longest, closing out their lists only with the discontinuing of the plan by the cigarette companies. Many recipients of cigarettes sent overseas have returned to Belleville to accept employment with the Canadian National Railways in various capacities.

Prices ranging up to $100 per thousand for top grade pine and hardwood have occasioned lumbering activity during the current winter in the district immediately to the north of Belleville such as has not been seen for many years, according to one custom sawmill operator.

Where in the normal season this custom sawmill operator would have cuts averaging up to 50,000 feet, this winter he already is working on one cut of 90,000 feet and has others in view of almost equal size. One other private cut in the Oak Hills south of Stirling will be around 100,000 feet, it was stated.

Extreme shortage of hardwood flooring has created the high prices for top grade hardwoods, while farmers doing off-season lumbering on their own limits of farms are receiving almost equally high prices for top grade pine.

WRENS ON CARRIER

Devonport, England, Feb. 28— (Reuters)— For the first time in the history of the Royal Navy, a warship — the 27,500-ton aircraft carrier Victorious — came home here yesterday with women forming part of the ceremonial dress-ship "manning" parade. The Wrens were among the 11,000 naval personnel which the Victorious brought home from Australia for release from the service.

DOG CHASES RABBIT DOWN DRAIN PIPE

San Diego, March 1 — (AP)— Roxy, a determined Dachshund, pursued a rabbit down a drain pipe at a golf course here and several hours and 150 feet of pipe later was rescued by a city work crew, summoned by the dog's owner. The rabbit, still uncaught also was released.

LATE MRS. MARIE S. ENGLISH (Marmora)

Marmora, March 1 (Special) — The funeral of Mrs. Marie Sophia English was held on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock from her late residence on Forsyth Street to Sacred Heart Church where High Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. H. J. Farrell.

Interment took place in Sacred Heart cemetery.

Included in those attending the funeral from out-of-town were: Mrs. P. Kehoe, New York; George English, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Phelan, Eddie Phelan and Douglas English, all of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Barrett, Belleville.

LATE GRANT BOUGHTON PROCTOR

The funeral of Grant Boughton Proctor, one-year-old son of Flt. Lieut. and Mrs. Albert Proctor, 13 Sinclair Street, took place from the Grant Funeral Home, 68 North Front Street, on Thursday afternoon.

The service there and at Belleville cemetery was conducted by S/L. the Rev. W. O. Nugent of the Trenton Air Station. During the service a vocal solo, "In the Garden," was rendered by Mr. Ronald Elmy.

The bearers were F./O. Green and Mr. Glen Rawson.

LATE NORMAN CLAPPER

The funeral of Norman Clapper took place from 14 King Street, on Wednesday afternoon. The service there and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church.

Two Negroes Killed In Fresh Outbreak

Columbia, Tenn., March 1 — (AP)— State guard reinforcements, called out after two Negroes were killed in a fresh outbreak of gunplay, moved into Columbia today to join units hurried here earlier in the week when racial disorders flared.

The Negroes were shot and two others, including a deputy sheriff, were wounded yesterday in the Maury county jail where the Negroes had been taken for questioning in connection with riotous disturbances Monday night and early Tuesday.

They were among 100 persons arrested after the violence had been touched off by an altercation in which a Negro woman and her son were accused of assaulting a white man and the subsequent wounding of four policemen who went into the Negro section known as "Mink Slide."

Lynn Bomar, state safety commissioner, said the jail shooting started when one of the Negroes seized a gun taken by authorities Tuesday in a house-to-house search.

Captain Andrew Doyle of the State Guard said he was shot at when he and two city officers sought to arrest four Negroes, two women and two men wearing army uniforms, who were reported to have stoned several white girls.

Toronto Press Critics Laud Belleville Quartet

Toronto music critics gave the accolade of sterling performance to the Belleville Brass Quartet following their appearance in Massey Hall on Wednesday night, at a concert which was a melodic aftermath to the Kiwanis Music Festival held in Toronto the two weeks previous.

Winning high honors in the Festival, the quartet, composed of Robert Blakely, Trenton (trombone), Don Charlton, cornet; Robbert Stebbings, euphonium and Jack Fenn, cornet, the last three from Belleville, was invited to play at the Massey Hall function with other Festival high honor winners.

Augustus Bridle, writing in the Toronto Star said: "Hamilton's Harveter Male Chorus, conducted by Ed Lester.... were out-arted by a smart brass quartet from Belleville conducted by Jack Green in two numbers of fascinating tone—blended things in which the smooth euphonium was double-checked by the suave tenor-trombone and two lovely lyric cornets."

Referring to Robert Blakely's trombone solo, Bridle goes on, "He did a man-size job in a trombone solo by Balfe— fine intonation in fluent lyric style."

Writing in the Globe and Mail, Pearl McCarthy said, "The news of the concert was made by four youths from Belleville and Trenton who appeared as a brass quartet—two trumpets, a trombone and a euphonium. Robert Blakely, trombone, was exceptionally good."

The success of the quartet both in the Festival and the ensuing concert reflects great credit not only on the boys but on Mr. Jack Green, gold medal cornetist, who instructed and conducted the boys during their rehearsals grind, and the climax of success.

BEBE'S NEW BABY A GIRL

Bebe, the Brookfield zoo's prize hippo who gave birth to her sixth calf Sunday, didn't get hungry until yesterday when she lumbered out of her pool for the first time since the blessed event and headed for food in an adjoining cage.

The baby hippo, about 30 inches tall and about 40 pounds, followed mama out of the tank and disclosed her sex. The new baby hippo made it even-Stephen for Bebe — with three sons and three daughters born in the last 11 years. Bebe, 16 years old, weighs 3,400 pounds.

NEW HIGH FOR "GRIPING"

Tokyo, March 1 —(AP)— The soldier who stood in the army's new Ernie Pyle theatre lending library established a new high for griping: "What do they mean, 20,000 books? There's only 2,000 with 10 copies of each—that's what!"

Resting at the Tierney Funeral Home, Napanee, for service in the chapel there at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, March 4th. Interment Riverview Cemetery, Napanee.

ROWE — At Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday, February 20, Smith Rowe in his 81st. year.

The funeral was held from Cobley's Funeral Home, Trenton, on Friday, February 22nd. Interment was in Carrying Place Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

LLOYD — In memory of Harold Lloyd, who passed away March 1, 1943.

He suffered much, with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Till God above in His great love
Released him from his pain.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
The heavenly gates were open—
A loving voice said come.
Weep not for me or wish me back,
I now from pain am free,
And in my Jesus' arms I rest
Where I have longed to be.
—Sadly missed by Brothers, Sisters and Mother.

DEWEY — With fondest love to the cherished memory of our darling daughter, Phyllis Elizabeth, who passed away March 1, 1945, age 10 months, 3 days.

She was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth;
God took her home to heaven
Before she was soiled on earth.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mummy and Daddy.

SHAW — In loving memory of a loving wife and mother, Florence Stinton, beloved wife of Nelson Shaw, who so suddenly passed away March 1st., 1945, without farewell.

Only those who have lost know the sorrow of parting without farewell. Today, we recall with sorrowing hearts our happy home which was so suddenly broken. We will remember the years of happy life spent together and her kindly words and loving smile which meant so much to us.

We cherish still with love sincere
A picture of one loved so dear—
We loved her too dearly to ever forget
Her kindly love for all.
We love to think when life is done
We'll meet again to part no more,
In mansions sweet, with angels of glory,
In heaven for evermore.
—Lovingly remembered by a sorrowing Husband, Daughters, Son, Brothers, Sisters, and an aged mother.

CARD OF THANKS

Annual Cost To be $59,150,000 Says Air Minister

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—Canada will spend approximately $59,150,000 annually to maintain a peacetime air force of some 30000 men in permanent, auxuliary and reserve groups, Air Minister Gibson announced Thursday.

In a speech to the Toronto Empire Club, Col. Gibson said the annual cost of maintaining a regular force of 16,100 men would be about $55,650,000. A proposed auxiliary force of 4,500 men would require additional expenditures of $3,000,000 and a reserve force of 10,000 would cost about $500,000.

Pre-war expenditures of the R.C.A.F., when the strength was about 4,000, totalled about $7,000,000.

Col. Gibson, reviewing the history of the R.C.A.F., and outlining plans for the future, said that:-

1. The existence of the atomic bomb does not alter the fact airpower still is the first line of defence.

2. The R.C.A.F. plans to construct fighter aircraft with jet engines of Canadian design and manufacture.

3. The R.C.A.F. staff college at Toronto is expected to work in close co-operation with similar institutions in the other Canadian armed services, in the R.A.F. and the United States army air force.

4. New rates of pay for members of the R.C.A.F. will go into force after approval is given to the report of a committee now working on the subject.

5. The first five of 15 proposed auxiliary squadrons will be organized at an early date in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The reason the opposition is expected to improve in efficiency is that the opposition leader, John Bracken, will be more experienced in that role and the Progressive Conservative Party better organized to conduct considered attacks. The Party has been divided into 11 committees, each headed by a strong debater and these heads have kept in touch with the members of their committees since the last session ended.

The government's handling of the investigation into the charges that secrets have been given to Russian agents may or may not rank high among the issues in which the opposition will lock horns with the ministry.

Protested Vigorously

J. G. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, heads the party committee assigned to deal with the Justice department and last session protested vigorously against the government keeping Orders-in-Council secret. The extent he will follow up this attack now that a further secret Order-in-Council has been made public, likely will depend on the seriousness of the situation and the extent to which his leader was kept informed of the steps taken by the government.

There will be other questions which possibly will start heated debates, including the way Finance Minister Ilsley handles the tax situation, decisions to be reached in regard to credits to the United Kingdom, the National Flag, the Citizenship Bill, the withdrawal of the Canadian Army from the Occupation Zone, and the contentious redistribution of the federal constituencies.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., will again head a strong group of experienced debaters as will Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

McTague Leads Crackdown

The Commission also stated its investigating staff is carrying out a number of investigations into suspected violations of both the Ontario Securities Act and the Criminal Code.

Ontario's tough securities boss, C. P. McTague, leading the crackdown which started Jan. 3 on infringements of the act governing sales of securities, said the Commission to date had cancelled registrations of nine offenders against whom 27 United States citations had been brought.

"The Commission has made no special effort to deal with alleged United States offenders to date," Mr. McTague said. "Such alleged offences have not motivated the Commission in any of its disciplinary actions. The result would seem to be due to 'the long arm of confidence.' The Commission wishes to record itself as being most appreciative of the co-operation being given by the authorities in the United States."

The chairman noted that when the Commission was appointed late last year there were outstanding in the United States 102 cease and desist orders, injunctions and indictments against 32 brokerages firms and syndicates in Ontario.

Did Not Ask For Licence

H. R. Bain, President of H. R. Bain and Co., Ltd., said his company had not asked for a licence renewal as the limited company is being discontinued in favor of its senior company, Bain, Newling and Company, which is a member of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

M. F. Burrows stated M. F. Burrows and Company had not applied for renewal of its licence, and Charles S. Spratt of Charles S. Spratt and Co., said he had no comment to make on the Commission's action.

Investitures

Impressive scenes at Government House, Ottawa, during the war years and since the war's end have been those of the ceremony of presentatoin of decorations won by Canadian servicemen in the Second World War. The time is now approaching for His Excellency the Earl of Athlone and the Princess Beatrice to leave for Britain on the close of their tenure of office as representatives of His Majesty. This week has seen two ceremonies of presentation of awards ranging from Victoria Crosses to medals, and these are the last investitures presided over by the Governor-General.

Two bereaved families received V.C.'s for sons who gave their lives and among the other decorations presented were those that were given members of families of some who did not live to return to receive the honor they won by their service. There was a long list of servicemen who received honors and awards.

Investitures give some idea of the service which Canadians gave in the war. They have served to bring before the people something of the spirit of those who fought in the cause of freedom and democracy and a free world. The deeds of those who received awards and of all the others who served will not be forgotten by a grateful people who feel the spirit of rededication come upon them as they meditate on what the forces of this nation have done in co-operation with the forces of other Allied peoples. At how great a price victory has been bought is clear to all. The people of the Dominion realize the debt this land owes to their sons for their deeds in the causes of justice and honor.

Allied Cemeteries in Holland

The people of the Netherlands for whom the British peoples have always held the highest regard for centuries have ever lived up to their tradition of honor.

Holland was in sad plight in the past few years with the world-enemy Hun in occupation. But the dauntless Dutch lived on, they snubbed and insulted and fought the tyrants. In time their land became free as the Allies swung eastward and northward driving the enemy out of occupied territory. Among these victors were great armies of British and a great strength of Canadians. These helped to lift the burden off the Netherlands and free that honored country.

It cost lives to free the Netherlands as it did to free France, and other countries. The people of Holland know and their hearts are grateful for the victories of the Allied forces. For the British, the age-old friends of Holland, and for the Canadians from the land in the west where the Crown Princess of the Netherlands and her young daughters lived in security from Hun attack and where one of the Dutch princesses was born, the Netherlanders have a sense of appreciation and gratitude that does not end with phrases. It is an emotion that fires every Hollander to keep sacred in his memory the sacrifices so many Britons and so many Canadians made to make Holland free.

So the grave of every Allied soldier who fell in that country is to be adopted by a Dutch family to care for as if it were their own family. Parents and brothers and wives and families of the glorious dead feel profoundly the spirit of love and indebtedness that animates the people of Holland.

The Dutch are going to find out as much as possible about the fallen soldiers and wherever possible a grave will be cared for by a family with a background similar to his. The Dutch, too, have plans to meet the relatives of soldiers whose eternal rest has been set up in the land they liberated.

So flowers will be planted and will bloom on the graves of that great company of men, 80,000 in number, who gave their lives in the country of the Dutch or whose bodies were brought back from Germany for burial in Dutch soil. Those who gave sons or brothers or fathers to the cause of freedom know the loyalty of the Dutch will endure. Cemeteries in Holland will become fields "forever England" and "forever Canada," lovingly cared for by friends and Allies who passed through the sacrifices of war in the same cause.

The Fashion Note

If the Board of Trade and other Government Departments listen to the pleadings of the British fashion designers to use some of the materials developed by scientists during the war, women should have some fun with their new clothes in the next twelve months. There is one fabric, a satin material which technicians call "photoluminescent." It glistens in the dark with the same ghostly glow as a luminous watch face. It was employed to cover the landing paddles used at night on aircraft carriers. The fabrics made of plastics for use in equitorial war zones will give designers enormous scope. One material, used by Britain's Royal Air Force for rust-proof insect screening, should be popular for office suits, for ink, grease or stains can be removed without blemish with a damp cloth.

54,000 Aluminium Houses

The use of aluminium for the construction of temporary houses continues to progress in Britain. The houses are delivered from the factory complete with all fixtures and fittings for gas, water and electricity, so that they can be put into use at once. The city of Bristol has dealt with its housing problem rapidly by erecting 82 aluminium houses on a piece of ground belonging to the city. At the moment the five British factories producing these houses have in hand orders for 54,000 houses and production is to be increased so that within a short time it will be possible to deliver 50 aluminium houses per day. It is proposed to manufacture permanent houses from aluminium later on.

Left-Handedness

Most modern educational systems have abandoned a foolish practice that was carried on for many years. This was the attempt to forcibly convert left-handed children to the use of the right hand. It was long the custom to interfere with this quirk of nature, for what reason no one could satisfactorily explain.

There is no logic in the belief that a left-handed person has to be "turned around." Such folk get along quite as well as those of the right-handed majority, and science and industry now make provision for them in a number of ways. There are, for instance, left-handed refrigerators.

Actually, what is needed more than conversion is a campaign to make people ambidextrous. This can be done quite simply, if the training is started early enough. There is no reason why human beings should not be able to use one hand as skilfully as the other. If they could be generally brought to do this, we should have a more efficient race of people.

Hooking on Cars

"Whip behind!" is a cry that has no meaning in this motorized age, but there are times when we regret that drivers of cars and buses are not equipped with whips to discourage youngsters from one of the most dangerous practices. Slippery streets have brought about a revival of the trick of hanging on to the backs of such vehicles. We have had one boy injured, and it is only by good fortune that we have escaped fatalities.

The children alone are not to be blamed for this prank. They do it thoughtlessly, and without a full appreciation of the possible consequences. When they hook on, they are showing the effects of lack of sound education. Both at home and in school, it should be drilled into them that this practice may cost them their lives.

Newspaper Facts

Daily newspaper accounts of the death of President Roosevelt were bound in five volumes, and presented to a Hyde Park library for the benefit of future historians.

The quoted price of $104.50 net for a Victory Bond purchased in October last at $100 looks good to the buyer of that time but the person who is now looking for an investment to take care of surplus funds is in a different position Port Arthur News-Chronicle says.

MARCH

Time was my mother used to say:
"Spring cannot now be far away.
When March comes in, if shutters slam,
'Tis sure to leave us like a lamb.

"If March comes in to bang the doors,
And angry like a lion roars,
Then meekly, blithely, light of heart
'Twill like a gentle lamb depart.

"If March at first has fangs that bite,
And howls in fury through the night,
Then grateful be, and cease to grieve,
For like a little lamb 'twill leave."

Around the world 'tis March once more.
Oh, may it show its teeth and roar
And leave as lambs are said to do,
That mother's words may all come true.

Hard Decisions in a 10c Investment

(From The Washington Star)

Time was at the turn of the century when a young man of a dozen years or so had a tough problem every Saturday evening when the family drove in to do the week's trading at the general store. Each week a lad received a dime for helping with the chores. Of course, he got real pay, 25c a day, in haying and harvesting, but that money was ear-marked for vital things — traps, pocket knives, a compass and other essentials for a boy who had definitely planned a career as a trapper in the far northland. The dime was for any thing a fellow wanted, and he wanted candy.

It was a major event of the week. After mother had traded the eggs and butter for coffee, sugar, molasses, spices, some gingham, a yard of red hair ribbon and a spool of No. 60, white, and father had bought a new pair of felt leggings and a few pounds of ten-penny nails, a boy, his three sisters with their dimes, and father all gathered at the candy counter with its curved-glass front. Father usually bought a pound of the tepee shaped chocolate covered ice cream drops for the family but a boy knew from bitter experience he had better not buy chocolate with his own money. Their lasting power was decidedly minus.

The hard candies were the best all-round investment. Of course, one needed two long plump sticks of licorice, but that left 8c. And 2c could be well sacrificed for two long sticks of peppermint candy, one with red stripes and one with green. Then a young man usually succumbed to a penny's worth of molasses kisses. They were reasonably long lasting and the molasses flavor definitely made the purchase worth while. With the other five pennies it was necessary to be canny. Horehound drops were five for a cent, but some of the other varieties of candies were six, seven or eight for a penny. One plain variety of rock hard sweetness was 10 for a cent. Ah, yes, those were days of hard decisions but when finally a lad had his blue and red striped paper bag full, he knew that, by exercising a fair degree of will power, he was provided for until about Tuesday. And after that there was always the next Saturday evening when more candy would come.

Ducks Delay Flying Boat

Durban, South Africa (CP) — The British Overseas Airways flying-boat Caledonia arrived here two days late owing to ducks. The craft was coming down to land at Malakal and had just crossed the edge of the Nile, which is lined with reeds and bushes, when a flock of ducks flew up. One duck collided with a wing and then wrapped itself round the forward wire stay of the float.

The captain brought the plane down skilfully, and half the passengers were unaware that the leading edge of the wing had been pushed back about a foot, and it took the crew two days to effect the necessary repairs.

Guelph, March 1 — (CP) — Charges that babies were left outside Guelph beverage rooms in carriages while their mothers drank beer were made yesterday at a citizens' meeting called to discuss conditions in women's beverage rooms. Rev. H. H. Chipchase, pastor of York Road Baptist Church, said conditions were so bad he would favor a return to the days of the Ontario Temperance Act, "even with the bootleggers."

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Basic Work Of Rehabilitation In Germany

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Frankfurt, Germany, March 1—(AP) — It would be easy for the traveller in Germany to lose his perspective of the Reich's true position, because the terrific devastation wrought in cities across the whole face of the land by Allied bombing tends to obscure everything else.

Berlin, Essen, Cologne, Nuernberg, Munich, Frankfurt and scores of others — they're all the same — just ghastly, empty shells which once housed millions — ghosts of places which not long ago were among the world's great centres.

But this destruction is not a mortal blow. It is not even the paramount problem of rehabilitation. Houses are not everything. More important than chairs and windows is food. And that is the No. 1 problem in Germany at the moment.

Interlocked with the food problem are transport and fuel. It takes transport to distribute the food, and coal to run the transport.

The Allied military governments are having to proceed with rehabilitation on the basis of top priorities. Reconstruction of Germany's ruined cities is not the top priority. And it must wait.

Long Time Before Rebuilding

Even when reconstruction becomes possible, it will take many years to rebuild the destroyed cities. Experts estimate it will require as long as 30 years even to clear out the rubble in places like Berlin and Essen, to say nothing of rebuilding. Thus for a long time to come thousands upon thousands of city people will be cave dwellers.

The Germans take it if they have sufficient food and warmth. They have the guts, and are displaying the determination to carry it through. Everywhere you see them working energetically. The farms are being tilled to the last foot.

There are lean years ahead for Germany, and the immediate future is precarious. Next winter may be even worse than this in the matter of food. The coming summer's crop won't be up to par because of a great lack of fertilizer throughout the country, and a serious shortage of seed in many localities. Farm machinery also is needed.

There is a scarcity of food in all zones, and while the back of winter seems to be broken, there still is danger. Tuberculosis is increasing and there are threats of epidemics in some parts of the country.

However, the basic work of rehabilitation is getting ahead. Both transport and coal production are improving. Importation of foodstuffs may solve the other pressing need.

155,000 Japs May be Barred From Office

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, March 1 (AP)—Japan's cabinet and Allied headquarters have virtually agreed to bar from further public life all who held any important office at any time in the country's eight years of war. Jiji News Agency today estimated the broadened purge would disqualify 155,000 men.

New poltical factions simultaneously attacked the cabinet's draft of a revised constitution — which permits the Emperor to retain much of his political powers—and Kyodo News Agency said the opposition would force changes.

Whether this would delay public announcement of the final draft until after the April 10 election was not clear. The election itself has been postponed once—from March 31—so that the draft might be ready before the balloting.

Kataru Narahashi, chief cabinet secretary, reported the tentative purge agreement. Other sources said that this last, sweeping interpretation of broad Allied decrees had received approval by proper Allied authorities and probably would be made formal and binding. Narahashi said this would not be done "for some time," however.

Jiji's estimate of 155,000 to be exiled from government service included 128,000 professional militarists—37,000 army and 41,000 navy officers—as well as nearly 8,000 top government and government-corporation executives, and approximately 2,000 already banned as war-crimes suspects.

One category under the tentative agreement would ban from office all government officials of bureau chief rank and higher since middle 1937, when the war began in Asia.

PRISONERS STRIKE

Boston, March 1 — (AP) — In protest over parole conditions, food and wages, more than 500 state prison convicts went on strike yesterday and returned to their cells hours later only after Paul Doyle, Massachusetts corrections commissioner, agreed to meet their committee today.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

SO IT'S JUST NERVES

The trouble with a lot of people who consider themselves "nervous", their nerves or nerve centres more irritable, sensitive or delicate than other people's, is that they accept that as their sad lot and try to temper the environment to suit their weak nerves. The environment includes, of course, people with whom they work, play and live.

The trouble with the old one-horse-and-buggy doctor who says so is that he says so in a few plain words instead of confusing the thought in a lot of psychological double talk, as many authorities do.

Just between ourselves and strictly anonymously, let's talk, turkey about this. To begin with, here are some physiological truths:

1. The functioning of nerves uses no energy or such an infinitesimal amount that it is negligible in any circumstance.

2. Nerve centres or brain centres do not produce energy. Therefore it is wrong to attribute any illness or impairment of health or strength or vitality to "nervous exhaustion."

3. It may be convenient to apply such terms as "neurasthenia" (weak nerves) or "psychasthenia" (weak mind) to a person's complaint or condition when you don't know or prefer not to make known precisely what ails the person, if anything. But certainly it does not follow that a long rest, pampering, over-feeding, protection or insulation from worry, anxiety or responsibility, and blind plying with so-called nerve sedatives or nerve tonics is good treatment for the "neurasthenic" victim.

4. Any invalid, whatever the nature or cause of the illness or impaired health, is as likely to be more irritable, peevish, cranky, restless or unstable as is any one who imagines his or her nerves are weak or exhausted.

5. In actual practice we find that patients with lesions of the brain, spinal cord or nerves are no more "nervous" in the popular sense of the term than are patients with arthritis, peptic ulcer or pulmonary tuberculosis.

So far this is all negativa. Now let me try to accentuate the positive.

Numerous ailments and deficiencies are incorrectly diagnosed as "neurasthenia" or "just nerves" or "nervous exhaustion" and allowed to go untreated or given the wrong treatment on that basis.

For example according to McLester (Nutrition and Diet in Health and Disease) an appreciable number of the pellagra patients in Hillman Hospital, Birmingham, had been in the hospital in previous years with the diagnosis of "neurasthenia". In other words the manifestations of prolonged vitamin deficiency (especially insufficient intake of B-complex) may be diagnosed as "neurasthenia" when the doctor doesn't know what really ails the patient.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

College Hygiene

I join you in saying shame on the public school system for failure to provide decent hygiene instruction for girls....in college I attended a so-called hygiene course in which a prudish old maid dealt intensively with the nervous system, digestive system, circulatory system —but modestly skimmed over the reproductive system.

(A. M.)

Answer—In that field of education, Ma'am, things are bad, if not downright nasty, all over, and the outlook for improvement is no brighter than it was when you, and even I, were young.

Poor Kid

My 5 1-2 year old wets the bed. Have to wake her up several times every night. I have tried washing her face with cold water, scolding and whipping.

(Mrs. D. R. H.)

Answer—The same measures should be tried on you—to correct your cruelty. No child deliberately wets the bed. It is grievously wrong even to mention the matter in the presence of any third person and humiliate the child. Come, come, now, what kind of mother are you? If you are not the poor kid's refuge where will she turn when real difficulties confront her? I don't mean to be harsh, but your attitude shocks me. Send a stamped self addressed envelope and ask, in writing—a clipping will not do—for pamphlet on Bed-Wetting. It tells how to correct the habit, no matter whether the child is five or ten or fifteen or twenty years old. A good many youths inducted into the military services had to be treated for bed-wetting, so you see, it isn't at all unusual.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Do snakes cover their prey with saliva?

"The way these Snakes (rattlers) catch their Prey is thus: they Ogle the poor little animal, till by force of the Charm he falls down Stupify'd and Senseless on the Ground. In that condition the Snake approaches, and moistens first one Ear and then the Other with his Spawl, and after that the other Parts of the Head, to make all Slippery. When that is done, he draws the Member into his Mouth, and after that, by Slow degrees, all the rest of the Body."

Naturalists are agreed that no species of snake licks its prey with its tongue and covers it with saliva before swallowing it. A considerable quantity of saliva is generated during the process of swallowing, but it does not come from the tongue, which is used merely as a sensory organ.

The late Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoo, wrote:

"Very often a snake will attempt to swallow a large object in the wrong position, and when the reptile releases the portion which he has in his mouth, to grasp the object in a different place, the portion released from the mouth is covered with saliva."

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Washington Zoo, wrote: "The snake has very well developed saliva glands and these function so much during the process of swallowing that the prey is often covered with saliva. The belief that the snake licks the animal before swallowing it has no basis."

No doubt the popular notion was suggested also by the fact that many snakes play over captured prey with their forked tongues.

When snakes first seize their prey they grab hold of any part of the body indifferently, but generally, although not always, they swallow the prey head foremost.

Picton Veterans Earn Right To Enter Finals

Picton—Picton Vets earned the right to enter the finals of Prince Edward County hockey league by winning their second straight game with Bloomfield Sky Chiefs 10-8 at Picton arena Wednesday night. In the league games, Bloomfield was defeated only once and were favorites to win the title.

Vets will meet either Wellington or Prince Edward Combines who have each won one game in their playoff series.

The game was a see-saw affair that was not decided until the last five minutes of play. Bloomfield led 3-2 in the first period. Abbott, Pike and Demille scored for the Chiefs and Welsh and Hicks for Vets.

Two fast goals in the second period by Hicks and Desrosers put Vets in the lead and Tulloch added one to make it 6-3. A. Cork and Parks counted for Bloomfield, second period ending 6-5 favor Vets.

Goals by Demille and Cork early in the final period, put the Chiefs in the lead, but Hicks tied it up. Demille scored for Chiefs and Desrosers tied it up. Desrosers scored on a rebound from Frederick's shot and in the dying seconds of the game, Frederick scored to make it 10-8. A capacity crowd of 1,200 was present.

FIRST EDITIONS, VALUABLE PAINTINGS DESTROYED IN FIRE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, just north of Cobourg, Ont., in flames. FRANCE WILL CLOSE BORDER AGAINST SPAIN

Economic sanctions against Generalissimo Franco of Spain were invoked by the French government with an order closing the 260-mile frontier. The French cabinet charged the situation in Spain is a "danger threatening international security." This view, made during the Spanish Civil War, shows the French border closed against refugees from Spain.

to the 1st Division as an artillery officer. By 1917 he was brigade major of the 5th Divisional Artillery. Later the same year he succeeded Field Marshal Sir Alan Brook, who recently retired as Chief of the Imperial General Staff and was then artillery staff officer of the Canadian Corps.

By the end of the war he was a lieutenant-colonel and corps counter-battery officer. He elected to remain with the permanent force in the period between wars and was military advisor to Canada's delegation to disarmament conference at Geneva in 1932 and at the Imperial Conference in London in 1937.

In July, 1940, he became chief of the General Staff and in 1941 was promoted lieutenant-general.

In December, 1941, he reverted to the rank of major-general to return to the field and command the 2nd Canadian Division. On arrival, however, he was named corps commander with the rank of lieutenant-general again.

CANADIANS

Work went ahead in Britain, at the Brooklyn Polytechnic in the United States and in Canada at the National Research Council, various university laboratories, the Montreal Engineering Company and a Montreal cold storage plant.

It became evident that large-scale tests could be carried out only in Canada. Research on the strength of various types of 40-foot beams went forward at Lake Louise, Alta., and a "block model" was built at Patricia Lake.

The model had an insulating skin and refrigerating engines in the hold which circulated cold air through a series of sheet iron pipes. The report said that after a few initial difficulties, refrigeration "worked well" and the model was "kept in a frozen condition until near the end of the ensuing summer."

Speaking of the project in general, the report said it had been recognized as a "gamble," but such policies "appear fully justified in war."

Research work done might well "in the long run provide its own justification" as new light had been thrown on the properties of ice and effects of its reinforcement. "Material collected.. will provide an admirable basis for further ice engineering research, useful to all countries with severe winters."

Permits for the construction of two commercial buildings, one on Bleecker Ave., and the other on Everett Street, headed the Februrary building list, to give the past month one of the highest building totals for any like period within recent years.

Total value of permits issued during the month amounted to $41,000, three of which were for the construction of new residences.

Commercial construction permits were headed by that of Morley Smith, 10 Geddes Street, who has constructed a garage and warehouse on Bleecker Ave., at a cost of $15,000, and the permit issued to William Cook for the construction of a $10,000 tobacco warehouse on Everett Street. A third commercial permit was that of the Elite Credit Jewelers for $1,400 for a new store front and alterations at their Front Street store.

Permit for new residences included that of Clem Gardiner who plans building a one-storey cottage at 166 Catherine Street, at a cost of $1,500; to Harry Clarke, for construction of a 1½ storey residence at 53 Moira Street, West, at a cost of $4,000 and to Fred C. Elgie of Stirling at $5,000 for the construction of a one-storey dwelling and four-car garage at 108 Everett.

Alterations and permits for new additions included that to Dr. E. G. Kennedy at $3,000 for alterations to an attic at 190 George Street for a new apartment, to Mrs. L. Blue, 14 Henry Street, for $100 to enclose a shed for use as a kitchen, and to Mr. Latchford, 2 Ponton Street, for $1,000 for a one-storey grocery store addition.

WAR PRISONER CAPTURED

Vancouver, March 1 — (CP) — Hans Hussman, 25-year-old escaped Nazi war prisoner, was captured yesterday in a Vancouver waterfront hotel room by Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Hussman, a merchant seaman, escaped from a works project near Exshaw, Alta., last December 26. The capture came just one day after Hussman's picture and those of seven other escaped German prisoners appeared in newspapers.

Mardi Gras Pageantry, Fun In Full Swing

By CARL CORBIN

New Orleans, March 1—(AP)—The tinselled kings of carnival are on the march again after five dark years of war and thousands of native sons and visitors are demonstrating that neither past suffering nor present inconvenience can make this jam-packed city's French quarter forget how to have fun.

Momus, god of mockery, paraded before record crowds last night. His glittering floats, more brilliant against the background of the paradeless era since 1944, heralded the restoration of carnival spectacle that has been a pre-Lenten feature here since 1827.

The king and queen of the carnival of Merida, Mexico, arrived by air last night and were whisked behind a motorcycle escort to be greeted by the attendants of Hermes, whose revelries they join today.

There will be at least one parade every day or night during the remainder of the season except Saturday.

On Tuesday during the day Rex, king of carnival, and Zulu, ruler of the Negro Merrymakers, will parade. At night the mystic Krewe of Comus, oldest of the carnival organizations, will ride through the streets on their floats.

Historically, this celebration, which brings to the city more visitors than its facilities can accommodate, was begun by Louisianians who copied the pre-Lenten festival they remembered from Paris. The word "carnival" —meaning farewell to meat — stems from Roman Catholic abstinence rules for Lent.

The celebration officially ends when the court of Rex and the court of Comus, both of which entertain at balls Tuesday night, join at midnight.

In contrast to Tuesday's revelry, this largely Roman Catholic city will begin Ash Wednesday with attendance at Mass.

Mrs. Sophie Popowich Acquitted On Manslaughter Charge

St. Catharines, March 1—(CP) —Mrs. Sophie Popowich, 38-year-old Ukrainian, was acquitted Thursday of a charge of manslaughter laid following the death of her 40-year-old husband in a kitchen brawl last November.

The Supreme Court Assizes jury returned its verdict after a 90-minute absence from the courtroom and after provincial constable W. J. McBride testified that when he interviewed the woman following the fatality she told him that her husband, Fred, "wanted to murder me."

Mrs. Popowich made no comment when she was discharged by Mr. Justice G. A. Urquhart. She left the court with her 16-year-old daughter, Mary, and other friends who had attended the two-day trial.

Popowich, it was testified, died "in a matter of seconds from a knife wound which severed a neck artery.

Constable McBride testified the woman told him that "if I had not done it to him, he would have done it to me . . . he came at me with a knife."

In testimony yesterday, Mrs. Popowich said her husband fell to the floor after she grabbed his hands as he lunged at her with a six-inch knife.

"Then I saw blood spray all over the place . . ." she added.

SUCCEEDS ICKES?

An advocate of greater government waterpower throughout the U.S. and the former chairman of the U.S. War Production Board, Julius A. Krug, has been nominated by President Truman as U.S. Secretary of the Interior to fill the cabinet vacancy created by the stormy resignation of Harold L. Ickes.

Grain Bins Provide New Lumber Source

By GEORGE FINLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg (CP)—A new source for lumber supply has been found by some home builders — the lumber from temporary grain storage bins built in 1941 on the Prairies and at the Lakehead to house overflow crops. The lumber, well seasoned and some of it of select grade Douglas fir, is ideal for house builders.

At the Lakehead approximately 25,000,000 feet of lumber will be made available from 21 giant bins now being dismantled by contractors. They cost $4,750,000 and each housed 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and other grains. Most of the material was bolted together, insuring excellent salvage value. The structures sold by tender at prices ranging from $10,000 to $15,000.

On the Prairies many bins have been dismantled, the lumber destined for homes and repair of farm buildings. At some heavy shipping points, however, they will be maintained.

Murray J. Fleming, engineer who planned the temporary structures, estimates contractors' costs for dismantling, including labor and freighting charges, will run about $38 a 1,000 board feet. He says the bins filled a wartime purpose, but were not normally suitable for grain handling.

Most of the lumber from the Lakehead will be transported by train and truck to Winnipeg, where it will bring $45 a 1,000 feet.

Grain authorities said insect pests caused little loss to storage grain in the bins, although considerable shifting of stocks was necessary to prevent damages. Low winter temperatures provided an effective guard against insect infestation.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

Toronto, March 1 — (CP) — Judgment yesterday was reserved until March 4 in the case of Arson Yancoff, a self-admitted "bookie", and Theodore Tanasoff, charged with assault against police cadet Allan F. Reulins in a downtown restaurant. Reulins admitted he had lived for six days in an apartment over the restaurant as a police "plant" in an effort to bring about the arrest of Yancoff.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Misses Eliza and Tillie Donnan, Stirling, have taken up residence in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Heffer, of this city, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Heffer, Picton.

Mrs. C. N. Baker, of this city, recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker, Stirling.

On Wednesday evening the staff of the Dominion Laboratory, Dundas Street, honored Miss Peggy Townsend, bride-elect of Stirling, at a "gift tea".

Several members of the Half-Way Club and their friends enjoyed a skating party, Wednesday night, which was held at the Stewart-Warner rink. Later in the evening, the party adjourned to the Y.M.C.A. where delicious refreshments were served, and dancing was enjoyed in the lounge.

On Sunday, Feb. 24, in St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Kingston, infant son of Corpl. and Mrs. E. Roy Kitchen, was christened, Hugh James. The baby wore a christening gown that had been used at the christening of his grandmother, his great uncle and his uncle. The dress was seventy-nine years old. The sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. James Kitchen, of this city.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Friday, Feb. 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bedell, 2nd Sidney, when about forty neighbors and friends gathered to spend an evening with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wood, who are moving to their new home near Shannonville this week. They were presented with a lovely floor lamp and book ends. Mr. Wm. Tuck acted as chairman. Mrs. Lorne Sharpe and Mrs. Wm. Tuck made the presentations, after which delicious refreshments were served by the ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Wood both made suitable replies, inviting all to visit them in their new home.

WEDDINGS

SCHMITTER—BULMAN

St. Matthews Church, Kitchener, was the scene of a quiet but pretty St. Valentine's Day wedding at high noon, when Ada Margaret Bulman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bulman, Brighton, became the bride of Cpl. Walter (Tony) Schmitter, R.C.A.F., only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schmitter, of Kitchener.

The bride was attractive in a floor-length gown of white slipper satin which fell in soft folds into a long train. The yoke was of net with scalloped satin trim repeated in the waistline. Long sleeves came to lily points over her wrists and her full length veil was caught by a scalloped satin headdress and seed pearls. She carried Better Time roses arranged in a shower bouquet.

The maid of honor, was her sister, Miss Evelyn Bulman, of Toronto, who wore a coral street-length crepe dress completed with elbow-length lime green gloves, and lime green headdress with matching veiling. She carried a nosegay of violets and sweetpeas.

Mr. Harry Gillespie, of Kitchener, was best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a strand of pearls, to the best man a gold key chain, and to the maid of honor, pearl earrings with rhinestone settings.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti for a wedding trip to Muskoka. For travelling the bride donned a powder blue wool suit, black and white hat, black chesterfield coat, set of stone marten furs, and matching accessories. On their return, Cpl. Schmitter will leave for overseas service with the R.C.A.F. Occupational Forces.

CASSIDY—STOCKLOSER

Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Madoc, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony on February 27, at ten a.m., when the Rev. Father F. D. Hyland, joined in marriage Margaret Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stockloser, Madoc, and Michael Fredrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cassidy, Tweed. The ceremony was performed against a bank of snapdragons, while Mrs. P. J. Garvey, Lindsay, played the wedding music and Mrs. Gleason and Mrs. Fred Mereau sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length net skirt with starched lace bodice, fashioned with a peplum. Her floor-length veil fell in soft folds from her Juliet cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Gwendolyn, as maid of honor, and Katherine, as bridesmaid. The maid of honor wore pink taffeta with matching, floor-length veil. The bridesmaid wore a Swiss eyelet gown with blue shoulder length veil. Both carried nosegays of carnations, sweetpeas and iris.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Cartha Cassidy, while Thomas Cassidy, brother of the groom, and Felix O'Riordan, cousins of the bride, were ushers.

For the buffet luncheon, held at the bride's home, the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece turquoise wool dress and pink rose corsage, and was assisted by the groom's mother, who chose black crepe with corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip the bride donned a fuchsia coat with mouton trim, over a blue gabardine suit with brown accessories. The young couple will take up residence in Tweed.

Out-of-town guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Dan Whalen and son, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Garvey, Lindsay; Mrs. Harry Gleason, Lindsay; Miss Mary Cassidy, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Dorian Cassidy, Erinsville, and Mr. and Mrs. George Kelity, Stoco.

Silhouettes for Spring 1946

Yvonne de Carlo is keeping in shape for warm weather styles

By HELEN FOLLETT

SILHOUETTE patterns for 1946 are definitely cut out for us. Wide shoulder line. A well-defined, neat waist; a molded hip, just right, neither too slender or two ample; a lifted bust.

If you qualify, you'll cut a pretty figure. If you select the right kind of dry goods you can be a lady of fashion. Let's go!

Attention to Diet

But if you don't qualify, what then? You'll have to give keen attention to diet. You'll have to find time for exercise. Health rules followed faithfully will change the feminine contour.

The girl who is too thin must stop living on a lettuce leaf and a pickle a day. She must have fruit, cereal and an egg for breakfast. She must not eat hurriedly or rush around like mad as she pursues the day's activities. She must get more sleep.

The Plumpies

Mrs. Plumpie must close her eyes when she passes the pastry shop or the candy kitchen. She is getting more fats, sweets and starches than she can use up by expenditure of energy—of which she may not expand much, having to trundle around extra weight—and she is storing away these food elements in the form of adipose tissue.

No sense in it. And she needn't tell teacher that she lives on practically nothing a day. Only groceries cause obesity.

Here is a good exercise for reducing the mid-section: Stand tall, feet apart, lift clasped hands high, bring them down between the knees as if you were chopping wood.

Lie flat on the floor, the toes under a piece of heavy furniture Place the hands straight above the head ,the back of the hands on the floor. Lift the hands and the body slowly, touching the ankles with the fingertips. Sink back slowly to first position. That back slowly movement is not easy if you have not been accustomed to exercise. But keep at it.

This movement pulls hard on the muscles of the abdomen, hips and thighs, tightening and strengthening them. Ten minutes twice a day by the clock and no cheating.

On Tuesday evening, the friends and relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Casey, Zion Hill, to honor them on the occasion of their forty-fourth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Cecil Ketcheson, acting as chairman, called the gathering to order and Mr. and Mrs. Casey were presented with a lovely floor lamp and hot plate. Mr. and Mrs. Casey expressed their thanks and appreciation. A delightful program of music and readings were enjoyed by all.

Delicious refreshments were served and the guests departed after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Casey the happiness of many years to come.

Trousseau Tea

On Wednesday, Mrs. Fred Savage, Boswell Street, held a delightful trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Irene. About forty guests were present. Mrs. Alfred Lew opened the door to the guests, who were received by Mrs. Savage and her daughter. Mrs. F. Clare showed the trousseau and Miss Rita Savage, the gifts. The tea table, spread with a lace cloth, centred with a silver basket of Talisman roses, flanked with matching tapers in silver candelabra, was presided over by Mrs. Gordon Fraser in the afternoon and by Mrs. Clare in the evening. Miss Morrell served.

HOLLOWAY Y. P. U.

The regular meeting on Monday February 25, was in charge of Doris Scott and the Christian Citizenship Group. Dorothy Mittts, Marion Richardson, Jean Badgely assisted the convener in the Worship service.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Perkins, gave interesting instruction in the second lesson of the Leadership Training Course, the young people are studying.

The meeting closed with games.

On Sunday evening, February 24, a group from Holloway Y.P.U., went to Newburg United Church to conduct the evening service. The President of the Union, Maude Burke, conducted the service. Isobel Richardson and R. Gunsolus delivered appropriate messages in the interests of the Crusade for Christ and His Kingdom. During the service two solos, "Thanks Be To God", and "Open the Gates of the Temple", were rendered by Norma Arkles, with Dorothy Mitts as accompanist.

APPOINTMENT MADE

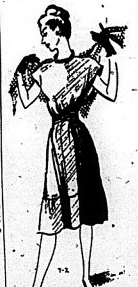
COLLEGE PROPOSED

Nairobi, Kenya — (CP) — A group appointed by the governor to study the form of Kenya's war memorial, proposes a technical college for all races with an agricultural wing attached to provide suitable training for peasant farmers.

Basic Beauty



Wool challis frock in shocking pink

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

SHOCKING PINK wool challis is nicely handled in this useful frock, one that can be all dressed-up or quite casual in tone, depending upon the accessories. The styling includes a plain boat neck and cap sleeves. The set-in waistband is topped by a narrow black suede belt. The self ruffle at the hem strikes a new note, for a basic dress.

RARE BLOOMS

The only one to bloom in all America is blooming this year, at Golden Gate park arboretum, San Francisco. It is the rare "magnolia campbellii" (above), cupped under the chin of Katie McGuire of San Francisco. This plant is native to the 7,000 and 10,000-foot elevations of the Himalaya mountains in India, where it attains heights of 80 to 150 feet.

Women's Activities

ST. PAUL'S W. A.

Marmora — The monthly meeting of St. Paul's W. A. was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. G. Winters. The president opened the well-attended meeting. Each member was presented with her membership card by the president. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. J. W. Hickey. A new member was added to the roll call. Mrs. Brownlie then made reference to the Diocesan pledge for the branch. Mrs. A. Niblet followed with her report as Dorcas secretary after which the secretary, Mrs. W. D. Lavender gave the report of the Diocesan Board. Mrs. Winters graciously invited the members to her home for the next meeting. In the absence of Mrs. C. W. Wallace, Rev. J. M. Brownlie took the study period.

PLAINFIELD W.I.

Plainfield — The February meeting of the Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. and Mrs. Sherman Parks with 22 ladies present. Mrs. Violet Elliott president, presided and opened the meeting with a poem "Looking for Trouble". Mrs. Bradshaw led in community singing.

Letters from Pte. Kenneth Bradshaw and Mrs. Bill Bailey of England were read thanking the ladies for the boxes they had received.

War Work conveners reported on war work finished for month. Mrs. Elliott reported on the girls' work under the able leadership of Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Wilder.

It being grandmothers meeting, Mrs. McKenzie took charge of the program. The grandmothers sang a song followed by a splendid paper on "Active Middle Age" by Mrs. Fred Hall. Mrs. Norman Hall Sr., a reading "The Never Old". Several grandmother articles were displayed such as wedding veils, shawls and engagement rings. Two contests followed: "Grandmothers Garden" and "Things Our Grandmother Missed."

Meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. The hostess and their assistants served a dainty lunch and a social half hour was spent. Collection was $1.21.

CANADIAN LEGION L.A.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion held their regular monthly meeting in the Saco Rooms, Thursday night, with Mrs. Jeffs presiding. The names of Mrs. Crewson and Mrs. Colby were added to the executive committee. Mrs. Tracey gave a fine report for the Sick committee. Several letters were read from people whose boys had been met on their return from overseas at the station here.

ROSLIN

St. Paul's Church Holds Annual Vestry Meeting

Roslin — The annual vestry meeting of St. Paul's Anglican Church was held in the parish hall on Thursday evening. Encouraging reports of the year's activities were given by the various officers.

The following officers were elected for 1946: People's Warden, Everett Geen; Rector's Warden, Fred Gray; Missionary Secretary, Stanley Hart. At the conclusion of the business period refreshments were served.

Home Hair Waves May Cause Harm

New York, Feb. 28 — (CP) — Economical, simple-to-use home permanent wave jobs may do wonders for your purse strings—but how about your haid? Improperly managed, a home permanent wave can cause thin, broken hairs and a bad disposition.

You can give yourself a professional home wave, however, if your hair is properly conditioned. This is doubly important when the wave is to be done at home instead of at a shop under the watchful eye of a competent operator.

Though it is important to have hot oil treatments before the hair is waved, either at home or in the shop, your pre-permanent shampoo should also be of the utmost concern to you.

A shampoo which is highly alkalized is likely to leave a film on the hair which not only may prevent penetration of the permanent wave solution but also can be harmful to the hair.

Beauty parlors usually use a shampoo which can lubricate the hair shaft internally and also help maintain the normal oil balance of the hair during and after the permanent wave.

Shampoos which have been used in the past only by beauty operators are being made available to Mrs. Housewife, who can now give herself a home-permanent with the proper shampoo. One of these is a pink cream which can be squeezed from a tube or scooped out of a jar.

ONLY ONE LICENCE PLATE

Toronto, March 1 — (CP)—Ontario Highways Minister George H. Doucett announced yesterday the provincial government has been requested by the federal steel controller to continue to issue but one registration plate this year. The reason set forth is the depleted inventories of all forms of steel resulting from the steel strike in the United States.

Has Your Teen-Age Child A Bad Skin? Here's What to Do

Betty Grable keeps her lovely swin by careful routine

By HELEN FOLLETT

SURVEYS made by physicians show that 8 per cent of girls in the early teens and 20 per cent of the boys suffer from acne, one of the commonest of skin diseases. It is of no small concern to young victims who become unhappy and self-conscious, often avoid social contacts.

Emotional upsets can result. No parent should sidestep the responsibility of making every effort to find proper treatment for the child who is so afflicted.

Glandular Changes

In the early teens there are various changes in the body glands, and there is an increasing activity in the glands of the skin. Sebaceous oil becomes stagnant, banks up in the pores. The walls of the pores break because of these blockades, bacteria invades the tissues, postules result. If a child uses soiled washcloths, passes her hands frequently over the surface of her face, the infection will spread.

How stubborn the case may be depends upon how deeply the infection has burrowed into the tissues. At the first sign of blackheads or pimples home treatment should begin. If there is not a change for the better the child should be put under the care of a physician who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp.

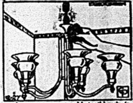
Face Washing

The face should be washed at bedtime very thoroughly. There should be a thick, rich lather, applied first with the wash cloth, then massaged into the flesh with the fingertips.

Remove the suds with warm water. Dip a heavy washcloth in water as hot as the flesh can bear—yes, your patient will put up a protest—and continue until the skin has had a good steaming. Dry, apply a lotion made by dissolving a teaspoonful of baking soda in half a cup of warm water. Put it on with cotton pledgets; let it dry.

The diet should be nourishing, but should not contain a large proportion of carbohydrates. Sweets, pastries ,and greasy foods should be eliminated as far as possible.

Wife Preservers



A sponge or an old toothbrush is handy when cleaning the dining room chandelier. The sponge reaches into cracks and crevices, without causing damage from too much water. The toothbrush also reaches hard-to-get-at places.

Dressmaker Urges Boost in Pension To Aid Spinsters

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 28 (CP)—A neat, bespectacled woman in a brown coat with a letter badge "N.S. P.A." on the lapel has become one of the familiar figures of House of Commons lobbies, listened to with respect by political leaders.

She is Miss Florence White, founder of the National Spinsters Pensions Association, who talks in a kindly Yorkshire voice of what must be done for the unmarried women of Britain. How many there are in the "spinster" class she cannot say but there are about 2,000,000 more women than men and the N.S.P.A. has 150,000 active members, all supporting Miss White in her demand that contributory pensions be available to single women at 55 instead of 60 years.

Introduction of the National Insurance bill brought her to London from her home city of Bradford, where she is in business in a modest way as a dressmaker.

The bill provides pensions for women at 60—the present pensionable age—on the basis of 26s ($6) weekly against the present basic rate of 10s weekly plus supplementary sums in cases of need.

Confident of Support

"I just talk to members of parliament and tell them our objective," Miss White said. "They know the strength of our organization and they listen. I believe about half the members are strongly in support of our demand for pensions at 55. And this is not a problem confined to Britain; some day you will have to face the same thing in Canada."

Miss White used to watch women leave for work in Bradford at 6 a.m., spend their day at the textile mills and come home at 6 p.m. with household chores still to be done. She saw them continue work without respite while married women, their children grown up and the security of their husbands' savings, often could take life a little easier.

Miss White began urging pensions for single women in their 50s and finally in 1935 she organized a meeting attended not by a dozen but by 500 women. N.S.P.A. had its beginning.

Women's working age is shorter than that of men, Miss White said. Already her organization claims a victory in that contributory pensions are payable to women at 60 and men at 65. But all too often women in the class most in need of pensions at 55 are engaged in types of manual labor where failing strength reduces their value and men are preferred in employment in their later years, she added.

Relaxation and Security

"Very often the average single woman, apart from her job, has domestic duties—the married woman has her children and household and the single woman has the care of older people. She, too deserves some relaxation and security before she becomes too old to carry on."

Technically, any unmarried woman is a spinster, but Miss White's main interest is in the group over 45, the women who have remained single and are unlikely to marry after that age. Miss White herself presumably would fall within her own category of "Spinster."

BELLEVILLE

Large Volume of Tire Business Anticipated Following Lifting Of Rationing Has Not Materialized

Although tire sales in the Belleville district were admitted to be slightly above normal for this particular time of the year, tire dealers in Belleville are unanimous in their opinion that the large volume of business anticipated following the lifting of tire rationing has not materialized.

In anticipation of heavy tire sales, tire dealers almost to a man stocked heavily with all the popular tire sizes, but, according to reports, the big demand has just not come about.

One wholesaler claimed the human psychological element as being one of the responsible factors for the present condition. "When rationing was on we could have sold any amount of tires, but now when motorists know they can get tires whenever they are needed, they have suddenly come to the determination to get the last mile out of their present rubber."

"I consider it a very happy condition", stated another wholesaler. "Had the anticipated demand been fulfilled the industry possibly would have been caught off balance and there would have been a bottleneck."

Dealers commented, however, there was no "slump" in the tire business, and all were of the opinion that present sales were slightly ahead for the comparative period in normal years.

A great many motorists put their cars up for the winter, and this naturally lessens the demand for tires, while it was thought there also were other factors which assisted in reducing the tire demand at this particular time.

Among these was cited the feeling of a small percentage of motorists harboring the consideration of buying a new car when they are available. This particular class of motorists, it was felt, would not care to put new tires on their present "jalopy" only to turn it in on a new model a few months hence.

The number of motorists in this category was admitted to be small as it was believed the vast majority of motorists had by now realized they would not be getting new cars for many months to come.

Another dealer thought the general public was possibly holding back in the hope of getting natural "crude" rubber tires in the near future. He admitted there was some objection to the synthetic in that they apparently had a greater tendency to skid on slippery streets and highways. This condition would be gradually overcome, it was felt.

One dealer said that the motoring public would never get away from a certain percentage of synthetic rubber in tires, regardless of the amount of crude which in the future would be available. If ever there was a return to natural rubber, it was doubted if rubber companies would make a point of advertising the fact.

From a wearing standpoint, synthetic tires would cover as many or more miles as the best of the pre-war natural "crude" while engineers are constantly improving the synthetic brand.

Rare Editions Which Survived Blitz Lost as Fire Sweeps Cobourg Home

Cobourg, March 1—Fire swept through the 35-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Smith, two miles north of here, destroying valuable first editions of Kipling, Conrad and Dickens which had survived the Battle of Britain.

The blaze started in the basement, near the furnace, and ate its way through the floor of the billiard room above, spreading rapidly throughout the entire building. Valuable oil paintings and antique furniture went up in smoke, bringing the total loss to more than $200,000.

The house was purchased by the Smith family, former residents of England and New York, last year. It was built in 1905 by Senator George Oliver of Pittsburgh, of steel and stone.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Smith while her husband and two sons were in Cobourg. She attempted to call the Cobourg fire department, but found the flames had cut telephone wires. An employee of Dungannon Farm, on which the building is located, drove to Cobourg to summon firemen. On arrival, Fire Chief James Campbell found there was insufficient water in a tank north of the house to be of any use in battling the flames.

Flames spread rapidly through the building, fed by wooden panelling in the billiard room and library, and even with an adequate supply of water firemen would have faced an almost hopeless fight. The loss was covered by insurance, but much of the contents, such as the first editions recently brought from England, cannot be replaced.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 1 (CP) — Most Republicans probably regret the multiplicity of difficulties facing their country at home and abroad but they would be less than human if they did not note with satisfaction the boost these administration headaches may give the grand old party in the forthcoming congressional elections, and the 1948 presidential contest.

Nothing heartened the Republicans more than the quarrel over the nomination of California oil millionaire Edward Pauley as Under Secretary of the Navy. Interior Secretary Ickes testified under oath at a Senate committee hearing that Mr. Pauley had attempted to prevent federal litigation over ownership of Tidelands oil deposits by offers of contributions to Democratic political party funds.

President Truman chose to believe Mr. Pauley's denials over the testimony of the man who had been interior secretary for 13 years and the latter resigned with a resounding crash.

When a fanatical actor, John Wilkes Booth, a bullet through President Lincoln's head as he watched Laura Keane's performance of "Our American Cousin" in Ford's Theatre, Aug. 14, 1865, he also ended the stage life of that popular 10th Street playhouse. Soon after it was turned into a warehouse and stripped of its interior fittings. Now Sen. Milton Young (Rep.-N.D.) has asked Congress to reconstruct the interior as it was when Lincoln was assassinated.

All the necessary records and specifications are available, also the chair in which Lincoln sat, the assassin's pistol and the flag he ripped with his spur as he leaped from the box to the stage and made his escape through the wings to a saddled horse waiting for him at the stage door. Across the street the house where Lincoln died early next morning is preserved in its original state as a museum. The shell of the theatre is intact. Sen. Young's proposal is receiving wide support.

Claims U. S. Fails To Make Use Of Nazi Scientists

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Feb. 28 —(AP)— Because of a stringent policy of eradicating former Nazis from office, Americans are "missing many bets" in failing to make use of German scientists in their custody, says Dr. Roger Adams, head of the chemistry department at the University of Illinois.

In an interview Dr. Adams, who this week concluded a four-month tour as scientific adviser to the United States military government, said:

"We are neglecting much scientific talent which the Russians eagerly are seeking to snatch up, and we also are going far beyond the British and French in denazification.

"The Russians are out to learn all they can from German scientists—especially regarding atomic energy and V-weapons and other military research. The Russians are out to get the services of every German scientist of consequence they can and they aren't quibbling too much about denazification in getting and making use of them. . . .

"The Germans have perfected many lesser techniques in operation in some things which we don't have at home and these are ours for the taking. I mention a few items — there is the grinding of lenses, processing of calcium carbide and the production of colored movie films. Such perfected know-how would mean a lot to American industry in the long run."

Many scientists were thrown in jail, authoritative sources said, because of indiscriminate application of mandatory arrest directives, under which certain high office-holders were arrested whether or not they were really Nazis.

One informant added: "The British and French have given the scientist a better break — in encouragement and material aid — in getting back to work."

How the Russians obtain and treat German scientists was told by responsible German and Allied sources here. Many went to work or the Russians voluntarily.

But in other cases the Russians are known to have resorted to pressure—and some sources say that is a mild term—to get the men they wanted.

Experts Predict Wings May Finish in Spot Higher Than Present Standing

(By The Canadian Press)

Riding a string of six games without defeat, Detroit Red Wings are closing up on the leaders in the National Hockey League race and who, with the possible exception of Mr. Arthur Ross of Boston, will predict the Wings won't catch the third-place Boston Bruins by the time St. Patrick's Day rolls around?

That 4-1 victory of the Wings over New York Rangers last night was no weak footling. The teams went all out. Detroit spotted Rangers a first period goal by Grand Warwick. Then the Wings bore down and hammered home three goals in the second period by Joe Carveth, Adam Brown and Ted Lindsay and Fernand Gauthier got another in the third.

The game lost nothing from the fact New York Rangers are last in the standings. The New Yorkers didn't resemble too closely the team that has been in the cellar for so long and gave battle all the way.

Brown Head Scorers

Brown's goal was No. 17 of the season and placed him at the head of Detroit's scorers as his team moved to within three points of Boston and to all intents and purposes earmarked indelibly the post-season play-off teams as Montreal, Chicago, Boston and Detroit.

It remains to be seen though whether the finish is in that order. It's still almost anybody's choice.

Canadiens, with 51 points and only six points ahead of Detroit, lead the league and play host to Red Wings in Montreal on Saturday while Chicago Black Hawks, missing quite some their play-maker Max Bentley go against Maple Leafs in Toronto.

With Bentley out with injuries there is no guarantee that Chicago, only two points back of Canadiens, can stay there let alone go out in front by the time the season ends March 17. And there is Boston to consider, only a point back of Chicago now.

Bruins tangle with the Hawks in Chicago Sunday while Detroit gets more than an even chance to overtake Bruins by playing a second weekend game, a Sunday fixture at home with Canadiens.

GALT RED WINGS HANDED 12-3 LOSS BY ST. MICHAEL'S

First Period Rough With Two Majors and Misconduct Handed Out

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto's starry Ct. Michael's Majors last night won their second consecutive victory in their O.H.A. Junior A playdown series, handing Galt Red Wings a 12-3 loss in a game marked with violence in its early stages.

It was the second one-sided defeat for the Wings. The Galt team, which started out with high hopes on the playdown trail, went down 8-3 Tuesday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series. Third game of the series is scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday afternoon and the fourth will be played in Galt Monday night.

Hamilton Tigers are heavy favorites to win the O.H.A. senior A championship tonight by achieving their fourth straight win over Red Horner's Toronto Staffords in their best-of-seven series. Tigers' goalie Art Childs will be gunning for his fifth playoff shutout, an unprecedented record.

Staffords will watch closely Shillington-Brady - Conick line which received much of the credit for Tigers' 7-0 victory in Wednesday night's game. Tonight's match is at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Tomorrow will see Oshawa Generals and St. Catharines Falcons matched in the fourth game of their best-of-five Junior A series. Generals lead the series 2-1, and Falcons must win tomorrow's game on their home ice to extend the series to the limit.

Flem Mackell of St. Mike's and Galt's McBride clashed twice in the first period of last night's junior tilt. The first time, Mackell was sent off for five minutes, and the second time he got a misconduct for drawing a second major and McBride also received a major.

St. Mike's did all the scoring in the first period. Bob Paul scored unassisted at 9:02, and at 15:18 Ed Sandford batted in Costello's pass.

Galt opened their scoring at 4:23 in the second period when Uniac shifted hands to backpass in Pavelich's perfect passout. Less than a minute later, Costello of St. Mike's scored on a pass from Sandford. Mayer gave the assist as Uniac scored for Galt. Harrison and Mackell ran in two tallies for St. Mike's and Curik scored unassisted for Red Wings. There were no penalties in the second period.

The Irish had things all their way in the third period and ran in seven goals. Paul, Harrison and Mackell each scored twice and Sandford once.

BUFFALO BISONS SCORE 8-1 WIN OVER CAPITALS

Providence Reds Need One Victory to Clinch Playoff Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

Buffalo Bisons, perched comfortably on top of the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League, broke out in a goal fest last night and scored an 8-1 victory over Indianapolis, causing the Capitals to miss an opportunity to take the leadership from the Western Section's leaders, the Pittsburgh Hornets. Caps trail the Hornets by a single point.

The clinching of a playoff berth was the issue at stake in the only other A.H.L. game played. But last-place New Haven Eagles won 5-2, leaving Providence Reds still seeking that important victory that will assure them of a playoff spot.

At Indianapolis Buffalo led all the way and rubbed it in with five goals in the third period. Paul Mundrick, who accounted for two of the Bisons' eight goals, was carried from the rink on a stretcher in the third period after being heavily checked against the boards by Jerry Brown. Examination disclosed that his right shoulder was dislocated and possibly fractured.

In the New Haven rink, the Eagles grabbed themselves a 2-0 lead in the opening stanza and did not relinquish the advantage. Bill Cupolo had a goal and an assist, while Powell and Paul Courteau were each awarded a brace of assists.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

SURPRISE?

Well, well, well—and they said it couldn't happen? The Hastings Juniors, flashing a brilliant display of hockey heaved the well-known monkey wrench into the dopesters machinery on Wed. eventide and threw back the cocky Stirling Combines on their collective haunches to cop the first game of the playoff series to decide a winner to represent the group in the junior C OHA playdowns.

• • •

The teams meet in the second tilt in Hastings tonight and that game should wow the fans. The Hastings squad will have the moral advantage of playing on their own ice and plus the fact they have the scalp of one victory hanging to their belts, it wouldn't surprise this corner if they took the series in two straight games.

• • •

However, Stirling boasts a gallant little gang of hockey fighters which made the best of them step during the schedule. They will, it goes without saying, be out there tonight with battle and determination in their eyes, and if Wed. game is any criterion, then the game should be an epic in junior 'C' circles. The third game of the series if necessary will be played in Stirling Saturday night.

• • •

Meanwhile Toots Holway's Belleville Bruins are awaiting the winners of the Saints-Victorias playoff series now under way in Kingston. Originally the series was scheduled as a four-of-seven affair but the O.H.A. moguls ordered it changed to a three-of-five. It is likely the Belleville-Kingston series will get under way early next week.

• • •

MEET GANANOQUE

According to President Bill Dennis of the Belleville Junior Hockey Association, the winners of the Stirling-Hastings series will meet the fast travelling Gananoque juniors in the first playdown series in Junior "C". The Gans were eliminated from the Junior B group in Kingston by the Saints of that city. That series, too, will get going early next week.

• • •

That should be a tidy tilt up in Port Hope tonight when the Trenton Flyers and Bowmanville Intermediate "B's" tangle in the second game of their best two-of-three series. The Flyers copped the nod by a 5-3 score here in the first game the other night, but are not taking any chances when they meet the Bo's. The game was a hard clean fought affair with the Flyers having an edge in condition and territorial play. However, it might be a different story tonight, and the joust should prove a good one.

• • •

BLOOD AND THUNDER

If you want to get an eyeful of good-old fashioned shinny with spots of good hockey thrown in just to make it look right, go down to the Hume Arena these cool wintry evenings and gander at the flying "Owls" of the Twelve O'clock Loop. The Midnight Maulers play straight hockey for an hour and one rule rigidly adhered to, is that there are no penalties.

• • •

It is strictly catch-as-catch can hockey. The boys don't spare the hosses nor the hickories, and the games are uproaring samples of a cross between, battledore and shuttlecock, football, jai alai, hurling, lacrosse and bullfighting. The lads gallop up and down the ice-lanes with more or less reckless abandon, and any player who leaves the ice with less than six bruises, a nick out of his chin, or minus the scalp of an opponent, is threatened with transfer to the Home for the Aged Checker League.

• • •

The boys are thinkink seriously of introducing cast iron girdles, stove-pipe shin guards and sheet metal sweaters as standard equipment, but can-openers on the end of the war clubs will be definitely barred. Goalkeepers may use baseball bats for defensive measures but Sten guns are out.

• • •

Seriously, the boys are having a lot of fun, with some good hockey being displayed at times. The lads are strictly in the business for the fun of it and the games rarely get out of hand despite the no-time limit and no-penalty ruling. They generally ice the puck at ten-thirty and play through to 11.30 hours without a breather.

• • •

Tomorrow, down Kingston way, the "Y" junior basketeers take on the smooth Queen's juniors in their second game of total points series for the Eastern Ontario championship. The local kids face a 14 point deficit but should give a good accqunt of themselves on the large Queen's floor. The game is tabbed as a preliminary to the McGill-Queens senior intercollegiate affair. The curtain raiser starts at seven pip emma.

UNDER SUNNY SKIES

Way down in sunny Florida, Clearwater, that is, the Cleveland Indians are undergoing the first rigors of intensive Spring training. With them is tall, rangy Ralph McCabe of this city, one of the fifteen hurlers in training with the Tribe. McCabe was named starting pitcher for the first squad of the Indians by Manager Leo Bourdreau, and with him were associated Hal Kleine, and Winslow Stroupe. On the "Orange" team for which McCabe pitched were Manager Bourdreau, Melillo, Sherm Lollar and other Tribe notables.

• • •

HOT SERIES

With Joey Catlin in the hero role the Kingston Locos came through handsomely the other night to send the hard-hitting Oshawa Legionnaires into the Intermediate "A" discard. The vets, however, gave a good account of themselves and forced the Choo-Choos to the limit. Now its the Petes and Locos for the final series and the loop title. No word as yet as to when the series will start but the Locos will likely corral the first game on their home ice because of their leading the pack at the end of the schedule. Should be a withering series as the squads are evenly matched, have plenty of fire and the ole zip, and both the Ellismen and the Haynes boys will know they've been in a hockey brawl before the accolade of victory is placed on somebody's shoulder.

"MAPLE SUGAR BUSH"

Based upon a picture painted for Carling's by H. W. McCrea, O. S. A., and one of a series of subjects on the conservation of Canada's natural assets.

★ A full colour reproduction, size 9" x 14", without advertising, and suitable for framing, will be sent to each member of The Carling Conservation Club upon request to Dept. (E13), The Carling Breweries Limited, Waterloo, Ontario.

"A Six·Million Dollar Sugar Bowl!"

Unfailingly each spring the sap courses upward through countless maple trees—and with taps, kettles and firewood, the sweet yield is garnered and refined and brought to market, where it brings a $6,000,000 yearly income to Canadian farmers.

This six million dollar sugar bowl refills itself with maple products each year because the men who operate it understand the powerful significance of the word "Conservation". Do you realize how vital that word is when applied to the vast forest resources which provide a large part of Canada's wealth?

If these forests are to remain the basis of our third largest industry, they must be protected from fires, insect depredations and unwise cutting.

They can only be protected by an awareness on the part of every Canadian of the needs and methods of conservation.

By joining The Carling Conservation Club you can learn the part you can and should play in the protection of Canada's vast natural heritage. *Membership is free and will bring you interesting and authoritative information on conservation as it becomes available. Address your letter to Dept. (E13), The Carling Breweries Limited, Waterloo, Ontario.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 924
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

BRIDGE LAW

A criticizing partner is seldom correct. Because a good player knows too much to criticize. And many bridge opinions are so far from fact, they are really funny.

Larry F. writes to say that his pair held these hands:

SOUTH
♠ 9 7
♥ A 3
♦ A J 3 2
♣ A K Q 7 5
NORTH
♥ K 4
♦ K 9 7 6
♣ J 8 4 3 2

It seems that he finally bid six clubs and made it. When the score was being jotted down, opponents refused to allow the bonus paid for bidding and making a slam.

The objectors claimed that a bonus for little slam is not paid unless the words "little slam" are specifically expressed in the bid. That's like saying a dollar is no good unless you call it a buck.

Word for word, this is what it says in the laws of bridge: The recommended calling formulas are: pass (avoid "I pass" or "no bid"); one heart (avoid "I bid"); one no-trump (avoid "without" or "without a trump"); double (avoid stating the number of tricks or the denomination doubled); six spades (avoid "little slam").

Thus, you can see how wrong a person must be to say that any six bid should be announced as "little slam." The laws specifically say that the words "little slam" should not be mentioned.

Let me remind you that the entire bidding vocabulary consists of these 15 words: One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, clubs, diamonds, hearts, spades, no-trump, pass, double, redouble.

All other words like "I think I'll bid," "my bid is," "a game in," "a small slam in," "a grand slam of" and such are superfluous. They are illegal. They are a breach of proprieties.

One slicker tried to get his partner to use this system: If he said "one spade," it meant a normal opening; "a spade" meant a weak hand; "I bid a spade" meant a strong hand.

He should have had a slap on the back — as far down as possible.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 1 (AP)—Next time you are irritated by the young daughter's antics, don't be too hasty with your reproof—she may be a gold mine.

Playwright F. Hugh Herbert, not to be confused with the woo-woo comic, was for years a successful screen writer.

"One day we were driving down Wilshire when the girls saw two good-looking soldiers," he related. "We picked them up and took them home for dinner I got such a kick out of the girls' trying to appear older than they were that I wrote a short story about it."

He combined the girls in a character he called Corliss Archer and sent the story to a magazine. The magazine liked it and asked for more. The stories were combined in a book. A radio version was devised. Then Herbert wrote the play, "Kiss and Tell." Then came the screen version with Shirley Temple which he produced with George Abbott.

"So far the play has netted me $500,000," he estimated, "and the royalties from the amateur productions are just starting. I should make about $750,000 from the picture version. It should all amount to $1,500,000 before taxes."

Meanwhile, Herbert, is planning a movie sequel, "Meet Corliss Archer," and he is keeping a weather ear cocked to his daughters' remarks. He hopes to capture some gems such as the line one of the girls contributed to "Kiss and Tell"; "ever since I started wearing brassieres, you've kept a hawk eye on me."

Dr. Harry Wensel, a scientist who had an unrestricted pass to the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic station, couldn't get into M.G.M., where he is technical adviser on "The Beginning of the End" .... Can you imagine Alfred Lunt and Red Skelton in the same role? Lunt plays "the showoff" on the air Sunday. Red is making the new film version.

NUTANA CLUB RINK OF SASKATOON IN BRIER CONTEST

Saskatoon, March 1 —(CP)—When Dave Henderson leads his Nutana Club rink to the ice to represent Saskatchewan in the Dominion curling championship here March 4, it will be the realization of 12 years of trying for a Brier berth. And that, says Dave, is what would make victory all the sweeter.

Henderson's Saskatoon quartet, which gained an impressive sweep over Earl Kelly's Swift Current rink from the south in the Provincial Consols final, all are more or less veterans of the "roarin' game," some with previous Brier experience. And all but one are products of the Prairies where curling has become part of every-day life.

Before he came here Dave counted hockey among his achievements. He played defence for Melville Millionaires for 12 years and was on their 1922 Saskatchewan championship team. His defence teammate was Eddie Shore.

John Martin (Jack) Brower, Henderson's third, is no stranger to Brier competition. A native of Brandon, Man., he played with his brother the late E. H. Brower's Toronto Granite rink in the 1929 and 1931 Dominion playdowns; was with Dr. M. I. Humphries' Prince Albert rink when it went East in 1938 and went back the following year with George Dumbar's Prince Albert four. His Saskatchewan bonspiel prizes are many.

Cliff W. (Skinny) Annable, second, has been curling with Henderson for seven years. He has a number of Provincial conquests to his credit but this is his first Brier berth.

Montague (Monty) Burns, Henderson's lead, was born in Bathhurst, N.B., and started his curling career there. At the age of 12 he joined the Nutana Club in 1940 and competed in the Saskatchewan Consols in 1943 after playing a bit of hockey and baseball at Plumas, Man., on first coming West.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 1. (AP)—Add pudgy Ray Meyer of DePaul to the list of coaches who think something ought to be done to slow down basketball. "Maybe all they need to do is make the webbing on the baskets longer so the ball wouldn't drop so quickly," he says. "At least that would give time to see who scored. As it is now basketball is just a scramble, running up and down the floor and shooting. If a team is hot, it wins, but the coach hasn't much to do with it. He's just a trainer now. . . " Ray cites a notable example of a pro team leading by five points and having possession of the ball with 17 seconds to go. It still managed to lose the game. . . . "When I saw that, I knew I'd seen everything," says Ray.

NEGRO REPORTS TO DODGERS FOR SPRING TRAINING

First to Crash Gates of Organized Ball Will Play With Montreal

By JACK HAND

Sanford, Fla., March 1 — (AP) —Jackie Robinson, first Negro to crash the gates of organized baseball in modern days, is scheduled to report here today for the first training drill of Montreal Royals, Brooklyn's farm link in the International League.

The talented infielder was a football and basketball star at the University of California at Los Angeles in 1939 and 1940.

President Branch Rickey, delivering his daily lecture to the Dodgers' diamond school, paved the way for Robinson's arrival yesterday. He asked the other players to treat Robinson and pitcher John Wright, also a Negro, the same as any other athletes on the squad.

As was the case last October when Robinson was signed, Rickey insisted that the action was not influenced in any way by any pressure groups.

"My sole motive," said Rickey, "was to help the Dodgers by signing a prospect recommended by my scouts."

"If I thought an elephant could play centre field better than the fellow we had out there, I'd sign the elephant," said Rickey.

Robinson and Wright will be quartered with private families in the Negro section of this city. The rest of the players live in a hotel on the lakefront.

Robinson played with the Kansas City Monarchs in the Negro league last year, hitting .349 in 100 games. He should report in tip top condition, as he was a member of an all-star team that toured Venezuela and other South and Central American points during the winter.

GIVEN ELEVEN YEARS

Toronto, March 1 — (CP)—Arthur Stoutley, 27, Toronto, was sentenced Thursday to 11 years in penitentiary, with 12 strokes of the strap, for the armed robbery of a downtown jewelry store here Nov. 14 when the proprietor was beaten by two men who escaped with $3,000 cash and $4,000 in jewelry.

Stoutley was convicted last week during a trial at which Mrs. Helen Chapman testified he was a friend of her brother, David Huard, killed several weeks ago in a running gun battle with Ottawa police.

Johnny Mowers Sparks Meteors To 4-1 Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

A few National Hockey League managers looked wistfully across the water last night as LAC Johnny Mowers, once a Vezina Trophy winner in the Detroit Red Wings nets, sparked Meteors to a 4-1 victory over Hurricanes in the final game of the London Services Hockey League. Also prominent for the victors were centreman Pete Langelle, Toronto Maple Leaf property, and Jack Schmidt, formerly of Boston Bruins.

Bobby Feller, who left the United States Navy in time to fan 59 batters in nine games at the close of the 1945 American League season, is out for lots more strikeouts when he takes the mound for Cleveland Indians this year. "I'm out for all I can get," said Feller, strikeout king for 3 years before his enlistment.

Veteran Bill Maki, who has been a Northern Ontario standard-bearer in many an Allan Cup play-off, will sit this one out, but he can console himself with the Porcupine Mines Hockey League scoring championship. Maki piled up 11 goals and 18 assists for 29 points in 14 games with the 4th-place Dome Porkies.

Emile Collette, honorary president of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association, announced last night that dates for a C.P.G.A. Open tournament at Winnipeg Aug. 8-11 have been confirmed by Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

The next Montreal Canadien rooter who tosses a bottle on the ice in a moment of excitement will probably be looked on with disfavor by his fellow-fans. National Hockey League president Mervyn (Red) Dutton has warned the Canadien club that any repetition of a bottle-throwing act during Wednesday's Canadien-Ranger game will result in the game being called and awarded to the visiting team.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 1 — (CP) — Twenty teams that have won a total of 29 championships is the proud record of Fred Bibby, Manager, coach and financial "angel" of the Toronto Carlton Ladies Basketball Club — an organization that has grown out of one junior team in 1933.

The Guelph-born Bibby became "entangled" in girls sport purely by accident when he came to Toronto and was asked by a friend to coach a team in the church league. Though an all-round athlete, having starred in the Guelph senior cage loop as well as playing football and hockey, Bibby had not tried his hand at coaching.

But with sporting spirit — tempered when he learned the "different psychological approach" necessary to handle the girls—the slightly-built mentor developed a team that swept through the league the second year he coached it. The alumni of that same team today form the nucleus of his senior Carltons in the Toronto and District League, defeated only once in 14 games.

Now with a three-team club, the Bibby girls have garnered loop senior and intermediate titles. His juniors — all new to the game this year — did not fare as well, but that doesn't worry Fred.

"They'll be a tough team to beat in the league next year," he said. "And every one of those girls has four or five more years in junior company."

That's the way the Carlton organization has grown. The girls stick with congenial Fred and his able assistant and wife, Kay. Carlton spirit is high and some of the girls who played on his first team have developed into coaches and today help with other Carlton teams.

There have been a lot of thrilling moments in 14 seasons of play, but Fred says his biggest thrill will come some day — "in the 1960s" — when he'll be able to field a team comprising the children of Carlton Alumni. And he's well on the way to realizing that dream, nine of his present senior team having married and already brought four girls into the world.

By the time the Bibby girls of '60 are ready for the first whistle, they will have to live up to a great heritage.

A dozen years ago the Manitoba rink skipped by Winnipeg's Leo Johnson won the Macdonald's Brier trophy symbolic of the Canadian curling title. Johnson's vice-skip was Marno Fredrickson who tossed rocks 13 years for Johnson rinks.

This year Marno skipped his own rink — so successfully, he wound up in the Manitoba British Consols finals. His opponent was his old skip and the game developed into a close end for end battle. But the more experienced Johnson came from behind to squeeze out a 10-9 victory and again earn the right to carry Manitoba colors into the Brier play.

Another chunk of American major league baseball ivory disappeared south of the border yesterday as Chicago White Sox pitcher Alejandro Carrasquel, who boasted a 7-5 won-lost record for Washington last season, signed a three-year contract with Mexico City of the Mexican Baseball League.

Mack Doubts Yanks Will Win American Flag

By CHIP ROYAL

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 1 (AP) — Don't tell Joe McCarthy, but Connie Mack has changed his mind about New York Yankees. The sage of baseball now doubts that the Bronx Busters will win the American League pennant.

The men of McCarthy have been Mr. Mack's favorite first place team selection in the American League for many seasons. They were this year — up to today.

It was only a short time ago that Connie was quoted:

"The Yankees are the team to beat. Once again, they should be too strong for the rest of the league!"

But, since the 83-year-old manager of the Athletics has seen his own squad in action, and studied rosters of other junior circuit nines, he has lost some of the respect he had for the New Yorkers.

"We're going to have one of the greatest hitting seasons baseball has ever known," assures Mr. Mack, "and I don't think the Yankees have enough pitching strength to stop the sluggers and win the pennant."

The royal guess is that he has his eyes on Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Washington, Cleveland Indians, and the Yankees, as the five main contenders.

"The manager who finds a way to stop the sluggers who are coming back on every team will be in the World Series next fall. I hope I can find a way to do it!"

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Ab Demarco of New York Rangers, only leading scorer in the National Hockey League active last night, scored Rangers only goal when Detroit Red Wings won out 45-1, and pulled into a fourth-place tie with Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens among the top scorers of the league. Demarco now has 19 goals and 21 assists for 40 points.

Doctor's Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 14

"I think it's wonderful!" Gina smiled.

"So..do..I.." Nora Choate said in a low voice full of happiness.

Gina went home more nearly a prey to melancholia than she'd ever been in her life. Little Patsy had wanted her, had needed her. Now she was afraid she'd never see her again.

Phil had his car parked at the entrance gates when Gina walked from the bus stop. He stepped out when he saw her, and said a little crossly, "What made you run off like that? We might have had a swim."

"I didn't see you..I mean, I didn't know."

"You never do see me, Gina. That's the trouble although I'm usually around underfoot. Your head is always turned in another direction, definitely turned, if you know what I mean."

"I don't. And I'm not interested," Gina retorted. Phil was being just a little hateful, even insolent, she was thinking.

He took her arm. "Sorry, Gina ..in a bad temper, I guess. Forgive me?" he held her arm tightly so that she couldn't pull away.

"Oh, yes, 'all is forgiven, come home,'" Gina said lightly. "The trouble is, you'll forget and say something ugly again, and I might get really angry."

"The trouble is, I'm really jealous," Phil contradicted. He released her arm then, stepped back to the car. "Good night, Gina. I've an engagement up town."

"With Cynthia Snowden?" Gina didn't have any idea why she said that.

It was seven o'clock, Gina just had time to get her supper. Barbara Beatty was just leaving the dining room as she came in. For once she didn't make any cynical remarks, for which Gina was grateful.

Gina, feeling restless, walked about the grounds for awhile. A little moon was riding high among tossing clouds. There was something in the clear, cool air..an intangible whisper of autumn, a tiny hint of sadness that comes with the Fall.

When Gina got to their room Lora was in, slumped in a chair. She was looking unhappy, too. She gave Gina a dismal look, dropped her eyes. Gina said with a briskness she didn't feel, "Try smiling. It might help."

"There's nothing to smile about."

"You could try it, anyway."

"Look, I'm unhappy and I'm not trying to deny it. I could have gone out with that soldier again, he was nice, sorta sweet, onyl I couldn't."

"You could — only you couldn't?" Gina repeated, then said, "Back up, darling, start at the beginning."

"What I meant to say was I could have gone out with him, I would have, even though I'm not supposed to, I mean I didn't get permission, but when Pete called, well I couldn't."

Gina sat down on the edge of the bed. "So Pete called? And who is he?"

"He's the one I'm in love with and who's in love with me, only not enough in love, if you know what I mean."

"No, darling, I don't. I'm so far behind you I never expect to catch up. I'm down in a deep, dark well, as far as you're concerned." She stopped a minute. As Lora sat there slumped unhappily in the chair, her forehead drawn and her eyes narrowed, Gina said, "I've sometimes thought if you'd explain the thing..get it out of your system, it might help. Maybe it's worth a try."

To her surprise Lora sat up. "Maybe it is. After all, it's just a short-short story. Pete and I, we went to school together. It was one of those sunbonnet Sue affairs that people make so much fun of these days. He carried my books. We went skating together, to the movies, you know the sort of thing."

She stopped a moment, her mouth tightening; then she went on, "Of course we fell in love. And it was real, too. Pete was making enough money for us to get married on. He has a used-car lot and a big garage, only he'd given his mother a promise, at the time his father had died, that he'd never get married as long as she lived."

Gina answered slowly. "I'd say that poor Pete faces a tough question. He could ask his mother to release him from his promise, try to make her realize that he has a right to his happiness."

"He did that."

"And his mother refused?"

"But definitely."

Gina was thoughtful again. "She must be a very selfish person," she said at last. A little later, she added, "I feel sorry for Pete. he faces a hard situation. And then when he has a pass, comes in and calls you.... you won't see him. That's not so good, either."

Suddenly Gina said, "Look, darling, try to have a little faith that things will eventually turn out right. Quite frequently they do, even when we don't see the slightest chance that they might. Take what you can get and hope for the rest. I mean you want to see him, be with him, and he wants to see you. You're happy together, even if this thing is between you. That's something, Lora."

Lora's expression changed. "You know there may be something in what you say. You could be right. When Pete calls me again...." she stopped again, looking panic-stricken. "Suppose he. he never calls again."

"Well, that's easy. You call him."

Lora sat back in the chair, her eyes suddenly bright. "Of course I could, or I could write him."

Gina could see that the mere thought of seeing him, of being with him again, had changed Lora completely.

Gina herself had always believed that anything is better than nothing. That's why she accepted every tiny crumb that might come her way from Timothy. No matter when he might need her, or in what capacity, or where, she'd always be there.

Maybe that argued a lack of pride on her part, Gina wasn't sure as to that. She only knew it had to be that way.

Since the day Cynthia had called and given the malicious message that she would be announcing her engagement on the following Wednesday, nothing more had been said about it. A tiny little shred of hope crept unwillingly into Gina's heart. Maybe Cynthia had only said it with the intention of giving Gina a shock. She'd tried before to inveigle Timothy into an engagement and hadn't succeeded.

Some more wishful thinking on Gina's part. When she went down to breakfast the next morning, Barbara Beatty was sitting at the table, a folded newspaper at her plate. She said, "Have you seen the paper this morning?"

Barbara said, "Well, darling, try to brace yourself. The doctor says take it. The Snowdens have announced the engagement of their only daughter Cynthia to Doctor Timothy Gordon. Marriage plans to be announced later."

It was the next day Gina noticed a tall, blond young doctor at work on a case with Doctor Phillip Chester. Phil had called him in consultation. A bad heart case had been brought in and Phil was considering an operation. Nowadays doctors were performing heart operations with almost phenomenal success.

The new doctor came, remained an hour, came back in the late afternoon to talk again with Phil; then he was back again the next day. He seemed to be arguing against the operation while Phil took the other side.

It wasn't until late in the afternoon of the next day that Gina found out the new doctor was Lucian Pryor. Barbara Beatty had come on duty a few minutes earlier, Gina was standing in the corridor, waiting to give the new night nurse some last minute instructions when she saw Barbara and the tall, blond young doctor meet. For a moment it seemed as if Barbara had been turned to stone; then she recovered, managed a smile, held out her hand. "Hello, Doctor Pryor."

Then the full, rich voice, gay, flattering. "Why, Miss Beatty, what a pleasure!"

"Is it?" Barbara's voice came back and she pushed past him without another word. But Gina could see just how dreadfully agitated she was. Her eyes had looked stricken. Love can certainly do terrible things to a person, Gina thought unhappily as she went in search of the new nurse, Betty Baker, whom she found in the diet kitchen.

The next day Doctor Lucian Pryor was there again. He and Phil had another consultation. When they had finished and Doctor Pryor was ready to leave, he knocked on the door of Gina's little office and came in.

He was certainly a fine and gallant figure of a man, Lancelot and Galahad all rolled in one, Gina was thinking..he might be any girl's dream of romance personified. But good looks were not enough.

He was standing there smiling at her. Gina roused, said, "What can I do for you, Doctor Pryor?"

"You could do a lot....if you would," he smiled. "May I sit down?"

"Certainly—do." He was turning on all his charm.

"You have a very nice place here, Miss Branson, small and unorthodox as it is, you're doing a lot of good work, and I suppose you know you have two of the best young doctors you can find in this part of the country."

"That is true," Gina agreed. She knew this wasn't what he'd come to see her about. He was looking at her smilingly, "I want to see Miss Beatty. We're quite old friends, and I'm counting on you to arrange it. She for no sensible reason at all, is trying to avoid me. Just a few words together and I feel sure she would feel differently toward me. Won't you help me?"

Gina looked at him thoughtfully. She hardly knew what to say.

"I'm very sorry, Doctor Pryor, but if you're asking me to try to influence Barbara in seeing you, it's no go. I, that is, it isn't any of my business."

"I see." He rose, still smiling. "Then I'll say good night and good bye. It's been nice knowing you, Miss Branson."

She nodded at that and pulled the charts toward her. He'd been gone about half an hour when Phil came in. He looked rather down, something very unusual for the debonair Doctor Chester. "Come on over to Harry's won't you, Gina?"

She looked up. "When I'm through, Take about 20 minutes more."

"I'll go over and wait for you." Phil left. Gina went to work. The phone rang once, twice. Once about supplies which seemed to be getting alarmingly short. The other for Lora, asking her to call Pete at the Gladsden Hotel, room 446. He had a nice voice, Gina thought firm and vibrant.

She went to work on the charts. The phone rang again. This time Cynthia. "Doctor Gordon, please!"

"Wait..I'll see if I can get him," Gina said. She thought Timothy would be scrubbed up by this time. He was. He was coming toward the office then. Gina said, "The telephone."

He nodded, gave her a brief smile. "Hello, Cynthia, darling." Then Cynthia's quick voice. Gina tried not to listen to her words, shut her ears in fact. But she couldn't help overhearing Timothy. He was saying, "But, darling, I've explained before. I simply can't make it tonight."

A spatter of words from the other end. "No, Cynthia, I am sorry but it's impossible." A pause, then Timothy said, "Yes, tomorrow, dear. I promise." He hung up the phone then, turned to Gina. "Are you about finished? How about running over to Harry's?" He looked at his wrist-watch. "I've got 40 minutes."

Gina said briskly, "I'd like to. Phil is there too. We'll make a threesome."

"I think not. Phil wouldn't appreciate my coming. And can't say I'd blame him."

"Don't be like that, Timothy."

"Okay, I give in," Timothy smiled, "but only because they tell me Harry's got some barbecue beef over there that's actually good."

"Give me two more minutes," Gina said happily, and fell to work with zeal.

Then they were moving down the corridor and stairs, outside into the cool, fresh air, with its hint of winter winds and rain and over to Harry's.

Phil was sitting in the booth. He looked up as they came in. Gina saw with relief that he didn't seem to resent Timothy's presence. She hadn't been exactly sure. He'd always been unpredictable.

But they were hardly seated before Phil said, "Well, they tell me Colonel Bob has rented a six room suite in the Medical Arts fitted out with every scientific device known to man. How soon do you move in, and what do you expect to do about your children?" Phil stopped a minute, went on, "And oh, yes, how soon is the wedding to be? You really ought to give us a little advance information, old man."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, P. Willis Hinkle has a very intristing collum today, William, it's all about men and women.

Two very intristing tipes of people, or so I've heard, pop said, and ma said, According to P. Willis Hinkle, all men labor under the blissful delusion that their great attraction for women is their proverbial masculine strength, but the great joke is, a man's strongest appeal for the opposite sex is his utter helplessness.

I see what he means, pop said. Instead of being a clinging vine, the average woman is a sturdy oak for her man to lean his wavering spine against, he said, and ma said, That's the true picture in a nut shell. If men had to depend on their strength, the divorce courts would be clogged to overflowing. The real truth is, 9 men out of ten are just babies who wouldn't know their left hands from their right feet if they didn't constantly have some practical woman at their helpless elbows. In other werds a man remains a child even if he lives to be 200 years old, and the principle thing that binds his wife to him is her maternal instinct, no matter how many times a day he shaves himself in his so-called manly vigger, ma said.

By gollies I wouldn't be surprised if old Hinkle hit the old nale on the old heed for once in his life, pop said. Hand me that ash tray, would you mind? he said, and ma said, Well of all the nervy requests, the idea. You see very well I cant reach that ash tray without getting up from my chair any more than you can. Is there any logical reason I should wait on you hand and foot while you're in full possession of your own health? she said.

Excuse me, I thought for a moment I was a baby, pop said. And he got the ash tray himself and laughed till ma got mad.

TULSA CLINCHES FOURTH PLACE

(By The Canadian Press)

Tulsa virtually clinched fourth place in the United States Hockey League standings and a spot in the play-offs last night by routing Dallas, 12-1, at Tulsa.

This ran Tulsa's points in the league standings to 52 and if Fort Worth should win all five of its remaining games and Tulsa lose all of its schedule the Rangers could no more than tie the Oilers in points.

Tulsa still would qualify for the play-offs because of scoring more goals. The Oilers lead the league in this department with 238 goals while Fort Worth has 173.

McCoal Wins $22.50 in Draw

Toronto, March 1—(CP)—Latest question to come up in National Hockey League circles is: What is Frank McCool of Toronto Maple Leafs going to do about the Sudbury hockey pool?

McCool last week refereed a game at the Midget N. H. L. night arranged by Sudbury and Copper Cliff sportsmen and bought a ticket on the Canadian Legion draw. It was a 50-cent touch.

Yesterday the draw was announced. McCool's ticket was the winner, and worth $22.50.

The catch, if any, is that the draw is based on results of a series of home games of the Leafs.

Widener Handicap Appears in Bag For Concordian

Miami, Fla., March 1 (AP) — Because tomorrow's running of the $50,000 added Widener Handicap threatens to be a fiasco, strong pressure already is being brought on Charles J. McLennan, racing secretary at Hialeah, to change the present rule which provides for assignment of weights nearly two months before the big race.

The situation is that Concordian, which will carry the feather impost of only 109 pounds, against the 128 pounds assigned to Calumet Farm's chack Armed, will go to the post such an odds-on favorite that the betting probably will be very light. The track's hope of having its first $2,000,000 betting day seems doomed to disappointment.

Despite all this, McLennan is inclined to doubt that the rule will be altered. At present, only the Widener and the Santa Anita Handicap follow the custom of publishing weights long in advance, but McLennan is convinced it is necessary to do so for a winter classic.

Since the Widener weights were announced Jan. 5 Concordian has won four straight at Hialeah, including the $25,000 McLennan Memorial, in which he set a sensational pace and beat Armed by four lengths. Tomorrow Concordian will be carrying seven fewer pounds than he did in the McLennan, so it is all too obvious why no one is exactly thrilled about the race.

Princess Attends Graduation

London, March 1 — (Reuters) —Princess Elizabeth, wearing a leafgreen coat and brown hat, yesterday attended graduation exercises at the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, and buckled belts of honor, bearing her autograph, on two winning cadets — J. F. G. Hayes and A. L. Price.

By JAMES E. CHAMBERS

London, March 1 (AP)—Many of Britain's old and familiar golf stars will be seen at the old and familiar places as post-war tournaments and championships get under way.

But some names will be missing among them such stars as Pam Barton killed in an air crash in November 1943; William Laidlaw Henry Cotton's assistant, killed in an R.A.F. raid over Germany; Dale Bourn, dashing internationalist, killed on a gun site during a German air raid in October, 1941; and Kenneth Scott, a former captain of Oxford University, killed in action against the Germans.

Many other amateurs have come through the war after extended service.

One British Walker Cup golfer, "Laddie" Lucas, a left hander, reached the rank of wing commander in the R.A.F., and as a Spitfire pilot won a string of decorations for his part in the Battle of Britain and the Battle of Malta.

Old-timers Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, who served in the Army, will probably be back in competition.

Tolley, now 50, has been moving that ball a long way in recent matches with old cronies, and probably will put some of the untried youngsters to the test.

Most of the professionals of 1939 are back. A number of them saw service with the R.A.F., notably Henry Cotton, who reached the rank of flight-lieutenant before being invalided out with a duodenal ulcer. Cotton raised many thousands of pounds, playing matches for the Red Cross and service charities.

"Bobbies" Return

Many of the pros served in the special police force, the most notable wartime "Bobby" being the former open champion, Alfred Padgham, recently discharged after serving since early in the war.

Open Champion Dick Burton, who won his title at St. Andrews in 1939, served more than three years with the R.A.F. in the Middle East.

Right now British pros are primarily occupied with the action of United States pros in cutting out the stymie. They feel that the stymie is an integral part of the game.

Most British golf writers were disappointed with last year's professional tournaments which showed little in the way of new talent.

However, with $80,000 at stake in various tournaments this year, it is hoped that professional golf will "get down to brass tacks" and produce good competition for future matches with the United States.

In the amateur field things are uncertain and there will be no home international matches. The English and the British open championships are the only important tournaments scheduled.

British women golfers, too, are treading carefully. They have scheduled the Ladies Open for the fall.

South End Nips Capitols by 10-9

Mark Storms was the big gun for the South Enders, scoring four of his team's goals while Rushlow got a brace. Rosebush, O'Brien and the two Mondevilles got one each.

The teams:

CAPITOLS: goal, Chick Cook; defence, Blaind, Callaghan; centre, Hurst; wings, G. Cook, Widge Adams; sub. Semark.

MAY CHANGE CRIMINAL CODE

Toronto, March 1 — (CP) — Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson said yesterday that the Ontario Attorney-General's department is studying recommendations to change the criminal code to make parents responsible for the death of their children through neglect.

BARREL AS CLOTHING "SOON"?

Wood River, Ill., Mar. 1 (AP)—The clothing shortage has prompted A. C. Hunt to exhibit in his clothing shop window a dummy attired only in a barrel. A sign adorning the barrel reads: "Coming soon."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 1. (CP)— All four index groups recorded gains on the stock exchange at noon, the Industrials leading with an advance of .84. Volume was comparatively small at around 1,000,000 shares for the first three hours.

Papers, Food and Utilities were higher, National Steel Car, Fanny Farmer, Dominion Bridge, Steel of Canada and Langley Pfd. advanced a point or more.

WALL STREET

New York, March 1 —(AP)— The stock market enjoyed another early recovery sortie today but demand was negligible and the lightest sort of selling soon put many leaders in the losing ranks.

Wall Streeters, while believing that the list was due for a further technical comeback in the wake of the sharpest slump in more than eight years, still inclined to cautious operations.

Weatherman Spoils All Thoughts Of Early Summer

Toronto, March 1—(CP)— That fluffy, little lamb came gambolling over the March line today as Ontario generally basked in mild weather. Light rain was predicted for tonight with the mild spell continuing throughout tomorrow.

But the weatherman spoiled all thoughts of an early summer.

"So far this winter we have had 56.1 inches of snow, or 7.8 inches over the average," he said. "But March usually is good for 10 inches of snow.

"Why back in 1870," he continued, nasty gleam in eye, "March ran up the remarkable record of 62.4 inches — more than the average snowfall for a whole winter."

So, brother, look out for that lion.

Robert Chadwick Named Manager Biggar & Crawford

Official announcement of the appointment of Robert (Bob) Chadwick of this city as manager of the Belleville branch of Biggar and Crawford, members Toronto Stock Exchange was made here today.

Recently returned from overseas, Mr. Chadwick resumes his civilian capacity with the firm with which he was associated 9 years before the war. He joined the local staff of Biggar and Crawford as a junior clerk in 1931.

Born in Edmonton, a son of Mrs. R. B. Chadwick and the late Robert Chadwick, he arrived in this city when he was five years of age. He attended Queen Alexandra School and later the Belleville High School.

Joining the 34th Field Battery as a gunner in early 1940, he trained for some time in Canada before going overseas. After some time spent in England he was promoted to the rank of sergeant and was posted to the 3rd Anti Tank Regiment, RCA. He saw considerable service in France, Belgium and Germany prior to his repatriation to Canada last year. He is married and has one daughter.

U. S. RAPS RUSSIA FOR ATTACK ON PLANES

Three Powers Seek Accord on Move To Oust Franco

Spur Spaniards to Set Up Broad Interim Government

By CARL D. SORESI

Washington, March 2 (AP) — Britain, France and the United States pressed today for final agreement on a joint declaration encouraging Spaniards to overthrow Generalissimo Franco. But the question was: Which Spaniards?

Diplomatic representatives of the three powers were intent on getting the proposed pronouncement ready for public release this weekend, but France and the United States were reported split on the issue of what elements to address in the manifesto.

Earlier, the State Department confirmed that Britain and France had "approved in principle" the United States proposed declaration reliably reported as spurring Spaniards to set up a broadly representative interim government in Madrid pledge to:

1. Calling national elections.
2. Declaring political amnesty.
3. Providing freedom of religion, assembly, and press.

In return, the new government would receive full economic and diplomatic recognition by the three powers. The proposal was understood to leave the tasks of changing the present Spanish government to the Spanish people themselves. It was indicated there would be no immediate break with Franco until the tri-power appeal for the change was answered.

Differences between French and United States viewpoints were reported hinging on a description of the Spaniards to whom the declaration would be aimed. At present, it was learned, the American proposal is addressed to the Spanish people "inside or outside the (Spanish) government."

If that applies only to Spaniards within Spain, thus excluding the Spanish Republican government-in-exile, then France, it was learned, wants the phraseology changed to read "inside and outside Spain."

The British government, through its embassy here, is being kept informed of the negotiations. It is believed Britain will probably side with the American viewpoint on the matter. The French have cabled Paris of the disagreement, but it was uncertain how strongly the French government would insist on its point about Spanish Republican exiles.

Madrid, March 2 (AP)— The Franco government today declared that the closing of the Spanish frontier by France and anti-Spanish demonstrations abroad were part of an international Communist plot designed to drag Spain "down into disorder and chaos."

In a 2,000-word communique issued after a lengthy cabinet meeting. The government said the "suffering French people" were not responsible for what it termed an "anti-Spanish campaign."

"It is necessary to make known once again that, under the appearance of false humanitarianism and simulated compassion, there is being developed a new campaign of snares and calumnies against Spain, of which the promoter and active agent is international Communism," the communique said.

Protests against the recent execution of 10 Spanish anti-Fascists were inspired by Communists who glorified "vulgar and common criminals as martyrs of a political idea," the statement asserted.

The communique said the protests followed the regular Communist pattern, and added that this in itself was proof that the protests were part of a Communist campaign.

The protests "spread in the guise of a watchword," and "shortly after that began anti-Spanish demonstrations and meetings and later attacks against buildings of our missions abroad."

The government is "inexorably resolved and decided to maintain order with all firmness and to guarantee national security," the statement continued.

Spain also "makes a move to appeal to the conscience of the world against this unprecedented campaign by means of which an attempt is being made by the worst methods to drag down into disorder and chaos a country in order and peace, which has complied with its international duties like no other."

The cabinet met with Franco in closely guarded El Pardo palace last night, and remained in session until almost 2 a.m.

Strikes-at-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

Labor disputes keep idle approximately 810,000.

Major developments:

Automotive — General Motors strike, 102 days old, to continue "until G.M. meets its public responsibility" says C.I.O. United Auto Workers leaders after C.I.O.-U.A.W. G.M. council rejects management's "maximum proposal" for settling walkout; negotiations continue today, with union to report to council.

Utility — Threastened power strike in Pittsburgh, set for Tuesday, averted as independent union votes to abritrate wage dispute.

Milk — 10-day strike of dairy workers in Detroit appears near end as C.I.O. union and creamery negotiators agree on wage increases of 18 cents an hour; strikers meet on ratification of pay boosts and other proposals.

Railroad — Strike of Southern Pacific's 3,500 engineers and trainmen in Texas and Louisiana, set for this morning, called off as company and brotherhood officials reach an "amicable settlement" in issues, involving awards, President Truman names emergency board to investigate some 400 cases still in dispute.

Electrical Equipment — Hopes for peace in C.I.O. electric workers strike in Philadelphia as strikers discontinue mass picketing in front of strikebound General Electric plant.

DOESN'T WANT NAME MENTIONED

Los Angeles, March 2 (AP) — Most actors enjoy hearing their names mentioned. But Chico Marx filed suit against Warner Bros. studios, alleging that repeated references were made to him in a current movie, without his prior consent. He wants $200,000 damages.

DRIVE CAR THROUGH DOOR

Los Angeles, March 2. (AP)— One way to get into a bank after hours: drive your car through the front door. Police are trying to determine who drive through the front door of a bank here. The unmistakable evidence was there —skid marks and a shattered door. But no car was to be found. The crash failed to set off the burglar alarms.

Russians Have No Desire to Place Millions of Germans on Trial

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN.

Nuernberg, March 2 (AP) — The Soviet Union joined the United States today in assuring the International Military Tribunal that it opposes any attempt to put millions of Germans on trial for war crimes.

Gen. Roman A. Rudenko, chief Russian prosecutor, announced Soviet support of Justice Robert L. Jackson's declaration yesterday that conviction of six indicted Nazi organizations would not mean outlawing of a great section of the German population, as the defence had contended.

The defence had argued that conviction of the groups would affect virtually every German home and encourage a revival of Nazism.

Gen. Rudenko told the tribunal that the manner in which organization members would be punished, if the organizations are found guilty, must "be solved by national courts of the four Allied powers and is not a question for the tribunal."

The defence pleaded today that feminine members of the indicted groups be specifically exempted, asserting:

"All women in the Nationalist Socialist state were kept removed from politics and therefore cannot be charged."

The organizations indicted are the Nazi Leadership Corps, the Reich Cabinet, the S.S. (Elite Guard), the S.A. (Storm Troops), the Gestapo and the General Staff and High Command.

LEGISLATURE MAY CONSIDER NEW LIQUOR LAWS

First Major Changes Since Beverage Rooms Legalized Ten Years Ago Will be Made

Toronto, March 2. (CP)—Amid speculation that members will consider the first major changes in provincial liquor laws since beverage rooms were legalized ten years ago, the second session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature opens Monday with fewer indications than usual of strife among rival parties.

As final preparations were made for an opening which authorities termed "semi-formal" in contrast to the reduced formalities of wartime, the possibility of new liquor legislation was a persistent topic of lobby discussion. Suggestions ranged from beer licences for restaurants to cocktail bars for hotels.

While government sources declined comment, Queen's Park informants recalled Attorney-General Blackwell's forest of impending recommendations for a new liquor licensing policy. Mr. Blackwell told the Hotelmen's Association of Ontario in January he would recommend to the legislature a policy "which will avoid hypocrisy and be in keeping with conditions as they are."

This first peacetime session and first full session since the defeat of Premier Drew's government a year ago—a special four-day session was held last July—also is expected to consider creation of a Tourists and Recreation department likely to be headed by Col. Arthur G. Welsh, minister without Portfolio.

Many Private Bills

Financial estimates, partly to cover the new highway developments, also may come before a session expected to consider about 60 government and perhaps almost that many private bills. Alex Lewis, clerk of the legislature, has given notice to date of 41 private bills, 17 more than last year.

The prospect is for less heated scenes than marked the dying days of the 21st legislature in March, 1945, and led to defeat of the Progressive Conservative government on a C.C.F. amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne — first time in Ontario history a government has been overthrown in a division of the legislature.

Premier Drew, restored to power in the June 4 provincial election the same year, now holds 66 seats in the 90-seat legislature compared with 38 Progressive Conservative members in 1943.

Facing him as leader of the opposition will be Farquhar Oliver, Liberal House Leader, who will have 11 Liberal and two Liberal-Labor supporters. W. J. Grummett, Cochrane South, will lead eight C.C.F. members and A. A. MacLeod, Toronto Bellwoods, heads the two-man Labor-Progressive forces. Alex Parent, Essex North, will sit as a straight Labor member.

Notable among the absentees will be Mitchell Hepburn, Liberal Premier from 1934 to 1941 and long a colorful figure in Ontario politics. The onion farmer from St. Thomas who represented Elgin in the Federal House from 1930 to 1934 before entering the legislature was defeated in his home riding in the provincial election last June. Then he retired.

More Specific 'Probs' For Canadian Public By Six Region Offices

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 2 (CP)—The Federal government's weather forecasting services are being decentralized to provide more detailed, more up-to-date and more specific forecasts for the Canadian public, it was announced today by the Department of Transport on behalf of Reconstruction Minister Howe.

Early in April

The announcement made for Mr. Howe, who is on the Pacific coast, said the decentralization is expected to be completed early in April. Plans provide for the establishment of six district meteorological offices to furnish forecasts that in pre-war and in war years originated in the Department of Transport's meteorological office in Toronto.

The six district offices are or will be located at Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto (Malton), Montreal (Dorval), and Halifax. Each district is or will be divided into 10 or 12 defined weather regions and a forecast is or will be provided for each region where warranted.

While the weather districts have not yet been disclosed it is understood the Vancouver office will give detailed forecasts for the territory west of the Rockies. Edmonton will cover from the Rockies east to near Regina. Winnipeg will cover the area from Regina to the head of the lakes.

Toronto will cover the remainder of Ontario except for a small area near Ottawa. Montreal will cover from Ottawa through Quebec Province to the Maritimes. Halifax will cover the Maritime Provinces.

The announcement of the exact territory in each district is expected to be made shortly.

More Detailed, Specific

Forecasts, in general, will be more detailed because they will cover smaller regions. They will be more specific as they may be issued or revised every six hours. All offices will operate 24 hours a day. The forecasts will give information as to sky condition, precipitation, temperature and winds and in many cases a new terminology and style will be noticeable.

Special forecasts for large groups will be provided when warranted. These include storm warning services, forecasts for fishermen, forecasts for farms and forest fire warning services. Public groups, such as transportation companies, will be able to obtain special services if general forecasts do not meet their needs.

The forecasts will be made available to news services, newspapers, telegraph companies and other agencies.

GERMAN REPORT CRITICIZED PLAN BEHIND DIEPPE

Says British Command Miscalculated Strength of German Defence

Toronto, March 2 — (CP)—The German army intelligence in its secret report on an assessment of the 2nd Canadian Division's August 1942 raid on Dieppe criticized the planning behind the operation and the Canadians' combat efficiency, an article by L. S. B. Shapiro, European correspondent, which appears in Maclean's magazine, said yesterday.

Of the planning, the story quotes the report of the German 81st Corps Intelligence: "The undertaking was prepared most conscientiously. The operation order is very detailed (121 typewritten pages) and therefore difficult to visualize as a whole. The planning, down to the last detail, limits the independence of action of the subordinate officer and leaves him no opportunity to make independent decisions in an altered situation."

Dealing with combat efficiency the report went on: "The 2nd Canadian Division had lain for quite some time in the south of England, most of the time in camps . . . the Canadians on the whole fought badly and surrendered afterward in swarms. On the other hand the combat efficiency of the Commandos was very high."

"It is astonishing that the British (Canadians) should have underestimated our defence, as they had details of most of it from air photos; equally striking is the short time in which they expected to carry out the operation. The British (Canadian) operational order fixed every detail of the action for each unit. This method of planning made the failure of the whole raid inevitable in the event of unexpected difficulties."

The report, analyzing "the great British (Canadian) failure" said: "The British (Canadians) completely miscalculated the strength of the German defence and tried 'to grab the bull by the horns' by landing the main body of their invasion forces, particularly the tanks, right in front of Dieppe."

Shapiro, in his own comment on these reports, added:

"In the main they do not change the general opinion of Dieppe; that the operation was well worth while; that it might have been done with less cost if planning, leadership and luck had been better."

KEEPS HIS VOW

San Diego, Calif., March 2 (AP) Sgt. Edwin Sullivan, of Muskegon, Mich., has kept a vow. He bought two dozen roses for the first waitress to serve him on his return from 11 months overseas. Sullivan said: "I like to show my appreciation for American waitresses. They are the nicest in the world." Dorothy Lasky, a hotel waitress, was the recipient.

JOHN L. LEWIS FILES 30-DAY STRIKE NOTICE

Says 400,000 United Mine Workers Want to Reopen Wage Talks

New York, March 2 — (AP) — John L. Lewis today filed a 30-day strike notice for his 400,000 United Mine Workers and notified bituminous coal operators he wanted to reopen wage talks with them in Washington March 12.

Lewis said the miners "will continue to work for the ensuing 30 days."

Meanwhile, two major strikes accounted for nearly half of the 800,000 United States workers idle because of labor strife as a survey disclosed a decrease of nearly 1,000,000 since the near all-time high of late January.

Principal work stoppages involved some 200,000 workers at General Motors plants and about 175,000 C.I.O. electrical workers at General Electric and Westinghouse plants.

C. I. O. United Auto leaders in Detroit said the 102-day-old walkout at General Motors, despite recent hopes of settlement, would last "until G. M. meets its public responsibility."

The statement followed rejection by the 200-man C I.O. U.A.W. G. M. council of the corporation's "maximum proposal to date," stating it "failed to meet the standards set by the recommendations of the president's fact-finding board."

There were no indications of settlement of the strike by C.I.O. electrical workers, which started Jan. 15, but there were hopes of peace in Philadelphia after violence and disorder this week at the General Electric plant. Yesterday, for the first time in three days there was no violence and for the first time this week the strikers made no attempt to violate an injunction banning mass picketing at the plant.

In New York, Albert C. Fitzgerald, president of the C. I. O. Electrical Workers Union, said he would meet Monday in Washington with Tom Clark, United States Attorney General, to demand "immediate action" to prevent General Electric and Westinghouse from "fomenting strife and violence in community after community."

There were a few bright spots on the labor front. The main factor in the reduction in the ranks of the idle resulted from the back-to-work by steelworkers and workers in industry forced off the job because of the four-week-old steel strike last month.

Weather Forecast

Manitoba—Fair Sunday; somewhat colder tonight.

LT.-COL. TEDMAN FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT OF CAR

Court Martial Acquits Officer of Charges Of Attempting To Export Improperly

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Amsterdam, March 2 — (CP Cable)—A Canadian Army court martial today found Lt.-Col. Philip Tedman of Toronto guilty of stealing an automobile while stationed in The Netherlands but acquitted him of charges that he attempted to export it improperly.

Earlier this week Capt. Stanley Landell and Capt. D. W. Thomson, also of Toronto, were convicted on similar charges.

Col. Tedman, former chairman of the Canadian Army amenities control organization here, also was acquitted of charges that he wrongfully certified that two other automobiles were the property of Thomson and Landell. The court merely announced that the charges connected with improper exporting and with the wrongful certification had been dismissed.

Conviction and sentence on the first charge and subject to confirmation by higher military authorities and promulgation later. Thomson and Landell will be taken to England Monday where their sentences will be announced.

Capt. Max Raycroft of Stratford, Ont., defence counsel, contended today that no evidence was produced that certificates of ownership signed by Tedman ever were used. He asked the court to consider the export of the automobile, a Buick, parallel to carrying home pistols, expensive cameras, field glasses and "other types of articles of high intrinsic value" by thousands of Canadians.

"The mere fact that Col. Tedman chose an article of larger bulk, but not more value than many a camera so taken home, ought to place him in no worse light than they," Capt. Raycroft said.

(The automobiles which Tedman, Landell and Thomson were convicted of stealing were taken from a German equipment dump controlled by the Canadian army, evidence brought out at the three trials showed.)

The prosecution told the court the question was not one of value or size but of simple ownership.

Mac Arthur Approves Removal Army Editors

Tokyo, March 2 — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today approved the removal of the managing editor and a featured columnist of the United States Army's newspaper Stars and Stripes, Pacific edition, after his inspector general reported their "discretion and integrity" were questionable.

Gen. MacArthur ordered the two — Sgts. Kenneth L. Pettus, Chicago, and Barnard Rubin, Waterbury, Conn. — sent to a replacement depot for reassignment to some "non-sensitive" duty.

Col. E. J. Dwan, the inspector general, reported "there is abundance of evidence that reflects adversely on the 'discretion and integrity' of each . . It is evidenced that each has held membership in the nation-wide established Communist party and has at times flavored his public writings with Communistic thought."

Six Bad Guesses by Hitler in '42 Helped Turn Tide Against Nazis

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Nuernberg, March 2 (AP) — Top secret reports taken from files of German ministries now in Allied hands disclose that Hitler made six guesses in one month—November, 1942—that helped to turn the tide of war in favor of Britain and the United States.

Confronted with the fact that Allied forces had landed in Algeria and Morocco Nov. 8, 1942, Hitler's intuition failed him. A record of his faulty guessing:

1. He placed the German garrison in Norway on the alert—two seas and a continent away from Africa—to expect an imminent Allied attack.

2. At the same time, the former corporal, functioning as supreme commander of the German army, envisaged an immediate Allied strike toward the Romanian oil fields.

Hitler ordered more German troops sent to Crete and the Peloponnesus and additional air force squadrons assigned there.

3. Disregarding his highest naval advisers, Hitler refused to negotiate with the Vichy French fleet at Toulon for future collaboration on a new basis of equality. Grand Admiral Erich Rader had sought to arrange for French warships and crews to join the Axis and had obtained

One Incident Termed "Hostile Act" by Navy

Moscow's Right to Take Equipment is Challenged

Washington, March 2 — (AP)— The United States told Russia off yesterday for two Soviet attacks on United States planes off the Manchurian coast and for the Red Army's removal of Manchuria's industrial equipment.

The two-play protest provided an unexpected follow-up to the Thursday speech of State Secretary Byrnes foreshadowing a much tougher approach in future dealings with Moscow.

Protesting the attacks on its planes, the United States Navy termed one incident "a hostile act" and called the other "unjustifiable."

The protest coincided with a state department declaration that Russia had no right under any Allied agreement to strip industrial equipment from the former Japanese puppet state of Manchuria.

The attacks on planes both were reported to have taken place in the Port Arthur-Dairen area, and the Navy pointed out that under the Russo-Chinese Treaty of last August Dairen is supposed to be a free port, open to all nations, but administered by China.

The Navy said the first Soviet attack in this area took place last October, and the second last month.

When the first incident was protested, Russian authorities replied they were responsible for defence of the area under the treaty with China and that American planes must not approach within 12 miles of the coast without previous permission.

The navy rejected this reply, pointing out that the American plane was 25 miles at sea when fired on by Soviet aircraft, and that Russia had never notified the United States it intended to apply a 12-mile limit in Soviet-occupied territory. Moscow never answered this protest. This incident the navy characterized as a "hostile act."

The second episode occurred Feb. 20 when two Russian fighter planes overtook a United States plane near Dairen and gave warning bursts of machine-gun fire for about 10 minutes. The plane was not hit, however, and was able to return to its base at Tsingtao, China.

The navy declared Russian action in this case was "unjustifiable," but acknowledged the plane's pilot had disregarded orders and had gone inland from the coast. Disciplinary action has been instituted against the pilot, the navy said.

In neither instance did the United States planes return fire, the navy declared.

GREENWICH VOTERS OUT

Greenwich, Conn., March 2— (AP)— A battle which began with the first news that a dove of peace might alight here for a permanent stay reached the show-down stage Monday as Greenwich voters balloted to determine whether a majority wanted the United Nations Organization headquarters in their town.

Since early in February, when Greenwich residents discovered that part of the town was included in 42 square miles of Connecticut and New York countryside chosen by a U.N.O. site selection committee, a wordy debate has been raging between those who would shut the door to U.N.O. and those who would unroll a welcome mat.

Judy Buckley, Stowaway, 17, Allowed Entry

St. Thomas, March 2 (CP) — Judy Buckley 17-year-old stowaway from Bournemouth, England who arrived at Boston Jan. 31 aboard the United States troopship, Wallace M. Tayler, has been granted permission to enter Canada and is expected to be released shortly by American immigration authorities so she can come to live with her aunt Mrs. Rees Edwards of St. Thomas.

Accompanied by a friend, Patricia Shepherd, 19, of Liverpool, England, she stowed away on the Tayler when the ship left that English port city. After five days at sea Judy took an attack of appendicitis and they had to give themselves up.

She was administered penicillin after the ship's captain sent wireless messages to United States for instructions as the ship had no doctor.

Judy's mother found out her daughter was in America when she went to a tobacco and confection shop in Bournemouth and saw the story in a London newspaper. She immediately sent an airmail letter to Mrs. Edwards, who along with her husband, Rees, a First Great War veteran of the British army who made an appeal to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and immigration authorities at Ottawa to allow their niece to enter Canada.

The girl has been held by immigration authorities at Boston since her arrival there, but Mrs. Rees said she received notification from Ottawa today that the Immigration department has decided to allow the girl to come to Canada.

Judy, actually June Veronica, disclosed she had a boy friend in Quebec, but she had lost his address.

Last 7 Rioters Who Hold Out On Roof Captured

North Allerton, England, March 2 —(CP)— A riot involving 70 British army prisoners was put down by troops last night after the rioters set fire to North Allerton military prison and wrecked its interior.

The last seven rioters were captured after they had held out on a roof top for more than eight hours, pelting the troops below with slate shingles and other missiles. Five members of the prison guard were injured, none seriously.

Firemen quelled the blaze in the building after a four-hour fight and then turned their hoses on the rioters, causing all but the last seven holdouts to surrender. The prisoners, most of them recently transferred from the British army on the Rhine, were protesting the food and no-smoking rule.

B.C.I. & V.S. TO MAKE SURVEY OF FIRMS

In the interests of commercial education and with the desire to improve commercial courses for adapatability to modern business methods, the commercial department at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School is conducting a survey of district business firms public institutions and professional men.

A total of 150 letters to business firms and professional men in the district have been sent out by the collegiate commercial department and will use information returned to improve courses where deemed advisable.

Included on the questionnaire sent out by the commercial department are enquiries of business firms as to the type of office equipment used, and a follow-up and report of commercial department graduates now working in district business offices.

ANOTHER CONTINGENT WAR BRIDES EXPECTED

Another contingent of war brides is expected to arrive in Canada aboard the S. S. Mauretania, docking at Halifax approximately March 6. Included in the contingent for this city and district are: Henrietta, wife of Sgt. F. P. Corfield, Ameliasburg; Mary, wife of S/Sgt. G. W. Kilbank, 38 Sinclair Street, Belleville; Olive, wife of H/Capt. T. S. Gault, Deseronto; and Elizabeth, wife of Able Seaman B. L. Christie, R.R. 2 Belleville.

Relatives of personnel reported to be aboard the S. S. John Sargent have been notified that thru reason of necessary repairs at sea, all personnel aboard have been transferred to the S. S. John Hopkins, which is expected to dock in Halifax approximately Mar.. 7.

SLIPPERY STREETS CAUSE OF CRASHES

Slippery streets were given as being responsible for two motor accidents occurring over the night and early this morning in which hydro and telephone poles came off a bad second best.

During the night following the appearance of an icy film on pavements, Jack Aikens, Albert College, was proceeding south on Parker Street when his vehicle skidded on the slippery pavement and slid into a hydro pole breaking it off at the base. The auto was damaged to an extent of approximately $125, it was stated.

Saturday morning a Smith transport with semi-trailer was proceeding west on Dundas St. en route to pick up its load for the day when it jacknifed on the slippery pavement and crashed into another hydro pole.

"SPLASH" MOTORISTS AGAIN ACTIVE IN CITY

With the advent of milder temperature and the turning of streets into slushy puddles, the "splash" boys, bane of pedestrians, are active again with residents complaining to police of drivers speeding through slush to spatter pedestrians' clothing.

Over the night two male residents were waiting to cross Coleman St. when an auto speeded past to spatter clothing. Licence number of the vehicle was ascertained and the driver was identified with the result that soiled clothing is going to the cleaners at the expense of the unthinking motorist.

H. & S. ASSOC. TO HEAR TALK ON VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE IN S. SCHOOLS

Vocational Guidance in Secondary Schools will be the topic of an address to be heard by members of the Home and School Association at their regular meeting in the Collegiate Library on Monday evening. Mrs. O. Palmer, Assistant Director of Guidance, Department of Education, Toronto, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Palmer is a graduate of McMaster University and has been a high school teacher for 15 years. She has a wide experience and knowledge of students' problems and all members of the Association are invited to hear her address on this topic of current interest.

SUFFERS FACIAL INJURIES IN CRASH

Slight facial injuries were suffered Friday night by a passenger of a locally-driven motortruck when the vehicle was in a sideswipe collision with an eastbound auto near the Mohawk Curve, west of Deseronto. Thomas A. Hogle, R.R. 3 Norwood, was driving east when his auto was claimed to have been sideswiped by a truck driven by Matthew Brandt, South John Street, Belleville. Passenger in the truck, John W. Lindsay of Toronto, suffered minor facial cuts as result of the accident. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Harry Caldwell.

Sjahrir Resigns Batavia Hears

Batavia, March 2 (Reuters) — Dr. Sutan Sjahrir, prime minister of the self-proclaimed Indonesian republic, resigned today, Dutch sources reported here.

Sjahrir's move followed a vote by the central committee of the Indonesian Nationalist movement in favor of broadening its cabinet, they said.

Republican reports said the vote, taken at a meeting of the committee of Soerakarta, Java's ancient capital, was not directed against Sjahrir.

It followed a resolution by the group's working committee two weeks ago, urging that Dr. I. R. Soekarno, president of the Java republic, strengthen the government and the central committee.

QUEENS HANDED DEFEAT

Kingston, March 2 (CP)—University of Montreal's Carabins handed the Queen's University hockey team its fourth defeat last night when they rang up a 9-5 victory in a scheduled Intercollegiate League game.

Paced by Jean Paul Gignac, former star in the Quebec Senior League, the Carabins had difficulty in getting started and were trailing 3-2 at the end of the first period. However a three-goal splurge in the middle stanza put the Montrealers into a lead they did not relinquish.

Belleville boys who gained wide recognition for their musical prowess at the recent Kiwanis musical festival in Toronto were guest artists at a smoker and entertainment for members of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Association held at the Quinte Hotel on Friday evening.

Included on the evening's program were Robt. Stebbings, who again demonstrated his ability to a local audience with a euphonium solo, while cornet solos were given by Don Charlton, Davie Branscombe and Jack Fenn. All four boys competed in the Kiwanis Music festival and are students of Mr. Jack Green who expressed his appreciation to the C.N.R. War Veterans' Association and to the Army and Navy Veterans for their donation of $50 toward paying the expenses of the local musicians during their Toronto visit. Acknowledgment of the vote of thanks was given by James Lazenby of the Army and Navy Veterans.

J. W. Dougherty Is Honored On Retirement

Canadian National Railways employee since 1902 when he joined the service as a fireman, Mr. J. Wesley Dougherty, 65 Geddes Street, retired as a hostler yesterday at the C.N.R. shops when he was presented with a substantial purse of money on behalf of the shop employees. Appreciation of the company to Mr. Dougherty for his long service was expressed by Mr. A. Cooper, master mechanic, while the presentation was made by one of the shop hostlers, Mr. Sala Robinson. During his service with the railroad Mr. Dougherty served in many capacities at Mimico until he returned to Belleville last year as hostler.

Saturday Market

Proffering of a number of baskets of McIntosh and Spy apples created a bit of a stir on the local produce market Saturday morning as potential customers crowded around the lone vendor. In a matter of minutes the vendor's stocks were completely depleted with basket lots of Spys bringing 85 cents and McIntosh 75 cents.

On the inside market eggs were firm at 40 cents for first with medium being quoted at from 35 to 38 cents the dozen. Fowl offering was light with 40 to 45 cents being the general prices asked for chicken although a few capons sold at 55 cents the pound.

One or two farmers offered limited quantities of winter vegetables at current prices, while stovewood brought $14 and $15 the cord.

FIGHT WELL-ARMED REBELS

London, March 2 — (Reuters)— Italian troops and police with tanks and armored cars are fighting, large forces of well-armed rebels which attacked the radio station at Palermo, Sicily, Milan radio reported today.

Violent gun and cannon fire was heard and Palermo radio went off the air shortly after the attack. "After a pitched battle the Rebels were dislodged and driven off," Milan radio added.

London (CP)—Four unused Egyptian stamps, originally worth 10s ($2.25) were sold at Harmers' in Bond Street for £90 ($405).

Obituary

DAVID LEWIS OSBORNE

David Lewis Osborne died at his home, Byron Street, off Cannifton Road, early Saturday morning. He was in failing health for some time.

Born in Adolphustown, Prince Edward County, sixty-nine years ago, the late Mr. Osborne was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne. The greater part of his life was passed in this city and vicinity. For some years he lived retired. He was a member of the Church of England and a parishioner of St. Thomas' Church.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Emmeline Knights; a son, Guy Osborne, at home, and one daughter, Miss Dorothy Osborne, Reg. N., on the staff of the Belleville General Hospital and who served overseas in the recent war for a considerable time.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, 38 Everett Street, until Saturday evening then at his home; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE DAVID WILSON COUCH

On Friday afternoon the funeral of David Wilson Couch, a former resident of this city who died at Sutton, Que., on Wednesday last, took place from the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street, at Victoria Avenue. The service in the chapel and at Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Marshall Laverty minister of Stirling United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. Alfred Symons, Walter Symons, Samuel Symons, Fred Symons, Burley Rowe and Hector Whitton.

Late MISS BEATRICE E. JONES

The funeral of Miss Beatrice E. Jones took place from her late residence, 260 Dundas Street East, on Friday afternoon to St. Thomas' Church where the burial office was conducted by the rector, the Rev. Arthur Smith, assisted by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling, rector of Christ Church, the Rev. Rural Dean E. N. Grant, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, and the Rev. C. P. Heaven, rector of Trinity Church, Shannonville, and also minister in charge of St. John's Mission, Herchimer Avenue, in the work of which the late Miss Jones was much interested. There was a large attendance of friends from the city and district, the church being filled to capacity.

Entombment took place at the Belleville Cemetery and interment will be in the family plot at Smithfield Cemetery at a later date.

The bearers were Messrs. David Doane, Reginald Barber, Frank Wallbridge, William Nightingale, Lyal Branscombe and Harry Orvis.

MRS. MAE HOLLAND
(Coe Hill)

Mrs. Mae Holland, wife of Mr. Harry Holland, Coe Hill, died in the Belleville General Hospital, Friday evening, March 1st, after a lengthy illness.

The late Mrs. Holland, who was in her 44th. year, was born at Colborne and was a daughter of Mr. Will Smith and the late Mrs. Smith. For the past twenty years she made her home at Coe Hill.

Surviving her are her husband; her father; five daughters, Alice of Toronto; Mary, Marjorie, Bernice and Betty, all at home, and one son George, at home.

Theatrical Agency Keeps Girl On Run

New York, March 2 —(CP)— Are you in a welter of worry, trying to steer your family through post-war problems?

Then listen to the story of Jean Rose, who runs her own theatrical agency in New York and tries to steer several dozen people through the complications of show business. Her job is to match engagements for nightclub radio performers with cafe managers' needs, and—if possible —to remain sane in the process.

Here is a typical day: Jean, having worked until four the morning before, walks into her midtown office at one p.m. and all seven telephones begin to ring:

Somebody got the wrong billing . . . Somebody else's portable organ is lost in a freight yard somewhere . . . A third somebody's name has been misspelled in lights . . . A sister act due to open in New York tomorrow can't get hotel accommodations . . . A stage hand won't move a piano (necessary business in a singer's act) . . . A cafe manager needs a snappy, showy act for a Broadway commercial room . . . It's Jean's job to fix it all up.

At seven o'clock four nights a week, she turns her back on the telephone and heads towards Broadway, to visit clubs where her clients are working, check up on their performances, fix up anything that may be wrong and confer with managers about other acts. If she is lucky she gets home by five.

Knotty Problem

"The hardest problem in the whole business is the cafe owner who thinks he knows everything about choosing a show. When it comes to food, service and lease he knows what he is doing. But when it comes to selecting the right show, he's a layman. Generally he wants to choose something that pleases himself — or his niece Nellie — instead of considering his customers."

Among the performers Miss Rose says she handles today is "Whispering Jack Smith," Bernie George, radio comedian, and Greta Keller, Eileen Dineen and Muriel Gaines, singers.

Jean Rose grew up in show business, where her parents were vaudeville performers. She studied music, sang and danced in the Paramount Publix Theatres and later directed a girl orchestra. In 1943 she went to work in the Special Attractions Agency, and last year bought it herself.

Her ambition is to produce package radio shows — a broadcasting practice in which one person dreams up a radio program idea, hires writers and performers, whips the whole thing into production and then sells the program as a "package" to an advertising agency or station.

Prisoner Seen Near Hanging Body Says Witness

Medicine Hat, Alta., March 2— (CP)—A six-man Alberta Supreme Court jury today had before it evidence a German prisoner of war on trial for the prison-camp murder of a comrade had been seen standing with bloody hands near the scaffold from which his fellow-prisoner had been hanged.

The testimony was given yesterday by a youthful barber who served with a Nazi medical corps in North Africa. At the request of Chief Justice W. R. Howson he and other witnesses who had not given evidence at the preliminary hearing last November remained unidentified to minimize the possibility of reprisals when they return to Germany.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel L. S. Turcotte of Lethbridge, Alta., he said he identified Sgt. Werner Schwalb, 30, the accused, as the man he had seen standing near the body of Pte. August Plaszek, 42, after Royal Canadian Mounted Police had shown him photographs of various men.

Plaszek, one-time soldier in the French Foreign Legion and, like many of the 6,000 prisoners in Medicine Hat prisoner of war camp, a member of Rommel's Afrika Korps, was hanged by a mob in a camp recreation hall July 22, 1943.

Told of Events

The barber and a seaman, also unnamed, told of events the day Plaszek was hanged and after Pte. Christian Schultz, one of 4 men the Nazi camp leaders wanted to interrogate as a result of rumors of a plot to overthrow their leadership, fled across the warning wire to the protection of Canadian guards.

A crowd of prisoners outside the building where the interrogation was taking place were shouting "Throw him out. Throw him out." A sergeant came to the entrance and threw a piece of rope into the crowd.

Struck Over Head

Then a German staff sergeant-major emerged, held up his hand for silence, and said, "People, be quiet. Otherwise the Canadians will come and take this man away." When the mob continued to shout he promised to have the man turned over to them.

A Nazi corporal struck the man over the head with a bolt as he was ejected. Then the crowd seized him and dragged him into the recreation hall. The seaman said he could hear cries for help after the doors closed.

The barber testified he entered the hall about five or 10 minutes later and saw Schwalb standing "approximately in the middle of the hall with blood on his hands." Plaszek's body was hanging from the cross-section of a wooden stanchion.

WAR BRIDES ARRIVE

New York, March 2 (AP)—The British liner Queen Mary slid into her berth yesterday with 1,667 war brides and 385 children aboard and 650 husbands cheering from the pier. There were 2,416 passengers, including 160 civilians and four British and French military officers. The group included Sen. Tom Connally (Dem.-Tex.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee and a delegate to the U.N.O. meeting in London.

Red Cross Society Opens Drive For New Members

Every citizen of Belleville a Red Cross member is the objective of the drive for membership in the Red Cross which officially opens here on Monday and continues through the week.

In order to carry out the peacetime program which the society has undertaken, the need for members is greater today than ever, a prominent Red Cross official stated here today.

"Red Cross approaches its peacetime work in the same spirit as it has carried on its great war undertakings," he said.

"Sick and disabled veterans paying a heavy price in suffering need the continued help and friendship of the Red Cross. More isolated communities need outpost hospitals. An army of Junior Red Cross children needs guidance. Crippled Children's Hospitals need to be maintained. Sick people need the transfusion services. Instructions are needed in home nursing, first aid, nutrition and water safety. By joining the Red Cross in 1946, Belleville citizens can share actively in this program," he said.

"Support of the Red Cross membership drive also means support of the International Red Cross," he pointed out. "Support of the Belleville branch will keep it strong and in turn keep Red Cross all over the world in a practical position to accord help at any time. Membership in the Red Cross means active support of the principles laid down in the Red Cross charter which reads, 'For the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world in peace or war'."

Application forms for membership are already in the mails, it was stated, but those desirous of joining and who do not receive an application form may send their membership fees (minimum $1) to Box 29, or to membership headquarters, 25 Campbell Street.

SIX BAD GUESSES

tentative agreement, but Hitler threw this deal overboard. In the end the French fleet scuttled itself.

4. Hitler dallied with a plan for the occupation of Spain and the closing of the western Mediterranean at Gibraltar. He informed the German army the time was ripe for action, but first he would have to negotiate with Franco. Then he did nothing more.

5. Seeing the spectre of invasion virtually everywhere, he decided to dismantle guns from idle German warships and convert them to shore batteries. He counted this defence factor as of greater value than the offensive power of these ships if sent out as raiders.

6. He upset his submarine builders by commanding them to divide their efforts so as not only to construct urgently needed replacements for Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz's wolf packs, but to experiment with "U-boat transports." He explained he was considering the advisability of taking Iceland for a German air base. He said U-boat transports would be feasible for carrying a German invasion force on such a mission and could be used as commercial blockade runners with essential cargoes.

AWARDED V. C.

London, March 2 (Reuters) — Sqdn. Ldr. Leonard Henry Trent of the Royal New Zealand Air Force, who led a daylight bombing raid on a heavily-defended Amsterdam target in 1943 in which all 10 attacking aircraft were lost, has been awarded the Victoria Cross, it was announced last night. He was a prisoner-of-war. It was the 174th award during the war of the Empire's highest decoration for gallantry and the eighth to a New Zealander. Fourteen of the awards have come to Canadians.

IN MEMORIAM

LATTA — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Anne Latta, who passed away March 2, 1943.

Her thoughts were all so full of us
She never could forget,
And so we think that where she is
She must be watching yet.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please God, just let her know
That we down here do not forget,
We love and miss her so.
—Ever remembered by her Sons and Daughters.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Henry Grass wishes to express his thanks for the kindness, expressions of sympathy and floral offerings extended by relatives and friends in his recent bereavement, with special thanks to bearers; Mr. J. V. White and to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family for all their kindness.

LT.-COL. TEDMAN,

Pleads Innocent

Col. Tedman went on trial yesterday, pleading innocent to charges of theft of an automobile, improperly attempting to export the automobile, and improperly certifying that two other cars were the personal property of two other officers.

Col. Tedman was chairman of the amenities committee, an agency set up to provide for entertainment of Canadian servicemen on the continent.

Two other of its officers, Capt. Stanley Landell and Capt. D. W. Thomson, both of Toronto, were tried by the court previously.

Thomson was convicted Thursday on two charges of automobile theft, one of theft of 17 Persian rugs, one of obtaining 100 wrist watches with intent to defraud, and one of trafficking in liquor. Four other charges against him, alleging improper disposition of automobiles, theft of watches and use of Canadian army transport in liquor-running, were dismissed.

Convicted Earlier

Landell was convicted earlier on four of seven charges, involving theft of two cars theft of 25 paintings and trafficking in liquor. He was acquitted on three other counts.

The convictions of Thomson and Landell are subject to confirmation by higher authority. Sentence in each case will be promulgated.

The prosecution case against Col. Tedman was completed yesterday with evidence concerning clearance through customs at Rotterdam of an automobile shipped to New York and concerning alleged improper issuance of cars from Eclipse Dumps, the name given to former German supply dumps in Holland.

Col. Tedman declined to testify in his own behalf.

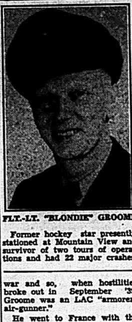
Flt. Lt. Groome Survives 22 Major Crashes And Two Tours of Operations in War

Ardent Hockey Fan and Played Game in England and Germany Before Enlistment



FLT.-LT. "BLONDIE" GROOME

Former hockey star presently stationed at Mountain View and survivor of two tours of operations and had 22 major crashes.

'Tis an old saying that a cat has nine lives. If so, the proverbial Tabby has nothing on Flight Lieutenant Ralph "Blondie" Groome, presently station at R. C. A. F. Station, Mountain View.

In his service career which dates back to June 1st, 1937, when he joined the Royal Air Force, Blondie has had twenty-two major crashes which were complete "write-offs," that is, the aircraft and all its equipment was completely ruined. Five of these crashes were during "ops" and the other seventeen while Groome was attached to experimental squadrons in the United Kingdom.

Born In England

Ralph was born in Birmingham, England in December 1910, but came to Canada with his parents when he was but two years old to take up residence in St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, where he received his education at MacDonald College.

Always an ardent hockey enthusiast, Blondie patrolled the left wing boards for St. Anne de Bellevue for about ten years in the old Quebec Lakeshore League where his efforts met with marked success.

In 1935, Groome journeyed to the old country along with Don Willson, currently starring for Toronto "Staffords", Johnny Acheson, Bill Jennings of St. Louis 'Fliers' and several other Canadian puckchasers to take part in the hockey boom that was sweeping England and western Europe. Blondie teamed up with Earlscourt "Corinthians" and played in England, Scotland and throughout western Europe, winning the Empire Stadium trophy in the season of '35-'36.

Broke Wrist Before Series

In 1936, Blondie was selected to play for the team that was representing England at the Olympic Games. Unfortunately, Groome broke his wrist in the second game and was forced to the sidelines to watch his team trim the famed Canadian Kimberley "Dynamiters" for the championship of the world.

The following season, Groome went to Germany as playing-coach of the Nuernberg team. Most of the games in the German loop were played on "open air" rinks as only Berlin boasted a closed arena.

These games were marked with much ceremony as Hitler, who was at his peak at the time, was an ardent hockey fan. At the beginning of each encounter, the team would line up at the blue line and give the popular Nazi salute and "Heil Hitler."

The Germans treated their imported hockey players royally. When Groome suffered a broken ankle, he was treated by der Feuhrer's own medical specialist. It was quite a common occurrence for members of the team to go driving with the former Crown Prince Wilhelm. Little did they think that Blondie would be flying over Germany in the short space of two and a half years, as a member of the mightiest air force ever assembled.

Ralph enlisted in the Royal Air Force in June '37 as an armorer. He also took an air gunnery course in England before the war and so, when hostilities broke out in September '39, Groome was an LAC "armorer-air-gunner."

He went to France with the squadron on September 10th, '39, and went right on "ops" as a tail gunner in Whitley aircraft. The wireless operator-air gunner in the crew was one Maurice W. Briggs, an LAC. In the spring of 1945, the same Briggs toured Canada in the famed Mosquito 'F' for Freddie" on behalf of the 8th Victory Loan and was killed instantly when he crashed at Calgary. Briggs wore the D.S.O., D.F.C. and D.F.M. and was one of the most decorated skippers of the Second Great War.

Conducted Leaflet Raids

Their first "trips" were "nickel" or leaflet raids over France, Germany and Czecho Slovakia. They started their bombing with the same Whitleys which were rated as heavy bombers at the time. The largest bomb was a 500-pounder and guns were of the old Lewis and Vickers (gas-operated) type.

Bombing raids were conducted over Germany, Italy, Norway and France. Groome was promoted to the rank of corporal towards the end of September and got his third "hook" almost immediately afterwards.

Just before Dunkerque, the squadron moved back to England and from there to the Jersey Islands from where they bombed Norway.

As Blondie puts it "it was pretty tough then but actually we didn't know anything about the war. Compared to aerial warfare as it was later on, it was child's play."

Served as Instructor

When Blondie or "Goof" as he is known by his intimates, finished his first tour, he was sent back to England where he served as an instructor for three months before going back to do his second tour which he completed in December '41.

From "ops", he went to Northern Ireland, where he was engaged in research work on "Army Co-operation" tactics, practising dropping supplies etc. to the Army from Lysander aircraft. Local residents will recognize the "Lizzie" as the yellow and black aircraft that was used for "drogue-towing" at nearby Mountain View.

Groome returned to Canada in April '42 as a flight sergeant and served as an instructor at the R.A.F. operational training unit at Greenwood, N.S. While at Greenwood, Blondie took time out from his duties to play hockey and softball for the station teams which fared quite well down 'round Halifax way.

"Goof" finally donned the "flat hat" in April '43 but went back to England early the following year where he was attached to the Royal Navy as a "technical testing armament officer" doing research work on the famed torpedo-bombers.

Transferred to R.C.A.F.

With the rank of flying officer, Blondie transferred to the R.C.A.F. in November '44 and returned to Canada in February of '45 where he served as armament officer at St. Huberts, P. Q. from where he was posted to Mountain View for a "refresher" course last November.

Groome has 74 operational trips in Whitleys and Bostons and has about thirteen hundred hours of flying time logged.

As to the future, "who knows?" Blondie realizes that his days as an active hockey player are numbered altho' he might do a bit of coaching. As he puts it, "It's up to the service."

Belleville and district hockey fans will remember Blondie as the starry left winger for Mt. View "Bombers" this season in the local Intermediate "B" race. Altho' he has probably slowed down quite a bit compared to when he was dashing up and down the ice lanes of London, Berlin and all the larger cities in western Europe, Blondie still gave the younger set a few lessons in the finer art of stick-handling and was always right in the thick of the fray. Little did the fans realize that they were watching a man with such an extensive war and hockey record cavort on the Hume Arena ice surface. If they could glance through his scrap books, they would realize, that here is a man with a world of experience both in hockey and the air force.

Will Say Little

"Goof" will say little about his crashes except to tell you that he has had twenty-two in which the aircraft were completely demolished, five on operational "do's" and seventeen on experimental work, but not to mention several minor "prangs."

Before going overseas, "Goof" was employed in the advertising department of the Northern Electric Company in Montreal.

When it was remarked that he was pretty lucky to be alive, Blondie replied, grinning, "You're not just whistling through your teeth."

Chicago, March 1. (AP)—Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cell, John A. Jakubec, 30, recited poetically before Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson yesterday.

Jakubec, a bus driver, was lavish in his praise of the Cook County jail, where he had been confined since yesterday.

"The cook there is something out of this world," he told Judge Robson. "The peace and quiet rival a penthouse. My cellmates are fine fellows. Gosh, but a jail is a great place!"

Judge Robson, considering Jakubec's case of being $100 in arrears in alimony payments, indicated he might free him.

"You couldn't do that," he protested. "I have bus driver's kidney. I need a rest."

The court finally conceded he had no alternative and sentenced Jakubec to jail for six months.

GEN. 'IKE' ATTENDS WITH SCOUT NEPHEW

San Antonio, Tex., March 1 — (AP) — A major, addressing an anniversary celebration of a Boy Scout troop here Wednesday, spotted a distinctive uniform in the back row. He stopped, gave a brisk salute, and from then on the meeting was turned over to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The general had been invited by his 13-year-old nephew, Richard Gill, a troop member.

Higher Wage for Late Sittings

Weston, March 1 — (CP)—The 14 members of the Young Women's Christian Association baby sitting club have found it necessary to draw up a new wage scale to meet the problem of unusually late "sittings." Old rates — 50 cents up to 11 p. m. and 25 cents an hour thereafter. New rates — 20 cents on hour until 11 p.m. and 25 cents an hour after that time.

GROOM BREAKS ARM GOING TO HIS OWN WEDDING

Brantford, March . —(CP)— John R. Wilson of Toronto broke his arm while going to his wedding. A hasty X-ray and the arm strapped, true love won over accidental design when he arrived at the church to go through the ceremony. The doctor said no cast was necessary.

Federal Income Tax Collection To Show Decrease

Ottawa, March 2 (CP)—Diminishing employment, resulting from the industrial change-over from war to peacetime production, and lower tax rates have produced a sizeable reduction in federal income tax collections, government sources said.

Latest collection figures, covering the three-month period ended Dec. 31, showed the declining process already was gaining headway, even though they did not register the full effect of the flat 16-per-cent reduction in income tax rates, which was announced in the last budget but did not become effective generally until Jan. 1.

The three-month totals indicated a decline in collections of $14,-323,445 to $326,201,415 from the $340,524,960 collected in the corresponding period of the previous year. For the nine-month period of the current fiscal year collections dropped $62,871,789 to $1,-120,133,453 from $1,183,005,242.

Actually, however, the decline began before that. During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1945, the combined collections of personal and corporation income tax and succession duties totalled $1-555,814,222, a drop of some $80,-000,000 from the all-time peak of $1,635,494, 706.

Officials said the prime influence contributing to the decline was the elimination in July, 1944, of the refundable portion of the personal income tax, which had the effect of reducing the individual rate.

The wartime increase in tax collections was the greatest in the Dominion's history. Back in the 1935-36 fiscal year the grand total of collections for individuals and corporations came to a mere $82,-709,803, expanding to $142,026,138 in 1938-39, and reached the all-time high of $1,635,494,706 in 1943-44.

Spinster Leaves Legacy to Dogs

The money has been placed in trust with the King Edward VII Dog Home where the animals are enjoying unrivaled canine luxury. The terms of the will not only specify how the dogs are to be treated but also stipulate their diet and meal hours.

They get a build-up of egg flip and malt for breakfast at nine a.m. sharp. A comb and a rub-down with special ointments is scheduled at 11:30 a.m. and the terriers have a medical overhaul once a week. Their diet includes glucose, cod-liver oil, meat, rabbit, biscuits, green vegetables — and fish on Fridays.

Stork Branded As German Spy

Johannesburg, South Africa, —(CP)—A chieftainess, Mogjadje, known throughout the Transvaal as the Rain Queen, recently sent a messenger to the office of the native commissioner in Duiselskloof, carrying a white stork in a dying condition. On one leg it carried a ring, with the words "Inform Vogelwarte Rossitten, Germania No. B. 70573."

The officials decided that the stork must have been ringed at the bird-watching station of Rossitten, on the Baltic Sea, operated by the German government. It was a fine specimen, which had come down in an exhausted condition in Mogjadje's location, but when the natives found it there they carried it to the chieftainess, who said that it was a "German spy." She ordered it to be sent at once to the native commissioner.

WOULD TAKE OVER RIVER AVON

Evesham, Worcestershire, England, March 1 —(Reuters)— The river Avon, on which Shakespeare's birthplace Stratford is situated, should be taken over by the government or Evesham town council to prevent it from becoming derelict, members of the council recommended at their meeting last night.

A Mound Builders' City Of 1'000 Years Ago

And, it is explained further in current advertisements to expedite the sale, the reason the owner and developer wishes to sell is because of ill health.

The city includes, he continues "a museum (seven different display buildings), where there are over a million carefully arranged finds of this city of a forgotten people, their tombs, dwellings, implements and treasures that have been undisturbed for centuries, also very fine collections of minerals and fossils.

"Excavations still in progress, 40 prehistoric mounds. No debts or obligations outstanding. Ideal investment for individual. Will consider annuity from college, educational institution or society," the advertisement concludes.

• • •

Fourteen years ago Colonel King, a Paducah, Ky., lumberman whose interest in archeology previously had drawn him to widespread excavation in American of the phenomena described as Indian mounds, came to Wickliffe, a town of 1,000 population near Cairo, Ill. Without tests he bought the factory site that stood on the bluff overlooking the two rivers, where he had detected nine mounds.

Equipped with the digging tools of the archeologist, including camels' hair brushes and orange-wood sticks, he had removed less than a foot of earth from the first mound when he realized the twenty-six acres he had bought contained protuberances unlike any in the world. He found not only skeletons — although there later proved to be more than 1,000 of them—but evidence that he had come upon a prehistoric American city which, with an estimated population of 4,000 to 6,000 was huge for its day.

After this beginning, Colonel King virtually suspended activities in the businesses in which he holds directorships, and devoted himself to the delicate task of digging up the mounds. He was aided by his wife, Mrs. Blanche Musey King, an ethnologist, and by other archeologists.

From all parts of the country archeologists, as well as tourists, came to look upon the dead city and to examine the evidence of its age and the culture that flourished hundreds — and perhaps more—years before the continent was discovered by Europeans.

While only five of the known total of forty mounds have been explored, and the relics for the most part left as they were found, nearly 1,000,000 artifacts have been uncovered. Among the objects uncovered are remains of buildings, and building outlines; a 100-pound granite turtle skillfully carved; hundreds of stone and clay tobacco pipes, including one sculptured in polished stone that Colonel King describes as the "world's finest."

There are also gracefully fashioned clay figures, which clearly reveal the coiffures of the day; hairpins of bone and shell; and tiny figurines of fluorspar. The mounds include an adult's burial mound, home sites mound, court-house mound, temple mound and a lookout or signal mound where layer on layer of ashes have been uncovered, indicating the residents communicated with other groups in the river valley. Each mound is inclosed by a three-sided, roofed wooden structure built to protect them.

"Today," Colonel Fain wrote not long ago, "the ancient buried city is the only mound site yet to be found which has yielded evidence complete enough to establish it as a community centre somewhat on the plan of our town, where family life, religion and commerce once flourished under some kind of civic order and authority.

"Here we are gradually piecing together the first social story of the mound builder and getting our first intimate glimpses into the fabric of his daily life."

Assured of Warm Welcome

Announcement was made Friday by Premier Drew that the Right Honorable Winston Churchill will later in the year come to Canada from the southern United States where he is resting to visit the new Governor-General Viscount Alexander and then come to the capital of Ontario, and receive a degree from the University of Toronto.

Canadians will be delighted to have as their guest the renowned chieftain who was the leader of the British Empire in the war against the Nazis and whose influence was felt across the whole freedom-loving world which looked for leadership and inspiration in crushing the evil of Nazism. The great wartime leader's inspiration in deed and in oration was of untold importance in maintaining the Allied morale and the steadiness of the United Nations' effort. Canada as a part of the Empire will always take great pride in that he was the leader of Britons everywhere in the days of conflict now ended. His towering greatness is made up of many qualifications and gifts, so nicely balanced that he could stand before the world and win the name of being one of the world's great.

Canada a little later in the year will have the great privilege of welcoming the great warrior, whose service places him high among war heroes, Viscount Alexander, who is Governor-General Designate for Canada, succeeding the Earl of Athlone. According to Premier Drew's statement, Mr. Churchill will visit Canada's incoming Governor-General.

The former British Prime Minister, who was at Quebec during the war and visited Ottawa, will be pleased to have another opportunity to be in the Dominion.

Canadians will look forward to the coming of their new representative from His Majesty and of Mr. Churchill. Both these men played noble roles in the struggle and to do them honor adds lustre and fame to the Dominion.

General Crerar Retires

General H. D. Crerar, who led an army of half a million men in those victorious months of the war to smash the Siegfried Line, has retired. He had the honor of commanding the First Canadian Army and a large part of the British 2nd Army and saw many of the greatest battles on the Western Front such as those of the Reichswald and Hochwald forests.

Since his return to Canada he has devoted time to visiting the various parts of Canada meeting troops with whom he served.

General Crerar has proven that soldiers and members of the other services and officers and military leaders of democratic peoples were a match for and more than a match in military genius for the totalitarian military chiefs of the enemy who loved to make war for war's sake. General Crerar, like other Allied military leaders, fought for the preservation of freedom, the loftiest ideal which a soldier can hold and has been of invaluable importance in the morale of the armies of freedom.

General Crerar's name will be recorded in history for his faithful inspired leadership. His brilliant command will long be recalled and will be given a place of prominence in Canadian annals.

This Month of March

Now that it is known what the month of March brought the only unknown is what the rest of the month and especially the close will be. Most people were looking a few days ago rather for a wild advent of the spring month on account of the mild and fair but inauspicious coming of March last year.

Prophets of weather were heard not long ago stating that the winter would be severe in its latter stages and possibly the seers' forebodings may prove true.

There are events that are however assured whatever the weather may serve. This is the month that brings St. Patrick's Day, March 17th., which may almost be taken as the first of the spring days, for spring actually arrives only four days later.

In the days of gravel roads it used to be a matter of looking forward to see if the snow would be gone and dust be flying on the streets. If dust was blowing that day it meant spring was come.

March brings very near the season of maple syrup and sugar, a crop which Canadians have been watching and consuming with a great deal of gusto during the past few years since sugar has been under the ration system.

In villages, towns and cities situated along streams and rivers March is sure to bring the break-up, sometimes with flooding of business thoroughfares and shop basements and sometimes houses. Hopes are held that because of the thaws which have occurred during this winter and as no very large amount of snow is on the land in the southern parts to cause any fear of a sudden freshet the winter break-up will come without any unusual or untoward condition developing.

Indian Winter

Science, which can laugh at space, crack the atom and chart the birth rate, is still demoniacally laughed at by the weather. And by people like Indian Mike.

Sun spots and radar notwithstanding, when it comes to long range forecasts our expert get the lowest possible marks, and it is for no small reason that they have for decades had to duck the brickbats and scorn of picnickers, baseball fans and people who detest snow.

Yet not long ago, for those with short memories, Indian Mike, somewhere around Lake Erie, adjudged by looking at a beaver and noting the mood of a rabbit and the curve of a gull, that we would catch a fearful gust of winter late in February, and possibly in March. Although his prophecy had tolerable decent publicity, it was no more than that which would be allowed, say, to Dr. R. E. DeLury, Canada's No. 1 solar specialist.

The fact is that we know by experience that people like Indian Mike are invariably right (like old sea captains who make idiots of the professionals by looking at a clear blue sky and forecasting a terrible three-day storm which always comes about) and when they say there is snow coming you can taste it. And you do taste it later on.

Salmon Are Safe

Governor Wallgren, of Washington, who has been worried for fear the navy's atomic bomb tests in the South Pacific would destroy the Pacific coast's $60,000,000 salmon run, has been reassured by the Interior Department's fish and wildlife service.

Its biologists have examined Bukini atoll, the test site, and concluded that commercial salmon, tuna or whale will not be affected, although the local fish will be knocked for a loop.

Nobody knows where the salmon go when they leave the Pacific coast, but it's pretty certain they don't head for the warm waters of the Central Pacific.

Courtesy is Coming Back

Courtesy is catching on. Have you noticed? It is the returning soldier, teaching cheerfulness and civility to those who stayed at home and are jaded and fretted. You will find fishmongers apologetic for their lack of variety and willing to fillet the fish! There are taximen with war ribbons up giving service with a smile, before the tip. And the returned busman — what a nice fellow he is! These cheerful, friendly blokes back from the wars are setting a new standard of manners to the community.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

At a meeting of the city council a largely signed petition was presented to the council suggesting that the old circus grounds in the north east part of the city be purchased for the sum of $1800.00 and made a public park and recreation centre. The matter was referred to the executive committee for consideration. A request from the Belleville Poultry Association for a grant of $400.00 was also referred to the executive committee. Heretofore the association received a grant of $150.00.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cooley have returned to the city after visiting their son Prof. R. B. Cooley of Purdue University La Fayette, Indiana.

Several cars of Alberta coal arrived here last evening and the dealers were busy this morning making deliveries. The selling price is $14.00 per ton. If the coal takes well with the public, the dealers will order larger quantities.

Mr. Herbert A. Fish went to Toronto today.

MARCH 2ND., 1916.

Last night at the arena the Aura Lee team of Toronto defeated the local boys in a fast and exciting hockey match; the final score was 11 to 8. A return match will be played in Toronto soon and here is hoping they bring home the bacon. The following composed the teams: Belleville, Nurse, Lynn, G. Arnott, Whalen, L. Arnott, Armstrong, Green. Toronto, Wilkinson, Sheldon, Green, Wright, Gouinlock, Rennie, Little. Referee, Hewitson.

Mr. E. H. Tickell is in Toronto on business.

Miss Victoria Stares of Hamilton is the guest of Mrs. R. M. Watson, Turnbull Street.

Wild ducks in large flocks are flying north. This is said to indicate an early spring.

The vital statistics of the city for the month of February are: Births 22, marriages 8 and deaths 28.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 2ND. 1906.

Mr. Walter Newton, who has been residing in Toronto for some time, has returned to this city to reside.

Mr. W. B. Deacon has left on a business trip to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Way of Tweed are visiting friends in the city.

Mr. George L. Moore formerly of the Intelligencer composing room staff, has returned home after spending some time at Battle Creek, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Cryderman of Warkworth, are the guests of Mrs. J. D. Monaghan, Cedar Street.

MARCH 2ND., 1896.

Mr. Phil Hart has had the misfortune to lose his fine and young St. Bernard dog, "Canadian Alton," by death from pneumonia. This exceptional dog was imported recently from York England, and Mr. Hart states that it was the largest St. Bernard dog of its age ever seen on this continent.

Ald. W. A. Hungerford left today on a business trip to Quebec City.

A number of boys appeared in police court this morning charged with snow balling. The magistrate gave them a lecture and allowed them to go.

Mr. W. Jeffers went to Toronto today on legal business.

Mr. Frank Dolan has returned to the city from Brockville.

(It's Coming: The Hospital Village)

(Condensed from "The Lancet" London, Eng.)

When Tommy Atkins next goes to hospital, it will be a holiday.

Under plans now being developed by the medical faculty of the General Infirmary at Leeds, England, the hospital is moving to the country, to become a new type of institute: the hospital village.

As the centre of health village, the new hospital will have 500 beds. It will care for all the usual types of cases: general medicine, surgery, and so on. A further 350 patients, in need of medical care but not confined to bed, will live in hostels, or village hotels.

One advantage of the new health village over ordinary hospitals and convalescent homes is that it offers ample workshop and recreational facilities.

Workshops, set in park-like surroundings, will be open to convalescent patients, who will train themselves back to health while working at the bench, lathe, jig saw, loom, or pottery wheel. Those who are disabled will be taught how to regain use of their bodies by clever specialists in occupational therapy.

But the workshops will do more than erase boredom and restore health. Where advisable, patients will be taught trades, so that on leaving the village they will be able to earn a living in a congenial line of work.

Part of the health village is to be reserved for handicapped children of the district who will be taught in the hospital wards and who, if able to get up, will attend the village school.

The school is to be large enough to cater to children with physical and heart disabilities who are not able to attend ordinary schools near their homes. Another 200 children with partial sight will do their lessons in a separate part of the school, but will join the other children for play.

The health village will contain a theatre, for movies and for plays and concerts presented by the patients themselves. For those who prefer the outdoors, there will be pleasant walks in the countryside, or work on the surrounding farm and market garden.

The planners expect that the new health village will end the main objection that patients have too long-term hospital care. That objection is the feeling of isolation from normal living. Instead they will live in a vacationland village with a background of veryday life.

CIRCULATION INCREASES

New York March 2 (AP)—Total morning and evening newspaper circulation in the United States increased by almost 2,500,000 over 1944 to a record 48,384,188 in 1945, editor and publisher said yesterday. "This rise of 5.3 per cent over the previous year is not only the largest numerical increase but the largest percentage gain in total newspaper circulations of any year since the E. and P. statistics were first gathered in 1920," the Trade Magazine said.

FAST TRAIN DERAILED

Plattsburgh, N.Y., March 2 (AP)—The Laurentian, Delaware and Hudson Railroad Limited northbound from New York for Montreal, was derailed at Cooperville, about 20 miles north of here last night. One passenger was taken to hospital and several others were treated at the scene. The engine and all seven cars of the crack train left the track but none overturned.

The Human Race

(Family Herald and Weekly Star)

If the human race destroys itself or its civilization in the coming generations, there will be only one reason,—it was too dumb to live!

That is not humorous. It is deadly serious. Mankind developed to its present condition,—master of the living world, because it developed the best brain in the world. Man became the cleverest animal, and so he rules.

But what if he is not clever enough? Some of the gigantic beasts of pre-historic times developed to greater and greater size, as a means of protection and survival. Their size helped,—for a time. Then they grew so big that the disadvantages of hugeness began to offset the advantages. They became, either just a bit too big; or perhaps, not quite big enough. Then they died out.

Is mankind following the same road? Are we too clever? Are we not clever enough? Have we reached an unbridged chasm in the road of progress? Are we at a stage where we have developed minds capable of scientific world destruction, but not quite wise enough to control that cleverness?

If so, if there is ever a small degree of truth in this picture, it is clear that our only chance is to bridge that gap. As we cannot go back, we must go forward. To cross that gap we must have a period of peace, a period when we may try new methods, drill our minds into new channels of thought, make experiments and try and digest better our past experience.

For it would almost seem as if the inability to learn by experience were the deepest chasm we have to cross in reaching a safe degree of mass human wisdom.

Capital Closeups

By JACK BRAYLEY

Ottawa, March 2. (CP)—With Works Department Engineers busy checking tests of public address system installations, Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, forthright clerk of the Commons, has come out flatly for another chance for the Big Green Chamber's acoustics. Decision will have to be made before Parliament reassembles March 14.

It is an old argument with members maintaining they can't hear mumbling ministers and members of the press gallery saying they can't clearly hear anything.

The other day Dr. Beauchesne took a reporter into the big empty chamber to prove the logic of his argument. He placed the reporter at one corner of the House and walked to the furtherest corner. From there he launched a conversation, almost in a whisper, with the reporter. And the reporter had to admit that every word spoken carried clearly to his end of the House.

He said acoustics of the House actually were so good they picked up the chitter-chatter that went on among the members and in the public galleries.

Returning back benchers will find another innovation in House facilities this year. Fluorescent lighting has been installed unobtrustively under the galleries providing better light for the dark fringe of the House.

Flags for all: one of the busiest staffs on pre-sessional business is the Flag committee clerical unit. With more than 1,500 flag designs they are busy each day carefully classifying and cataloguing them for the convenience of committee members when they resume sittings this Spring.

It is a weird and wonderful collection, with one man submitting 40 designs most of which were done in bright greens, yellows and reds.

The great majority of the designs contain the Union Jack, the Maple Leaf and the Fleur de Lis. Many come from distinguished Canadian artists and designers but hundreds come from the interested man in the street. Among these latter designs are offerings that embody all the natural resources of the country, human figures, and nearly every color.

German Prize Ship Burns in Harbor At Liverpool

Liverpool, March 2 —(CP)— The German prize ship, Empire Waveney, fifth vessel to catch fire in Liverpool harbor in 36 hours, heeled over against a quay side today, abandoned to flames which police hinted might have been the work of saboteurs.

Police Inspector F. Burke said there was no proof sabotage was involved, but added:

"When we have three or four fires together, naturally the investigation will go a bit deeper than usual."

The 17,654-ton vessel — formerly the luxury liner Milwaukee —caught fire early last night and continued to burn today, the flames in her hold fed by exploding fuel tanks. Firemen, who abandoned the fight against the blaze at about midnight, said she would burn for another two days.

Doctor Operates While Fire Fought on Upper Floor

Stratford, March 1 — (CP) — While firemen battled a third floor fire at general hospital last night, Dr. David Smith performed an appendectomy in the operating room without interruption. The fire, confined to an attic above the hospital kitchen, was soon under control and sole casualty was fireman David Gibbard who remained in hospital for treatment for facial burns.

THE TIRED COLLEGE GIRL

Her ailment was a chronic fatigue which seemed impossible to overcome, her mother said. The 16 year old girl had been under the doctor's care for more than a year. The doctor's treatment had overcome her anemia, but the girl still seemed always tired. She had been ready for college months ago but unable to go. A metabolism test indicated that her thyroid function was normal. So mother wrote Ol' Doc Brady for instructions for taking an iodin ration, began giving the girl her daily iodin ration and later reported that the result had been "simply wonderful". Let mother tell it herself:

"The Doctor told me to continue it since it benefited her so much. She is starting in Junior College next week and is very happy, as I am also and most grateful...She was so tired she couldn't enjoy life as other young people do, and now she's bubbling over most of the time."

When I published this several years ago it aroused a hypothetical Washington doctor to action —he wrote a long detailed inquiry about Dr. Brady's "iodine ration" to the omniscient editor of the Jour. American Medical Association who printed with an extraordinarily verbose reply — even for the Voluble One. The editor feared my advice was "dangerous", and expressed the opinion that the "tired college girl" might "be on the verge of neurasthenia" and of course Dr. Brady's advice would be harmful in that case as it might delay instituting proper treatment!

As though the editor could tell us what "the verge of neurasthenia" means, or what would be "proper treatment" for whatever he thinks "neurasthenia" is.

I mention iodine deficiency as one of the fairly common conditions which are likely to be wrongly diagnosed as "neurasthenia." I do not advise any one to take iodine or iodide in any dose for any ailment. I do believe most people in North America get insufficient iodin in water and food and that a suitable daily or weekly ration of iodine or iodide should be taken by them to supplement their deficient diet. Possibly some people can get sufficient iodine by simply using Iodized Salt for all household purposes instead of plain salt, although there is so little iodine in Iodized Salt that although we have used it exclusively in my own home for many years. I like to take my regular iodin ration (my spelling to indicate that it is nutritional, not medicinal iodine) every day or two or three times a week to make sure. Don't guess about it —if you are interested in the subject of iodine deficiency as I prefer not to depend on it — an explanation of so-called "neurasthenia" send a stamped self addressed envelope and ask for Instructions for Taking an Iodin Ration.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Opened Can

Discussion of poisoning from drinking tomato juice that has stood in opened can all night.

(Mrs. C. J.)

Answer—Canned food of any kind keeps as well and remains as wholesome in the opened can as it would in any other receptacle. Fruit juice and tomato juice fresh or canned, loses some of its vitamin C value if it stands over night—better to drink it immediately.

Pledge

Numerous members and officers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union have kindly sent copies of the pledge which applicants for membership in this fine organization take:

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malted liquors, including wine, beer and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of, and traffic in them.

Name

I can't remember now just how the pledge was worded when we kids took it—mother was an enthusiastic member of the W. C. T. U.—but I say God Bless the W. C. T. U. and I earnestly advise all good parents to ask their children to take this or a similar pledge in early childhood and to renew it each year, say on some anniversary occasion, until they are twenty-one.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did "feather in the cap" originate?

"Feather in the cap" has two opposite meanings. It may signify a mere trifle or a worth-while achievement.

"That feather in their caps" occurs in Peter A. Motteaux's English translation of Cerventes's "Don Quixote" (1718), and in Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" Biondello, describing the outlandish costume worn by Petruchio at his wedding, says he had "an old hat, and the humor of forty fancies' pricked in't for a feather."

When Parliament in 1657 offered Oliver Cromwell the title of king the Protector of the Commonwealth is reputed to have said: "Royalty is but a feather in a man's cap; let children enjoy their rattles."

But when a person does something creditable or gains a well deserved honor it is said to be "another feather in his cap."

In this sense the phrase alludes to the custom of certain early peoples, such as the ancient Lycians, among whom a feather was added to the headgear of a warrior every time he slew an enemy.

Richard Hansard, in A Description of Hungary (1599), a manuscript copy of which is preserved in the British Museum, wrote: "It hath been an ancient custom among them that none should wear a feather but he who had killed a Turk, to whom only it was lawful to show the number of his slain enemies by the number of feathers in his cap."

Among the American Indians of the Great Plains feathers worn in the hair indicated rank by their kind, number and manner of mounting, and in some cases the feathers represented the number of enemies the individual had slain. "It was the custom of the Pillager Chippewa," says the U. S. Bureau of American Ethnology, "to allow a warrior who scalped an enemy to wear on his head two eagle feathers, and the act of capturing a wounded prisoner on the battlefield earned the distinction of wearing five."

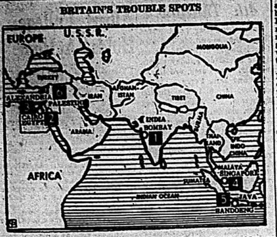
BRITAIN'S TROUBLE SPOTS



Throughout the Far East Great Britain is having her troubles, as uprisings and revolts mark the unrest in her colonies and occupational zones. Indian navy mutineers at Bombay (1) have just surrendered but some rioting continues. British troops in Cairo (2) fired on Egyptian rioters after they attacked churches and other institutions in anti-British disorders, while in Alexandria (3) Reuters reported crowds beating Europeans in the streets. At Singapore (4), British troops have put down an uprising of Indian Nationalists, and in Java (5) they have ordered all Japs evacuated from Bandoeng after an attack by Indonesian Extremists on a theatre audience. Completing the troublesome picture, terrorists in Palestine (6) attacked police headquarters in Haifa and Tel Aviv.

German Staff Misled By Hitler's Luck Let Him Push Them into War Against Russia

Hitler's three military successes in a row were too much for Germany's professional soldiers and they were fooled by his early luck as a strategist into believing he was right in invasion of Russia. The story of this disastrous decision is told by Col. Truman Smith in the U. S. Infantry Journal, which is reproduced as follows:

Whenever, in the future, historians try to write objective, dispassionate military analyses of the German defeat in World War II, one question is bound to arouse a great deal of discussion: Why did the German general staff let itself in for the fatal Russian campaign, which was without doubt its crucial blunder?

There have been many stories current to the effect that important German generals and general staff officers violently protested against Hitler's Russian ventures. Officers close to Hitler and members of the inner coterie of the German general staff, since Germany's surrender, have cleared up this mystery.

No true opposition was raised by the general staff against Hitler's decision in the autumn of 1940 to declare war on Russia the following spring.

What is the explanation of the doglike acceptance of Hitler's gamble with the fate of Germany by these coldly scientific soldiers?

It all started with a great clash between the army and Hitler over the military plan for crushing Poland. The general staff had decided to go about crushing Poland in an orthodox, methodical fashion. Gen. Franz Halder, the then chief of staff, conceived a double envelopment of the Polish armies in the Vistula bend, to the west of Warsaw. To accomplish this envelopment a German pincers was to close around the Poles, one arm being launched from Pomerania in the north, the other from Silesia in the south. Two, or perhaps even three months of fighting, Halder thought, would be needed to bring about the defeat of Poland.

When Hitler saw this strategical plan of his general staff, the was furious, stormed at the generals, called them prosaic numskulls who still understood war only in terms of 1918, and who did not understand the full potentialities of the tank and airplane. Hitler wanted a much more rapid tempo. He insisted Poland could be crushed in a few weeks, not months.

The orthodox envelopment west of Warsaw was to stand as it was. Hitler's proposal was for a second envelopment executed simultaneously. The arms of these pincers would join far east of Warsaw.

The cool and calculating German generals, von Brauchitsch and Halder, were aghast at this flight of imagination. They protested and were promptly overruled. Hitler's own plan was to be carried out.

The result is history. Hitler, the rank military dilettante who made war by intuition, who knew no more about war than any average politician, had nevertheless made a better guess than his experienced generals at what the new weapons of warfare could accomplish.

Faith in Hitler's Luck.

Next came Norway. This time the general staff decided the campaign wasn't going to be prosaic. It would be unorthodox with a vengeance. A great double amphibious landing operation was planned against both side of Oslo fjord. Nothing like it had ever been tried in all German history. Just to be sure, however, that Hitler would not call them numskulls again, the general staff added a few minor and somewhat daring auxiliary landings at points in south Norway, among them Bergen and Trondheim. This done, the plan was submitted for approval to the Fuehrer.

Hitler stormed once more. His soldiers and sailors were still dolts. They had missed the most strategic point in all Norway. He wanted Narvik, and he wanted it whatever the risks of the gamble might be.

This time the German admirals protested. Narvik, they said was out of the quetsion. The iron ore port was 1,200 miles from the nearest German harbor, and halfway between, in their secure anchorages in the Orkney Isles, lay the British grand fleet. The admirals told Hitler flatly that they couldn't move an expedition overseas to Narvik without being detected by the British, and once detected, they were as good as lost. The admirals' protest was of no avail. Hitler stood firm. The Narvik expedition was added as an integral part of the campaign.

After the success of Norway and Narvik, the German generals began to revise their ideas about Hitler. The Fuehrer was still a rank amateur and they were still not convinced he was a military genius. But he was lucky. It would take the French campaign to teach them dog-like devotion.

The general staff plan for the French campaign was a variation of the Schlieffen "envelopment through Belgium" concept of World War I. This time, however, the main attack was to pass through the Maastricht neck of Holland. Holland was to be overrun, and then the German armies would turn the right flank of the Allied armies by swinging sharply south between Liege and Antwerp. It was expected that the first great decisive battle would be fought on the plains of Brabant, near Brussels. The general staff hoped that there would be a German victory. If it occurred, it saw no reason why the war with France could not be finished by Christmas.

Hitler didn't like this plan any better than he had the Polish or Norwegians plans. He ordered that the plan be torn up. He would write his own.

In his headquarters in Germany, working feverishly, assisted by only a few of his officers, those who happened to be fanatic Nazis, Hitler sketched his plan for the Sedan break-through, the fifteen day dash to the channel coast, the crushing of France in three months.

Heart Set on Beating Russia.

It is known now from reliable sources that in every German army group and army headquarters, in the first week of May, 1940, just a few days before they jumped off, gloom and pessimism were the rule. Of all the commanders who were destined to assist in the conquest of France, only Gens. Kluge and von Reichenau thought that the Fuehrer's plan would be successful. Yet, in France, too, Hitler succeeded.

And here is why the German generals and the German army never lifted their voices in the autumn of 1940 in protest against the Russian venture. Three Hitlerian successes in a row were too much for them.

In reality, Hitler was at best a gifted dilettante, with a flair for dreaming correctly what tanks and airplanes could do, but so far he had been operating against much weaker foes. Russia was something altogether different.

It is a matter of record that the German general staff had no illusions about the difficulties of a Russian campaign. But Hitler paid no attention. Russia, to him, had always been enemy No. 1. He had set his heart on defeating her from the moment he came to power.

Blinded by passion and wishful thinking, he made himself believe that the Russians lacked military leadership and equipment, that political dissatisfaction would at once lead to large scale army rebellions; in short, Russia was a soap bubble ready to burst at the first prick. He declared to his generals that the Russian campaign would be won in three months. On the strength of his three previous successes against their better judgment the generals threw their military integrity overboard.

The first stages of the Russian campaign evolved about as planned by Hitler and the German general staff together. In this the Russians, by throwing overboard the decade old Tukhachevsky defence plan for a delaying action deep in the interior of their vast steppes, aided them.

They concentrated their armies too far forward. In consequence a number of Russian armies and army groups were rapidly surrounded and destroyed in Poland, Galicia and in the Baltic states.

Hitler and his generals were sure that Russia would be out of the war by Christmas, so sure indeed, that—incredible folly—no preparations whatever were thought necessary for a winter campaign. No warm clothing, no fur jackets, no winter oil for the motor transport were provided.

Early November came and the seemingly victorious German armies stood before Moscow, Leningrad and Rostov. A hundred miles west of Moscow, they had just encircled and destroyed, a Russian shock army at Vyazma. The defences of Moscow appeared to be weakening fast. The German armies, however, were exhausted too. Von Brauchitsch and Halder studied the situation cooly and grimly. Winter was not more than ten weeks off at best. Approaching Hitler, not without forebodings, they proposed that the German armies should halt where they were, pass to the defensive and prepare to resume the offensive the following spring.

Winter to Russians' Aid.

But if the generals had ceased to believe in Hitler's military genius, he himself had not. Russia, he said, was still a soap bubble, which would burst at a prick. Russian armies were even more tired than the German. Just one more little push and the Kremlin would be in German hands. Throwing overboard all their fears and worries and their sound military judgment as well, the generals ordered the German armies forward, unprepared as they were.

December 2, 1941, was Russia's day of crisis and Germany's day of destiny. On December 2 the German armies stood just west of Moscow and also to the north and southeast of it.

That night and the following day General Winter took a hand. Subzero weather descended on the Moscow steppes. During the night of December 2-3 the thermometer read 18 degrees below zero. No such temperatures had been recorded in early December for a dozen years.

Throughout the following weeks, catastrophe engulfed the German armies. The soldiers, in their light summer clothes, froze and died by the thousands. The motors, without winter oil or antifreeze, stopped. Neither food nor hot coffee could be brought up to the front.

The Russians, sensing the plight of their enemy, called on their tired, though warmly clad soldiers and ordered the counter offensive. The German armies melted away westward before the onslaught. Moscow was saved. Though neither side was then aware of it the Second World War had been decided in favor of the Allies. Hitler's star had sunk forever.

Something snapped in the German armies on December 2. Disaster was apparent to everyone.

What the German defeat before Moscow destroyed once and for all was the faith of the German general staff in Hitler. But it was too late now to save the army—or Germany.

Hitler, furious at the catastrophe and in need of scapegoats, dismissed Brauchitsch and Halder and assumed both nominal and actual command over the German armies.

End of German General Staff.

It is not possible to overestimate the effect of the Russian victory before Moscow on the subsequent course of the war. The German army was never the same again despite occasional victories and some further gains of territory. Ceasing to be a well oiled machine, it became an army of fears and hatreds. The generals, the general staff, the higher officers in the overwhelming majority saw clearly at last that their initial suspicions of Hitler had been correct. He was a lucky dilettante. Now his luck had played out. By abandoning military integrity and bowing to political pressure, the German general staff played a sorry role both in the three previous victorious campaigns and in the Moscow catastrophe.

The Allies propose to destroy the German general staff. They can save themselves the trouble. Hitler and his generals between them did it in this grim winter week before Moscow in 1941.

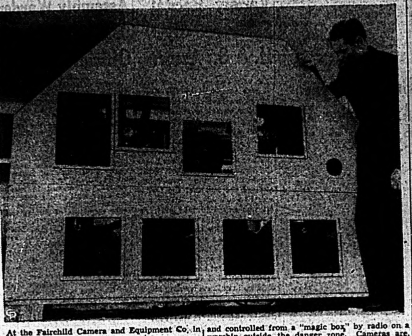
PREPARE TO PHOTOGRAPH ATOMIC BOMB BLASTS



At the Fairchild Camera and Equipment Co. in Jamaica, L.I., Lt. Robert L. Warner, U.S.N., examines one of the camera units that will be used to photograph the blasts when atomic bombs are dropped on a guinea pig fleet of warships at Bikini atoll in the Pacific in mid-May. The unit is made up of a number of cameras, all of which will be operated by remote control. The units will be set up on steel 100-foot towers ringing the warships, and controlled from a "magic box" by radio on a warship outside the danger zone. Cameras are, left to right (top), nest of 6 gun cameras; 35-mm. motion picture camera; F-56 8¼-in. aerial camera; Mitchell 35-mm. Bottom, left to right, F-56 40-in.; F-56 20-in.; F-56 20-in. and F-56 40-in. The small circular opening at the right is the "magic eye" which will operate all the cameras by the flash of the bomb itself, should the radio remote control fail to work.

Lt. Howard Chamblin, U.S.N., who will record photographically for posterity what goes on when atomic bombs are exploded at Bikini atoll in the Pacific next May. He is shown here with the "magic box" he will use in doing the big job.

Houses On Move Checked by Wire

By JACK GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto (CP)—Only radar can outdo Vivian (Wag) Wagner's system of reporting house movings by telegraph out western Ontario way. Wag, jovial Canadian Pacific Telegraph wire chief here, has a periodical headache in offsetting these movings.

People in that section are enterprising. When they can't find work in their own city, they seek it elsewhere and once it is found, just pack up their houses and move them on rollers to where the work is. Sometimes these removals are 90 or more miles away.

That's where Wag's headache comes in. As the houses coast along the western Ontario roads, they meet Canadian Pacific telegraph wires at intersections. So Wag has to arrange for two or three of his linemen to sit on the roofs of the two-storey buildings and lift the wires over the high spots by means of wooden cross pieces.

Every time this lifting is done it causes a "kick" on the telegraph line and this electrical impulse causes the meter needle to jump at the Canadian Pacific office here.

"There goes the centre roof." Another kick. "There goes the kitchen—say, that's a pretty big house."

Of course, smaller buildings at the back of a house do not register so Wag's "radar" ends with the kitchen roof. But householders 200 or more miles away would be surprised to learn a friendly eye at Toronto was keeping tab on their home's progress to greener fields.

Says "Orstralia" Not Way to Talk

Sydney (CP)—The pronunciation of the word "Australia" is causing much discussion among university professors and radio speakers.

But leading Australian phoneticians say that it is an old style, and that "Ostralia" is the modern pronunciation, and the one generally accepted in Australia.

Dr. A. G. Mitchell, head of the language section of the English department of Sydney University, says that an Australian who says "Ostralia" sounds affected.

The general manager of the Australian Broadcasting Commission says that he would be disturbed if he heard "Orstralia" in an ABC session because it would be so unusual. "Ostralia" has become sanctioned by usage.

One announcer says what Australians really say is not Orstralia or Ostralia, but A'stralia.

A member of the ABC's pronunciation committee says that "Ostralia" is correct and that "Orstralia" is "too, too English."

Diminutive Aircraft Tab Passenger Trips

Bad Zwischenahn, Germany—(CP)—A flying unit in the Canadian Army of Occupation is No. 664 Air Observation Post Squadron, commanded by Maj. D. W. Blyth of Regina.

Operating in tiny Auster Mark V aircraft, the squadron makes routine flights throughout 30 corps area and controls all passenger flights leaving Rostrup airfield for Paris and the United Kingdom. Size of the diminutive observation craft is suggested by the comments of the pilots:

"You don't fly them — you wear 'em."

The squadron, formed in January, 1945, consists of both R. C. A. F. and army personnel, but the pilots are army men—skilled gunnery officers drawn from heavy and medium field artillery units. They got their army wings in Tiger Moths at No. 22 Elementary Flying Training School at Cambridge, England. In action, they were attached to artillery units to spot targets, direct shellfire and perform reconnaissance.

Publish Canadian Literary Magazine

Toronto (CP)—The first issue of "Reading," a new literary magazine, appeared on newsstands across the country in February. First of its kind in Canada, the monthly—edited by Allan Anderson, Ronald Hambleton and Lister Sinclair—includes stories, poems and comment.

Co-editor Anderson said the new venture, published in Toronto, will attempt to give creative literary talent in Canada a chance to express itself in a national magazine.

"We have found that a mature way of writing was established in this country during the war years which should now find concrete expression," he said. New Canadian writers who formerly turned to American or British outlets would now find a Canadian field for their work.

An article by Morley Callaghan and poems by Earle Birney are among the contributions by well-known Canadian writers in the first 72-page issue.

EXIT THE RICKSHAW

Chungking, Feb. 28 (Reuters)—Thousands of rickshaws will disappear from Chinese streets within the next three years under a government plan to abolish what Information Minister K. C. Wu described yesterday as "a means of conveyance which is archaic, inhuman and a waste of manpower." Buses and street cars will take their place.

Lt.-Col. P. Tedman Faces 3 Charges

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Amsterdam, March 2 (CP Cable)—Testimony alleging improper issuance of cars from dumps of enemy supplies was introduced as the trial of Lt.-Col. Philip Tedman of Toronto, former chairman of the amenities control organization, got under way here.

Col. Tedman, being tried on three charges of dealing with automobiles from the dumps, known under the name Eclipse Dumps, pleaded innocent to all charges. He is accused of stealing a Buick automobile, improperly attempting to export it and improperly certifying that a Ford cabriolet and a Cadillac sedan were the personal property of Capt. Stanley Landell of Toronto and Capt. D. W. Thomson of Toronto, respectively.

" know of at least 100 to 150 civilian-type vehicles irregularly issued from Eclipse Dumps last summer," Maj. Arthur Kilgour of Toronto told the military court.

Maj. Kilgour said that while he was at headquarters of the 1st Canadian army he was ordered to issue two blocks of unallocated military vehicle registration numbers—for 100 and for 10 numbers, respectively—which were shown in the records as having gone to the 1st Canadian Corps.

Under examination by Capt. Max Raycroft of Stratford, defence counsel, Capt. J. Morrison of Montreal, who investigated the case, said Col. Tedman admitted to him last December that the Buick concerned came from an Eclipse Dump. He quoted Col. Tedman as saying it originally was a wreck which he had rebuilt and that its export from Rotterdam was done openly.

WEDDINGS

ELMY—ARNOLD

Deseronto United Church parsonage was the scene of a quiet wedding, Saturday, February 23, at two o'clock, when Rev. H. A. Bunt united in marriage Adroh Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Arnold, Deseronto, and Finley Robinson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Elmy, Deseronto.

The bride, looking lovely in a blue wool suit with pale blue hat and veil, was attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. H. F. Atherton, dressed in a two-piece gold colored wool dress with matching hat.

Mr. H. F. Atherton acted as groomsman.

After the ceremony dinner was served to the immediate family at the home of the groom's parents. Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple left for Toronto, Aylmer, and Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alford and Grant, Mrs. I. B. Robinson, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Elmy, Lyndhurst, Miss Ferne Wellman, Bata, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Atherton and Bobbie, Picton.

LOOKER—VEARY

Westmount Baptist Church, in Montreal, was the scene of a wedding at four o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 23, when Edna Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Veary, of Ville Lasalle, was united in marriage to Petty Officer Frederick James Looker, R.C.N. (R.), son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Looker, formerly of Belleville, at present of Notre Dame de Grace. The. Rev. J. A. Johnston, B.A., D.D., conducted the service and Mr. Kenneth Meek was at the organ. A basket of pink snapdragons, adorned the church for the occasion.

Mr. Veary gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Dorothy Olive Veary, as maid of honor, and by her sister, Miss Mary Margaret Veary, and her cousin, Miss Doreen Eunice Gobbett, as bridesmaids. Mr. Arthur Looker was his brother's best man, with Lance/Corporal Frank Revell, R.C.O.C., of Belleville, Ont., cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Robert Matthews, as ushers.

The bride was wearing a gown of white satin, the fitted bodice having a marquisette yoke, and the long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her finger tip veil fell from a headdress of French lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of Better Time roses.

The maid of honor was wearing a frock of sky blue embroidered taffeta, with short pleated gauntlets of the same material and a Dutch cap, her cascade bouquet being of pink Virginia carnations. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in peach pink taffeta, with Dutch caps and short pleated gauntlets, while they carried Colonial bouquets.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Revell, Lance/Corporal Frank Revell, and Mrs. W. J. Neal, all of Belleville.

Variety Recital Sponsored By H. & S. Assoc.

A very successful variety recital was sponsored by the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association on Friday afternoon and evening when students of the school presented piano, guitar, violin, singing and dancing numbers for a great many interested parents and friends. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the association, stressed the fact that the recital was non-competitive. Every pupil was urged to take part, no matter what his age or grade. From the little children hardly able to climb up onto the piano bench to the older pupils, all gave excellent performances. Mrs. Scott stated that the recital was a project intended to interest the children in cultural training along various lines. When addressing the audience in the evening Mr. Anderson, principal of the school, congratulated the Home and School Association on their splendid enterprise and said that he had sometimes feared that this generation's musical ability was mainly confined to turning on the radio, but this performance, to his delight, proved that personal musical accomplishment was not to be a lost art. He complimented the children on their excellent performance and paid tribute to the parents and teachers who are encouraging this cultural training.

Special tribute should be paid the committee, Miss May, Mrs. Reada O'Connor, Mrs. Harold Cameron, Mrs. J. W. Howard, and Miss Norma Arkles, to the different teachers for preparing their pupils, and to those who accompanied the students, Mrs. W. L. Langlois, who accompanied Aileen Gill, Mrs. John Deacon, who accompanied Diana and Marlene Smith, and Miss Leona Riggs, who accompanied Robert Houston.

The following is a copy of the programs presented in the afternoon and evening. All numbers, unless stated otherwise, were piano presentations.

Assembly Warden Of Rebekahs Makes Official Visit

A very enjoyable and profitable evening was spent by the members of Quintena Rebekah Lodge at a special meeting on Wednesday evening.

The occasion was the official visit of Sister Ruby Webb of Prescott Warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. She was accompanied by Sister Mildred Morrow of Laurel Lodge, Stirling, Deputy President of Belleville District No. 30.

Lodge was opened in regular form after which the guests were escorted through a Guard of Honor composed of Sisters Irene Muir, Barbara Johnston, Jean Marshall, Ann Cherrie, Maude Patrick P.N.G., and Jean Fitzgibbon. Sister Webb A.W. was introduced by Sister Phyllis Twiddy J.P.N.G. and Sister Morrow D.D.P. by Sister Irene Aman P.D.D.P. These officers were graciously welcomed by Sister Georgina Charlton N.G. as were the visitors from other nearby lodges and from the jurisdiction of Quebec.

After the regular orders of business, which were capably conducted by the lodge officers, Sister Webb A.W. gave a very interesting and instructive address outlining some projects that might now, since the war has ended, be undertaken by the Rebekah order.

Describes New Home

She also described the beautiful new Rebekah Home situated at Barrie. This home used to be in Toronto but was given up a few years ago to the government for military purposes.

Short addresses were also given by Sister Morrow D.D.P., Brother G. Miller D.D.P., of Quinte District No. 47, I.O.O.F., Brother Kerr, Past Grand Patriarch and a number of the visitors.

The next item of interest was the presentation of gifts from the lodge to Sister Webb, A.W., and Sister Morrow D.D.P. The address to Sister Webb was read by Sister Jennie Redner P.N.G. and the presentation of a crystal flower basket made by Sister Jean Kolevr; Sister Ruth Charlton P.N.G. read the address to Sister Morrow and Sister Irene McMartin presented her with a hostess tray. Sister Irene Aman P.D.D.P. was then presented with a Past District Deputy President's "Jewel" by the lodge in recognition of her work last year at District Deputy President, Sister Phyllis Twiddy P.N.G. read the address and Sister Ethel Sandercock P.D.D.P. pinned the jewel on Sister Aman's gown. Sister Webb, Sister Morrow and Sister Aman all thanked the lodge for these beautiful gifts.

Given Certificates

Sister Webb A.W. then presented Sister Charlton N.G. with a "Certificate of Perfection" and Sister J. Twiddy P.N.G., Sister P. Twiddy P.N.G. and Sister Aman P.D.D.P. with crests to be placed on their certificates. These were awarded for having given to Sister Webb certain work perfectly.

After the closing of lodge Ronald Elmy sang three solos in his usual pleasing manner and Sister G. Charlton N.G. gave two humorous readings. These were very much appreciated by all present.

The decorations were under the convenership of Sister Ann Cherrie and the refreshments under Sister Etta Kerr.

Sister Aman P.D.D.P., and Sister Ruth Charlton, P.N.G., poured tea.

Those assisting with the serving were Sisters Gray, Muir, Dulmage, Robb, Hagerman, Noakes, MacMillan, Turvey, P.N.G., and Jackson, P.N.G.

As it was the birthday of Sister Webb, A.W., and Sister J. Twiddy, P.N.G., all present joined in singing "Happy Birthday to You", and Sister Webb was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Sister Webb and Sister Morrow thanked the Quintena Sisters for their hospitality and a most successful evening was brought to a close.

LARGEST CRIME INCREASE IN UNITED STATES IN 1945

Washington, March 2 —(AP)— Attorney General Tom Clark reported today that the largest annual increase in serious crimes in the United States in 15 years took place during 1945. Serious crimes jumped 12.3 per cent over 1944. Offences considered in the survey included murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Edmunds, Suffolk, England — (CP)—Warned by a passerby her house was on fire, Mrs. Ethel Roys, 27, shouted back her doctor had told her she was not to go out. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

W.C.A. Will Hold Annual Meeting Tuesday, March 5

Sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association which owns and operates the Belleville General Hospital and the Home for the Aged on Dundas Street, will be held in the Board Room of the hospital on Tuesday afternoon, March 5th, it has been announced by the president Mrs. Reginald Abrams.

In announcing the annual meeting Mrs. Abrams requested a full attendance of all members as during the coming year every effort will be made to increase the membership of the organization.

During the war years other patriotic endeavors took up considerable time of the association members with result that membership fell away slightly, but now with the war over and other activities correspondingly reduced, every effort will be made to build W.C.A. membership back to its pre-war level.

Charter Presented To Shrine Club At Ladies' Night

Spotlighting a highly enjoyable "Ladies Night" held in the Masonic Temple Friday night, was the presentation of the charter of the provincial government to officials and members of the Belleville and District Shrine Club.

According to the new charter, the organization will henceforth be known as the "Belleville Shrine Club Ltd." and is empowered by virtue of its charter to raise funds for the many community services it has sponsored in the past.

The presentation was made by Noble Dr. Grant Fraser of Madoc, High Priest and Prophet of the Rameses Shrine, Toronto. The charter was formally received and accepted on behalf of his organization by Potentate's Aid and club president, D. L. Shorey, of this city.

Approximately 180 Shriners, their wives and friends enjoyed the presentation ceremony and the social amenities that followed. During an enjoyable dance twelve valuable prizes were distributed to fortunate winners, while those who did not care for the "light fantastic" enjoyed themselves at the many card tables provided. Music for the dance was supplied by Bill Warham and his orchestra.

Among the out-of-town guests were Shriners and friends from Kingston, Napanee, Brighton, Trenton, Madoc and other places in the district. A delectable buffet luncheon was served at midnight.

President Storey announced today that the new Shrine Club headquarters at 52 Highland Avenue will be ready for occupancy in the near future. The new building will house a medical clinic for crippled children, headquarters for the annual campaign of the sale of Christmas Seals and Shrine clubrooms and administrative quarters. It is expected that a visiting nurse will call at the new clinic at periodic intervals next year.

Afternoon Print News

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IT'S A PITY that this isn't a Leap Year. The girls never had prettier fashions to enhance them. . .and after the lean war years, and with the beaux at home once more. . .how convenient that extra belle day could be!

This handsome daytime outfit for the more important occasions . . .and for the "on to dinner" afternoon dates, too. . . is one of a series which combines print with plain fabric. Here a Bianchini print is used for a shirred blouse and caplet lining, the cape and softly draped skirt being black crepe. Note the link-button neck closing of jet, and the smooth self-fabric black belt.

The Experts Say

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Mar. 2 (CP)—A shortage of vegetables—with the exception of potatoes—has shown up in a dietary survey recently completed among school children in several sections of British Columbia, says Dr. L. B. Pett, chief of the health and welfare department's nutrition division.

The millions of dollars that are spent buying tonics and vitamin pills show Canadians are concerned about their health and are trying to improve it.... the best thing, say the division nutritionists, is to eat a good variety of foods every day.

Canada's Food Rules, sponsored by the division, are a good basis to work from and include daily quantities of milk, citrus fruit or tomato, another fruit, potato, a green or yellow vegetable, any one other vegetable, whole grain cereal, whole wheat or Canada approved vitamin B bread, meat or meat alternate, and then eggs and choose at least three times a week.

Start off with a good breakfast which includes at least three of the food groups: citrus fruit, whole grain cereal and milk. If the noon meal is a lunch, again at least three groups should be included: meat or a meat alternate in the form of a sandwich or entree, a vegetable or fruit and milk either to drink or in the form of a dessert or soup.

Before ordering or preparing the evening meal a quick check can be made to see which of the essential daily foods have been omitted so far. If a fruit, such as an apple, was selected at noon then no vegetables have yet been touched so a green or yellow one, like carrots or spinach, should be part of the main course. The rules call for another vegetable, so why not have a raw salad, celery, lettuce wedges or sliced tomatoes on the table?

Fruit was included in the lunch so there is no fuss over the choice of dessert—you have your pick. The beverage need not be milk for adults since enough was included at lunch and breakfast. Bread served at all meals should be whole wheat of Canada Approved.

After the nutrition division had told about the foods that are good for you, the agriculture department consumer section followed it up with ideas for making these foods good-looking, good-tasting and all around attractive.

Vary color, texture and temperature of foods in the meal, say the consumer section experts. Color attracts the eye and adds interest...but avoid clashes of color such as happen if beets, tomatoes and radishes are served together.

Texture contrast between soft and crisp foods often means the difference between a mediocre and a superb meal. You can get more contrast by interspersing cold dishes with a hot one or by serving something cold in the way of a salad or dessert in a meal otherwise composed of hot dishes.

Season well. Seasonings should bring out the natural flavors of a food, not mask it, but judicious seasoning makes the simplest food a treat. Plan menus so that meat or other food left from one meal may be attractively served at another. If possible allow several meals to elapse before left-over foods re-appear.

BEAUTY

Why Grandmothers Stay Young

Years ago, an aged lady would have been in the shelf

Wherever women line up at the doors of beauty and fashion, grandma is right there. Why not? Years ago an aged lady would have been on the shelf, climbing up of her own accord because life had lost zest, had nothing very interesting to offer. Now she may hold down an executive's job. If there is no need of her working to bring home the bacon and spinach—if she is a lady of leisure—she is occupied with community or charitable pursuits. She keeps young because she is busy, can make herself useful. She has a definite place in the world.

What the grandmothers did during the war would make interesting reading. Thousands of them had their children and grandchildren in the home. They fancied they had reached a period when they would have leisure to read, to do the things they had never had time to do. And, lo and behold! They were washing didies, getting the baby to sleep. There were more dishes to wash, more clothes to iron. They carried on, gallantly and valiantly, with patience that younger women would never have had. More glory to them!

Now they can take up the threads of their lives again, find time to shop for pretty clothes, have a regular date at the beautery, renew the fight against the old gent with the scythe and the long white whiskers.

Many an old girl has a lithe, active figure, steps briskly, shows a neat waistline. She started in early to defy the years. Our advice to those who would retain youthful looks and spirits is to make themselves attractive to young people. Be gay. Don't forget that the younger generation is likely to be a little scornful of the old folks, to believe that they haven't kept step with what has been going on. Read the papers, new books, see movies. Show the kids you aren't an old fogey. If you don't do that, the time may soon come when you'll suspect that you are an old fogey. Being a dud is no fun. It doesn't get you any place.

Realizing that the blood streams slow up as one gets older, grandma must have a little outdoor exercise. She should draw herself erect when walking, lifting the torso from the pelvis, the neck from the shoulders.

As birthdays pile up the skin goes dry, needs oiling more than at an earlier age. Light tapping massage will keep wrinkles away.

Half the battle of being well-dressed is to sport a neat, smart coiffure. Grey hair must have no straggling locks. Avoid rigid wave lines. The hair should be softly arranged if it is to be kind to the face that shows crinkles.

The Marry Go Round

Take It From Eve

A confirmed bachelor is a man who is systematically playing hookey from the School of Experience—just as long as he can dodge "date ole debbil" truant officer, Fate.

You may wonder why people continue to fall in love and get married, in spite of the housing shortage, and all the other ominous worries of these distracting days. But falling in love is Dame Nature's favorite spring tonic for the soul with "that tired feeling". It is more stimulating than all the vitamins.

Why are those care-free, loose-riveted, wobbly-hearted men so often most attractive to women? Any girl knows that they have only one great, undying love in their lives—and that is their beautiful, lasting Self-Love!

Love has its sadistic side. A girl who's in love may be awfully soft-hearted— yet nothing makes her so thoroughly happy as to know that, as long as a man is away from her, he is thoroughly miserable.

A spinster's troubles may be just as great as a married woman's; but they are the kind she can forget at the movies, without having to rush home before the last love scene to see that the family gets a hot dinner.

The average man's memory is like a radio—it can be shut off or turned on at will. Or maybe it's more like his pet collie. It will curl up and go fast asleep, when it might be in his way; and then just as you think he has forgotten something you promised, it will rush to his rescue like a good watch-dog. He never forgets a date to play golf but always has to be reminded of his date with the dentist.

Most lovers spend half of their courting days telling each other how wonderful they are—and the other half, planning to remodel each other after the wedding. This is practically paving the way to Reno before you have taken the trip to the altar.

Men aren't perfect, love isn't perfect, women aren't perfect and marriage is full of pitfalls and disillusionments; but if you are going to dodge them all, why not just cut out living, and spare yourself the effort?

Women may envy the wife of a prize husband who comes home from the office and enjoys puttering around the house, even helping in the kitchen; but his fellow-men seem to regard him as a strike-breaker.

It is difficult for a man to believe that a girl may be fed up on attentions and kisses—and at the same time starving for romance.

Leaving A House In Winter

(By Kenesaw M. Landis II. in Chicago Sun)

Leaving a house in midwinter for a vacation is a complicated business, and I recommend it to anyone who is worried about the problems on the agenda of the UNO.

First there is the problem of the cat which must be settled in a suitable environment where people and dogs mind their own business and the supply of kidney is reliable.

The last time, we left our cat with people who undertook to chaperon his night life, and the result was that the cat left and could not be located for weeks.

Our cat is a tomcat, and he wants that fact understood. At all hours he demands the right of free entry and egress, preferably through an open window accessible from a nearby tree.

He is the greatest isolationist since Hiram Johnson, and whoever takes him in must understand that he will not abate one iota of his sovereignty.

The packing I leave to my wife, partly because I don't understand it, and partly because I want to have someone to blame when my underwear turns up missing.

It is up to her to empty the ice-box and drag the canned goods down to the basement. For some reason things aren't supposed to freeze in the basement.

But there are all kinds of masculine responsibilities. The row-boat has to be dragged up to the bank and turned over so the bottom won't rot. A window on the back porch has to be puttied.

The gas must be turned off and something done about the telephone. The storm door, which is warped, must be fixed so that snow won't drift into the living room.

The whole trip depends on the convenience and good health and good humor of the plumber, who is more unpredictable than Molotov.

Once the day has been negotiated for draining the radiators and emptying the hot water tank, all other preparations must be timed on the doubtful assumption that the plumber will show up. The timing is important.

All my clothes are either at the cleaners, or downstairs in the washing machine. As soon as my wife washes the shirt I have on, the washing machine motor must be taken out and brought upstairs.

This is because the pump in the basement is subject to fits. Part of the time it works, and part of the time it just whirrs and has to be shaken. I am on the horns of a dilemma.

Shall I turn the pump off and let the basement fill with water when the river rises, or shall I keep it connected in the hope that it will not go on strike and burn up?

Fresh and Fragrant

Brush on some scented powder after you're dry

By HELEN FOLLETT

WE HEAR about those wonderful baths in ancient Rome. Well, the old-timers had nothing on us and we have intriguing accessories, fragrant and refreshing. We throw scented crystals nonchalantly into the yawning tub, don't care a rap how big a dent they make in the beauty budget.

We get our money's worth. There's nothing like a good scrubby bath to overcome that weary, all-done-in feeling.

If you're an early morning bath singer, take a bird's-eye view of the offerings on cosmetic counters. You'll go home with as many packages as you can carry. You will have a soap that smells like your favorite perfume, and a fine frothy lather it will make for you.

Bath salts will make your dream of your grandmother's flower garden, lovely blends of odors that you sniff deep into your nostrils. Less romantic, but most useful, is the long-handled brush with which you scour and scratch every portion of your svelte anatomy.

You may prefer a rose or violet selection for soap, salts and frictioning lotion. If you are an outdoor girl you may like pine. Naive young ladies, retiring and quiet, would do well to choose jonquil, verbena or mimosa, all carrying compelling, romantic aromas.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Since I was a little girl I have made my home with my aunt, but now, because of my position, I must live away from home. My aunt's birthday is in May. She is quite old, not very well, and is delighted to receive greeting cards. Would you approve of my writing notes to her friends, and even to some acquaintances of hers, asking them if they will be so kind as to send her a card on her birthday? If so, would you please suggest the form of note I might write?

Grace

Most heartily I approve of your carrying out your sweet and thoughtful plan for your aunt's birthday happiness! Your note might read:

Dear Mrs. Wells,

I am planning a "birthday-card shower" for my dear Aunt Martha (her birthday is Thursday, May 23), and I thought perhaps you, and any member of your family, would like to send her a birthday-greeting card. Because of her age and her health, she is not able, as you know, to go out very much, and so I would like to have her birthday as happy a day as it can be, shining with greetings from her friends. Greeting cards are a great joy to her, and I know how much she would welcome one from you, to whom she is especially devoted. I hope you won't mind my asking you to do this, if it is not at all inconvenient for you.

My affectionate greetings to you, and my deep appreciation.

Sincerely,

At Her Stepson's Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I am a stepmother, and my husband's son is to be married soon. The bride's mother is going to wear a long afternoon dress, and I am uncertain what type of dress I should wear. Since I figure that I am really no relation to the prospective groom, may I wear a street-length dress, or should I also wear a long afternoon dress?

Stepmother

You do not tell me whether or not your stepson's mother is living. If she is to be at the wedding, she will be the woman guest of honor, and so will be (or should be) dressed similarly to the bride's mother; will be seated in the first pew on the right of the aisle; at the reception will probably be invited by the bride's mother to be a member of the receiving-party; and if the reception-service is sit-down, will be given the seat at the right of the bride's father. You then will be a guest, and if it is an afternoon wedding, you will correctly wear a street-length dress.

But if your husband's former wife is not living, you are the woman guest of honor at the wedding; should therefore wear a long afternoon dress similar to that worn by the bride's mother; you would sit with your husband in the first right pew; would probably be asked to be a member of the receiving-line; and would sit at the right of the bride's father, if there is sit-down service.

Shower Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1. I am planning to give a household shower for a bride-to-be. What would be the correct term to use on the invitations?

2. Some of the girls think that men should also be invited to this shower, but I don't agree. What is your opinion?

3. I have been to several showers where an umbrella, covered with tissue paper, was used as the table centrepiece. Would you please suggest another symbol I might use?

4. How soon ahead of the shower should the invitations be mailed?

E. A.

1. What kind of show have you really in mind? "Household shower" is too indefinite a term for a guest to know what kind of gift she is expected to bring. The type of gift expected should be clearly designated — "kitchen", "linen", "china" or whatever. Or if you want the guest to bring whatever she wishes, why not call your shower a "miscellaneous shower"?

2.—Since you are to be the hostess, it is your privilege to decide whether or not you wish to invite men. Men are not invited to an afternoon shower. But if it is intended to have men guests, an evening hour is chosen, the girls are invited early in the evening for the presentation and opening of the gifts, and the men are invited to arrive about two hours later, for dancing or bridge or other games, and the refreshments.

3. You might have a travelling bag centrepiece. . .a pasteboard box covered to imitate a suitcase; initials of bride-to-be printed on case; lucky signs (horseshoe, wishbone, four-leaf-clover, and so forth) cut from silver paper and pasted to the bag; bouquet of real or paper flowers, or waxed orange blossoms with foliage, tied to top of bag with maline bow; two large hearts of heavy silver paper, cut out in middle, pasted one on each side to form the handle; gifts may be put in open sides, or around base of suitcase.

Or a large hope chest box may be made; handles, lock, straps and corners of cardboard covered with silver paper, attached with gummed tape; huge maline bow fastened to top of chest, and from the bow a shower of narrow ribbon with good luck signs, cut from silver paper, attached with gum-ribbons. Or cover a watering can with crushed crepe paper, put flowers in it; festively decorate the side and top handles; attach small ribbons into holes of spout. Or you might have a Jack Horner pie, with bride and bridegroom figures atop it, and from it ribbon streamers, one to the place of each guest.

4. Invitations are sent out about two weeks (not later than ten days) before the shower date.

Salutations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: Which salutation is considered more formal, "Dear Miss Brown" or "My dear Miss Brown?"

M. G.

In America "My dear Miss Brown" is considered more formal than "Dear Miss Brown". In England the reverse is true.

Trenton Fliers Earn Right To Advance into Next Round By Beating Bowmanville 7-3

Notwithstanding Ice Conditions Teams Played Well in Game at Port Hope

Trenton R.C.A.F. "Fliers" earned the right to advance into the second round of the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" playdowns Friday night by trimming Bowmanville 7-3 at Port Hope in a game that was played on very poor ice. The win gave the airmen the honors in the best of three series in two straight games.

Notwithstanding the ice conditions, the teams played well and provided wide open hockey entertainment for the faithful hockey fans. The Fliers were full value for their win as they outplayed the fighting Bowmanville aggregation throughout except for a few brief lapses.

Big Bob Murray was the "bad man" for the night. He served two penalties for fighting in the second period and was headed for one in the third but this one was nipped in the bud when referee "Speedy" St. Louis was right on job and ordered him to the penalty box for his efforts before there was a chance for fisticuffs.

The Airmen went all out from the start of the initial stanza and Murray opened the scoring at the 1.30 mark when he cut around the right side of the defence and blazed one into the rigging. The play continued with Trenton having a slight edge in the territorial play and at the halfway point in the period, Jim Loveless put the Fliers two up after taking a nice pass from "Mac" McNabb.

Cut Trenton Lead

Bowmanville fought back gamely and at 12.42, "Maxie" Yourth cut down the Trenton lead by slapping Hallman's rebound past "Robbie" Robertson in the Flier rigging to end the scoring for the period in which Trenton had a decided edge.

Shortly after the start of the middle session, Yourth got his second tally of the night to notch the count as Wiseman carried the puck around the net and passed it out in front from where "Maxie" promptly banged it in.

Bob Murray and Cowan tried to settle it with the knuckles at this point and were sent to "cool off" in the sin bin. A few minutes later, Harry Cummine was penalized and Bowmanville really put on the pressure. They had the Fliers hemmed right in at their own end of the rink and kept pouring the rubber towards the Trenton goal. They missed several good chances to take the lead but couldn't take advantage of their opportunities.

At 18.07, "Mac" McNabb put the airmen in the van again when he took a rink-wide pass from Garbas and sifted one past Hooper from about twenty feet out.

Just as the period ended, Bob Murray went at it again but with a different sparring partner, in the person of "Maxie" Yourth. As a result, they both spent five minutes in the "cooler".

Beat Goalie Alone

Johnny Perras made it 4-2 for the Fliers at the 5.12 mark in the final chapter when he skated the length of the rink to deposit the rubber in the Bowmanville cage. Ten seconds later, Bob Murray got his second marker of the game when he swept in on Hooper all alone to beat him with a low hard drive to the corner of the net.

The Fliers then sat back and seemed content to let Bowmanville carry the play to them and wait for the breaks. When Murray was serving his third penalty of the game, Johnny Perras broke away with Al Marshall to make it 6-2 at the 18.15 mark.

With only a minute left to play, the Bowmanville team, who fought gamely right to the last whistle, made it 6-3 as "Lou" Wiseman rapped one in from a scramble. Just as the fans were leaving the arena, Danny Cowley combined with McNabb to make it 7-3 and finish the scoring for the night.

For the winners, Al Marshall and Middleton stood out on the rearguard as did Bob Murray, McNabb, Cowley, Perras and Garbas on the attack. Piper, Wiseman and Yourth were the pick of the Bowmanville team "up front" while "Irv" McCullough and Carl Rabey turned in fine efforts on the defence.

Trenton R.C.A.F. "Fliers"—Goal, Robertson; defence, Marshall and Thompson; centre, Murray; wings, Perras and Merpaw; alternates: Cowley, McNabb, Garbas, Middleton, Cummine and Loveless.

Bowmanville — Goal, Hooper; defence, Rabey and Hately; centre, Bird; wings, Yourth and Hallman; alternates: Ott, McCullough, Piper, Cowan and Wiseman.

Referee, "Speedy" St. Louis, Belleville.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

Jean Borotra, France's venerable bounding Basque, bowed out of the men's doubles competition in the French International covered courts tennis championships yesterday. Borotra and partner H. Bolelli were upset in the semi-finals by Marcel Bernard and Pierre Pelizza, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Jimmy Orlando, whose fearsome hickory carved a niche for him in the National Hockey League as the league penalty leader a few seasons back, has been transferred from Valleyfield Braves to Ottawa Senators as a military replacement for Vic Hannaberry in the coming Quebec Senior Hockey League playoffs.

Bruce Woodcock, British Empire heavyweight champion, has agreed to terms for a May 13 appearance at Madison Square Garden, promoter Mike Jacobs announced last night. Jacobs said Woodcock would meet either Lee Oma of Detroit or the winner of the Joe Baksi — Tami Mauriella fight scheduled for March 15.

The Boston Athletic Association's Patriot's Day marathon, which would have celebrated its 50th anniversary this year, was cancelled by the Association yesterday. The marathon has been run annually April 19. Good Friday comes on that date this year.

Charles W. Leslie of Montreal has been elected president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, succeeding R. N. Watt of Montreal who retired after ten years in the presidency.

McGill University moved into a tie for Intercollegiate Hockey League leadership in Montreal last night when they upset University of Toronto Blues 5-4. Pierson paced the winners' attack with three goals.

An all-star Quebec Senior Hockey League team humbled Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League 8-4 in an exhibition game at Ottawa. Two goals each by Jerry Plamondon and Jimmy McFadden and sterling goaltending by Bill (Legs) Fraser gave the amateurs their margin.

ARRIVES IN PERU

Talara, Peru, March 2 (CP) — The Canadian cruiser Ugande, paying her first visit to a South American port, arrived here yesterday in the course of a training cruise which will take her around the Cape Horn to Halifax. She will spend two days in Talara a port largely developed by Canadian industrial interests and populated by many Canadians.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

By far the choicest hockey tidbit in this district this week and next is the finals clash between the Kingston Locos and the Peterboros for the Intermediate "A" title of their group. Tonight the squads pry the lid off the titular series in Kingston with the second game scheduled for Monday night at Omemee, where the rinkless Petes have been playing to capacity houses all winter. The third game sees the teams hike back to Kingston on Wednesday, March 6 and the fourth game at Omemee Friday March 8th. Additional games have not been scheduled as yet.

• • •

Due to a slight error in information, this corner published in yesterday's pillar that the Belleville Juniors vs Kingston winners series would be a 3-of-five series. President Bill Dennis informed us today that the series will be two-of-three and he expects to conclude playoff dates arrangements with Kingston officials tonight after the Locos-Petes game. Incidentally the Kingston Saints polished off the Vics in the first game of their three-of-5 series. The Bears were disappointed at no practice last night due to the condition of the ice after yesterday's Spring-like weather.

REMINISCENT

That Boston Bruins-Canadiens game down Mawreal way the other night was reminiscent of the good old days when the fans went all out and fired everything within reach at the luckless arbiters, the opposing players, or let the expended ammunition fall where it may. It seems that the "Rocket" (Richard) had been given a penalty regarded as fantastic by the faithful for wasn't he charged into the boards by one of those nawsty boys from Back Bay, and given a minor to boot?

• • •

The war bugles blew, and the artillery of the ardent Canuck faithful went into fiery action. According to a local fan, who happened to be in Montreal at the time and was a neutral spectator, the boys behind the boards littered the ice with everything but the City Hall and the St. Hubert Airport. At one point goalie Durnan shoved seven rubbers of assorted sizes into the nets behind him. Before the barrage had ceased there were coins of all degrees, bottles, an unexploded cartridge, fruit, newspapers, automobile ignition keys, (careless boys, these Canajins) and a few other assorted articles.

According to a news report of the affair, some of the Canadiens players profited financially by the deluge. There were not only pennies thrown but nickels, dimes, quarters and a few half dollars. Murph Chamberlain picked up over two bucks including one half-simoleon. Billy Reay claimed he had more but refused to divulge the amount. "I may be nicked for income tax if I tell," the crafty Reay said. Glen Harmon and Kenny Reardon were both in the three-figure class in pick-ups.

Welland March 2 (CP)—Ontario planning and development minister Dana Porter yesterday told the Welland County Municipal Association that Ontario can look to "enormous" plant expansion as soon as materials are available. He added that except for a few ancient and dilapidated buildings, Ontario was without a square inch of factory space that had not been taken up or had bids from more than one applicant.

WILLIE PEP EASILY DISPOSES OF MCALLISTER

126-Pound King of New York Slugs Negro to the Canvas in Two Rounds

New York, March 2 — (AP)—The fight experts agreed today it is a lucky break for Sal Bartolo that he won't be putting up his half of the featherweight championship against Willie Pep until some time in May.

Pep, the 126-pound king of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut, was in his sharp, pre-service form last night in belting out flashy Jimmy McAllister of Baltimore in 2:44 of the second heat of their 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Pep weighed 129½ and his rival 128.

Had Bartolo, a two-time loser to Pep several years ago, been in the ring, as scheduled, the chances are that the result might have been the same: Bartolo was supposed to have met Pep last night but the bout was postponed when the Bostonian claimed he was ill.

McAllister had held Pep to a draw in Baltimore a couple of months ago and the Hartford, Conn., clouter made up for that deadlock — his second non-winning effort in 94 prior starts.

The Baltimore Negro took the opening round and once bounced a right off Willie's chin that shook the titleholder considerably. After that things changed quickly. Walloping Willie caught McAllister with a terrific right cross early in the second round and when the challenger moved into Pep's corner, Willie let go with another right to the body and Jimmy started to sag. A left hook flattened McAllister for the count.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

London, Feb. 27 (CP)—An all-out drive to build all-British hockey teams for the future will be started this summer at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

"Round-the-clock" sessions will be held for youths under 16 years of age and instructors will be directed by Lou Bates of Winnipeg, captain of Wembley Lions team.

Bates, who has played nearly 1,000 games in various parts of the world, believes the "average British boy is quick to learn the game and I anticipate that in the near future Britain will be able to put on the ice a truly representative side."

At present about 200 boys are taught the game at Wembley at special sessions each week and Bates says results have been "most encouraging."

Cat Tup, a curiously-named greyhound that was reared from birth until the age of six weeks by a cat, placed second in her initial public.. appearance at Perry Bar Stadium, Birmingham. She had previously won four successive races in Dublin. Roving Seal had such a large litter it was feared Cat Tup would starve and it was decided to place her with Barmy, a cat that had kittens the same day. Barmy took to the puppy, but at the end of six weeks the greyhound was too big for her foster-mother and had to be weaned.

"Leicester Square Gardens," London's £300,000 ($1,350,000) version of Madison Square Garden, New York's sporting and boxing palace, may be a reality next year—if permits and the labor are available.

Frank Price, 44-year-old North of England financier and the man behind the scheme, plans to run regular boxing, wrestling, table tennis and billiards matches. There also will be dancing, a cabaret, restaurant and a snack bar.

His licence to build has been granted by the London county council.

The Yorkshire Union of professional golfers has gone on record as favoring a definite fee for caddies. Delegates to the annual meeting of the golfers at Leeds said some lads were charging from 15 shillings ($3.60) to 25 shillings for an 18-hole round and it was agreed a set fee should be set up.

The St. Leger race meeting will be held at Doncaster in September this year after a lapse of more than six years. No date has been fixed.

Leslie Ames, great Kent wicket-keeper, may play for England in cricket tests this year. He was forced out of county championship competition in 1938 due to an injured back but he said recently he was in "good shape" and if Kent or Marylebone cricket club "want me to keep wicket, I will certainly do so."

CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION

Port Arthur, March 2 (CP) — Charged with the abduction of a 3½-year-old boy, Mrs. Esther Beardon of Neudorf, Sask., yesterday was committed for trial after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Walter Russell. The child, Douglas Murray McIntyre, son of David McIntyre of Port Arthur, was abducted from a downtown millinery store Feb. 8, and now is believed "somewhere in Saskatchewan." His mother and father separated some time ago.

STAFFORDS KEEP IN RUNNING WITH 3 TO 2 VICTORY

Hamilton Tigers Had Edge in Play but Could Not Beat Red Gilbert

(By The Canadian Press)

Some sparkling goaltending by Douglas (Red) Gilbert kept Toronto Staffords in the Ontario Hockey Association senior playoff hunt last night as the Toronto club eked out a 3-2 victory over Hamilton Tigers at Maple Leaf Gardens for their first win of the best-of-seven final series.

The Toronto win snapped a 7-game winning streak for the Tigers but left them with a comfortable 3-1 lead in the series. The teams will go at it again in Hamilton Monday night.

The Tigers had a considerable edge in the play as far as the goalmouth, out-shooting the locals and practically setting up a permanent base camp inside Stafford's blue line, but Gilbert's acrobatics were equal to every occasion.

Defenceman Tommy Jamieson was the Merriwell of the evening, poking home the winning goal, his second, at 5:07 of the third period. Don Willson got the other Stafford marker. Polly Miovinovich and Frank Liscombe were the Tiger scorers.

Notably absent from the scoring records were the redoubtable names of Clarence Shillington, Dillon Brady and Johnny Conick, the Tigers' usually high-scoring first line who have provided plenty of grief for Staffords in past games. Gilbert had their number last night.

In Toronto this afternoon Galt Red Wings, losers by lop-sided scores in the first two games of their best-of-seven semi-final series against Toronto St. Michaels, will tackle the Collegians for the third game.

The Irish will still be without defenceman Ted McLean, injured in the series opener, and forward Johnny Blute is a doubtful starter.

At St. Catharines tonight Oshawa Generals, boasting a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five junior A play-off series with the local Falcons, have an opportunity to finish them off and qualify for a semi-final berth against Toronto Marlboros, who eliminated Toronto Young Rangers in straight games earlier this week.

Toronto, March 2 (CP)—You'd think from the manner in which Jack Frost works that ice making is just a matter of getting a bunch of water and then getting things cold enough. The curlers'll tell you it isn't so. Ice, even outside a long tall drink, is something special.

So for the Macdonald's Brier curling championships at Saskatoon starting Monday the curlers have their ice specialist along—Bert Wylie of Winnipeg who has been making ice for curling champions for years and years and years.

Wylie, veteran of two wars, is 56 and is the icemaker for the Winnipeg Grand Exchange Club. He has a perfect record for the ice he turned out for Manitoba bonspiels at the Winnipeg amphitheatre for five years. He credits his ice-making ability to an apprenticeship served under Bill Murdoch, one of the veterans of ice-making in Manitoba.

TICKET SALES INDICATE LARGE CROWDS FOR SPIEL

Renowned Quartets From Across Canada Gather at Saskatoon

Saskatoon, March 2 (CP)—The Dominion curling bonspiel will be revived Monday for the first time since 1942 and ticket sales indicate that from 2,500 to 3,000 spectators will be on hand for every draw.

Today curling is the main topic of conversation here as renowned quartets from throughout the Dominion arrived to participate in the Brier Cup competition—symbolic of Canadian curling supremacy.

Bert Wylie of Winnipeg, one of the country's best ice-men, together with his helpers, started working in the arena last night to prepare the ice for the long-awaited event.

Champion rinks from British Columbia and Alberta are scheduled to arrive here early today and other quartets from Manitoba, Northern Ontario, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia will arrive tonight. The Saskatchewan entrant is a Saskatoon rink.

In addition to curling, the visiting curlers have a full program lined up for them. They will be met at the station by the Saskatoon Light Infantry pipe band and tomorrow will attend the annual Brier church service. A buffet supper will follow the service at which the draw for the week's play will be made.

The playdowns will conclude with two draws Thursday. In the event of a tie, the play-off will be on Thursday night.

CANADIENS MEET DETROIT WINGS IN TWO-GAME SERIES

Chicago Hawks Meet Boston and Toronto Leafs Over the Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Canadiens, leading the National Hockey League by a slender two-point margin, can boost themselves a lot closer to their third consecutive league title as they take on the fourth-place Detroit Red Wings in a home-and-home doubleheader over the week-end.

The second-place Chicago Black Hawks, seriously hampered by loss of their two high-scoring Bentley brothers, face the Boston Bruins in Chicago Sunday after taking on the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto the night before.

Leafs' interest in the game will be purely academic, as they were virtually eliminated from play-off contention by the surprising New York Rangers, perennial cellar-dwellers, who slapped Leafs down in Toronto Wednesday night and then obligingly bowed to the Red Wings in Detroit Thursday.

Bruins, however, a scant point back of the Hawks and only three points ahead of the spurting Red Wings, are expected to give the Hawks quite a battle.

One Toronto player with a more than casual interest in the week-end's proceedings will be Gaye Stewart, who has the league goal-scoring title practically in his pocket — if he can score a goal.

Stewart is currently tied with Chicago's Max Bentley with 30 goals apiece, but with the Delisle, Sask., speedster sidelined indefinitely with injuries, it would appear that the Torontonian only has to find the range once more in the next eight games.

Bentley has a comfortable 11-point margin in point-scoring over Stewart and teammate Bill Mosienko with 53 points to their 42.

LESSON NO. 925

By SAM GORDON

JACK LEADS

When Elva Tyme begins to play, her brain must take a holiday. Just what she thinks with, I agree, will always be a mystery. But what is worse than any sin, she leads from fright or with her chin.

My pounding at the same subject is not for you. It is for the benefit of your inattentive partner. Or as a reminder to that cute little chronic forgetter, Elva Tyme.

You can make or get a list of all the combinations containing honors. You can mark the honor card to lead from each cluster. Then, if you insist, you can memorize the entire table.

That is the cumbersome way of doing the job. However, there is a handier and easier method. Simply learn the general rule. That tells you the exact honor card to lead and what it means.

With A K and other cards in that suit, lead the king. From all other groups, lead the top of the sequence. That covers every clump of honors in which they are known as a sequence.

From A K alone, lead the ace. From K Q J or K Q 10, lead king. From A Q J or Q J 10 or Q J 9, lead queen. From A J 10 or K J 10 or J 10 9 or J 10 8, lead the jack. In each case it is the sequence top.

Notice what the top of the sequence always shows. It promises the card immediately below. It denies the card immediately above. It does not deny or admit an untouching higher honor.

Thus, when partner leads a jack, expect him to have the ten and know he does not have the queen. But you must discover whether he has the king or ace, if either.

Suppose partner leads the heart jack when you have these hearts:

♥A 8 3

You must believe he has the heart ten. You must believe he has not the heart queen. If dummy has not the king, it must be in declarer.

When the reason is plain, it may stay in your brain.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 2 (AP) — Canada, which already has contributed such stars as Mary Pickford, Marie Dressler, Walter Pidgeon, Norma Shearer, Deanna Durbin, Ned Sparks, and Alexander Knox, now donates a comedian to the Hollywood scene.

Alan Young of Vancouver, one of the few successful comics from above the border, is appearing in 20th-Fox's "Margie," and has been signed for more pictures. His current engagement here is considerably more fruitful than his last.

"I came to Hollywood in 1937, intent on breaking into the movies," said the 26-year-old funnyman. "I had an introduction to an agent and called him up. Before he came to the phone I could hear him bawling someone out. He was so frightening I hung up and left town."

Like most comics, Young is not particularly funny offstage. Born in England and raised in Vancouver, he is quietly charming, blond and fair-skinned.

Young's Canadian capers first attracted his countrymen. Then he brought his radio show to the United States and found equal success. I inquired whether the United States and Canadian senses of humor differ.

"No, they are pretty much the same, largely because the United States radio shows are heard up there, too," he said. "As a matter of fact, the United States type of humor is becoming dominant, even in England, where Jack Benny and others are being heard now."

He classified British humor, which also is evident in Canada, as more subtle and esoteric, whereas the United States brand is more self-evident, as violently exemplified by Abbott and Costello. He cited an example of Canadian style, which he couldn't use here because of Allied sensibilities. He impersonated a British announcer saying:

"We would like to extend felicitations to the colonies — to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, China—oh dear me, China isn't ours, is it?"

AT THE BELLE

"Duffy's Tavern"

Many radio fans who are already hepped on the word-mangling Ed Gardner (Archie) of air-wave fame, will get a good glimpse of that prize prodigy in Paramount's "Duffy's Tavern", star-studded musical comedy which comes today to the Belle Theatre.

Previewers say fans won't be disappointed. Not only does Archie bring to the screen his own unique talents, but he also surrounds himself with "such gorgeous hunks of punkratude" as Betty Hutton, Paulette Goddard, Dorothy Lamour and Veronica Lake. In addition to all this feminine glamour, there's an assembly of masculine heart-throbs which could "out-sheik" the great Valentino himself. The list includes Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, Sonny Tufts, Arturo de Cordova and Barry Sullivan. Barry plays the romantic lead opposite Marjorie Reynolds. Yes, there's all this bright material, along with Bing Crosby, Eddie Bracken, Victor Moore, Bob Benchley, Barry Fitzgerald and practically every star on the Paramount lot to boot. Then, of course, Ed's got his own gang with him which includes Charley Cantor, the cotton-mouthed "Finnegan", Eddie Green, the waiter, and Ann Thomas (Miss Duffy).

Well, when a picture has an array of talent like the above-mentioned, the chances are it's going to be a pretty entertaining bit of cinema, which it reputedly is.

SEDGEWICK RINK WILL REPRESENT ALBERT IN SPIEL

Each Member of Team Has Curled About 15 Years and Two Experienced in Brier Play

Edmonton, March 2 (CP)— If the four skipped by Billy Rose of Sedgewick, Alta., fails to show to advantage when it enters the Macdonald's Brier curling competition at Saskatoon March 4, it won't be for lack of experience.

Each member of his team has curled for about 15 years.

Rose is a grain buyer. Bartley Swelin, who plays third, is a garageman; Austin Smith, second, a buttermaker, and George Crooks, lead a druggist. For this year's Alberta entry, it will be their first year in Brier competition, though Crooks and Rose participated in the 1939 and 1941 events.

Of his chances in this year's Brier, skip Rose is modestly hopeful. "I have had the experience," he said, "and I have had good support."

His fellow curlers say he, too, has backed them up, and even though Manitoba rinks have copped the majority of the Brier Tankards over the years they feel their entry will give a good account of itself.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 2 (AP)—Al Valentine, general manager of the Roosevelt raceway, has been touring the south looking for a permanent winter training track for the nags that trot or pace on Long Island all summer. Right now the choice seems to be between Orlando, Fla., and Camp Wheeler, near Macon, Ga...John Nash, Caracas, Venezuela, fight promoter, wants to "import" Jackie Wilson to fight Oscar Calles, Venezuelan lightweight, late this month..Latest gag about the National Hockey League no-gambling edict is what will Frank McCool do about the $22.50 he won in a hockey pool when he refereed a midget game at Sudbury, Ont. The pay-off was based on scores of Toronto Maple Leafs, McCool's team..Cal Gardner, promoted from the amateur hockey Rovers in mid season to make the Rangers look less amateurish, has been picked as the outstanding player in the Eastern United States League..Folks who saw Lou (Braves) Tost and Charley (Cubs) Gilbert play in the Pacific Service League last summer, tab them as two greatly improved ball players.

PRAYED ON ICE FLOE

Toronto, March 2 (CP)—Praying on an icefloe near the breakwater wall at Sunnyside yesterday, an unidentified man came to shore when a large group of onlookers shouted at him from the beach. He made his way over 150 feet of thin ice, and disappeared after distributing a number of religious tracts. Police and lifesavers who later scoured the area said they could find no trace of the man.

SENT TO TRAINING SCHOOL

Brockville, March 2 (CP)—A 14-year-old boy of Lansdowne, Ont., was sentenced in court yesterday to St. John's Industrial School, Toronto, for an indefinite term after pleading guilty to two charges of arson and one of attempted arson. A barn and 27 head of cattle were lost in one of the fires.

V. D. Increases In Canadian Army Civil Population

Ottawa, March 2 —(AP)— Venereal diseases are on the increase in the Canadian army and among the Dominion's civilian population despite efforts to control the illnesses which frequently are the forerunners of blindness, sterility and mental ailments, it was disclosed today.

Army venereal disease control officers disclosed the rate of gonorrhoea and syphilis in the Canadian army has increased nearly two-fold since last summer, and that many of the new cases were contracted from the Canadian civilian population.

Army control officers said that it was an "unfortunate fact" that between 50 and 70 per cent of the new cases in the army were among servicemen recently returned from overseas.

"But it is also a fact that the diseases are contracted after disembarkation in this country, and from the Canadian civilian population," the officers said.

"Much venereal disease, previously hidden in our civilian communities, is being brought to light by army personnel reporting the contacts from whom they have allegedly acquired their infection while on disembarkation leave."

No figures were given to indicate the rate of the diseases either among the troops at home or the Canadian troops overseas.

Control amongst civilians is hampered by the fact a great deal of "prudery" still exists where venereal diseases are concerned.

"Unlike soldiers, civilians are apt to conceal the infection and attempt to treat it themselves, whereas in the army this is not a factor," said the officers. "In addition, in civilian health departments the increase of personnel allocated to V.D. work has not kept pace during the war with the needs of the V.D. control program.

"Sustained personal and community efforts must be increased if the many factors responsible for the spread of venereal disease are to be controlled effectively."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Worcester, Mass.: J. Mooney, 148, Shrewsbury, Mass., stopped Oscar Suggs, 150, Newport, R.I., (8).

CRIMINALLY ASSAULTED

Toronto, March 2 (CP) — A mother of three from nearby Uxbridge was criminally assaulted and robbed of $2.50 last night by a man who forced her into a lumber yard as she left an East Toronto railway station. The woman had arrived by train to visit a sister here.

She told police that as she left the station a man pressed what she believed was a gun against her back, guided her to the lumber yard and threw her to the ground. After releasing her, he took contents of her purse and fled.

AT THE McCARTHY — Is anybody there? Rex Harrison skeptically regards the coat that is held for him by unseen hands in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," in Technicolor, the sophisticated story of an alluring ghost who returns to earth to harass her husband and his second wife, now at the McCarthy Theatre, through United Artists.

Vancouver Team Assured of Bye Into the Finals

Vancouver, March 2 — (CP)— Play-off time is rolling around on British Columbia's senior hockey fronts and the closer the finals get the more complicated they appear.

Whether Pacific coast teams will be able to enter the Allan Cup playdowns is problematical because of their commitments in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

At present, Vancouver Canucks are sailing along in front of northern division teams and are assured of a bye into the finals. Portland and Seattle are tied for second place with New Westminster Royals in the cellar with mathematical chances of getting into the playoffs very slim.

In the event that Vancouver advances to the coast finals against winners of the P. C. L. southern division, they may not be able to enter the provincial playdowns on March 22 and coach Paul Thomson of Canucks has asked for a six-day delay.

Oakland Oaks currently are heading the five-team southern division of the P.C.L. with San Diego in second spot and Hollywood, Los Angeles and San Francisco following.

The inter-provincial junior playdowns get under way at Nanaimo, B.C. tonight with Edmonton Canadians meeting Nanaimo Clippers in the first game of a best-of-five series.

Nanaimo retained their Pacific Coast junior championship when they eliminated New Westminster Cubs two-straight in a best-of-three league final and then turned back Trail, interior champions, without any difficulty in 2 more straight triumphs of a scheduled best-of-three series.

RECEIVES GOOD OFFER

Toronto, March 2 — (CP) — George Hayes, of Ingersoll, Ont., who is considered without peer as a referee for the Ontario Hockey Association, has been invited to accept a similar position in the United States League, it was learned today.

Hayes, however, has decided to stick with the O.H.A. while his services are needed, but may take over the U. S. League position around the end of March.

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, March 2 (CP) — Producer Herman Shumlin and playwright Robert Ardrey dropped a dramatic blockbuster onto some ground that already had been pretty thoroughly plowed this season when they opened "Jeb" here. The majority of local critics blitzed right back at the drama, which folded two nights ago after nine performances.

"Jeb" is another play dealing with race friction in the southern United States. Unlike its immediate predecessors, "Deep Are The Roots" and "Strange Fruit," it had violent, thunderous impact and—particularly in contrast to the latter—strong dramatic potentialities.

Its sustained anger as it tells of anti-Negro bigotry jarred a first-night audience and for many blurred the fact that the playwright stacked the deck before he told the story.

Usually well-informed carrier pidgeons have dropped in to report:

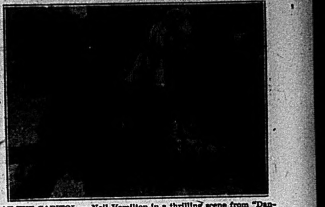
In Hollywood, Universal Pictures has bought the screen rights of "Up In Central Park" and will start shooting in 1947 with Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin top-billed.

A New York record — that for shows with all-Negro casts —will be set at today's matinee when "Anna Lucasta" hits 641, topping by one the 'Green Pastures' mark established 15 years ago.

Locally of Canadian interest is the news Walter Huston's current play, "Apple Of His Eye," is over the financial hump and selling tickets four weeks ahead.

RESULT OF TYPING ERROR

Johannesburg (CP)—After a voyage half-way round the world a letter has been returned to an official of the Potchefstroom University College in the Transvaal. It was addressed to a man at K[illegible]nas in the Cape, but a typing error on the envelope spelt the name of the place Nahamas. It was sent first to Bermuda and thence to the Bahamas.



AT THE CAPITOL — Neil Hamilton in a thrilling scene from "Dangerous Lady," with June Storey and a splendid supporting cast, starting next at the Capitol. On the same program "Two Yanks in Trinidad," with Pat O'Brien and Brian Donlevy.

SHORT OF SKILLED LABOR

Ottawa March 2 (CP)—Shortage of skilled labor in Canada's textile mills is the main reason for present shortages in suits and overcoats, a Prices Board spokesman said yesterday. He said wage scales in the textile industry were lower than in many other skilled trades, and that men and women who left the industry to take highly-paid jobs in war plants were reluctant to return to their old trades.

PRICE OF STEEL UP

Washington, March 2 (AP) — The office of Price Administration last night announced price increases ranging from $2 to $12 a ton for all basic steel products. The agency said the new price schedule met terms of the government's Feb. 15 directive which authorized an average price hike of $5 a ton for total output of basic carbon and alloy steel products.

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 15

Gina sat very still, while she waited for Timothy's answer to Phil's questions. Timothy, it appeared, was very hungry, and he waited to give Harry the order before speaking; then his brown eyes sought Phil's quietly. "Plans are not definite yet. It is true Colonel Bob does or rather has suggested the suite in the Medical Arts, but it's purely tentative as yet. As to my children ..any reason why a doctor shouldn't practice pediatrics in the Medical Arts as well as in a hospital or anywhere else?"

"None at all," Phil smiled, "but as a society doctor.."

Timothy broke in, "I have no intention of becoming a society doctor. None at all."

"That's what you think!" Phil was smiling again, a smile that was just a little too smug. Gina put in, "Timothy couldn't be a society doctor if he tried. He's not cut out for it."

"She's right," Timothy echoed with conviction, "and here are the sandwiches. Please excuse me while I get busy. I've got work to do, and must hurry."

Timothy had two sandwiches and three cups of coffee, while Phil and Gina dawdled over one. Very soon he was leaving. "Good night..Hasta luego," he called back and was gone.

Phil said, "What an appetite!"

"So do you. And so do I..for that matter," Phil said moodily. He waited a moment, went on, "You're right, Gina. Timothy's not cut out for a society doctor, but he'll turn into one just the same. The odds are piled against him. But when it comes to myself, I'd do all right. I'd go for it. But—no soap."

"You mean..you tried?"

Phil smiled. "I mean I tried and succeeded in making a date with the illustrious Cynthia. She's not averse to a little flirtation. She might even be willing to have a sort of undercover affair..but she's completely sold on the idea of marriage to Timothy."

"Phil, that wasn't nice of you at all."

"I should think you'd be glad."

"I'm not. I think you .. you're revolting."

"Women are certainly a queer lot. Here I do you a favor, or try to, and you call me names."

"It was a very small and..and yes, a dirty thing to do," Gina said sternly. "And I'm glad Cynthia had the grace to be loyal."

"Cynthia is not loyal. She doesn't even know the meaning of the word."

After a minute, Phil said, "I forgot to mention that Cynthia introduced me to a lot of her friends. Practically all of them debutantes with everything that goes with that sort of thing."

"Well, then, you're on your way, aren't you? Isn't that what you've always wanted?"

Phil said strangely, "Funny, but now that the way is opened up, and it seems easy, I'm not as keen about it as I was."

They said good night then, Phil getting in his car and driving up town. Probably to see some of the girls to whom Cynthia had introduced him. Gina went to her room, trying not to hear over and over, Timothy's voice when he'd admitted that Cynthia's father had suggested plans for a suite in the Medical Arts.

Lora was in bed and asleep. She had been seeing Pete when he had passes in town from his army base which was nearby, and gradually some of the tension in her mind and nerves was disappearing.

Gina went to bed early. She went out in the evenings more seldom than ever nowadays. Nurses being so scarce, and extra duty always coming unexpectedly, to say nothing of emergencies, any nurse was wise to get sleep when she could. But, she had to admit, it did get monotonous.

The next morning she'd hardly started on the charts when Phil came in. "Last night I meant to tell you about Pryor. He doesn't believe Thomson's case operable." Thomson was the heart case down on the main floor.

Gina looked at him, studying his face. "But you do, don't you?"

Phil nodded.

"But you're afraid to risk your judgment?"

"Heart operations are still in their infancy, Gina."

"Talked it over with Timothy?"

"I might have expected that. What does Timothy know about hearts, except breaking them," he added.

"I might have expected that, too," Gina put in. Then she narrowed her eyes. "Look, Phil, aren't you skipping a bet? What about Doctor Edson? His hands are crippled up. But there's nothing the matter with his mind. And he knows hearts."

Phil's dark face lightened. "Gina, I do believe you've got something there." After a minute, he said, "I'm going to see him at once."

At noon the telephone rang. A deep, warm voice said, "I'd like to speak to Miss Beatty, if you please."

Gina would have recognized that voice if she'd heard it in Timbuctoo. Doctor Lucian Pryor. Barbara Beatty was in the building. Gina said, "Just a minute. I'll see if I can find her." She left the set lying on the desk, went out in the corridor. Barbara still in uniform was standing at the far end of the corridor, doing nothing but looking out the window. She turned hearing Gina's step. "I think we're going to have some snow. You can feel it in the air."

"Snow would be nice, I think. We don't have enough of it." Then she said, "Barbara, Doctor Pryor is on the phone. He wants to speak to you."

Barbara stood there motionless. The only sign of her agitation was that her face was almost as pale as death itself. She said, "Tell him.." for a moment her voice sounded so choked Gina was afraid she couldn't go on, but she did. "I do not wish to speak to him."

Gina picked up the set. "I'm sorry, but Miss Beatty doesn't want to speak to you."

The rich voice came back, "Did she say she was sorry or are you merely being polite?"

"No, she didn't. I..just put that in."

"Very kind of you. Thank you and good-bye."

Gina had never felt so sorry for anybody in her life as she had when Barbara had stood there looking white, struggling with herself to say the words she knew should be said. Gina knew it hadn't been easy. She even caught herself feeling just the tiniest bit sorry for Lucian Pryor. There had been a distinctly husky note in his voice when he'd said "very kind of you and good-bye."

It was a busy day. At two o'clock Nora Choate called up. She'd found Patsy's address, and she wanted Gina to go and see her at once. The child wasn't at all well, and everything else was wrong too, as Gina would find out.

It was nearly five o'clock before Gina found a breathing spell. The address Nora had given her was a considerable distance from town, out beyond the wholesale district, past the cemetery, a very drab part of town, as Gina happened to know.

She met Timothy in the corridor a minute or two past five. It was plain he'd had a hard day. His eyes were tired and his clothes disheveled. "Could you spare your car for an hour or two?" Gina asked.

"As long as you like, Gina," his answer came without hesitation.

"I won't keep it a minute longer than I have to, but if I'm late can you manage?"

He nodded. "I'm going in town, but will take a cab, if you're not back."

"You're awfully nice, Timothy. Thanks." Gina's first thought was that he had a date with Cynthia. Well, he usually did, didn't he?

She got off duty at six, ate supper and was soon on the way. She'd hardly started before it began to snow, and there wasn't any mistaking this snow was coming down in earnest; great, enormous flakes that almost from the first made it hard for the windshield wiper to keep the glass clean.

It was too bad, but she simply had to creep along even if she was in a hurry. The density of the snow was already making driving rather dangerous, since she could see only a very few feet in front of her.

It was fully seven when she reached the tumbled-down cottage where Patsy's relatives lived. If the place looked unprepossessing outside, it was a thousand times worse inside. There were five children huddled before a wood fire in the fire-place, from which a number of bricks were missing.

The mother, a slatternly-looking woman, of perhaps 35, looked at Gina with a face devoid of expression. "You're the one that come about Patsy?"

Gina said eagerly, "Yes, where is she?"

"Over there." The woman pointed to the far end of the room. Patsy lay on a sort of cot-bed, covered with a soiled blanket. The woman lit a lamp with a smokey chimney and brought it over to the cot. Patsy was sleeping. What a change in just a few short weeks. She was much thinner, and her little face was flushed with fever.

"She's been poorly a few days" the woman volunteered. "Don't want nothin' to eat, won't play with any of the chillun." The woman pulled up a rickety straight chair, made an inviting gesture. Gina sat down. "I jes plumb don't know what to do with her."

"Well, you see, my old man — he's got a notion he wants to change his job. We wuz agoin' to Californy—only seems like he's been froze..leastways that's what they tole us. So my husband, he says we gotta take Patsy with us. She's kin to him, not me. Patsy's mother was his sister."

"Where is her father?"

"Killed in the war."

Patsy opened her eyes then. Gina bent over her, "Hello, Patsy!" The child stared at her, blinked her eyes; then suddenly sat up and held out her arms. Gina clasped the feverish little body in her arms, "Oh, Patsy.. little love, oh, my dear little Patsy," she was murmuring brokenly, fighting back the hot, heavy tears that crowded in her eyes.

"We got five, you see. It ain't that I got anything against Patsy," the woman began apologetically.

"No, of course not," Gina agreed.

"Why don't you take her home with you if you want her?" the woman said suddenly, as if reading Gina's thoughts.

"You mean I could? It would be all right?"

"Benjy don't care. He'd be glad to git rid of her. He's done said he was sorry he went and got her."

"Well, here he is now. You kin jes ask him."

Someone was outside the door stamping the snow off his shoes. In another minute he came in. He looked much younger than his wife, who appeared to be nearer 50 than the 35 she really was.

"This is a nurse. She wants to take Patsy home with her," his wife explained.

Gina said, "Thank you. I can assure you I'll take good care of her." Gina looked at his wife. "I want to get started before the snow gets any worse." Will you get Patsy's coat, and some .... heavy stockings. She's a little feverish and we'll have to wrap her up carefully.

"She hasn't got any coat or any stockings," the woman said firmly. "She's only got what she's got on and one other dress."

Patsy was wearing a thin and ragged flannelette night gown which was several sizes too large for her. She'd had nice things while at the hospital, little home-made dresses and caps. Gina had seen them. But she thought she understood Patsy's things were being kept for the other children. It was like a mother, after all, even if it wasn't honest.

Gina said, "Never mind. I'll wrap her in my coat and scarf."

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Puds Simkins and Mary Watkins was up on the Avenue looking through the window of the ladies hat store, and some lady was inside the store trying on a hat and then taking it off and trying on another one and then putting the ferst one on again as if she couldn't make up her mind.

Being a big square lady with a naturelly worried expression anyways, and I said, bet you I know which one she'll buy.

So do I, Mary Watkins said. She'll take the little one with the bow in the back, because that's the cutest one on her and makes her look the best, she said, and I said, No she wont either, she'll take the big high one that's the funniest looking.

Sure, ladies always buy the hats that make them look the funniest, Puds said, and Mary Watkins said, That just shows how much you boys know. I'm just sure she'll take the little one, it looks just perfect on her, she said.

Then that's just why she wont buy it, I said. Oh boy look, she's trying the big pointy one on again, I said, and Puds said, She's trying to make up her mind if it reely makes her look funny enough.

Let's help her by standing out here laughing, so then she'll realize it reely does make her look funny, and she'll buy it, I said.

Sounding like a good idea and fun besides, and me and Puds started to point inside the store and pretend to laugh like anything, and the hat store lady quick ran out saying, Stop that and go away this minute or I'll call a policeman.

The result being we waited a little ways up the street to see which hat the lady came out wearing, only she came out with her old hat on and carrying the new one in a big hat box, the result being we'll probably never find out who guessed right.

Hog Marketing Scheme in Effect After April 1st.

Toronto, March 2 (CP)—Ontario hog marketing scheme, under the Farm Products Act, will go into effect April 1, Ontario Agriculture Minister Thomas I. Kennedy yesterday told the Ontario Hog Producers' Association.

The scheme, President Charles McInnis later explained to the convention, enables producers to determine in what quantity and of what quality their hogs will be sent to market, and to establish the time and place of marketing. After this had been accomplished, he added, bargaining as to price could be carried on.

In another address to the convention, J. L. Croome of the British food mission at Ottawa said Canadian bacon filled from one-half to one-third the entire British bacon ration and was the best on the market during the war years.

If Canada is to hold the bacon market, Secretary W. E. Tummon of the association told the convention, a higher general quality must be attained, supply made more regular, and a volume maintained to afford adequate coverage of the market.

Three Thousand New Canadians Arrive at Weekend

Halifax, March 2 —(CP)— Embarkation officials watched the last train speed out of this port with 800 wives and dependents of Canadian overseas veterans today and quickly turned their arrangements for the arrival this weekend of two more vessels. Total number of new Canadians to pass through Halifax for their homes in the Dominion will reach 3,000.

The liner Scythia docked yesterday and the Aquitania, originally due today, has been delayed by heavy seas. She will dock tomorrow with more than 1,000 dependents aboard, in addition to 100 civilian Ministry of War Transport and other passengers.

The former hospital ship Letitia was expected to dock Monday morning with approximately the same number of wives and children of Canadian service personnel aboard as the Scythia brought across the Atlantic.

Among the civilian passengers aboard the Aquitania were Prince Eric of Denmark, his daughter, Countess Rosenburg, Sir George Rendell, British representative of the European committee of U.N.R.R.A. and a U.N.O. delegate, and Lady Rendell.

HORSEMEAT SHIPPED

Washington, March 2 —(AP)— Two million pounds of United States horsemeat has been shipped to foreign nations but the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has requests for 300,000,000 pounds more and has told packing plants it will take their entire output for 1946.

An U.N.R.R.A. spokesman estimated, however, that only about 100,000,000 pounds will be available.

Dartford, Kent, England (CP) —Mrs. May Davis said her husband, recently returned from the war, talked in his sleep of a girl he had been friendly with in Italy. Her separation order was refused.

STIRLING EVENS FINAL SERIES BY WINNING 8-3

Smarting from the unexpected defeat handed them in the first game, and flashing the form that carried them through to lead the "C" entries in the loop, the Stirling-Marmora Combines jumped back into the titular running in Hastings last night when they defeated the home town squad 8-3 to even the Junior "C" finals series.

The third and deciding game will be played in Stirling tonight.

The affair was a nip and tuck battle for the first period with the Hastings squad scoring the only goal after repeated efforts of the Stirling squad were thwarted by the exceptional work of McKenty in the nets.

The second chukker was productive of hard and fast checking with flashes of wide open play. Stirling sent wave after wave of attackers swarming around the Hastings nets and when the smoke of period battle had cleared the Combines were the odd goal in seven up.

The third period was all Stirling from a scoring point at least. Inspired by their second period success, and with victory in sight, the Combines raced to the attack and scored four times in a brilliant display of hockey to put the game in the bag.

Trumbull was the star of the game scoring four goals and being credited with an assist for the Combines. Lavender and Bastedo turned in stellar efforts for the winners with McInroy in the nets doing yeoman service.

The teams:

Stirling Combines—Goal, McInroy; defence, Whitehead, Cousins; centre, Trumbull; wings, Bastedo, Lavender; subs, Stapley, Courtney, Wright, Desjardins.

1st Period

1 Hastings—Pettigrew, (Lonsbury) 5.15
Penalties—West 2, Utman, Lonsbury, Whitehead.

2nd Period

2 Stirling—Courtney .. 1.00
3 Stirling—Trumbull .. 1.35
4 Stirling—Trumbull (Lavender) 5.10
5 Hastings—Lonsburk (S. Lonsbury) 5.45
6 Stirling—Trumbull .. 11.50
7 Hastings—Pettigrew 19.15
Penalties—West (major), Cousins.

3rd Period

8 Stirling—Lavender (Bastedo) 10.10
9 Stirling—Trumbull (Cousins) 10.40
10 Stirling—Lavender (Bastedo) 11.50

Canada's War-Born Diamond Cutting Industry Produces Sparkling Gems For Peacetime Markets

In the Toronto diamond-cutting plant, only one like it in Canada, rough stones are first "inked" (above) so that sawing with bronze wheels tipped with diamond dust and oil will eliminate flaws and impurities. It takes a half day to saw through a one-carat stone. An operator (above) inspects a diamond secured in a metal "dop" which is held against a rotating steel disk for cutting facets. This requires great skill from the operator or "brilliantier". The sparkling gems (above) produced by Canadian workers trained according to Dutch methods, are ready for grading as to quality and color and will be fashioned into modern jewels, as shown here.

Churchill Speech Made Possible By Former Canadian

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington — (CP) — Next March 5 will be a red-letter day in the history of Fulton, Mo., population 8,297, last census) when Winston Churchill, introduced by President Truman, will deliver the Green Foundation address at Westminster College (average registration 350).

This tremendous event in the life of a little college town stems directly from the public spirit and generosity of Montreal-born Eleanor Ibbotson, the enterprise and initiative of Dr. Franc L. "Bullet" McCluer, Westminster's president, and the influence of Missouri's favorite son — Harry Truman.

Eleanor Ibbotson was married in 1893 to John Findley Green, St. Louis attorney and graduate of Westminster's class of 1884. In 1937 she gave the college $10,000 to provide for annual lectures on international affairs—a foundation in memory of her husband.

When Mrs. Green died a year ago she left an additional $10,000 for the foundation. None of this will go to Mr. Churchill who advised the college he would not accept a fee.

Another Canadian link in this chain of circumstances; the late Dr. O. D. Skelton, then Canadian under-secretary of external affairs, delivered the first Green foundation address in 1937.

Aim of Lectures

The foundation terms set the aim of the annual lectures as "the promotion of a better understanding of economic and social problems which are international," and suggest that the speaker "shall be a man of international reputation."

Last September Dr. McCluer was reminded by his calendar that he must arrange for a Green foundation lecturer—"a man of international reputation."

The daring idea occurred to him to try for Winston Churchill. Dr. McCluer got his nickname "Bullet" because of his rapid fire oratory as a college debater, and his quick thinking coupled with action.

The "Bullet" influence sent him straight to Washington to enlist the aide of a Westminster grad— Brig.-Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to the president.

Gen. Vaughan was enthusiastic and took Dr. McCluer to the president who said he would help. He not only forwarded the invitation to Mr. Churchill but initialled it himself with the notation that if Mr. Churchill accepted, he, Mr. Truman, would introduce him.

The Churchill acceptance came about the same time official announcement was made in London that the former Prime Minister would go to Miami for a winter holiday, early in January.

Travels With President

Mr. Churchill will come to Washington March 4 and travel to Fulton with the president by special train. He will return to Washington and remain here until March 15 when he is to receive a civic reception in New York and remain there until his scheduled sailing date, March 19.

Meanwhile Fulton and the college are faced with an expected influx of 30,000 to 50,000 people to see and hear (most of them by loudspeaker) the former prime minister and the president.

There is one small hotel and virtually no accommodation for any large number of visitors. Fulton is off the railway line on route 54 between Jefferson City, the state capital on the south, and Mexico, horse-breeding centre to the north.

The president and his party will leave the train at Jefferson City and motor to Fulton. After the address both will receive honorary degrees of doctor of laws, and they will spend the night at the home of R. P. Green, millionaire horse-breeder at Mexico.

But if the weather is fine it is expected that many thousands middle-westerners will be bedless and hungry on Fulton's great day unless they take along their bed-rolls and lunch baskets.

Loan Not to Set Precedent Truman Tells Congress

Washington, March 1 (AP)—The administration told United States Congress today that granting of a proposed $3,750,000,000 credit to Britain "will not be a precedent for a loan to any other country."

The statement was made in a report by the national advisory council on international monetary and financial problems. President Truman forwarded it to Congress with a notice that he soon would ask expansion of the export-import bank's lending authority from $2,000,000,000 to $3,250,000,000.

In his accompanying message the President said "I fully endorse" limiting future foreign loans through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, to the amount of the export-import bank's capital under the proposed expansion.

His recommendations would channel all future loan applications to the export-import bank, unlike the British loan which will require special congressional authorization.

"The British case is unique," the council report said, adding:

"This government can meet only a small proportion of the undoubtedly large needs of foreign countries for credits for reconstruction and development."

Additional export-import capital, the council explained, would be used to help needy foreign nations until they can obtain help from the international bank established under the Bretton Woods agreement. The international bank will become "the principal agency to make foreign loans," the report said.

Bank of England Changes Ownership

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 1 — (CP Cable)—In a high-ceilinged room with medallions in white relief on a pale blue background, the old lady of Threadneedle Street—the Bank of England — changed today from private to public ownership.

In her 252nd year she saw familiar faces among the new court of directors as they filed into the court room. Lord Catto still sat at the governor's place at the top of the long table, where he sat yesterday when the directors met for the last time as representatives of a private firm.

Although the bank now belongs completely to the state, the business discussed by the court today was much as usual since its relation to the treasury continued as in the past.

The bank developed over the years into controller and manager of the complex monetary system of Britain, always responsible to the government in the ultimate but enjoying wide powers of its own.

Labor government legislation making it a state possession has been criticized on the grounds, among others, that it now is given too much power over other banks which it may use if necessary in following through government policy.

It is expected it will continue to be a "banker's bank," looked to for guidance as in the past although now it has power to enforce as a government agency monetary policies considered best.

He will be away a month and will be joined en route by William Watson, Assistant Director of the Livestock Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Company Dismisses 33 Employees For Causing Work Stoppage

Niagara Falls, March 1—(CP)—Thirty-two men and one woman were mailed dismissal notices by the Herbert Morris Crane and Hoist Company today following a work stoppage yesterday in an attempt by the employees to force the company into continuing negotiations on a proposed collective bargaining agreement.

None of the workers returned to work today to begin picketing the plant this morning. They also picketed the Employment Service office and notified all persons seeking employment of the strike at the crane and hoist factory.

Company officials said the dismissal notices were effective immediately and they had agreed to all union proposals except ones for union security and deduction of union dues from the workers' pay.

Headhunter's Son Now Noted Pastor

Melbourne, Australia (CP) — Sara Rore, a Solomon Islands chieftain and son of a headhunter, was one of the speakers at a conference of a religious organization.

Black, with pierced ears, he was dressed in white shirt and dark tie, a civilian suit coat, cloth shirt, stockings and polished shoes.

He was ordained a minister of the organization in 1937 and has mastered typewriters, duplicators, printing and five languages, including English.

When white missionaries were evacuated from the islands during the war, Pastor Sara Rore became supervisor of 20 missions and 700 followers on Guadalcanal Island.

4 CIVIL SERVANTS NAMED IN SPY RING CASE

Operations Were Under Direction Of Russian Officer

Network of Agents Sought Confidential Information

Ottawa, March 4 — (CP)—The government announced today that four civil servants have communicated, directly or indirectly, "secret and confidential information" to representatives of the Soviet Union in violation of the official Secrets Act of 1939.

Mrs. Emma Wolkin, a cipher clerk in the External Affairs Department who communicated to the Russians the contents of secret telegrams.

Capt. Gordon Lunan, a member of the Canadian Information Service, who was described by Mr. King as "the head of a group of agents" acting under the "personal direction" of Lt.-Col. Rogov, assistant Russian military attache here.

Edward Wilfred Mazerall, an electrical engineer in the National Research Council working on radar, who was described as one of the group headed by Lunan and who furnished two reports of the council on "certain developments" on radar.

Kathleen Mary Willsher, employed in the office of the British High Commissioner as Deputy Registrar, who had "access to practically all secret documents in that office and made disclosures of the contents of some secret documents from that office."

It said:

"The evidence indicates that, in addition, many other agents were active and that information more intrinsically important has been disclosed. We are not, however, as yet in a position to report with regard thereto as the evidence has not been fully developed."

The commission said it was reporting on the four persons' names because the investigation into their part in the spy ring had been concluded.

The report made no reference to charges which might be laid against the persons named.

No Referernces to Others

Nor did it refer to the nine other persons known to have been in custody since the investigation was made public Feb. 15.

The report said that evidence established that a "network of undercover agents has been organized and developed for the purpose of obtaining secret and confidential information, particularly from employees of departments and agencies of the Dominion Government and from an employee of the office of the High Commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada."

It disclosed that these operations were carried on "under direct instructions from Moscow" by "certain members" of the staff of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

"The person directly in charge of these operations was Col. Zabotin, military attache of the Embassy, who had as his direct assistant in this work Lt.-Col. Motinov, chief assistant military attache, Lt.-Col. Rogov, assistant military attache, Air; Maj. Sokolov, of the staff of the Commercial Counsellor of the Embassy; Lieut. Angelov, one of the secretaries of the military attache, as well as other members of the staff of the military attache, all of whom, as well as the agents whom they employed in the pursuance of their activities, were, in the interests of secrecy, known by undercover names.

"We have noticed that each of the dossiers compiled by the staff of the military attache with respect to the Canadian agents contain this significant question: 'length of time in net.' We think that the word 'net' well describes the organization set up and under development by Col. Zabotin and his predecessor."

Attache Gave Information

The report said the Commissioners, Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau and R. L. Kellock, of the Supreme Court of Canada, had before them Igor Gouzenko, the cipher clerk of the military attache, who has "described this organization and its functioning, and who has produced original documents, the authenticity of which we accept."

27 Are Killed As Plane Hits Mountain Side

San Diego, Calif., March 4 (AP)—Bulldozers cut through forest and brush on the steep slopes of Thing Mountain today, clearing a patch to effect the recovery of 27 bodies from a wrecked and burned American Airlines passenger plane.

Indications were that stretcher bearers would not be able to get the bodies all but six of them charred, until late in the day.

Westbound from New York to Los Angeles, the plane rammed into the side of the fog-shrouded mountain, 60 miles east of San Diego, less than an hour before its scheduled landing in Los Angeles.

Hail and snowstorms hampered the rescue parties and the path-clearing crew. Progress up the 6,000-foot peak was slow. A sheriff's party reached the crash scene 1,500-foot from the summit, yesterday afternoon. They found all but the tail section and a part of the wing had been destroyed by flames.

Bill Reid a Pacific war veteran,, was among the first rescuers returning from the mountain.

"It smelled like Manila, the fire and the bodies," he said. "I saw only six bodies. I didn't want to see any more. I've seen too many dead people."

A newspaper reporter who reached the scene said the big airliner appeared to have bounded several hundred feet after striking the mountain. The plane struck near a road leading through the Manzanita Indian Reservation.

The bodies of 23 adults and two infants were found by searchers before the hunt was abandoned to await the dawn. Bodies of the other two passengers are believed to be in the charred wreckage.

Britain Wants Explanation From Russia

London, March 4 —(CP)— Authoritative sources disclosed today that Britain has asked Russia to explain her refusal to withdraw troops from Iran in accordance with the British-Russian-Iranian treaty.

A British note was said to have been dispatched to the British charge d'affaires, Frank Roberts, in Moscow for communication to the Soviet government.

2 NCO's to Face Court Martial Over Events in Jap Prison Camp

Ottawa, March 4 (CP) — Two non-commissioned army officers, one Canadian and one British, will be tried by court martial at Winnipeg this month on charges alleging collaboration with the Japanese and ill-treatment of fellow prisoners of war after the fall of Hong Kong, it was announced today.

Their names were given as CSM. Marcus Charles Tugby, WO2, Canadian Army, and Cpl. (A/Sgt.) John Hugh Harvey of Britain's Royal Army Medical Corps.

Tugby will face an all-Canadian court martial March 18 and Harvey will face an all-British court a week earlier. Harvey's charges range from anslaughter to collaboration with the Japanere and ill-treatment of fellow prisoners at Oeyama prison camp, Japan, between Sept. 2, 1943, and Sept. 10, 1945.

The charges against Tugby range from collaborating with the Japanese and ill treatment of fellow prisoners at the same camp and over the same period.

The manslaughter charge against Harvey arises from the death of a Canadian prisoner, Pte. John Friesen of the Winnipeg Grenadiers about Feb. 2, 1944, the statement said.

Against him, too, are 29 other charges of taking more than his share of Red Cross parcels, improperly depriving fellow prisoners of the contents of the parcels, striking an American surgeon medical officer, disobeying an order from a British officer not to strike a fellow prisoner, three charges of assault and 20 charges of striking fellow prisoners.

Tugby faces 19 charges of collaboration with the Japanese, securing more than his share of Red Cross parcels, improperly depriving fellow prisoners of Red Cross comforts, stealing, improperly exercising disciplinary powers on prisoners, five charges of assault and nine of striking fellow prisoners.

Postmaster Trussed Up, Tied to Counter By One Bandit While Another Rifles Safe

Windsor, Ont., March 4—(CP)—Two masked bandits entered the sub post office at Wyandotte and Pillette Road early today, tied up George Fearnell, the proprietor and robbed the safe of $3,400 in cash and stamps.

Mr. Fearnell had just opened his store and sub-post office and was getting the stamps and money order forms out of the safe when a short thin man stepped in the rear door and pointed a gun at him.

A second masked man entered the front door and tied the postmaster to the post office counter while his partner emptied $2,000 worth of postage stamps, $900 in war saving stamps and approximately $500 in cash into a small black bag.

The two bandits left through the back door.

Fearnell was found a few minutes after the bandits fled by two residents who came to the store for their morning papers. They cut Fearnell's bonds with a butcher knife.

Fearnell said the loot was made up of $2,000 in postage stamps, $900 in war savings stamps and $500 cash.

He said the bandit who robbed the safe was short and thin, with a black and white handkerchief over his face. He carried a short, black pistol and piled the stamps and cash into a black bag. The gunman's partner, tall and thin, wore a red and white polka-dot handkerchief over his face.

Four Are Injured In Demonstration Clash at Tehran

Tehran, March 4 —(Reuters)— Four people were injured today in a clash outside the Persian parliament building when a crowd of some 3,000 members of the Tudeh, Democrat, party staged a demonstration against prolonging the life of the present parliament.

Today's parliamentary session was cancelled because of the demonstrations.

The Tudeh party which led the Home Rule movement in Azerbaijan where Red army forces still are in occupation, claimed that elections should be held March 12, irrespective of whether foreign troops had completed their evacuation by that date, or whether a settlement had been reached with the autonomous government of Azerbaljan.

Right-wing Persians pointed out that elections could not by law be held while foreign troops were in the country, and that the date of March 12 was fixed before the Separatist movement became prominent.

Kaltenbrunner Claims He Worked For Peace Thru U. S. Services

By DANIEL DELUCE

Nuernberg, March 4 (AP)—Scarfaced Ernst Kaltenbrunner, No. 2 boss of Nazi police, today portrayed himself as a secret negotiator for peace who had been in contact with United States agents since 1943.

Kaltenbrunner claimed he had worked toward achieving peace through the headquarters of the United States office of strategic services in Switzerland.

The defendant, on trial with other erstwhile Nazi bigwigs before the International Military Tribunal here, alleged that Dr. Wilhelm Hoettl, deputy group leader in Himmler's police headquarters and now confined in the Nuernberg jail, was his intermediary in reaching a United States spy leader.

Wants Hoettl Called

Kaltenbrunner's lawyer asked the court to call Hoettl as a witness, asserting that the latter would testify that "since 1943 Kaltenbrunner actively pursued a policy designed to bring about peace; for this reason he established contact between Hoettl and Mr. Dulles, confidential representative of the late President Roosevelt in order to work toward that end.

Former officers of the O.S.S. said later that Kaltenbrunner apparently referred to Allen Dulles, a brother of John Foster Dulles who represented the United States at the recent United Nations meeting in London. Allen Dulles was said to have directed O.S.S. operations in Germany from across the Swiss frontier. He was credited with expediting arrangements for the German armistice in northern Italy.

Kaltenbrunner and three other defendants also depicted themselver as pro-Jewish humanitarians who resisted the excesses of the Nazi regime.

Kaltenbrunner also asked permission to call as a witness a former Swiss President of the International Red Cross to support Kaltenbrunner's claim that he "demanded assistance for approximately 14,000 Jewish citizens in upper Austria" last April.

Kaltenbrunner's defence, it was explained, would include an assertion that he was merely head of an intelligence service under Himmler and therefore had no responsibilities for concentration camps.

Asks Witnesses Called

Frick, former interior minister, said he could dispense with Messersmith's personal appearance if the latter would answer a questionnaire. This was an apparent attempt to challenge Messer-Smith, United States Ambassador Frick once told him Germany was prepared to violate international agreements to gain her ends.

Col. Denson, it was asserted, could testify that Dr. Franz Blaha, a Czech who claimed here he had seen Frick during a visit to Dachau, did not name Frick when he testified at the Dachau trial.

Alfred Rosenberg, official Nazi party philosopher, named 11 prospective witnesses, including himself. He said he fought the policies of slave labor, economic exploitation of conquered territories, and even totalitarianism itself.

Hans Frank, Nazi governor of Poland, said that witnesses whom he requested could testify that he favored semi-home rule, opposed Elite Guard atrocities and was accused by Himmler of being a traitor "who works with Poles hand in hand."

CHEESE AND HOG SUBSIDIES WILL BE CONTINUED

Ontario Led All Provinces in Production of Cattle. Hogs, Poultry, Eggs and Milk

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Ontario led all Provinces last year in production of cattle, hogs, calves, poultry, eggs, cheese and milk, it was disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature.

The Speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, also outlined this legislative program for agriculture:

Licensing of all persons engaged in marketing of farm produce or operating a fruit market; amendments to the Farm Products Control Act to clarify provisions of marketing schemes now in force; establishment of a wholesale fruit and produce terminal in the Toronto area; increase from $50,000 to $65,000 the amount of loans which may be made to co-operative cold storages under the Co-operative Marketing Loan Act, through which loans of about $300,000 were made in the fiscal year 1945-46, and increase from $10,000 to $15,000 in amount of loans to co-operatives other than cold storages.

Provincial subsidies on cheese, hogs and sugar beets will be continued, said the Speech which also forecast amendments in the Weed Control Act whereby weed inspectors will be appointed by county rather than township councils.

"In spite of unfavorable weather conditions, shortage of labor and machinery, the production on the farms of Ontario was well maintained, particularly those livestock and dairy products which constitute an important part of our production for export," said the Speech.... "There has been a steady improvement in the quality of farm products, notably in butter and hogs."

MEDICAL SERVICE FOR 400,000,000 IN INDIA PLANNED

New Delhi, March 4 (Reuters)—A 10-year plan to provide all of India's 400,000,000 people with an adequate medical service is announced in the report of the Health, Survey and Development Committee of the government of India just published.

Many of the recommendations are revolutionary in relation to Indian standards of living and the most important concerns free medical treatment.

"No individual should fail to secure adequate medical care because of inability to pay for it," the report states.

As 90 per cent of Indian population lives in villages this would mean if the report were adopted, that for the first time in the country's history the problem of health has been tackled on a national scale. Every aspect of health from safe drinking water to town planning is discussed in the report.

It said the central government should be responsible for supervision of sanitary facilities and enforcement of all measures necessary to prevent the interprovincial spread of infectious diseases, in addition to the enforcement of standard regarding food and drugs.

An India-wide housing program, the committee stated, should give first priority to the needs of the lower income groups and it recommended that sewerage schemes should be provided in all towns with a population in excess of 50,000 within the 10 years covered in the plan.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

Woodstock, March 4 —(CP)— A $12,000 fire today destroyed a two-storey home on the Stanton Brothers farm a mile south of here despite efforts of neighbors, who became volunteer firemen with extinguishers borrowed from the fire department here.

Occupants of the house, including the brothers A. E. and H. D. Stanton, escaped without injury.

Adjoining farm buildings were saved.

FIRST PEACETIME STAFF COLLEGE AT KINGSTON

Will Provide Sufficient Trained Staff Officers For Canada's Army Of 25,000

Ottawa, March 4 (CP)— Defence headquarters today announced further details in connection with the establishment of Canada's first peacetime staff college at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., but nothing was said about the role of the famous old school in turning out cadets.

Before the war Canadian officers had to go to Britain or India to take staff courses—qualification for the key staff jobs of the services.

An army release today said the college will be "a purely Canadian institution with the best and most modern in staff training. It will provide adequate trained staff officers for Canada's peacetime army of 25,000."

The fact that the staff college, which during the war turned out 11 classes, was going to be continued into peacetime, was announced at Kingston recently by Brig. Desmond Smith, D.S.O., of Ottawa, commandant at R.M.C. The last war time course will end March 22.

The impetus and experience of the war courses will be invaluable to the peacetime curriculum and will make the start of the staff college a much easier matter than otherwise. In the first year alone it is expected 20 Canadiens will be trained for the army along with 10 other officers of the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force and American, British and Commonwealth armies.

The course will be designed to broaden the students' non-military education and will stress major civilian and government trends.

Starts on June 17

The first course will be a "junior wing" starting June 17 and running through to June 14, 1947. "Junior" and "senior" wings will alternate yearly. Date of the first senior wing and the number of students have not yet been decided.

On the college directing staff will be six or seven Canadian army officers, one from the United States army, one from the R. C. A. F., at least two British army officers and, over the entire instructional staff, a director who has not yet been named.

The junior wing will consist of majors and captains who will graduate qualified as second grade staff officers. The senior possibly Lieutenant-Colonels who have graduated from the junior wing or have had other staff experience and training. They will get an insight into the requirements of staff officers in higher commands and graduate as first grade staff officers.

To give the students a wider outlook and knowledge of other nations' army training methods, "outside" lecturers will be brought in to give instruction. Permanent United States staff instructors will give the students a thorough knowledge of the America staff set-up and show the difference in American and Canadian procedures.

Schacht Testifies He Conspired To Overthrow Hitler in 1938

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Nuernberg, March 4 —(AP)— High collared Hjalmar Schacht swears he conspired in 1938 with discontented generals to overthrow Hitler and install himself at the head of a new German government, but the plot failed because a division commander lost his nerve.

Schacht admits he told the Fuehrer, amid jubilation over the fall of France, "May God protect you!"

Then he sat on the government bench in the Reichstag while Hitler oratorically gloated over the German conquest in the West.

Why?

"I did not want to commit suicide, sir," Schacht explained to an Allied interrogation officer. "If you have to deal with a gangster, then it is very difficult to stick to honesty yourself without risking your life."

A transcript of Schacht's questionings — some 50,000 words in four months prior to the Nuernberg trial — constitutes a preview of his impending defence against war crimes charges and bares intricate apologies to his conscience by a man who as general plenipotentiary for war economy financed guns instead of butter for Hitler in the 30's.

"Hitler was a liar, betrayer and a criminal," Schacht now proclaims.

L. C. A. Changes Foreshadowed In Throne Speech

Improved Policing Services In Rural Areas Anticipated

Toronto, March 4 —(CP)— A minimum wage for men, described as a "new departure" for Ontario, was forecast today in the Speech From the Throne read at the opening of the second session of Ontario's 22nd legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews.

The speech, which also foreshadowed changes in liquor licenzing policy, did not list specific figures for the minimum wage but said it should prove "of great value" to unskilled and semi-skilled workers. A minimum wage for women already is in effect.

Other highlights of the speech included announcement of "improved" policing services especially in rural areas, a new system of licensing for marketing of farm products, a new government department to supervise tourist activities, introduction into all industry of the two-per-cent, pro rata system of holidays with pay adopted last year in the building trades industry, a new planning bill to permit expropriation for housing purposes and provision for licensing and control of business brokers.

The speech said regulations designed to increase rates of pay and guarantee greater security to women workers would be put into effect shortly. The Minimum Wage Act generally would be broadened to bring pay and working hours in line with present requirements. Some changes would be made in the Hours of Work and Vacations With Pay Act, which came into effect in July, 1944.

L. C. A. to be Amended

Changes in liquor licensing, previously hinted by Attorney-General Blackwell, were foreshadowed in the brief announcement that the Liquor Authority Control Act of 1944 will be amended to "improve the licensing and controlling of licensed premises."

Dealing with agriculture, the speech forecast amendments to the Farm Products Grades and Sales Act to licence all engaged in marketing of farm products or operating a fruit market. Legislation would be introduced to provide for construction of a wholesale fruit and produce terminal in the Toronto area and the Co-operative Marketing Loan Act would be amended to increase from $50,000 to $65,000 the amount of loans negotiable to co-operative cold storage enterprises.

Amendments to the Farm Products Control Act would clarify "certain provisions" of marketing schemes now in force, the speech said, and provincial subsidies would be continued on cheese, hogs and sugar beets. Under new regulations, weed inspectors would be appointed by county rather than township councils to improve enforcement of the Weed Control Act.

Low Interest Rates

Other Throne Speech announcements, by departments, included:

Municipal Affairs:

Reduction of $21,660,000 in municipal debenture debt for 1945 is estimated—a 54.2-per-cent reduction in gross debenture debt from 1932, an achievement

H. E. RICHARDSON, KINGSTON, DIES

Kingston, March 4 — (CP) — H. E. Richardson, 67, Surrogate Registrar for Frontenac county, died last night after a lengthy illness. Mr. Richardson was former manager of the Standard Bank and at one timed owned Fenwick Hendy and Company wholesale house.

Throne Speech Highlights

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — Following are highlights of Ontario's legislative program as forecast in the speech from the throne, read today at the opening of the 22nd Legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews:—

Amendment of the Liquor Authority Control Act (1944) to improve licensing and control of licensed premises.

Licensing of all persons marketing farm produce or operating a fruit market; establishment in the Toronto area of wholesale fruit and produce terminal.

Improved policing services, particularly in rural areas.

Introduction of a bill to create a new government department responsible for tourist activities.

Extension of fixed per-diem grants for public ward beds to all public general hospitals.

Introduction into all industry of the two-per-cent, pro rata system of holidays with pay adopted last year in the building trades industry.

Revision of the Real Estate Brokers' Act to provide for licensing and control of business brokers.

City and District News

FIVE FIRE ALARMS OVER THE WEEKEND

No less than five alarms were answered by the local fire department over the weekend, all of them being of a minor nature with little or no damage being reported. Friday night the furnace boiler at the Elliott's Service Station at the corner of Coleman and Moira Street blew out with resulting damage to the furnace, while at midnight the same night a false alarm was answered to Front Street near the Queen's Hotel.

Saturday night a parked auto on West Bridge Street was reported ablaze, presumably as result of overheated wires, while on Sunday evening the oil stove at an East Bridge Street poolroom became overheated. The fifth alarm was for a chimney fire at 152 Church Street.

ELOCUTIONIST GAVE READINGS AT SMOKER

In a report of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Association smoker which appeared in the Ontario Intelligencer on Saturday the name of Mrs. J. A. Charlton as appearing on the program was omitted. An accomplished elocutionist, Mrs. Charlton delighted her audience with two well presented readings during the course of the entertainment.

RE-ELECTED DIRECTOR OF ASSOCIATION

Reeve Sam Nicholson, Sidney township, was re-elected a director of the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities at the recent convention held in the Royal York, Toronto. P. J. Mather, ex-warden of Peterboro county is the new president for 1946.

Hastings County sent a strong delegation to the convention while at the same time county roads officials went into session at the Ontario Good Roads Association conclave, held in the same hotel.

COUNTY TO PURCHASE NEW DIESEL GRADER

Hastings County Roads Committee at a special meeting scheduled for this week, will ask for tenders to supply the county with a Diesel-powered motor grader. The new machine will replace the one that has seen several years of service and is now regarded as obsolete.

The new grader will give the Roads and Bridge Committee 3 tandem-drive graders for use on the county system this year, if delivery can be effected in time.

Prospects for early delivery are said to be bad, due to steel strikes and labor problems in the U.S.A. In addition previous orders now on file in machinery company offices will likely be the cause of further delay.

CPL. SAMAIN JOINS R.C.A.F. INTERIM FORCE

Veteran of six years' service in the R.C.A.F., 28 months of which was served in Ceylon, Corporal Joseph Samain, son of Jail Governor and Mrs. Joseph Samain has joined the interim forces of the Royal Canadian Air Force. He reports to the Trenton Air Station on March 31.

Corporal Samain, a star athlete in his own right, compiled an envious record during his term of service. While in Ceylon he was employed as a ground mechanic servicing the huge Catalina bombers on active service in that area.

SILVER COLLECTION FROM ORGAN RECITAL GOES TO EYE FUND

The local Kinsmen's Club eye clinic fund received a substantial boost Sunday evening as result of an organ recital given in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by William Navin, well-known local blind musician. The recital, held following the regular Sunday evening service, was attended by a fair crowd with a silver collection being taken.

Assisting in the program were Miss Lorna Waldron and Arthur Duby, accomplished young local vocalist who each favored with two solo numbers, while Mr. Navin rendered several classical numbers on the church organ. During the evening's program President Newton Wilbur of the Kinsmen Club, expressed to the artists the appreciation of his club members.

BOUNTIES PAID ON ELEVEN WOLVES

Eleven timber wolves thus far have been the winter bag of county hunters, according to County Treasurer Ross Bailey. Bounties have been paid on all animals with the exception of two which were identified by governmental experts as being wild dogs.

Ross Palmateer, Tweed, and James Oliver, Actinolite, have threa of the grey marauders to their credit while Herbert Grant, Baptiste, has two, Harris Dean, Thomasburg; Dan. Bronson, Madoc and William Anderson, have one each.

The animals have been exceptionally bold during the winter months, some of them raiding sheep and other livestock flocks, while others have been seen in close proximity to residences.

POLICE BLOTTER

Extensive damage to a local taxi resulted over the weekend when it went out of control as its driver swerved the vehicle in an effort to avoid another car and crashed into a large tree on Dundas Street. No personal injuries resulted according to police.

Several other motor accidents involving minor fender and running board damage were reported to police, as well as two incidents where parked cars were struck by passing vehicles with offending drivers failing to stop.

Sunday evening a motor driven by Arthur A. Horton, Coleman Street, was sideswiped on Highway No. 2 near Marysville, by another vehicle driven in the opposite direction by Arthur A. Emery of Kingston. Extensive damage resulted to the Emery vehicle, according to police.

SOCIETY BECOMES OF AGE

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — Minus handle-bar moustaches, aprons and razors, the Toronto chapter of the society for the preservations and encouragement of barber shop quartets came of age Saturday night in the best singing style of the old melodramas. Baritones and tenors had a field day.

Foursomes from Toronto and Buffalo celebrated in the vocal department as the Toronto chapter received official approbation with receipt of a charter by president Alf Neal from the International President, Phil Embury, of Warsaw, N.Y.

Reg Hinchey Highly Praised For Composition

Waterloo, Ont., March 4—(CP)—W. S. Sheppard of Waterloo won the March writing contest at the Canadian Bandmasters' Association midwinter convention held during the weekend. His winning march, adjudged the best of the seven competing entries, is entitled "Spirit of Victory."

Mr. Sheppard, Peter Allan of Windsor, Ont., and E. Reg Hinchey, Belleville, Ont., were highly praised for their band arrangements and compositions.

Demonstrations of training boys and junior band rehearsing were given by six bandmasters which included Wilfred Manning of Woodstock, Ont.; Maurice Decelles, Quebec; S. G. Chamberlain, Chatham, Ont. and Jack Lougheed of Leamington, Ont.

Robbery With Violence Charged To Two Men

Charged with robbery with violence involving the alleged beating of a Picton district youth over the head with a rock and robbing him of a considerable sum of money, Keith Dunning of Plainfield and Douglas Bunnett, Strachan Street, have been arrested by local police and are on remand awaiting trial.

Bunnett was arrested a few hours following the alleged offence, following description given by George F. Milner, East Lake, the person victimized, while Dunning was arrested Sunday midnight near Plainfield by Sgt. Clarence Arnott and Inspector Clair Hayes of the local police force.

According to police Bunnett and Dunning had met Milner on Saturday night and later had enticed him up the tracks off Coleman Street. There the two men are alleged to have struck their victim over the head with a rock, relieving him of his money. Then in a semi-dazed condition Milner was led back to his hotel room where the balance of his money was taken.

On the description given by Milner, police a short time later arrested Bunnett in the city, while on Sunday, Dunning was apprehended near Plainfield.

Czechoslovak Medal Awarded Capt. I. Gullion

Ottawa, March 4—(CP)—Capt. Izat Harcus Gullion of Niagara Falls, Ont., has been awarded the Czechoslovak Medal for merit (first class) by the Czechoslovak government, defence headquarters announced today.

Defence officials said they had not received the citation accompanying the award.

Capt. Gullion, a native of Scotland, is a former resident of Lethbridge, Alta., where he was manager of a wholesale grocery business before joining the army in March, 1940. He was promoted captain overseas in June, 1944. His wife, Mrs. Edna Gullion lives at (1976 Drummond St.,) Niagara Falls.

UNLUCKY WEEKEND

Manila, March 4 — (Reuters)—This was an unlucky weekend for George Ennis of Philadelphia, United States Vice-Consul here. Bandits fired four shots at his jeep while he was driving on a highway outside Manila Saturday night. The bullets riddled the windshield and he suffered a slight head wound from a glass splinter. Earlier, while Mr. Ennis was sleeping, burglars emptied his wallet and stole his watch.

Member of Staff Presented With Gift by Associates

William O. Steer, advertising manager of this newspaper who severed his connections here on Saturday, was honored by staff colleagues prior to his departure for Toronto where he will reside in the near future.

With the staffs of the various departments present Mr. Steer was presented with a handsome decanter and goblets, and an address.

Caught completely by surprise the recipient expressed his delight with the gift and voiced his sincere regrets at the severance of over four years of happy association. He had appreciated, he said, the fine co-operation afforded him by all departments and staff members.

During his stay in Belleville Mr. Steer was actively associated with the Kiwanis Club, the Bay of Quinte Country Club and the Junior Board of Trade.

Mr. Steer has accepted a position as general manager of a newly-formed musical booking agency with temporary headquarters in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. Later, it is expected, permanent offices will be located in the Canadian Bank of Commerce Building. An outstanding musician himself, he has been connected with outstanding Canadian orchestras.

J. Samain, County Jail Governor, Resigns Position

Governor Joseph E. Samain, of the Hastings County Jail has tendered his resignation to county officials, to become effective March, 31, it was learned today.

Governor Samain, who has occupied his position for the past four years was turnkey of the jail for seven years prior to his elevation to the governorship. He expects to leave for his native England within the next two years on his first visit to his former home in 28 years.

Governor Samain, a former theatrical star joined the Somerset Light Infantry in the British Imperial Army shortly after the First Great War was declared in 1914, and was severely wounded in the heavy fighting on the Somme in France in 1916.

During the present war, he had three sons, Norman, Ralph and Joseph and a son-in-law serve with the Canadian armed forces.

Patel Opposes Scaling Down Sterling Debt

Bombay, March 4 (Reuters) — Sardar Vallabhai Patel, generally regarded as Mohandas K. Gandhi's right-hand man, said today that any discussion of scaling down the sterling debt at this stage, when India had no independent bargaining power, would embitter Indian-British relations and hinder rather than help the forthcoming British cabinet mission to India.

"This is not a party question, but a grave issue of common Indian interest vis-a-vis Britain," he said. "The sterling debt is Britain's secred obligation as it is the result of services and goods taken by Britain during the war without India's consent, and at a low price forced down by control.

"This debt is a most important asset for the future development of India, and our hope of raising India's standard of living depends on it.

"To India this sterling lacance represents 17 years' net income of the central government, whereas, tto the United States the British loan represents only nine days' cost of the war."

Referring to Bretton Woods, Sardar Patel said: "If the political issues between Britain and India are not satisfactorily settled, India will have reluctantly to withdraw from Bretton Woods.

"The world has come to understand that India will have strength and power to enforce her past claims when the time comes."

Strikes-at-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

Around 800,000 kept idle by labor disputes.

Major developments:

Automobiles — C.I.O. United Auto Workers prepare to intensify strike against General Motors following rejection by G. M. of union arbitration offer; G. M. suggests secret vote of union members on corporation's offer of 18½-cent-hourly raise; union officers, holding out for 19½ cents, blast ballot proposal as "unwarranted interference with the affairs of a democrat union."

Telephones — Threat of U. S.-wide telephone tieup Thursday continues unabated; American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Federation of Long Lines Workers (Ind.) fail to agree in lengthy session, 16 other affiliates of the National Federation of Telephone Workers involved in threatened walk out for wage raises.

Frost and Sudden Thaws Break Up Road Surfaces

Aftermath of a fickle winter, many parts of the Hastings County Roads and Bridges system will be in the worst condition in years, by the time Spring rolls around that well-known corner, county roads officials predicted today.

That part of the Foxboro-Madoc road near Madoc is showing effects of winter weather, already, it is stated. Parts of College Street are showing gaping holes in places and these conditions will likely be accentuated by the time warmer weather sets in.

Lack of snow, periodic heavy frosts and rains and unseasonable withdrawal of frost are said to be the main contributing factors to the condition.

Lack of a consistent covering of snow, sudden warm periods with heavy rains, have resulted in a number of road upheavals and breaking of road surfaces.

Snow removal costs, thus far, have been exceedingly light as compared to those of a year ago, but county appropriation may be absorbed by excessive road maintenance costs when the warm weather sets in.

Obituary

MRS. ETHEL PEARL COLLINS

Mrs. Ethel Pearl Collins, wife of Herbert Collins, died at her home 41 South Front Street, early Sunday morning, after an illness of two months' duration.

Born in Belleville the late Mrs. Collins was in her 53rd year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alec Rushlow. All her life was passed in this city and she was a parishioner of St. Thomas' Church.

U. S. Turns Over Russian Deserters

Frankfurt, Germany, March 4. (AP)—The United States army has turned over to Soviet Russia more than 50,000 men caught fighting for Germany who have been classified as Russian nationals.

Prisoner-of-war camps in the American zone are nearly empty of the Russians. It is explained here that under an agreement at Yalta the United States committed itself to turn over to the Soviets all Russian citizens who were captured in German uniforms who were members of the Red army and could not show discharges or who were accused by Russia of voluntarily giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

This was to be done "without regard to their personal wishes, and by force if necessary".

What awaits these men in Russian territory is not known here, but frenzied efforts by some of them to escape going there indicates that they do not contemplate the prospect with pleasure. At least ten have committed suicide. Others wounded themselves and many have forcibly resisted attempts by their American captors to put them on trains headed for Russia.

Many of the suspects try to hide their nationality, and the job of finding them among millions of prisoners is difficult. Russian investigators scan the prisoner-of-war rosters and point out those they suspect. However, all suspects receive hearings from joint Russian-American screening boards.

Only about 700 of the suspects remain in the American zone.

SCHACHT

"Goering did not like me and I hated him . . . I would never admit Goering was an expert on anything, particularly not on the economic question . . .

"After I left the Reichsbank (January 1939) I retired entirely from public life. I did not follow international figures or events; I devoted myself to farming and hunting . . . my brain died out by and by.

"If the Allies had kept their disarmament promises of Versailles, I would never have stood for the rearmament of Germany . . . I thought the armament was something which would help Germany even in international commercial markets, because even in economic negotiations there is always the weight of respect which you have to put into the scale."

"1938 was the crucial year in my conflict of conscience," he related, "I could have escaped . . . nevertheless I had all my family in the country and did not know what would happen to them. Furthermore I have never thought the attitude of these emigrants sitting in Washington and writing articles about Germany to be very heroic . . . I felt it my duty to stay and try to do my best to check Hitler as far as possible. I made an agreement with Gen. Von. Witzleben to do away with the Hitler regime and Witzleben and I agreed to form a new government in case the plot should succeed. The thing could only be done, of course by military people, I being a civilian and having no power whatever. Witzleben lost his courage at the last moment, so it failed.

"On July 20, 1944, my nearest connection . . . was Gen. Lindewar. He was a general of artillery and was captured afterwards and hanged . . . then there was Dr. Joseph Mueller, of Munich. He was the man in the confidence of the Vatican, of the Holy See . . .

"They tried as far as I know to get some beforehand arrangement with the Allies that if they succeeded in doing away with Hitler, Germany would be spared in some way, or would be treated ordinarily. On July 23 in the morning I was arrested. Since then until today I am in prison."

His Majesty's Representative

Their Excellencies the Earl of Athlone and Her Royal Highness the Princess Beatrice are shortly to leave Canada for home after performing a notable service for Canada. Recently the Ottawa Journal speaking of the close of their tenure of office said that "they will leave behind them a memory of devotion and graciousness."

On the question of what constitutes the tests of the work of a Governor General the Journal comments that "our idea is that the best work a Governor General can do is to strengthen in the hearts and minds of the Canadian people respect for the Crown and affection for the Royal Family. A Governor General does not come here as an emissary from one Government to another; he comes as a representative of the Crown in Canada, a direct voice of His Majesty, and at the same time a symbol. In that role obviously his task is not merely to speak as the Crown, but to uphold its dignity; to win for it allegiance and affection, to make ever stronger those mystical ties, that act of faith, which are the very essence of the British Commonwealth and Empire.

"Lord Athlone we think has done these things; has shown the devotion to duty which is a tradition of the Royal Family and in that devotion, as well as in his personal conduct among us, has strengthened allegiance and loyalty for a Kingship unique in the world's history. In days of turbulence and unrest, when ancient moorings are being swept away, that is high achievement."

In the conduct of the duties of the vice-regal post, the Earl of Athlone and the Princess Beatrice have given Canada and Britain a service which will never be forgotten by the Canadian people for it has become part of the life of the people of the Dominion. Canadians will wish them many years to enjoy the satisfaction of the service they have given the Empire and latterly Canada in particular in their lives so closely associated with the Throne and the Commonwealth and Empire.

A Rare Day in March

Sunday was a day so rare at this season that those who regretted that March came in last Friday with the playfulness of a lamb must have repented of their wishes for a blustery entry of the month. To have missed Sunday as it was would have been to miss an experience.

Canada is going to have more definite probabilities for narrower regions but no forecasting of the weather could have foretold what Sunday would be like. It was just what everyone desired, an exquisite day which did everyone good. The day itself had to be enjoyed in order to be appreciated.

Much of its appeal is due to this that it came out of the blue sky and unexpectedly.

Such a day became news. Indeed the weather is coming into its own as the days of war slowly recede into the past. In fact out of the war there is to be a new factor in Old Probs reports hereafter that will add to the appeal of the daily forecasts by the regional meteorological offices. The offices will operate for 24 hours a day and will satisfy groups, like fishermen, farmers and forest fire rangers and transportation firms who will be able to secure additional information if the general forecasts do not fill their needs.

"Probs" play no small part in business and the general life of the people. In time of winter, persons are anxious if contemplating a trip by motor to know what the weatherman has to say about the elements' behaviour for the next day or two.

Those natural philosophers, the farmers, whose wisdom about the seasons and whose ability to read the signs of the weather in the conditions of the sky and the wind's direction, is so well-founded by observation, will have in the new service of forecasts a valuable adjunct to their general knowledge. Every day will therefore have a definiteness about the weather which the forecasts have hitherto lacked.

Collecting of natural data about the weather has been speeded up greatly through the necessity of war and the greater means of getting fuller and more definite information. The war's requirements demanded more data and accuracy in forecasting for the needs of shipping and other services.

There is no outward sign of true courtesy that does not rest upon a deep moral foundation.—Goethe.

Botanical Research Aids Commonwealth, Empire

Recently, Professor Salisbury, Director of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew, England, addressed the Royal Society of Arts on the work of Kew in the interests of the Commonwealth and Empire.

The most important of the aims of Kew is the provision of material and personal equipment essential to the accurate naming of plants. This service of identification is more vital than many realize, as it is thanks to accurate identification that, for instance, the mold yielding penicillin was distinguished from many others. Again, the capacity to recognize closely allied plants has enabled disease-resistant species to be distinguished from susceptible species, to the advantage of plant breeders, and the same applies to timber.

The Kew Herbarium, the most extensive and valuable in the world, consists of between five and six million specimens supplemented by carpological and seed collections. The complete destruction of the Berlin Herbarium and the partial destruction of that at Vienna has enhanced the value of Kew's collection. The suggestion has been made that types indigenous to a particular region should be housed in a herbarium in that region, but the centralization of as many types as possible is obviously more convenient for students and research workers. The living collections at Kew are an invaluable complement to the herbarium and comprise some forty thousand of which those of Empire origin again provide the major part. The library contains over forty-five thousand volumes.

Many of the descriptions of the microscopial characteristics of crude botanical drugs in the British Pharmaceutical Codex are drawn up at Kew, where the museum collections afford special facilities for this purpose.

Live specimens and seeds are sent to Kew from all parts of the Empire and are redistributed from there. Kew's contribution to the establishment of plantation rubber and Cinchona in various parts of the Commonwealth and Empire is well known, but the history of the introduction of other economic plants to new areas may not be so generally realized. Sir Geoffrey Evans, Kew's economic botanist, conceived the idea of removing the rose ends of potatoes and partially drying them to serve as sets, instead of cutting large potatoes into smaller parts. Thus much of the crop can be used as food and still provide material for planting. These sets weigh less than one fifth of those normally employed, and this permits of carriage by air, the method having been successful in the transport of potato sets to Malta and other Mediterranean countries. An entry in the Kew records, dated August 1864, shows a consignment of cocoa pods to West Africa, probably the first introduction of that plant to West Africa, and eleven varieties of West Indian cocoa were sent to Ceylon, where they grew and fruited well. Ceylon now grows some of the world's best cocoa. The "Kew pineapple," the Smooth Cayenne now widely grown throughout the tropics was imported from Kew as was the Macadamia or Queensland Nut.. Kew's research workers have been able to produce and export high quality and disease-resistant bananas, cassavas and passion fruit.

Wartime needs stimulated the search for source rich in vitamin, and rose hips from the hedgerows of Britain were investigated and as a result a syrup was produced with about five times the vitamin content of orange juice.

EXPERIMENT WITH A DAY

Once I thought today I'll see
Just what I can do for me.
All day long I'll work to make.
All day long I'll try to take.
Not one cent I'll lend or give.
This day, for myself, I'll live.

Said: On selfishness I'm bent,
Just as an experiment.
Want to know how much I'll gain,
Blind to need and dull to pain;
Just what sort of day 'twill be Spent exclusively for me.

Never more will I try that.
Someone said: "He's gone high hat!
Walked right by a friend he knew.
Wouldn't even say: 'How do?' "
Turned a needy chap aside.
Bet the fellow knew I'd lied.

Dull the whole day seemed to be,
Spending all the time on me;
Missed the stories comrades tell;
Luncheon didn't sit so well;
Had a miserable time;
Didn't make one extra dime.

The Belleville Intermediates did themselves credit last night in an unequalled performance when they defeated Midland by a score of 13 to 1. When the local boys played in Midland the score was 10 to 4 in favor of Midland. The standing on the round is now Belleville 17 and Midland 11. How Midland managed to defeat our boys in Midland by a score of 10 to 4 will always be a dark mystery. One should have seen the game last night to realize the thrills and excitement and happiness that was enjoyed by the large crowd. Our boys were stars from the net out. More finished hockey was what won the game for Belleville. The following composed the Belleville team: Conley, Whitty, Symons, Finkle, Whalen, Mitchell and Symonds. Bobby Hewitson of Toronto, again officiated as referee and we sure do like that boy somehow. Conley, our diminutive net custodian, deserves special comment; Finkle and Whalen had it all over the other forwards and Sammy and Mitchell were never troubled by their checks; Ben Whitty did some grand rushing and broke away fast; the brilliant work of Bill Symons is past our powers to describe, he was the king performer. Brock Shorey is a proud man today.

The Belleville Intermediate Hockey Team was defeated at Cobourg last night, the score being 15 to 13. We are told there were only forty paid admissions to the game.

In the local rink last night the Greys defeated the Hardware Company team to the tune of 14 to 2. The following composed the teams: Greys—Minchinton, Campbell, Robb, Spangenberg, Lobsinger, O'Flynn and Turner. Hardware team—Boland, Pepper, Sanders, McGuire, Bawden, Burke and Gerow.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Frankfurt, Germany, March 4 (AP) — The devastation wrought by total war in Germany's cities is so terrific that you have to pick your way carefully among the ruins lest your view of more important things be cut off.

Germany is so badly smashed that she would be physically incapable of making war again for many years even if she were allowed to go her own way unhampered.

However, the very fact that the Reich is kaput, as the Germans say, creates a grave danger for the United Nations. This is that the Allies may be lulled into a feeling of false security and relax their avowed determination to sit on the lid in Germany until it is clear that its people have been reformed.

Germany is militarily impotent. The experts say it will take 30 years to clear away the rubble of the destroyed cities, to say nothing of trying to rebuild. But there is small doubt that while the Germans are beaten physically they aren't beaten mentally, their transformation into a peace minded people will involve a long period of re-education and military occupation.

There is another equally vital point. The peace of Europe does not necessarily depend on German mentality. Germany is strategically the heart of the continent, not only militarily but politically. Should the Reich become the battleground to determine the balance of power in Europe, we should have a situation which might easily produce another upheaval.

This danger is emphasized by a spirit of uncertainty in the United States zone—a feeling that the United States public is weakening in its determination to occupy German militarily until time has established peace in Europe.

The wholesale readjustment of the balance of power as Europe has cast the United States in the role of friendly mediator between Russia and Britain. Should American public opinion result in abandonment of the original plan of occupation in Germany, it would create a vacuum in the Reich that necessarily would be filled by another power and produce a whirlwind.

There are three main bottlenecks in the German rehabilitation program — food, coal and transport. Encouraging progress is being made in the case of the latter two although conditions told are appalling. There is a serious shortage of food in many areas of the four Allied zones of occupation.

There is much illness and in some sections there have been epidemics or are threats of them. There is a great shortage of fertilizer in the country as well as seed and farm machinery.

"unsurpassed anywhere in the Dominion with respect to the amount or percentage of reduction." Interest rates for municipal borrowing now were being arranged at the lowest figure in the province's history.

Welfare:

Amendments will be made in Mothers' Allowance Act to enable continued payment of allowances until the end of school year in the case of a child reaching 16 in the middle of a school term. A deserted mother may qualify for an allowance when her husband had not been heard of for at least one year. Day nurseries will be continued.

Health:

Principle of arbitrary per-diem grants for public ward beds will be extended to all public general hospitals. Experiments will be conducted in Kingston by Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation in conjunction with Kingston General Hospital. Also projected are increased laboratory services, extended examination of the health problems of workers and extension of venereal disease programs.

TAKE 3 — LIQUOR LAW 3aRS

Mining:

Seach for new mines "is
Search for new mines "is of Northern Ontario" and many important discoveries, including new mines indicated by diamond drilling, have been reported. A fairer distribution of tax revenues derived from mines is "desirable" and the government hopes an agreement will be reached shortly settling outstanding questions between the Dominion and the Province on mine taxation. Amendments will be made in the Mining Tax Act, the Mining Act, Damage by Fumes Arbitration Act and the Beach Protection Act.

Forestry:

Reforestation will be "greatly intensified" with a new forest nursery to be built at Kemptville. Advanced methods of aerial and ground mapping will be continued to provide "perpetual" forest inventory.

Game and Fish:

"Considerable" expansion is necessary to keep pace with increasing demand. Added hatchery facilities are being provided and employees trained in universities to gain special technical and biological knowledge. Special instruction classes are planned for field workers.

Tourist:

During 1945 more than 2,600,000 parties of motorists visited Ontario from the United States and it was expected 1946 would see the figure "greatly increased." A bill would be introduced to create a new department of government with responsibility for development and supervision of tourist activities.

Hydro:

In late war months the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's power load reached an all-time high of 2,608,000 horsepower. The commission's plan for next few years included construction of one large and three medium power plants with an aggregate capacity of 537,000 horsepower, involving an expenditure of about $112,000,000. New transmission lines and transformer stations are planned for Northern Ontario.

New Highways Promised

On highways, the speech said it is proposed to resume essential construction projects suspended when the war started and to start a maintenance program, with particular attention to highway arteries now handling traffic in excess of their safety capacity. New highways would be built to meet the requirements of "greatly expanded" mining and lumbering activities in Northern Ontario.

Factory inspection would be tightened. Referring to an explosion in a grain elevator at Fort William last year, the speech said regulations would be introduced "which will remove as far as possible the hazards which exist in this particular industry."

Activities of the apprenticeship branch would be continued and the Workmen's Compensation Board would be changed to place medical aid under the board. An amendment would be introduced to facilitate the operations of the Labor Relations Board, with a vice-chairman slated for appointment under the chairman, Prof. Jacob Finkelman.

A new vital statistics act would be introduced and the Parole Act and Industrial Farm Act would be amended. Licensing of business brokers would be made possible by amending the Real Estate Brokers' Act.

Regarding town planning, the speech said a planning bill would be introduced to establish boards for planning in urban municipalities, to control land uses and permit expropriation for housing purposes. A conservative Authorities Bill would authorize establishment of authorities in watershed areas to formulate flood control schemes.

To Help Education

The speech in its references to education said "The period immediately ahead will be devoted to the consolidation of advances already made and preparation for action when the report of the Royal Commission is submitted." It noted that about 11,000 veterans now are in training in 10 rehabilitation centres administered by the education department.

Of research, the speech said plans are being prepared for "improved and considerably enlarged laboratories to facilitate Ontario's contribution to industrial efficiency and the development of new products." The Ontario Research Foundation has played a great part in war research and was converting quickly to peace, with 40 trained investigators now employed.

The speech said Ontario's views on Dominion-Provincial relations are summed up best in a submission to the other governments which says Ontario's proposals "are made in the belief that they should be equally acceptable in every part of Canada and are in no instance put forward with the thought of giving any special advantage to those who live in the province of Ontario."

NUTRITIONAL REQUIREMENTS OF GROWING CHILDREN

A healthy, active, growing child—and children grow more or less until they are eighteen to twenty-three years of age, although the rate of growth gradually diminishes in the later years — can handle, digest, assimilate, metabolize, oxidize, burn, utilize perhaps actually more food, particularly carbohydrate (starch or sugar, as in candy, ice cream, cake, bread, potato (syrup) than his or her sedentary or comparatively inactive parent needs or can take to advantage. The child who plays as hard as a normal youngster should play burns up a lot of calories — whereas the sedentary adult just stores the surplus fuel (carbohydrate) as fat.

But it is wrong to assume that the young person, or any person, is well nourished if he or she gets plenty of such carbohydrate food to eat. The truth is that most North Americans with malnutrition (nutritional deficiency disease) get too much to eat — of the wrong kind of food.

These are the least of the principal essential nutritional elements required daily to keep a child of, say, six years of age from developing signs of nutritional deficiency:

Fat or oil—fat of cream, milk, butter, bacon, pork, ham, egg yolk, peanut oil, cottonseed oil, olive oil, lard, etc — 1½ ounces —350 calories.
Protein—lean meat, white of egg, curd or cheese part of milk, as well as the protein in peas, beans, nuts and peanuts — 2 ounces—240 calories.
Carbohydrate — any kind of sugar or starch, as in cereal, bread, honey, syrup, potato, fruit—9 ounces — 940 calories.
Calcium—15 grains—the amount in a quart of milk.
Phosphorus — 12 grains — the amount in a quart of milk.
Iron — one-fourth grain — the amount in a dish of prunes, in 4 ounces of peas, in 4 ounces of lean beef, in 2 ounces of lettuce, in 2½ ounces of oatmeal, in three ounces of egg yolk.
Other mineral elements will be adequately supplied if the calcium, phosphorus and iron requirements are met by the diet.
Vitamin A, 4000 units.
Vitamin D, 400 units.
Vitamin C, 30 milligrams.
Vitamin B-complex — being a group of vitamins the amounts cannot be so simply stated, but the child needs not less than 1 milligram (approximately 300 units) af B1, (thiamine) daily. The best source of B-complex is wheat or wheat germ.

My advice to parents is, don't take these figures too seriously. I'd be sorry for the kid whose diet is so measured.

Probably any youngster who polishes off three glasses (1½ pints) of milk, eats either some fresh meat or else an egg or two and fresh fruit, whatever is available or if none available then freedom of the child to play out-tomato juice every day, will get nearly if not quite all of these essentials.

The one essential nutritional element such food may not supply in sufficient amount is vitamin D (present in the fat of milk, cream, butter and in egg yolk.) But light may make the D deficiency good — light in the minds of parents, concerning the freedo mof the child to play outdoors in any season or weather whenever the child wants to, without restrictions because of the parents' obsessions concerning "exposure", cold or dampness. Sunshine, direct or diffuse, converts a substance in the skin into vitamin D—if any sunshine or skyshine can get to the skin.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Alcohol in Tincture of Iodine.

You had better look up the formula again. Mild Tincture of Iodine does contain diluted alcohol. (K. S., Druggist.)

Answer—I don't know—I never know what the printers may have added or left out, but my file of the article you cite says: "Mild Tincture of Iodine—the preparation introduced to meet the public demand for an efficient wound disinfectant — contains approximately 2 per cent of iodine, slightly more than 2 per cent of sodium iodide, and slightly less than 50 per cent of alcohol."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What American patriot was killed by lightning?

James Otis (1725-1783), who planted the seeds of the American Revolution, was killed by lightning.

In the fall of 1769 Otis, irritable and high-strung by nature, was greatly incensed by the publication of letters written to England by Governor General Sir Francis Bernard and other crown officers in which they referred to him as a traitor and malignant incendiary.

He denounced them as liars in the Boston Gazette of Sept. 4, 1769. During an affray following an argument in the British Coffee House the next evening a commissioner named John Robinson hit Otis on the head with a sword.

Otis sued Robinson and got a judgment of 2,000 pounds in damages, but after Robinson apologized in writing through his attorney Otis settled for court costs, lawyers' fees and doctor's bills—112 pounds, ten shillings and eight pence.

The patriot politician never recovered from this injury and it virtually ended his public career. He became very garrulous, drank heavily, was at times raving mad, broke windows in the Old State House, fired guns from his window and called on Governor Thomas Hutchinson to protect him on the king's highway.

Late in 1771 the probate court made his younger brother his guardian on the ground that he was of unsound mind. Although Otis served in the legislature a few months again, appeared a few times in court and had lucid intervals when he seemed to be normal, he spent most of his remaining days quietly in the care of relatives and friends.

On June 17, 1773, he borrowed a musket and took part as a volunteer in the battle of Bunker Hill. He rushed madly among the flying bullets but was unhurt.

He was almost oblivious of the progress and outcome of the Revolution he had done so much to start. His last two years were spent at Andover, Mass. He had often expressed the wish he might be killed by lightning. On May 25, 1783, while watching a thunderstorm from Isaac Osgood's farmhouse, he was killed by a bolt from the sky.

U. S. to Decide Force She'll Give To World Police

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The number of men, ships and planes the United States may be willing to contribute to the United Nations Organization's International Police Force is expected to be decided tentatively within the next two weeks.

Present indications are that American emphasis will be on warships and aircraft, rather than on troops.

The question is in the hands of the joint chief-of-staff. This group of top army-navy leaders is due to come up with some kind of an answer before the March 21 meeting in New York of the military staff committee of U.N.O.'s security council.

Composed of representatives of the big five—The United States, Britain, Russia, France and China—the military staff committee will be faced at the outset with the problem of determining the size and makeup of the force with which the United Nations will undertake to "maintain or restore international peace and security."

Persons close to the United States members of the committee said they have not yet received any instructions from the joint chief-of-staff but that they expect some word in advance of the New York meeting.

These persons noted that at the recent U.N.O. session in London the military staff members held mere organization meetings leaving the real problem of the peace enforcement forces for the New York gathering.

Belief that the American contribution probably will be largely in naval and air power, with a relatively small number of troops, was termed a "logical assumption" in view of United States strength in those arms and the army's current manpower difficulties.

Police Checking Statements Of Two Hunters

Bloomington Ind., March 4 — (AP)—Two groundhog hunters' statements that they saw each other last Friday near an abandoned stone mill where the bodies of Russell E. Koontz and Mrs. Phyllis Coleman were found Friday night were being checked by authorities today.

Police related this sequence of events in a determined hunt for whoever beat a Bloomington businessman to death, garrotted his attractive companion, and threw their bodies into a sludge pit.

On Saturday police obtained casts of boot prints made beside the pit and 20 feet away.

An automobile overturned Saturday night on Bean Blossom road, west of here, and a farmer noticed that footprints of one of two negro brothers in the car resembled the prints at the stone mill. A pair of boots with treads resembling the prints later was found in the negro's home.

One brother told police he was hunting birds and groundhogs Friday in the area of the stone mill. He said he met another hunter there.

The other hunter told police of meeting the negro about a mile from the mill, comparing with him the sights of their guns, and then parting. Both hunters said they didn't go to the mill.

The second hunter was allowed to go home, but the two negroes were kept in jail for further questioning.

Police disclosed both Koontz and Mrs. Coleman were carrying letters from each other when their bound and gagged bodies were found. He withheld the contents of the messages, saying they nomed persons who might not be involved in the case.

Sixteen Egyptians Wounded in Clash With Police

Cairo, March 4 (AP)—Sixteen Egyptians were wounded, some seriously, in a clash with Egyptian police today in Alexandria in the first violence of the nation's "Day of Mourning" for victims killed in the anti-British riots Feb. 21. Cairo remained calm but uneasy.

A general strike, called by the National Committee of Labor, students and political leaders, paralyzed business.

(There were demonstrations of sympathy for the Egyptians in Syria and Lebanon where Damascus University students and workers in Beyrouth struck).

War Brides' Relatives Asked To Minimize Telephone Calls

Members of the Red Cross reception committee who have been meeting and looking after British war brides and their children, today issued an appeal to next-of-kin, to desist from making unnecessary telephone calls.

Six ships carrying approximately 64 war brides and their children are expected to arrive in Canada within the next few days, and next-of-kin will be notified if they have not received word already.

Red Cross people pointed out today that they do not receive word of train arrivals until six hours previous to the time of arrival. A number of next-of-kin have been deluging the Red Cross with phone calls regarding the arrival of trains, sometimes before the ship has docked.

Members of the local committee look after war brides destined for Peterborough, Lindsay, Trenton, Prince Edward and Hastings County and their job is by no means an easy one. Therefore they are asking the co-operation of war brides' relatives in minimizing the number of telephone calls, unless they are of extreme importance.

Hitler's Half-Brother Alois Tells Of Relationship With Former Dictator

By CHAS. CHAMBERLAIN

Hamburg, Germany, March 4 (AP) — Hitler's half-brother, Alois, unable to resume business at his old Berlin wineshop, says he has "had enough of the name Hitler."

Rheumatic, 64-year-old Alois —who changed his name from Hitler to Hiller in the Hamburg courts three months ago—said he wanted only to go back to his Berlin, but added:

"I'm told I can't get my place back. A Jew. and a concentration camp victim are living there."

Bearing a resemblance to the Fuehrer in both stature and profile, brush-moustached, bespectacled Alois professed a profound dislike for Adolf. He said this dislike stemmed from childhood, when Adolf, pampered by Alois' stepmother, was allowed to vent his rages on his half-brother.

"The fact that my father was also Adolf's father should not be held against me," he said.

He said Der Fuehrer's real name was Hitler and not Schicklgruber. He frankly explained in English learned while waiting on tables seven years in London restaurants.

"Our father was an Autsrian customs officer. He married my mother after I was born. Under the existing law, I took my mother's name, Schicklgruber, until her marriage, then took my father's name of Hitler."

Alois said his mother died two years later, and his 42-year-old father then obtained special legal permission to wed his cousin who was 17 years younger. They had three children, all of whom died. The fourth and last child was Adolf.

"I was just like the fifth wheel of an auto," Alois recalled. "My stepmother ignored me and babied Adolf, who was headstrong, temperamental and even at that age had explosions of rage."

Alois left home at 14 and became a busboy in Linz, embarking on a catering career that led him to London and Paris.

"Adolf seemed ashamed of having a relation who had a wineshop and forbade his senior officers' entering the place. That was all right with me, for I certainly didn't want anything to do with Nazis."

Alois said his place of business had a sign which merely said, "Aloises."

"I tried to keep the name of Hitler as far removed from business as I could," he said.

All Power Demands For War Activities Were Fully Met

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Power load of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission reached an "all-time high" of 2,608,000 horsepower in the last months of the war, it was disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature.

"There is cause for satisfaction that through nearly six years of war all the power demands for war activities in Ontario were fully met and with the co-operation of the people of Ontario, essential domestic and municipal requirements suffered no serious shortage," said the speech read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews.

The Commission's plans for the next few years, it was stated, include construction of one large and three medium power plants with an aggregate capacity of 537,000 horsepower. Together with associated transmission lines and other equipment, the program would involve an expenditure of about $112,000,000.

"Month by month the primary load of the Southern Ontario system has continued to exceed the loads recorded for the corresponding months of the previous year, with the result that the energy generated and purchased during 1945 again reached an all-time high of nearly 12,500,000,000 kilowatt-hours, some 45 per cent greater than in 1939, said the speech.

Discussing rural electric service, the speech said lifting of restrictions had enabled the Commission to construct 1,073 miles of lines and there was a net increase of 11,442 in consumers. Stimulated by rate reductions in the new uniform rural rate structure and by other rate reductions in 1945, the use of power in rural areas increased by nearly 13 per cent. In Auusgt, 1945, the rural load of 132,600 horsepower was the highest ever recorded.

HELPED TO WATCH HOLE

Denton, Tex., March 4 —(AP) —Spot, a North Texas State College dog which does little day or night except watch a sewer hole on the campus, got help Saturday. Fraternity pledges were assigned to watch the hole whenever Spot takes time out for chow. The dog took up its vigil Jan. 20. No one knows why it watches the hole.

KNOWN AS PUSS SUNDAY

Dublin, March 4 —(Reuters)— Yesterday was known in many parts of rural Ireland as "Puss Sunday"—the last Sunday before Lent. Irish colleens know that during the 40 days of lent there are few marriages, so by tradition they assume a vexed appearance which has become known as a "puss."

REPORT MASSING OF TROOPS

Paris, March 4 (Reuters) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco has massed 200,000 troops along the Franco-Spanish border, a correspondent of the French newspaper Ce Soir on the frontier reported Saturday.

The forces are stated to include regular army troops and Moroccans.

Search For New Mines Spreading Across North Ont.

Toronto, March 4 (CP) — Search for new mines is "spreading across the full breadth of Northern Ontario" and important discoveries have been reported in the last year, it was stated today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the Ontario Legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews.

"The gradual return of peacetime conditions is bringing about tremendous activity and development work particularly in gold mining," said the Speech. "Vast amounts of capital are finding their way into this industry."

A number of new mines had been indicated by diamond drilling and many companies had completed plans to start shaft sinkings and underground work. The Mines Department, "fully aware of the importance to Ontario of an expanding mining industry," was adding to its technical staff and making provision for the Northern Ontario development.

A "fairer" distribution of tax revenues derived from mines was desirable and it was hoped a Dominion-Provincial agreement on the question would be reached shortly. Amendments would be made in the Mining Tax Act, the Mining Act, Damage by Fumes Arbitration Act and the Beach Protection Act.

Agregate output value of Ontario mines dropped from $210,000,000 in 1944 to $200,000,000 in 1945 but the recession could be attributed to wartime conditions affecting gold mines and the nickel and copper industries.

March Blizzard Sweeps England

London, March 4. (AP)— A March blizzard swept southern and coastal England Saturday, piling up snowdrifts two feet deep in scattered areas.

The Spanish steamship Ria de Cormes, carrying newsprint and woodpulp from Stockholm to Spain, sank at her berth in Dover harbor Saturday night after being saved from shipwreck in the Channel. The crew of 28 got ashore safely. The ship had run aground on Goodwin Sands and was towed into the harbor. In Paris the greatest snowstorm in the city's history ended today with 15 3-4 inches on the ground. It had been falling three days.

Ice Cream Cone Nearly Costs Swimmer His Life

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 4—(CP)—An ice cream cone, Krilor Hekimian said today, nearly cost him his life.

Hekimian, self-styled "human Polar bear," ate the ice cream before diving into the ice-ridden Niagara river for a swim yesterday. It caused him severe cramps, he said, and he was forced to grasp a motor boat which had followed him across the treacherous quarter-mile of river.

Thousands of spectators watched the water acrobatics of the husky Canadian Armenian youth from Toronto as he swam the river in three minutes and took time out to toy with ice floes as if they were logs. His body was a purple hue and his finger-tips were frozen when he clambered up the bank.

The swim was made in the waters above the Horseshoe Falls. Police had announced they would stop Hekimian if he attempted to carry out an original intention to swim in swirling, treacherous waters from the ice bridge below the falls.

SEALS PLAY HAVOC WITH SALMON

London, March 4 —(Reuters)— Grey and black seals have invaded the estuary of the River Dee in Cheshire, where they have played havoc with the salmon, G. M. King, superintendent of the River Dee fishery board, said today.

NETS TO CATCH LING

North Bay, March 4 (CP)—Nets are being set at the mouths of streams leading into nearby Trout Lake to trap ling, which have no commercial value as game fish and which prey on the spawn of trout, pickerel and other valuable fish.

MARMORA

St. Andrew's United Church Holds Meeting

Marmora — The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church was held on Thursday evening with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf" after which Rev. Donald C. Amos, of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, presented a series of moving pictures taken along the Alaskan highway during its construction.

The annual meeting followed after the pictures and an address by Mr. Amos. Rev. E. M. Cadigan presided.

Mrs. Frank Grant reported for the Mission Band, which has a membership of about fifteen children.

Urged to co-operate

Mrs. Thomas Dickson, supervisor of the C.G.I.T. told of their activities during 1945. Parents were urged to co-operate in increasing the attendance at regular meetings and also for the junior choir on Sunday evenings. Sufficient funds had been raised to purchase material for gowns for the junior choir and there is still a balance on hand.

Mr. Hugh Forbes in reporting for the Wolf Cubs a junior branch of the Boy Scouts said the attendance had increased to 36. They started with a membership of 15.

Miss Joyce Potts president of the Y.P.S. reported for that organization which had a very successful year and outlined some of their plans for 1946.

Mr. E. C. Prentice, superintendent of the Sunday School, expressed his appreciation of the splendid co-operation from the teachers of the school and reported a good balance of monies on hand.

Miss M. Brown president of the Women's Missionary Society gave a very satisfactory report for that organization.

Satisfactory Report

Mrs. E. C. Prentice also gave a satisfactory report for the Women's Association of which she was president in 1945.

Mr. Gregor Murray gave the treasurer's report showing a substantial balance on hand.

Mr. James Sproul reported for the M. and M. Fund, showing a large increase over previous years.

The total raised by Marmora Church during the past year was $6,054 an increase of $400 over 1944 and nearly $2,800 over 1943.

Rev. E. M. Cadigan reported 18 baptisms, 10 marriages and 19 funerals during 1945. He thanked Mrs. F. Litt for her services as organist during the year and also Mrs. L. Green for her services during the illness of Mrs. Litt.

A unanimous invitation was extended Rev. E. M. Cadigan to remain as minister of the church for another year. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the church hall and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

Engagement Party Held For Leolla Burkholder

On Saturday a delightful party was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Burkholder, 21 Octavia Street. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and games. ST. JOHN'S W.A.

Stirling.—The February meeting of St. John's W.A. was held on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the home of Mrs. Edgar Morrow and Mrs. Thompson with 26 in attendance. Mrs. H. Rodgers opened the meeting. Rev. C. Brazill read Litany. World's Day of Prayer on March 8, was to be held at United Church. Mrs. Brazill invited all to the Rectory for the Marsh meeting.

Mrs. Edgar Morrow took charge of the program. Mrs. Ken Morrow gave comments on Bible Reading. Mrs. Harry Morrow gave a piano solo. Mrs. G. Clute then reviewed the Study Book. Mrs. Harry Morrow gave a contest.

Mrs. Brazill thanked Mrs. Edgar Morrow and Mrs. Thompson for opening their home and Mrs. Edgar Morrow for the program.

BRIDGE STREET W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Bridge Street United Church was held in the ladies' parlor, Friday, March 1, at 3.00 p.m.

Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson presided and asked for special prayer for the missionary, Mrs. B. Griffiths.

The ladies were asked to remember the World's Day of Prayer. A special service will be held at the Baptist Church at 3.00 p.m.

Mrs. Ostrom, Mrs. Cole, and Mrs. Finkle took charge of the program with Mrs. Ostrom in the chair.

Miss Mabel Clazie led in the devotional. Mrs. Ostrom gave a reading on the subject of the afternoon, which was 'Africa' and led in prayer. Mrs. Lee told the different phases of the work in Africa. Mrs. Donaldson spoke of the general plan for the Christian education of the people.

Mrs. Boyd described a musical festival where 14,000 Africans gathered to take part.

Mrs. Finkle spoke of the work of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curry, who were the first missionaries to be sent to Africa by the Congregational church and they were sent by that Church in Canada.

MUST GIVE COURTESY

Guelph, March 4 (CP)— Retailers who do not return at once to pre-war standards of courtesy will see a decline in sales volume, predicted Harold W. Donahue of London, Ont., in a recent address to the Retail Merchants' section of the Guelph Board of Trade. In peacetime, customers are not going to tolerate the slipshod service offered by many stores during the war years, he asserted.

ACCEPTED THE MONEY

Twin Falls, Ida., March 4 (AP)—"Here's the money for the haircut and here's $3 to cover the bum cheque I gave you." Somewhat taken aback, barber Charles Russell told the customer he didn't remember cashing a bad cheque. "It was about 10 years ago," said the customer. "You had a shop over on Main Street then." Russell remembered, smiled and accepted the money.

Miss E. Smellie, V. O. N. Supt., To Speak Here

An outstanding figure in Canadian National Public Health work, Miss Elizabeth Smellie, C.B.E., R.R.C., LL.D., Ottawa, will visit the city on Tuesday when as Chief Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada she will address the annual meeting of the local association. Miss Smellie is well known in Belleville having been closely associated with this branch at its organization and during its developing years.

During the war Miss Smellie has added to a distinguished career of service by being appointed matron-in-chief of the nursing service of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, with the rank of Colonel. She also directed the organization of the C.W.A.C. In the First World War, Miss Smellie made a notable contribution in giving leadership to the military nursing service and was awarded the Royal Red Cross medal for her outstanding efforts.

The growth of the Victorian Order services in Belleville is a matter of particular satisfaction to the Chief Superintendent. Its progress as a health agency since its inception twenty-two years ago is an indication of the recognition of Belleville citizens of the part the V.O.N. plays in community life. The various phases of Victorian Order work the weekly Child Welfare Conferences, maternity service, beside nursing in general and the program of health education—call for the service of three full-time Victorian Order nurses.

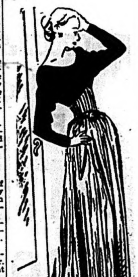
Tuesday's meeting will review the work of the Order for the past season and plan the program for the ensuing year.

13 FATALITIES REPORTED

Traffic accidents took six lives in Eastern Canada as 13 fatalities were reported at the weekend.

One Toronto man drowned and one asphyxiated, two persons died in a fire in the Maritimes, a boy was accidentally shot near London, Ont., a Cornwall man succumbed to injuries received in a fall, and a Cornwall boy broke through thin ice and drowned.

New Evening Clothes



Dinner costume featuring new lines

By VERA WINSTON

THE NEW LINE, achieved by strategic padding or full pleats and much tucking, is featured for top-drawer evening things, but from here it doesn't seem likely that the volume market is going for it. However, if you want to look very smart, very different, there 'tis! This dinner costume is a good example of the current hippiness. The blouse is of black Alix jersey, with almost off-the-shoulder neckline and a loosely draped sleeve that terminates in a tight forearm. The separate skirt is built-up with a boned midriff and has padding over the hips. The fabric is of multi-color striped taffeta.

WOOLER

District Entertains Fifty Returned Personnel

Wooler.—A banquet and social evening for the purpose of welcoming home the boys and girls of the armed services from Wooler and vicinity was held in the parlors of the Wooler United Church on Thursday evening.

Over fifty returned men and women representing the three branches of the services, together with their immediate relatives and friends sat down to a bountiful repast which was organized and served by the Woman's Association of the United Church. The menu featured roast chicken, pie a la mode, doughnuts donated by the Trenton Doughnut Company and apples donated by Mr. Colin Crews.

Seventy-Four oined Services

The number of personnel from the district who had joined the services totalled seventy-four, but in addition to those who were unable to be present, four are still on Occupational Service overseas and two have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Mr. Edward Nelson, officiated ably as master of ceremonies and proposed the Toast to The King. A Toast to the Service Guests was proposed by Mr. Henry McColl and Mr. Gordon Way, of Ottawa, former C.Q.M.S., Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment replied. In replying to this Toast, Mr. Way voiced the appreciation of the veterans for the many kindnesses extended to them by the people of the vicinity during the war. Short and appropriate addresses were given by the three clergymen of the district, Rev. R. E. Lemon, rector of St. George's Church; Father Riches, parish priest of St. Alphonsus' Church and Rev. W. Delve, pastor of Wooler United Church. During the proceedings a one minute's silence was observed in memory of the fallen.

Throughout the latter part of the dinner community singing led by Mr. Karl Austin, was enjoyed by the Assembly. A short program of entertainment had been arranged and intermingled with the addresses. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Clifford Rogers and Mrs. Lois Hoar, Sgt., C.W.A.C. Instrumental solos were given by Mr. Alex Bell and Mr. Karl Austin.

Angus Duffy Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Angus Duffy, of Belleville, ex-R.S.M., Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, introduced by Mr. Harold Steinburg, who referred to Mr. Duffy's close connection with the district and to his outstanding record of military service.

Mr. Duffy spoke of the fine record which the boys and girls from Wooler and vicinity had established in World War II, and referred to his personal acquaintance with a number of them, several having been in his Regiment. His interesting talk described conditions of modern warfare and drew attention to the many and varied problems and hardships of the soldier during the campaign. He hoped that the courage and fortitude shown by the servicemen and service-women throughout the recent conflict would be reflected throughout the nation and the world in assisting to build a new and better way of life. In commenting upon present day conditions, he stressed the need that returned veterans be afforded every assistance and opportunity in rehabilitating themselves to civilian life.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Duffy was accorded a vote of thanks by Mr. A. G. Austin, on behalf of all present, for his interesting talk. Appreciation was also voiced for those who through their able and untiring efforts had made this memorable affair possible.

At the close of the banquet guests were informed that a special dance was being held in the Town Hall for their enjoyment Music was provided by Austin's Arcadians and the dance was well attended.

HAD SOUR ENDING

Tulsa, Okla., March 4 (AP)—Burglary of a food market here had a sour ending. Police were called to the market in answer to an alarm. They found the intruder had opened a skylight, stepped onto a false ceiling which gave way and he dropped into a 60-gallon barrel of dill pickles.

Morning Miracle

It's so convenient for you to pick up the milk on your doorstep or milk box. But to get it there calls for almost miraculous cooperation and speed, from many people, in many different jobs.

Back of your friendly milkman, there's the farmer and his helpers . . . the highway hauler . . . the skilled workers in the dairy . . . the laboratory technicians with their tests for purity and quality . . . the designers and manufacturers of today's sanitary dairy equipment . . . the dairy executive who "keeps things rolling".

If you could look from your doorstep right back to the farm and see all these people at work, you'd begin to see the miraculous side of your milk service—so dependable, and so convenient.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When the Use "Excuse Me" and "Pardon Me"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a teen-age reader of your Column, and now I wish you would please answer a question that perplexes me. When is it correct to say "Excuse me", and when "Pardon me"?

Beth

Properly we say "Excuse me" . . .or, more graciously, "Please excuse me" or "Will you excuse me, please?". . .when we are asking to be excused from the room, or from the table, or when we are talking with someone and are called to the telephone; or when we have to interrupt a person who is speaking with another person to give him or her a message.

Now about "Pardon me". I'd like to urge you to discard this phrase, in favor of the more gracious "I beg your pardon". Say both of these aloud to yourself . . . "Pardon me" and "I beg your pardon" . . . and see if you don't agree that you can put a more sincere intonation into "I beg your pardon'. Or say, "Pardon me, please". . .but Never "Pardon Me"!

We say "I beg your pardon" (or a sincerely said "I'm sorry" or "I'm so sorry") if we are guilty of any seeming discourtesy: for example, when we get in another person's way; when we have to cross in front of someone; when we accidentally push a person; when we are thrown against a person in a bus or street-car; when we interrupt a person before we realize that the person has not finished speaking; when we speak to a stranger to ask, for instance, for a direction; when we have to pass between two people who are talking together; when we pass in front of people already seated in the theatre or movies, particularly if we cause them any inconvenience. In other words, let "I beg your pardon" be a smoother-of-the-way in doing what you can do to graciously and considerately get yourself over awkward situations. It's like "Please" and "Thank you" in that we should use it more liberally than we do! And at your age begin seriously to make this manners-habit "jell": say your "I beg your pardon" with the graciousness and sincerity that are obviously called for when you are the inconveniencing person.

A Simple, Inexpensive Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is to be married this Spring, and since I am to be her only attendant, I think I should give her a shower. I would like to invite about twenty close friends of the bride-to-be, but since I am older than most of these girls (I am married and have two children), and since I am not able to give an expensive or pretentious party, I wish you would please give me some suggestions as to how to make my shower nice and in order. As most of the guests I am inviting are working girls, I plan to have the shower in the evening.

L. N.

A shower is the easiest kind of party to plan. The idea is so friendly and festive that your party will, I know, be a merry one, with the simplest of plans and a minimum of expense. You may invite your guests verbally or by telephone or by shower invitations; plan to serve small sandwiches (or these may be omitted at an evening shower), or just cake and coffee, adding ice cream if you wish, nuts and candy; designate an inexpensive kind of shower (kitchen shower, pantry shower, paper, recipe-shower; linen, or, for widest choice of presents, a miscellanerous shower). The hours will speed by delightfully with the presentation and opening of the gifts, with chatting about this and that, and with the serving of refreshments.

Spring Prints

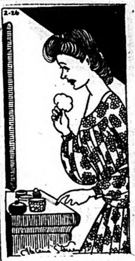
THAT GREAT American favorite, the print frock, is back again and is lovelier than ever. Adele Simpson designed several numbers for the Mary Lee spring collection, but none prettier than this dress fashioned of crepe in a black and mimosa yellow "fountain" print. It is a wrap-around model with softly draped deep armholes and sleeves, and a modified square neck, the sort of dress that is a wardrobe backbone.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Glamor After Nightfall



Get the right powder base

When the merry evening is on, when one is togged up in one's best dry goods, one is anxious to increase the drawing power of one's countenance. Not that a girl doesn't want to look gay and pretty in the daytime. But, with soft lighting effects, she can go the limit with artifice. The contents of the make-up box can accomplish wonders. It will contribute to a more porcelain-like complexion. It imparts perfectly outlined lips, even if they haven't a high rating. It will give that wide-eyed, fringed-with-dark-lashes look.

Begin with a conditioning of the skin. You can't make a success of self-portrait painting if you go at it immediately after a soapy face washing. Rinse with warm water, then with cold, dry with gentle pats, smooth on a velvety type of foundation cosmetic. Use one of a color that matches your skin. Keep on with a brisk friction until the application has disappeared and the flesh is glowing. Include the neck and the shoulders. Careless girls leave a high-water mark; neck and face then have a color divorce, don't appear to be on speaking terms.

Get the right powder base. You may have to experiment a bit. Try out several of them.

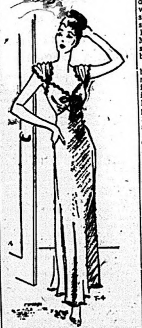
If you have the ill-luck to be fatigued, have circles or little hammocks under your eyes, precede the face washing with alternating hot and cold applications. Teacher, hopes that this is not necessary.

Red or reds with a bluish cast are the best selections for rouge for the evening. Avoid the orange-reds; electric light have a tendency to drain the red from orange. There will be an unflattering yellow cast to cheeks and lips, and that simply won't do. Orange-reds are for daytime wear; they're lovely when the skin has been made golden by the sun. Have them in your beauty kit; you'll use them later on. Make-up must change with the seasons, if a girl is to look her best.

Dark lipstick, especially raspberry and wine shades, tend to make the teeth look more shining white. Dip an orangewood into a lipstick—you'll have to keep a special one for this purpose— and draw an outline. Fill in by using the point of the lipstick from the border lines to the inner surfaces. Blot off an excess pigment with tissues. Massage lightily so the rosy pigment will seep into the tiny creases.

Take a crayon, touch the ends of your eyes with it. Use mascara on the lashes; you can get mascara in cake or cream form; both are convenient to apply. To make a soft, feather line of your eyebrows, darken them with the mascara brush.

Colorful Lingerie



Nightgown of primrose yellow

Heavy sheer rayon crepe in primrose yellow is used for this pretty nightgown made with embroidered scalloping in pale blue around the neck and cap sleeves. CLUMSY AND HUNGRY

Chicago, March 4 (AP) — Police expressed belief the burglars who broke into the Goldenberg Furniture Company store were clumsy and also hungry. They gained entrance by sawing their way through a second floor window in the rear. After looting a box in the safe of $1,400, they made a ground floor exit by sawing their way through a rear door. But they were so busy cleaning out a refrigerator of food they overlooked $7,000 in an inner compartment in the safe.

Fashion Flashes

NEAT AND NIFTY little bolero suits are going to brighten the Spring scene. Men's wear grey worsted is used for a suit that features a very short box bolero trimmed with white eyelet revers and cuffs. Draping over front hips and high waist emphasize small waistline.

All out for stripes is the word for summer playthings and frocks of the classic shirtmaker type. Stripes varying from mere hair lines to those of the awning variety are used in cotton, natural silk and linen, not mention the rayon family.

Novel ideas for the use of scarfs are many. One house turns scarfs into sleeves of the push-up, balloon variety by tying two knots directly under the arm and other two just above the elbow, attaching to shoulder with costume pins.

A survey of the theatre scene discloses smart frocks. At a recent premiere one woman wore a pink and black striped satin tunic top, figure fitting, and hugging the throat with a high, round neckline. Pencil-slim skirt, slit in front, of black satin, ankle-length.

New tricks add to the effective styling of Spring gloves. Thus a black suede shortie gains new interest by way of a detachable double cuff of white lingerie held by tiny buttons that form trimming on the uncuffed shortie.

Just about the best year-rounder for tailored or dressmaker suits and coats is the softly-handled' alligator bag. Alligator, in red, navy, brown or black, is used for a handsome bag with a wide pannier handle, opening with a gold metal hook and eye. Gold metal frame and catch.

Four Top Teams in N.H.L. Separated by Only Four Points And Two Weeks Left to Play

Toronto Maple Leafs Win Two Over Weekend From Chicago and Rangers

By The Canadian Press

The teams for the National Hockey League play-offs are pretty well fixed now—but with two weeks remaining before the schedule ends it's still anybody's guess as to how these four clubs will place at the finish.

The hectic race today had the top four separated by only four points. Montreal Canadiens have a one-point lead over Chicago Black Hawks. Boston and Detroit are tied for third, another three points back.

The jam resulted from the five weekend battles. Toronto beat Chicago 9-4 Saturday while Detroit and Montreal were struggling to a 3-3 tie at Montreal. On Sunday the Red Wings trimmed Canadiens 4-2 and Chicago beat Boston 5-3, while the Toronto Leafs were victors at New York by a 5-2 count.

Leafs' two victories in which Sweeney Schriner and Lorne Carr at last got into action probably came too late for the Stanley Cup holders. They are five full games back of Detroit and they have only six games left before the schedule ends March 17.

But the Leafs had plenty to cheer for at that. Saturday Schriner scored three goals and needs only one more to enter the select class of players with a lifetime total of 200 goals or more. Captain Syl Apps got himself four goals. Gaye Stewart and Nick Metz scored the others. The Hawk scorers were George Gee, Alex Kaleta, George Allen and Red Hamill.

Spotted Rangers Two Goals

At New York last night the Leafs spotted the Rangers the first two goals and then cleaned up. Louis Trudel and Grant Warwick beat Broda in the first period. Within one minute and four seconds Leafs rammed in three second-period goals. Gus Bodnar scored twice and Stewart, Bud Polle and Metz netted the others.

The Canadiens were outlucked at the start of last night's game at Detroit. At 6.15 of the first frame Ed Bruneteau fired from 15 feet, and the puck glanced off a Montreal player's stick into the net. Twelve seconds later the same thing happened — Jack Stewart let fly from 20 feet out and the puck bounced off the chest of Leo Lamoureux into the cage.

Carl Liscombe made it 3-0 for Detroit before Montreal got one back, when Elmer Lach scored all by himself. The third period was well gone when Bill Lindsay got Detroit's fourth and after Billy Reay's goal at 15.53 the Canadiens were scoreless.

Come From Behind Twice

At Montreal Saturday the Canadiens twice had to come from behind to earn the tie. Detroit got the first two with Harry Watson and Joe Carveth in the first period. Canadiens tied it up with Ken Mosdell and Reay scoring. Fernard Gauthier made it 3-2 for Detroit and Reay again tied it up. There was no score in the third period.

The Black Hawks won second-place by their 5-3 home victory over Boston last night. The teams were tied in the first period after Herbie Cain opened the scoring for Boston and Hamill got the equalizer. In the middle session Clint Smith and Joe Cooper scored for Chicago; then Bobby Bauer and Don Gallinger evened it up. But Hamill scored the winning counter and Smith added another in the last stanza.

All the teams see action again Wednesday night, with Rangers at Canadiens, Detroit at Boston and Toronto at Chicago.

LOCOS ONE UP

A streamlined Kingston Locos hockey express roared down the Intermediate "A" group championship right of way in the Harty Arena on Saturday night to derail the flying Petes from Peterborough by a 10-5 count in the first game of the four-of-seven series. The squads clash in Omemee tonight in the second joust of the titular battle series. Playing brilliant hockey, the squads battled to a four-all tie up to the end of the second period, but the streamlined Locos turning on a full head of steam brushed aside the Petes third period threat and roared to victory with a six-goal splurge. The game was witnessed by a capacity crowd of Kingston fans with the Petes bringing along plenty of support to cheer them along the path to victory. But twas the Locos night to howl and the third period attacks gave evidence of their clear superiority.

STIRLING JUNIOR "C" LOOP TITLISTS

Stirling's game little junior "C" hockey squad came through with flying colors on the home town ice, or what was left of it on Saturday night when they turned back the Hastings team by a 7-0 score to win the Junior "C" title of the group here. Hastings won a surprise victory in the first game but the Combines took the next two by one sided scores. The game was played on ice that was better fitted for water polo than hockey, but the Combines took no chances and went out to win by a handsome margin. The Stirling squad is scheduled to meet the Gananoque juniors in the first round of the "C" playdowns. Dates have not been set as yet but the first tilt will likely take place Tuesday or Wednesday. Prospects for good hockey are remote unless the weather "tightens" a bit.

PLENTY OF ANGLER INTEREST

That was a grand party of officials and a large number of members of the Belleville Game and Fisheries Association had the other night in Bancroft. The highlight of the conclave which was featured by several outstanding items of entertainment was the fact that 93, believe it or not, new members joined the Association during and after the get-together.

• • •

Headed by President Joe Shortt, and Director Sandy Lummiss, upwards of thirty city members bussed here in the early afternoon and rolled over the sloping hills of Hastings to the northern village. A sumptuous supper was served by the boys in the Bancroft Community Hall by ladies of the local chapter of the I. O. D. E. and it is reported that the famous northern hospitality was never better.

• • •

With the inner man filled with excellent northern "vittles" the boys got down to serious business. There was plenty of pep and enthusiasm shown and officials came back with glowing reports of a marked upsurge in interest in the association and its aims and purposes, that augurs exceptionally well for the future. After all 93 new members is direct evidence of that.

• • •

Prexy Shortt gave the boys a highly informative address on game and fish education, propagation and conservation, while several motion pictures pertaining to wild life, its haunts, habits and customs were enjoyed by the assemblage. Ronald Elmy, Belleville boy soprano and recent Kiwanis Festival winner, and the perennial "Jamie" Clark wie his pipes provided the musical part of the program and received well-deserved ovations at the conclusion of their respective performances.

• • •

There was an open discussion period and many suggestions were put before the meeting. One included the changing of the name of the Association, to the Hastings and Prince Edward Game and Fisheries Association, but the matter was laid over until a future date. The result of the meeting was exceedingly gratifying to officials who predict 1946 will be one of the best years in the history of the organization.

• • •

At the banquet w[illegible] Provincial Police Constable Stanley Palmateer, Percy Thompson, Game and Fisheries overseer, and M. J. Inwood of Combermere, also ex-wardens John Churcher and Bill Davis and Lorne Reid. Fred Croft rounded out an admirable evening with a report on the annual meeting of the provincial association. Thanks were expressed by Sandy Lummiss.

• • •

Belleville juniors will likely swing into action down Kingston way next week that is if the Kingston Saints and Vics conclude their series for their group title. The Saints are one up on their inter-city rivals in the best-of-three series. Meanwhile the Bears are impatiently cooling their heels in inactivity. Weather conditions have been anything but conducive to hockey, and the soft condition of the ice here has prevented the local kids from keeping the kinks out of their skating legs with practice. President Bill Dennis, who spectated the Locos-Petes brawl in Kingston on Saturday night could get no satisfaction from Kingston junior officials with regards to dates for the coming play down series

SIX-TEAM SENIOR LEAGUE PROPOSED

Montreal, March 4 — (CP) — Four teams yesterday were admitted in a proposed six-team senior league of the Quebec Lacrosse Association, first game of which is scheduled either for April 21 or 28.

Teams accepted were Montreal Canadiens, Lachine, Ville St. Pierre, Quebec and Cornwall. 2 more clubs will be taken in at a meeting March 31 and are expected to be entries from Valleyfield and Montreal or possibly Caughnawaga.

All teams were in the senior series last year with the exception of Cornwall, playing with Montreal teams for the first time since 1941, who took three championships in a row in 1938, 1939 and 1940.

It was decided that visiting teams would receive 20 per cent of the gross gate and that each team would play between 20 and 30 home games during the schedule.

N. H. L. LEADERS

(By The Canadian Press)

Standings: Montreal, Won 24, lost 16, tied 4, points 52.

BILL McKECHNIE HAS REBUILDING JOB ON HIS HANDS

Cincinnati Reds Finished Out of Money Last Year for First Time Since '38

By JACK HAND

Tampa, Fla., March 4—(AP) — Deacon Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati Reds faces a terrific reconstruction problem. He must rebuild an infield, construct an outfield and recondition a pitching staff before he can hope to move out of his 1945 apartment adjoining the National League basement.

The job isn't impossible, but it is liable to take time for the Reds last year were a punchless lot that embarrassed Deacon Bill by finishing out of the first division for the first time since he took charge in 1938.

A good example of the Reds' hope for the future is a young fellow named Grady Hatton, to whom general manager Warren Giles is reliably reported to have paid $25,000 for signing.

Hatton is a former soldier from the University of Texas, with no pro experience, who was such a hot catch that the major league scouts swarmed after him at the Greensboro, N.C. Army base. The Reds think he can play third base for them this season.

"Remember these names, Ted Kluszewski and Ewell Blackwell," advised Giles. "You will hear plenty more of them."

They have Eddie Miller at shortstop, the best in the game if you go by the fielding averages over the years.

Lonnie Frey probably will play second, although another rookie named Ben Zientara is a bright hope. Ed Shokes and Bert Haas are the first candidates of the moment.

Mike McCormick probably is the only outfield fixture, although he has been trying his hand at third base. Other fly chasing candidates include Mike Dejan, Max Marshall, Hank Sauer, Eric Tipton, Dain Clay, and Al Libke. There are 18 in all.

If Bucky Walters' arm comes around in good shape, and he reports it feels great, the pitching backbone should be provided by Walters, Johnny Vandemeer, Joe Beguz, Nate Andrews, Clyde Shoun and Gene Thompson. Included in the list of 30 hurlers are such hopes for the future as John Hetki, Millard Howell, Herman Wehmeier and George Burpo.

OMAHA KNIGHTS IN SECOND PLACE

(By The Canadian Press)

Omaha Knights climbed into a tie with St. Paul for second place in the United States Hockey League by virtue of 5-5 tie with Minneapolis Saturday night but failed to move past the idle Saints Sunday when Kansas City Pla-Mors turned them back, 4-3.

The victory put the Pla-Mors four games ahead of the pack and virtually sewed up the league title for them. Butch McDonald, notching what proved to be the deciding goal, also moved a step nearer the individual scoring championship with his 80th point of the season — 11 more than his nearest rival.

Eddie Reigle and Nick Poitras were the scoring stars of the only two week-end games, each sinking a pair of goals for the Knights.

Drive to Clean Dog Racing In Britain Begun

London, March 4 — (Reuters) —A drive to clear dog racing — one of Britain's most popular betting sports — of "unquestionables" has started, the Daily Telegraph reported today.

Every one of the 90 tracks controlled by the Greyhound Racing Association is to have its own security officer and assistants, the newspaper said. New personnel at stadiums will receive special training from experienced officers, and more ex-policemen and Criminal Investigation Department officers are being recruitel.

(Dog track racketeering gained wide publicity recently when a man doped all dogs but one in a race by hiding in the kennels. As soon as his work was done, bets running into thousands of pounds were placed from all parts of the country on the one dog left fit to run.)

Precautions against doping and other frauds will include flood lighting of kennels, minute examination of the dog's food, secrecy regarding the order in which dogs are put in their kennels, and a careful check on everyone concerned in handling the dogs before a race, the Daily Telegraph reported.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

New Liskeard, March 4—(CP) —Spring is just around the corner. The first robin was seen here last week and a muskrat lured from winter quarters by the balmy air was caught on the public school grounds here. And yesterday a Dymond township farmer caught a moth which was flying around his barn.

Billy Reay, Montreal, who notched two goals as Canadiens battled Detroit Red Wings to a 3-3 tie Saturday.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

The first three players in hockey's Big Seven held their places over the weekend with Max Bentley of Chicago still atop the field, despite the fact he has been out of action for over a week. Ab Demarco of Rangers moved up from seventh to fourth spot, his 41 points being four less than the 45 points of Gaye Stewart of Toronto and Bill Mosienko of Chicago. Toe Blake and Elmer Lach, both of Montreal Canadiens, are tied for fifth spot with 40 points apiece while Clint Smith of Chicago rounds out the seven, with 39 points.

The leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.
M. Bentley, Chicago	30	23	53
G. Stewart, Toronto	32	13	45
B. Mosienko, Chicago	17	28	45
A. Demarco, Rangers	19	22	41
H. Blake, Canadians	24	16	40
E. Lach, Canadiens	11	29	40
Clint Smith, Chicago	19	20	39

UNINVITED GUESTS

Toronto, March 4 — (CP)—Officers of the Toronto police morality squad were uninvited guests at a Saturday night wedding party in a house on John Street, arresting John Moran on charges of breach of the Liquor Control Act and possessing an unregistered revolver. Police were told that 248 empty beer bottles were due to a wedding shower following a Saturday night wedding party.

TEN LEADS

Upon your honor a partner depends on what the card you are leading portends. The honor led in expected to show the very card you are holding below.

The lead of an honor shows the card immediately below and the next lower or a step down; denies the card immediately above; and may or may not have a non-touching honor above.

From a sequence, complete or incomplete, lead the top. From a group containing honors, any two of which are in rotation, lead the top of the sequence portion.

Lead king from K Q J or K Q 10; queen from Q J 10 or Q J 9 or A Q J; jack from J 10 9 or J 10 8 or A J 10 or K J 10; ten from 10 9 8 or 10 9 7 or A 10 9 or K 10 9 or Q 10 9.

Now, don't bust your brain trying to memorize all these clumps of cards. Simply remember that you should lead the highest card from any sequence containing an honor. That's all.

If you like comparisons, look at each section from which the same card is led. See how the lead meanings fall into a pattern. It will help you decide what the led card shows.

Notice that whenever possible an honor card lead shows it can have a non-touching higher honor. The queen may have the ace; the jack may have the ace or king; the ten may have ace or king or queen.

Notice also that when the led card has a non-touching higher honor, it promises only one card in sequence below. But when it has no non-touching higher honor, it promises two lower sequence cards.

Your lead is the ten of clubs from this hand:

♥J 9 6
♦9 7 4 3
♣Q 10 9 4

Partner knows you (1) have the nine; (2) do not have the jack; (3) may have the queen or king or ace. He has that much to go on.

A lead without meaning is a wasteful gesture.

AT THE BELLE

"DUFFY'S TAVERN"

What Ed "Archie" Gardner does to the King's English and your funnybone would challenge Webster's dictionary for adequate expression. Suffice it to say that "Duffy's Tavern," the new Paramount attraction which opened Saturday at the Belle Theatre, made a movie comedian out of a radio favorite who has been causing laugh cycles at regular intervals over Station WEAF. Party to Archie's hilarity is his happy-go-lucky gang which includes Charley Cantor (Finnegan), Eddie Green (Eddie, the waiter) and Ann Thomas (Miss Duffy).

Even a critical movie-goer would agree that the above talent offers enough entertainment to satisfy the most demanding audience, but "Duffy's Tavern" goes one better. In addition to those "Archie-ites" mentioned, the film has assembled an array of stars calculated to outshine anything Hollywood ever dreamed up before. The cast includes Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton, Paulette Goddard, Alan Ladd, Dorothy Lamour, Eddie Bracken, Brian Donlevy, Sonny Tufts, Veronica Lake, Arturo de Cordova, Barry Fitzgerald, Victor Moore, Marjorie Reynolds, Bob Benchley and Barry Sullivan. The story, written by Melvin Frank and Norman Panama, is a tidy little job revolving around the pecuniary misadventures of that good-hearted guy-about-town, Archie, who uses Duffy's Tavern to feed fourteen ex-servicemen, temporarily unemployed, on the cuff. The law and Duffy, however, are finally assuaged when Archie stages a big benefit block party to raise the $1200. cash deficit and balance the books.

Top performances are turned in by an exceptionally competent cast under the direction of Hal Walker. Marjorie Reynolds and Barry Sullivan handle the romantic end of it very successfully and Victor Moore, Marjorie's father in the picture and head of the phonograph factory which gives the ex-servicemen back their jobs, is the same timid, lovable old rascal Broadway took to its heart some years ago. Special mention goes to Ann Thomas, the pert comedienne with the Brooklyn brogue, whose characterization of Miss Duffy is particularly noteworthy. The part marks her motion picture debut. That new dancing combo, Miriam Franklin and Johnny Coy, also deserve praise.

"Duffy's Tavern" will be repeated tonight and Tuesday, matinee daily.

Hollywood Column

(By BOB THOMAS)

Hollywood, March 4 (AP) — Last week Fred MacMurray returned to Paramount after an absence of almost three years. During this time he acquired two titles for himself.

In 1944 Fred was runner-up in the Women's Press Club election for the "most unco-operative actor." In 1945 he walked off with first prize.

Fred started his career at Paramount back in 1934 and the people over there know him well. He is shy and unassuming. He is one of the wealthiest men in Hollywood. The MacMurray ranch produces some of the finest cattle in the west. His apartment houses and real estate are worth several hundred thousand dollars, and his latest venture, frozen food lockers, promises to add to his fortune.

He rarely talks about anything while working. Perhaps that is why he was elected most unco-operative. Fred is best described as "bad copy." He's a wonderful listener, but that doesn't help a newspaperman. When asked "what's new Fred?" he'll answer "you know there's never anything new with me."

On one occasion he was notified that a girl reporter was coming to interview him. He asked her please to write out all the questions she wanted answered. She did and Fred proceeded to answer, personally and in long-hand, all the questions, some intimate ones included.

Yet he isn't shy with girls on the screen. The list of MacMurray's leading ladies includes Ann Sheridan, Katharine Hepburn, Claudette Colbert, the late Carole Lombard, Barbara Stanwyck, Irene Dunne, Alice Faye, Jean Arthur, Rosalind Russell, Joan Crawford, Marlene Dietrich, Dorothy Lamour and Madeleine Carrol. Now, in "Suddenly It's Spring" Paulette Goddard is the object of his affection.

But the objects of his affection off the screen are his wife and two children. The MacMurrays are rarely seen in night clubs and throw few parties. What do they do for entertainment? Just what the average people back in his home town of Kankakee, Ill., do—they have some of the gang over in the evening. The Ray Millands are the most regular visitors.

GOOD FISHING

Fort Erie, March 4 (CP)—Hundreds of fishermen from both sides of the Niagara River took advantage of yesterday's fine weather to go ice fishing on Lake Erie. Few anglers went home empty-handed, and some reported catches of 50 or 60 pounds. Majority of the fish were white and yellow pike and some perch. Since the season started, four big sturgeon have been landed.

ASKED TO JOIN WOLF HUNT

Owen Sound, Ont., March 4 — (CP) — Reeve James Reid of nearby Sydenham township has issued an appeal for 1,000 men to join in a monster wolf hunt Thursday. Hunters are asked to assemble at Bothwells Corners, a crossroads three miles east of here and will spread out throughout the northern part of the township.

KINGSTON LOCOS TAKE FIRST GAME FROM THE PETES

Tompkins High Scorer of Night With Three But Petes Lacked Condition

Kingston, March 4 (CP)—Kingston Locos took a game lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A group final with Peterborough Saturday night by defeating the visitors 10-5 in the first game of the series.

Trailing by two goals early in the second period, the Locos took a one-goal lead before the end of the period and ran in six third-period scores to make sure of victory.

Partis, McNaught and Carr-Harris were double scorers for the locals with Murphy, Aitken, Mortimer and Catlin getting the others. Tompkins scored three for the Petes and Creighton and Ellis had singles.

Peterborough: Goal, Harding; defence, F. Parsons, Burton; centre, Kingdon; wings, Heale, Thompson. Subs, Creighton, Blewet, T. Parsons, Ellis, Crowe, Tompkins.

Penalties—F. Parsons, Carr-Harris, McNaught, Tompkins.

BASKETBALL

Handicapped by having to start play without sufficient warmup, and the fact that Rollins failed to make the trip, and Vaughan, whose height under the basket has been one of the team's defensive factors all season, was unable to play due to a knee injury sustained Friday afternoon, the Belleville "Y" Juniors bowed to Queen's in Kingston on Saturday night to the score of 37-27, losing the round by 24 points, in the series for the junior basketball championship of Eastern Ontario.

Driving conditions slowed up the trip to Kingston with the result that the team arrived at the Queen's gymnasium just in time to get on the floor and start play. It took them some minutes to get warmed up and really into the game, and Queen's had taken a commanding lead during this period, scoring 12 points before Belleville tallied.

Once Bankier sank a long shot for Belleville, the team started to click, and they were down only 5 points at the half, 15-10. They started off well in the second half, and for a time it looked as though they might pull out a win and overcome the deficit from the first game, but lack of substitutes tired the players who were working so hard to come up to the leaders, and Queen's again took command to outscore the "Y" crowd by 5 points again in the second half.

The game was a crowd pleaser, with excitement high all through. Gagnon, the diminutive captain of the winners, again sparked his team, proving hard to check, and his shooting was deadly from any part of the floor. Viron was also effective on the basket. The rest of the team were not up to the calibre of this pair, and man for man, with the exception of Gagnon, Belleville were better players. Bankier tallied 10 and Spafford 9 for the Belleville squad.

Bankier and Wood are the only two members of the Belleville team who are too old to qualify as juniors again next season, which should give Belleville a team which ought to have little difficulty in copping a championship if they stay together.

Both teams handled the ball well, and passed well, but Queen's made a lot of ground by taking the rebounds under their own basket, Belleville rarely going in for rebounds after a shot. This gave the winners possession lots of times when they should not have had the ball, and the Belleville team can thank themselves for having to fight a defensive battle many times when they might have been on the offensive. To the spectators it looked as though Queen's had considerable edge in condition, which probably accounted for Belleville not driving in for the rebounds.

One of the first principles of sport is that you have to train and practice, and the team which pays the most attention to their preparation usually come out on top. This series offered a sure proof of this principle, for the better team lost to a team which had followed the rules.

The teams:

Queen's: Soutter 4, Cheney, Simpson 4, Gagnon 15, Viron 8, Briden, Hinton, Smythe 5, Aisenburg 1. Total 37.

Belleville "Y": Cameron 1, Bankier 10, Spafford 9, Garrow 4, Watkin 3, Wood, Watson. Total 27.

Referee: Ted Earley, Kingston.

Hockey Sidelights

By ED FITKIN

Toronto, March 4 — Herb Ralby, of the Boston Post, says that Art Ross is breaking up his Kitchener line (Dumart-Schmidt-Bauer) not just for a few games—but for keeps. If such comes to pass, the move will mark the third crack-up of former outstanding pre-war lines .. First to go was the Colville brothers-Shibicky unit of Ranger fame. .. then the Taylor-Schriner-Carr threesome that was so potent with the Toronto Maple Leafs around 1941-42 and 1942-43 was dismantled. .. Ralby reveals that the Kitchener Kids might have become hockey's greatest all-time forward line if the war had not interrupted their hockey careers. .. When they enlisted in the RCAF in February 1942, the Dumart-Schmidt-Bauer line had connected for 582 points .. more than half of the all-time mark set by the Cook-Boucher-Cook line of 1033 points.

• •

There is a hint, too, that Ross will move Milt Schmidt back to a defence position when Bill Cowley returns to the Boston line-up .. Artful Artha has always intimated that Schmidt and Woody Dumart would make excellent rearguards when their days as forwards were numbered .. and in view of the trend toward streamlined defencemen, Ross will have good opportunity to put his theories into practice .. Johnny Gottselig achieved more than satisfactory results in converting George Allen and Eddie Wares into defencemen .. and Frank Boucher has clicked with Neil Colville and is trying to renovate Mac Colville and Lynn Patrick .. Many Toronto people think Syl Apps would make an ideal defenceman under present hockey play but Conn Smythe disagrees .. He is grooming Apps for a left wing spot and is convinced he'll be even greater as a portside operator .. Now that the Leafs are virtually eliminated from the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time since Maple Leaf Gardens was opened in 1931, the Toronto management intends to do a thorough rebuilding job for next year with the accent on youth and speed — AND A HARD-HITTING DEFENCE!

• •

Two of the youngsters who rate highly in 1946-47 plans of the Leafs are Ted Kennedy and Bud Poile .. Poile, who recently returned from overseas, played for the Leafs in 1942-43 and also got into 11 games in 1944 while switching from the Air Force to the Army .. Now bigger, stronger and a faster skater, Bud looks as if he will fit in nicely .. Like Gaye Stewart and Gus Bodnar of the Leafs, Poile is a Fort William, Ont., product and Scout Squib Walker, who discovered him, says he was "a super star" as a junior .. Bud played junior hockey for two season in the Lakehead .. the first year he finished as runner-up to Bodnar for the scoring title .. The following winter Squib said to him: "If you win the scoring championship, we'l ltake you to Toronto to see the Stanley Cup playoffs" .. Bud won the scoring title .. and got his trip. The next winter he was PLAYING for the Leafs!

• •

Kennedy and Poile played together during Bud's 11-game sojourn with the Leafs in 1944 and records prove that they worked together exceptionally well .. outscoring their opposing line or holding it even in 80 per cent of the games. .. George Boothman, who is now with Buffalo, was the third man on the line .. Kennedy, who was such a standout for the Leafs during the past two seasons, had a rough time this Winter. .. In his early games he played below par and then, just when he was starting to go, he ran into a foot injury .. His instep tendon was almost severed and he has been on the limp ever since .. A 29-goal man last winter, Teeder played only 21 games this Winter and wound up with 3 goals and 2 assists .. Kennedy, incidentally, has gone into partnership in the purchase of a beauty spot near Toronto called "Belfountain" .. Carl Uteck, former Niagara district baseball star who caught for the Louisville Colonels last season, is Ted's partner. .. Uteck, highly-regarded by the Boston Red Sox, had to pass up spring training with the Bosox this year because of illness ..Ted and Carl hope to turn their new investment into a profitable summer resort and tourist camp.

• •

Not taking any chances on running short of players for the coming Stanley Cup playoffs, Montreal Canadiens have completed arrangements whereby Ted Campeau and Gerry Plomandin, top scorers in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, will remain on immediate call-up basis for the remainder of the season .. Frankie Eddolls and Kenny Mosdell have also been added as insurance .. With Ottawa all a-buzz over the startling spy-ring disclosures, it was only natural that King Clancy would come up with a yarn .. He says he walked into an Ottawa office the other day to see a friend and was greeted with unusual enthusiasm .. "I'm sure glad to see you, King," his friend said. "You really had me worried." King looked at him: "Why would I have you worried?" he asked. "Well," said his friend, "I haven't seen you for so long, I thought for sure you had been picked up as a spy suspect!"

BASKETBALL

Students and Intermediates are still tied for the lead in the 'Y' House League with 4 wins and 1 loss apiece at the end of the first round of play. Wildcats also have lost only one game, but have a postponed game.

This week's games saw an improved style of ball being played by all teams, Intermediates, Students and Wildcats being the winners. In the opener, Nay started strong to lead the Intermediates by 14-8 in the first half, but the Intermediates rallied after the intermission to take the game by one point, the final score being 22-21. Jack Cooper of Navy was the high scorer with 11 points, with Spiegel leading the winners with 6. This game was the pick of the night's play, and kept the gallery fans on edge from start to finish.

The second game saw the Students run up 13 points before the Noon Gang made a tally, but from the start of the second quarter it was nip and tuck all the way. The Noon Gang improve steadily, but seem to have trouble getting started until they are behind. Play was fast in this game with Cameron notching 12 points and Campbell 8 for the winners. Ritz, making his first appearance with the Noon Gang was high for them with 7.

The nightcap produced the nicest passing play of the evening when Waterhouse, Reynolds and Toms started a bout of short snappy passes in the back court which finished up under the basket with a nice fake and a pass to Waterhouse who cut in from the foul line to score. Al Saunders led his team with 15 points. Seniors had a lot of shots that were near baskets, rimming and rolling out, but the Wildcats played better ball to deserve the win, but not by the margin they had.

Intermediates: Buchanan 4, Bongard 2, Button 4, Bos, Burke 4, Spiegel 6, McBurney 2, Rose. Total 22.

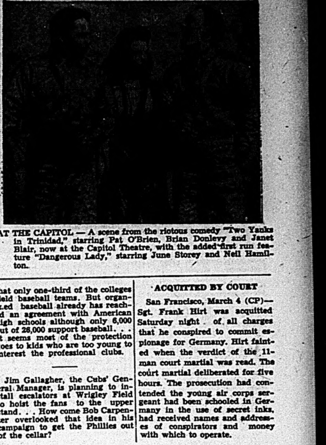
Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, March 4. (AP)—Commissioner A. B. (Ah Love Baseball) Chandler has accepted an invitation to speak to the American College Publicity Association's May meeting on the subject of "protecting the college athlete." . . . Just the other day Happy commented that organized ball couldn't be expected to string along with the college coaches' proposals about signing undergraduate players unless the colleges give baseball a bigger place in their sports program. . . . That same day the Phillies announced they planned to sign Gale Bishop, Washington State Basketball star whose hitting probably would have given the college baseball team a somewhat more important place this Spring. He hit .400 for Fort Lewis, Wash., last season. . . . Chandler was right, of course, in pointing out that only one-third of the colleges field baseball teams. But organized baseball already has reached an agreement with American high schools although only 6,000 out of 26,000 support baseball. . . It seems most of the protection goes to kids who are too young to interest the professional clubs.

Jim Gallagher, the Cubs' General Manager, is planning to install escalators at Wrigley Field to hoist the fans to the upper stand. . . How come Bob Carpenter overlooked that idea in his campaign to get the Phillies out of the cellar?



AT THE CAPITOL — A scene from the riotous comedy "Two Yanks in Trinidad," starring Pat O'Brien, Brian Donlevy and Janet Blair, now at the Capitol Theatre, with the added first run feature "Dangerous Lady," starring June Storey and Neil Hamilton.

ACQUITTED BY COURT

San Francisco, March 4 (CP)—Sgt. Frank Hirt was acquitted Saturday night of all charges that he conspired to commit espionage for Germany. Hirt fainted when the verdict of the 11-man court martial was read. The court martial deliberated for five hours. The prosecution had contended the young air corps sergeant had been schooled in Germany in the use of secret inks, had received names and addresses of conspirators and money with which to operate.

CHAPTER 16

In a few minutes she had the child well wrapped. Patsy had even gurgled a little and smiled while she was wrapping her snugly and warmly. In another minute Gina had told the Barnetts good-bye and had the child in the front seat of the car beside her.

Gina started the car moving at a snail's pace. After she had covered half a mile, she knew there was only one thing to do; pull off the road and wait. At any rate, little Patsy was warm and comfortable. And that was the important thing.

She remembered that she had meant by all means to get the car back to Timothy in time to keep his date.

And then through the iced-over windshield she saw a car approaching. When it came a few feet closer, it stopped.

It was Timothy who got out of the taxicab. He motioned the driver to go on back and opened the door of his own car, getting in beside Gina. She'd put the baby on the back seat as she had fallen asleep again. Timothy said, "Gina I've been worried about you. In the first place, you shouldn't have gone off while it was snowing. Why couldn't you have waited until morning?" his voice sounded almost cross.

"I'm sorry, Timothy. I had to come when I did. You didn't need to be worried. I mean, you shouldn't have been."

"Shouldn't I?" he shot her a look that still held a certain impatience.

"I can't imagine how you found me."

"You didn't leave many clues. I asked Lora, Barbara, everybody I saw where you'd gone. Nobody knew. As a last desperate measure I looked on your desk: there on a note pad was written an address. I took a chance."

"Excellent, Doctor Watson," Gina teased.

"What are you doing without a coat?"

Gina almost giggled. It was Timothy who was being schoolteacherish now. And..it was pleasant to have the roles reversed.

Timothy hadn't as yet seen the little bundle wrapped in Gina's coat sleeping sweetly on the back seat. She made a little gesture toward Patsy. Timothy turned his head. "A child. A baby. I might have known. Are you taking it to the hospital? I still don't see why in the world you didn't ask someone to help you," he went on, not waiting for an answer.

Gina didn't remind him that he was usually too busy these days for her to call on him as she once had done. But she did say that she was sorry if he had missed an engagement to come after her. He should have known she'd manage one way or the other.

"Hang the engagement," Timothy said, still sounding a little cross. Then as if suddenly contrite, he said, "It is tough on Cynthia but I suppose she may as well get used to it. After all, I'm a doctor first." Timothy was getting out of the car and going to the windshield. In a few minutes he had scraped off all the ice and snow and was taking off his light top-coat. Then he opened the car door again, thrust the coat at Gina. "Put this on."

"But, Timothy, I don't need it honestly. I'm quite warm."

"Young woman, haven't you caused me enough trouble without arguing with me further? Put it on."

"Yes, doctor," Gina said meekly, and slipped into the coat. It smelled of good tobacco and felt warm and comforting against her slight, chilled body.

Timothy started the car, gave her a quick one-sided smile. "All fixed up?"

"All fixed up beautifully," Gina's voice sang. Her heart was singing too. It was wonderful. The snow, having little Patsy for her very own, and Timothy here beside her, his shoulder touching hers. It was a moment that would live in her memory as long as life itself sang in her veins.

The car slipping through the snow and ice, Timothy's steady hands on the wheel, his nearness. Once he turned his head, looked at her with that little quirk to his eyebrows. "When I first came out here and saw you, I didn't know whether to spank you or kiss you." He added with a smile, "Guess that was why I was cross."

"Well, let me know about five minutes before you make up your mind," Gina said lazily and happily out of her deep content. If it hadn't been for getting little Patsy home and safe in bed, she wouldn't have cared if this moment could have gone on indefinitely. Out here, alone just with Timothy and Patsy, he seemed more hers than he ever had before; than he ever would again, as she knew only too well.

Timothy got the car back to the hospital much sooner than he'd expected to, stopping at the entrance gates, looking at Gina, as if for further instructions. She said, "I'm taking the baby with me to the cottage, that is, temporarily. Her name is Patsy. She's a darling."

"You're taking her to the cottage?" Timothy didn't understand.

Gina didn't intend to explain just now. Timothy didn't know anything about Patsy at all.

Timothy went to the back seat and skillfully lifted Patsy out without waking her. "I'll carry her in for you. Don't trip on that coat." When he reached the door of the cottage, Gina slipped out of the coat. "I'll take her now."

He relinquished his light burden. "Goodnight, Gina. The next time you go out in the slums rescuing a strange baby, let me know. I'll go with you. After all, it's part of my job, you know."

"Thanks, Timothy. I'll remember," Gina said chokily, "and good night."

Gina took Patsy in the cottage. She was awake and gurgling again when she entered the room. Gina said, "Hello, Patsy, welcome home, darling! From now on, you're my family, and I'm yours."

Patsy said, "Glugh—glugh!" and smiled delightedly. To her surprise Gina saw that she had a tooth. "Now, isn't that smart?" Gina asked her proudly.

Lora had awakened and was sitting up in bed, blinking her eyes. She said, "Am I dreaming, or is that a real live baby?" She opened her eyes wider and leaned over. "Why, it's little Patsy! Gina, where on earth did you get her?"

"Tell you tomorrow." Gina went in the bathroom. Patsy had to have a little sponging off, and something clean to sleep in. There was only one thing; the top of her pajamas.

Lora got up. "Can't I help?"

After she had the baby sponged off, and wrapped and pinned in the pajama top, she remembered the most important thing of all. Milk. Patsy would have to be fed.

"A fine mother I'd made forgetting your food," Gina told Patsy. She'd have to run over to Harry's, or if he was closed; she'd have to go to the diet kitchen. But just as she started, there was a knock on the front door. There was Timothy with a nippled bottle of warm milk. "You'll need this," he said.

"Oh, Timothy, thanks a hundred times."

Lora had not only managed to dig up half a dozen safety pins, but had gone further, she had some soft old towels, which would certainly come in handy.

"Tomorrow I shall go shopping. Little frocks, little jackets, caps, little undies, a baby bed. Patsy is going to have everything. You just wait and see."

"Doesn't she look happy? It's wonderful that you found her, Gina, but how in the world are you going to keep her while .. while you're working?"

"I haven't got to that yet. One thing at a time. It'll work out."

"You never stop believing that things will turn out all right, do you?" Lora said wistfully.

"No. No, I don't. If we don't have faith..what's the use of anything on earth?" But Gina was a little worried, even though she wouldn't admit it to Lora. She couldn't leave Patsy over here alone during her hours at work. She had to keep working for two important reasons. Because nurses were sorely needed everywhere, and because she had to earn money now not only for herself but for Patsy.

It was, strangely, Barbara Beatty, who solved Gina's problem, temporarily at least. She slept during the day because she was on night duty. She was a light sleeper, waking at the tiniest noise. Patsy had reached the age where she was awake about a third of each day, sometimes half a day.

Barbara and Gina had talked it over during breakfast. Gina said, "I'm afraid you'll need more sleep than you'll get."

"Believe it or not, I'll love it," Barbara said firmly.

So Gina went on to work feeling relieved. Barbara was a good nurse, one of the best, conscientious to a fault. Patsy was in good hands.

There was still the problem of getting time to go in town and do the necessary shopping for Patsy. After all, when Gina was off duty the stores were closed. No, she suddenly remembered, this was the one night they were open, because of the defense workers. When Barbara came on duty, Lora could look after Patsy until Gina could get back.

A car slithered to a stop at the curb in front of her. A voice said, "Want a pick-up, lady?"

It was Timothy. "Hop in," he said.

Gina lost no time in doing it. "I'm running in good luck. Have been all day."

"That's fine, Gina. Glad."

Timothy looked tired. Also very much thinner. "You're losing weight," the words came from Gina almost involuntarily.

"All this night life, Gina. Too bad we weren't born double, isn't it?"

"Twins, you mean?"

"Sort of like that. One of you to be one thing, the other something else."

Gina was thinking, it would be nice if she were twins now that she had Patsy to look after. One part to stay with the baby, the other to do her job.

She didn't like the thin, rather worried look on Timothy's face. There were nights when he probably didn't get much sleep. She said, a sudden thought coming. "You're not in bad? Because of last night?"

He turned his head and smiled. "You mean with Cynthia? Well, sort of. It's a question of a conditional forgiveness. I'm forgiven if I come to dinner and get there by seven." He suddenly gave the car more gas. "At this rate, I may not make it."

"Patsy all right?" asked Timothy as he turned on to Main Street.

"She's fine." A minute later Gina said, "This is where I get off Thanks, Timothy, a lot."

Another block, and Gina was entering the store specializing in baby things. She hadn't any idea they were so high. The war, of course. And she couldn't afford as many things for Patsy as she'd hoped.

She bought the bed last, made arrangements for it to be sent out the next day, then a few toys, which she also left to be sent out. The other things she'd carry herself..something of a job when riding a bus, but Gina managed it, reaching home a little before 10.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching pop reeding his paper and ma doing the bridge problem, and I said, G. pop, gosh, ma, is it true when you were my age there wasn't any radio to listen to?

All too true, I'm afraid, pop said, and ma said, My, my, when I look back on it, I don't know how we ever lived through it.

Us kids today are certainly a lot luckier than you were all right, I said, and pop said, Dont speak of it, it makes me feel too bad. In those dreery days, Berlin was the last name of Irving Berlin instead of the ferst name of Berlin Germinny, and there was nothing for the young fokes to do all the long dizmal evening except gather around the piano and sing merrily to keep our poor parents from sispecting how bored we were, he said.

My yes, the whole nayborhood rang with the doleful strains of Alexanders Ragtime Band, it was reely pitiful, ma said. People that didn't know any better might of thought we were injoying ourselfs, I suppose, she said, and I said, And wasn't there even any airoplanes to know the different names of and everything?

Not even a blimp, pop said There was no use looking up at the sky, because there was absilutely not a plane to see—nothing but great tumbling masses of clouds floating in the infinite blue expanse. After a site like that there was nothing to do but go weerily home and write poetry instead of tearing the tops off of 2 boxes of Fluffed Oatsies and sending them in for a cutout model of the Jet P-99, he said, and ma said. And the few movies we had were just silent pictures, and the only sound was made by the man at the piano tinkling away while we sat there with our ignorant mouths open without the slightest idea of what we were missing. Oh dear I'm going to cry. she said, and pop said, So am I.

Which they didn't laughing instead.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — The stock market slumped in the early session to show index losses of 1.41 for the industrials and 1.43 for the golds at noon while the base metals dropped .37 and the western oils .33. Trading was in moderate volume at 1,054,000 shares for the first three hours.

Negus was the feature of the gold share trade. It advanced to 3.10 and held a gain of about 20 cents.

Labrador, Steep Rock, Noranda and Nickel were lower base metals. Sherritt was inclined to tighten up.

In the industrial section the steels and papers were weak and the foods and senior oils had narrow margins on the down side.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Comforting to bullish forces was the lack of selling pressure from the start, with the ticker tape frequently at a standstill. Losses, ranging from fractions to three points or so, were reduced here and there near the fourth hour.

Canadians posted fractional recessions at mid-day for most issues traded. Canadian Pacific was off ¼ at 19½, Dome Mines off ⅛ at 26⅛. International Nickel off ⅛ at 37¼.

Stirling-Marmora Combines Trounce Hastings 7 to 0

Stirling, March 2 — (Special)— In front of the excellent netminding of McInroy, Stirling-Marmora "Combines" trounced Hastings 7-0 to take the deciding fixture in a best-of-three series in Stirling Saturday night and so earned the right to advance into the O.H.A. Junior "C" playdowns. In spite of the fact that the ice was quite sticky, both teams played good hockey.

It was excellent "team" play that won the game for the Combines. Their passes were clicking in grand style, especially in the final stanza when they rapped in four goals.

The first period was very cautious with both teams checking very closely. Courtney combined with Stapley at the 6:16 mark to give the Combines the lead. This lead was increased just before the period ended when Lavender and Cousins combined with the former being the marksman.

The middle session was rather slow. At the 19:25 mark, Stapley made it 3-0 on a pass from Bastedo.

The Combines really went to work in the final chapter. Shortly after the start of the period, Lavender, Trumble and Cousins rapped in three goals in one minute and five seconds to give Stirling a 6-0 lead. With only four minutes left to play, Courtney combined with Bastedo to finish the scoring for the evening.

Stirling-Marmora "Combines": goal, McInroy; defence, Utman and Whitehead; centre, Cousins; wings, Trumble and Lavender; alternates, Bastedo, Stapley, Courtney, Wright and Desjardins.

Referees: "Toots" Holway and Goyer, Belleville.

Arctic Convoy Battle Proved Knockout Blow For Nazi Surface Fleet

DANIEL DE LUCE

Nurnberg, March 4 (AP)— In the wintry twilight off the northernmost tip of Norway, British naval guns thundered the death knell of the German surface fleet on the last day of 1942.

Secret papers left behind by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder at naval headquarters, after he lost his supreme command because of the North Cape fiasco, have supplied the inside story of how British fighting skill broke the German spirit.

With tonnage and fire power in their favor, or at any rate no worse than equal, two of Germany's finest cruisers, the Hipper and the Luetzow, were routed by Royal Navy warships escorting a merchant convoy to Murmansk.

Into a Tantrum

When Hitler heard about it, he flew into one of his worst tantrums.

This is Raeder's own memorandum of a one and a half-hour tongue lashing six days after the defeat, which the Fuehrer's communique had attempted to disguise as a triumph:

"The Fuehrer said the navy had no meaning in the wars of 1864, 1866 and 1870. The role of the German high seas fleet in the First World War had no meaning. It lacked men who would commit it to action, even without agreement from the Kaiser. It sapped a great deal of fighting strength while the army had continuously heavy fighting.

"The navy has always allowed its numerical relationship to enemy forces to be a great factor—but not so with the army.

"The Fuehrer, as a land soldier, demanded that if the German forces got into action the action should be fought through.

"Large ships should not be tied up months long in the harbor without objectives; strong Luftwaffe forces are thereby tied up for their protection.

"If it comes to a Norwegian landing, it is better that the Luftwaffe should attack the landing forces than protect our own fleet.

"The war until now has been carried on by light sea forces. The small have protected the big, not the big protected the small.

"Parallel to Cavalry"

"If the Fuehrer renounces heavy ships, it is not a degradation but parallel to what happened to the cavalry in the army.

"The Fuehrer mentioned that Stalin's navy was transferring battleship crews to destroyers.

"The Fuehrer has ordered the crew from the Gneisenau to be available for general disposition, because the Gneisenau had not been scheduled to be ready for sea until the end of 1944."

One was a formal recommendation that either Admiral Rolf Carls or Admiral Karl Doenitz was suited to take over the command which Raeder was resigning.

Raeder, faithful to the surface fleet, left no doubt that he would like to see the command go to Carls, "because of his personality, experience in leadership of operations and many other functions such as ship design."

But he conceded that Doenitz's appointment would emphasize that the "U-boat war has special importance for a war decision" and reminded Hitler that Raeder himself had given Doenitz "three powerful promotions in this war."

The second letter was a report likely to be regarded as of lasting significance by naval historians.

Confessed Mistakes

In detail, it confessed German mistakes and British superiority in the Northern Sea battle, saying:

"A tactical success was doubtless gained by the enemy. He brought through a convoy undamaged, and, of the attacking German units, he sank one destroyer, the Freiderich Eckoldt, and a heavy cruiser, the Hipper, was damaged. His losses, according to an official declaration of the British Admiralty, were the destroyer Achates, sunk; the destroyer Onslow, damaged, and the minesweeper, Bramble, sunk."

The report stated that the German cruiser Luetzow also took part in the action, but because of bad weather, uncertainty of what odds might be faced, and other considerations, the Luetzow withdrew without inflicting damage.

The report admitted German gunners were rank amateurs at fighting under Arctic conditions, and one British cruiser slipped in dangerously close to the German warships, because they mistook it for the Hipper changing course.

Having granted that German sailors were outgamed as well as outfought, Raeder cast caution away and verbally defied the Fuehrer's general charge of cowardice against big ships.

Reluctant to Comply.

Raeder asserted that Hitler himself, after the loss of the battelship Bismarck in 1941, had ordered the fleet to avoid possible further losses—an order that terminated surface operations in the Atlantic. Raeder claimed the professional naval command was reluctant to comply with the Fuehrer's wishes.

Hitler's answer was twofold; he gave Raeder's job to Submarine Specialist Doenitz and confirmed the immobilization of German big ships for the duration of the war.

ASKS PLAIN-SPEAKING

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R.), of Michigan, a delegate to the first general assembly of the U.N.O., as he reported to the U.S. Senate on the united organizations' meeting. Vandenberg appraised the outlook for U.S.-Soviet relations in this fashion: "I assert my own belief that we can live together in reasonable harmony if the United States speaks as plainly on all occasions as Russia does."

Bristol, England (CP)—Crowds watching removal of German bombs fell flat on their faces when a 500-pounder fell 50 ft. to the ground. They did not know the explosive fuse had been removed previously.

Low-Cost Housing Need of Canada Says C.D. Howe

Victoria, March 2 (CP)— The end of hostilities in Europe last May brought about cancellation of 65 per cent of Canadian war production and after VJ-Day all but a few war contracts were terminated, Reconstruction Minister Howe said in an address here yesterday.

Describing low-cost housing as the chief need of Canada at the moment, Mr. Howe said a special drive is being made to regulate the distribution of supplies so that homes intended for completion in 1945 and still uncompleted and unoccupied, may be completed before the end of March.

Speaking briefly on this country's economy as a whole, he said exports still are far above the level required to maintain a high level of national income and the domestic market will continue strong through 1946.

Stating that shortage of employment inevitably brings demands for government spending in the form of public works, Mr. Howe said that only those public works urgently required should be undertaken "to avoid unnecessary interference with private expansion."

Outlining the problems involved in reconversion, the minister said "particular attractions" of the Pacific coast were the reason for the unemployment situation in this province, as large numbers of servicemen and others employed here during the war are staying in or returning to British Columbia.

"This has led to an unemployment situation here which is not typical of Canada as a whole."

Discipline Brings Fairy-Like Form To Ballerinas

Winnipeg, March 2 (CP)—Ballerinas aren't born with sylph-like grace and rhythm—it takes a lot of hard work and discipline to achieve that fairy-like appearance.

The 30 students at the Winnipeg ballet school range from young girls to clerks and stenographers. They have only one thing in common—their love for the classical dance form.

Ages range from 16-24 but behind that is at least five years of previous dance training. For their instructress, Gwenneth Lloyd, is a firm believer in starting them young.

Miss Lloyd and her partner, Betty Hey-Farrally, are two energetic young Englishwomen, who, in the last five years have brought ballet to Western Canada.

Plans are ambitious. They have moved into new quarters—decorated in pink and grey—with two studios, waiting rooms, dressing rooms and adequate space for costumes—and now are training some of the more experienced dancers to be teachers. Miss Lloyd is also preparing her students for the Royal Academy examinations this spring.

"Examinations themselves aren't important to the art but they do create a standard we need" she said.

At the moment, Miss Lloyd is considering a small concert troupe to take into the rural sections of Manitoba. She plans a company of about 12 dancers. Many of the larger Canadian cities, such as Ottawa, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon, have already seen the Winnipeg company.

"A rural concert tour would give the people in the smaller centres an idea of what we are trying to do."

The Winnipeg ballet is an entirely independent organization, a fact which Miss Lloyd believes should be remedied.

"We must have a sponsored company in Canada because the country is not large enough to support one. The government should subsidize ballet—just like the governments of Russia, England, France and Sweden."

Marmora

MARMORA C.W.L.

Marmora—The February meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart School on Thursday evening with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. E. D. O'Connor, occupied the chair. The meeting opened in the usual manner. A number of Thank You letters were read by the president, who asked for the tickets to be turned in on the drawing for the fur coat.

Rev. H. J. Farrell then addressed the meeting. The subjects of his address were: The Keeping of Lent; the Creation of the New Cardinals, and the Conditions in the World Today.

Mrs. James Black gave an interesting reading, entitled "The Cure of Calumet."

A few games of cards were played and delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Sittingbourne, England (CP)—W. F. Wood, speaking at Sittingbourne's annual licensing session, said out of a population of 52,000 only one case of drunkenness had been recorded this year. The man concerned was a soldier.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE SHAREHOLDERS

MELCHERS DISTILLERIES, LIMITED, Montreal.

We have examined the books of account and financial records of Melchers Distilleries, Limited for the year ended 31st December, 1945 and received all the information and explanations required by us.

The Inventories of Spirits, Raw Materials and Supplies on Hand have been certified to be correct by responsible Officials of the Company.

The Dominion Income Tax Department has intimated to the Company that in computing the amount of profits to be assessed for the year 1941 and for subsequent years, it proposes to disallow as deductions from taxable income a substantial portion of the amounts provided for depreciation in those years. The liability for taxes as shown on the above Balance Sheet does not include any provision for possible taxes that may be payable in this connection.

Subject to the foregoing we certify that, in our opinion, the above Balance Sheet as at 31st December, 1945 sets forth a true and correct view of the financial position of the Company at that date, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us, and as shown by the books of the Company.

P. S. ROSS & SONS,
Chartered Accountants.

Montreal, 21st January, 1946.

Directors' Report

To the Shareholders:

The operating profit was $1,057,522.81 compared to $955,089.04 for the previous year. However, after deducting depreciation of $122,713.13 and making provision for Income and Excess Profits taxes of $836,000.00, the net profit was $98,809.68 compared to $97,402.28 for the year 1944. As in the previous year, all earnings over the standard profits were taxed 100% as excess profits, so that after deduction of the Preferred Cumulative dividend of $75,000.00, there only remained a balance of $23,809.68 for transfer to the surplus account. These abnormally high profits were, as in the previous year, due in part to a much greater demand for your Company's products, some of which were furnished to supplant other scarce products and part to continued low selling and sales promotion expenses. Very little publicity was undertaken owing to the still existing regulations of the Federal Government prohibiting the advertising of spirituous liquors. It is proposed, however, in preparation for the future, to enlarge the sales department and to resume advertising as soon as permitted. These additional expenses, when incurred, will result in a reduction in profits to a more normal basis.

The balance Sheet shows an increase of $67,138.57 in Current Assets against an increase of $39,919.10 in Current Liabilities thereby reflecting an increase in working capital of $27,219.47. Approximately $125,000.00 was expended during the year on a new case warehouse, major replacements, alterations and on new equipment.

In your Directors' Report of last year, reference was made to certain amounts that had been deducted by the Company for depreciation for 1941 and subsequent years, a substantial portion of which the Income Tax Department proposes to disallow. No final settlement has yet been reached in this dispute. So that shareholders will be fully aware of this situation, certain paragraphs from last year's report dealing with this matter are quoted below:

"These amounts are not in excess of those normally allowed by the Department to business in general in every Province of the Dominion, being 2½% per annum on Buildings and 10% on Machinery and Equipment.

The effect of the proposed action of the Department would be to penalize your Company for being in a position, with the necessary machinery and equipment on hand, to produce war alcohol from either molasses or grain as soon as it was required by the Government. If it had been necessary for your Company to acquire special machinery and equipment for this purpose, the production of war alcohol would have been considerably delayed but your Company would have been in a position to claim special depreciation on the assets thus acquired at rates from 20% to 25% per annum. As mentioned previously, your Company has claimed only 10% per annum on Machinery and Equipment but the Department objects to this rate and wishes to allow less than 5% per annum. Due to the excessive use to which your Plant, Machinery and Equipment were put during these periods, the depreciation written-off should probably have been increased in proportion to the excess use. Nevertheless, your Directors, after giving much consideration to the matter, decided to write-off only normal depreciation. Because of having deducted only normal depreciation when a higher depreciation seemed justified, your Directors hope for a satisfactory settlement. Shareholders, however, may be assured that your Directors will use their best efforts and take whatever means that may be considered necessary to protect their interests in this matter."

During the war, your Company was ordered by the Controller of Chemicals of the Department of Munitions and Supply and by the Excise Department, both of the Federal Government, to cease beverage production and to turn its facilities over to the production of alcohol for war purposes. This was gladly done to the utmost capacity of its equipment. However, the relentless forcing of equipment in order to produce the maximum of war commodities, so badly needed, took its toll. The result is that a great part of the machinery and equipment has suffered from excess wear which has entailed replacement or major repairs and especially the steam plant, as an example, is now completely deteriorated and must be replaced. Under normal operating conditions, with normal demand and with sufficient experienced staff to take proper care of the equipment and to perform the necessary repairs, this steam plant could have been utilized for several years. Even with such tangible evidence before them, it would seem that the Income Tax Department, due to its own regulations, is either unable or unwilling to recognize the equity of your Company's claims. Much is heard these days concerning reconversion, etc., but how can industry be induced to make large capital expenditures on machinery and equipment under the present system by which depreciation allowances are fixed by arbitrary rulings instead of being determined on an equitable basis, having regard to special circumstances which may exist as in the case of your Company? According to information received, the Legislators at last are beginning to realize the bureaucratic and arbitrary manner in which the Income Tax Act is being administered and have appointed committees to investigate this whole matter. It is hoped that this Act will be brought up-to-date and completely remodelled on an equitable basis so that taxpayers will know where they stand and can conduct their affairs with confidence.

Your Company continued to produce alcohol for war purposes until August 15th, 1945 but since that time production has been for its own account.

Your Board believes that ample regular fire insurance, including malicious damage, is carried on your Company's buildings, equipment and inventories but the War Risk clause has been dropped and the Federal Government has discontinued its war risk insurance.

Your Company has already received orders from certain of the Provincial Liquor Commissions for six months and even for the whole of the current year. Thus, from orders on hand, it would seem that sales will be well maintained during 1946. Orders placed in advance in this manner enable your Company to arrange its production and bottling schedules to meet the present excessive demands for merchandise and to contract far enough ahead to assure ample supplies of bottling and packaging materials.

Reference was made above to the condition of your Company's steam plant. After having given the matter much serious consideration, your Board realized that this equipment was beyond economical repair and was not large enough to take care of our present demands much less to provide for future expansion. Your Company therefore has purchased two boilers complete with oil-burning equipment, automatic controls and other necessary incidental equipment which we expect will be installed within the next few months.

Labour relations between the Company and its employees are amicable and the previous contract with their union was renewed on October 18th, 1945 for an additional period of one year.

Your Board of Directors wishes to take this opportunity of expressing its appreciation for the faithful work of the officials and employees of the Company during the year just closed.

Respectfully submitted,
On behalf of the Board of Directors
V. MARCHAND,
President.

Sweeping Edict To Purge Germany Of Nazi Taints

One to Four Million May Be Subject to Punishment

By JAMES F. KING

Berlin, March 5 — (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Lucius Clay, deputy chief of the United States military government today announced a sweeping new law placing in general hands more responsibility for purging the nation of Nazi influences and indicating a commitment for Americans to remain in Germany at least 10 years.

Gen. Clay estimated that at least 1,000,000 and perhaps 4,000,000 of the 15,000,000 Germans in the United States occupation zone will be subject to punishment under the new law, which was drawn up by the three German provincial minister-presidents in the zone and provides for trial of the cases by German courts.

The law specifies varying degrees of guilt for all Germans who aided Hitler, ranging from major offenders to minor cases classified as "followers." Major offenders are liable to as much as 10 years in a labor camp, confiscation of property and loss of all rights for a minimum of 10 years, including the right to own an automobile. The minimum sentence for major offenders is two years.

Major offenders are defined as those who out of political motives committed crimes against victims or opponents of national socialism, were responsible for outrages, or gave major political, economic, propagandistic or other support to Nazi tyranny.

German industrialists and bankers, a large number of who fall into the category of major offenders, comprise one group especially to be called to account. Many of these big businessmen are yet to be rounded up.

Gen. Clay estimated that at least a year will be required to carry out the trials. While Germans themselves will do the prosecuting, the proceedings will be checked closely to see that there is no leniency in applying the law.

While the law affects only the American zone, it will be reported to the Allied control council for possible national application.

Soviet Magazine Sharply Critical Of King Policies

London, March 5—(CP)—Moscow radio today broadcast excerpts from an article in the Soviet magazine New Times sharply criticizing the domestic policies of Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada whose government now is investigating alleged Russian espionage in Canada.

Mr. King "is the leader of the Liberal party in Canada, but has never displayed any particular liberalism," the article declared. It added that "militant fascist organizations have flourished on Canadian soil under his aegis."

"His government has earned distinction by its persecution of labor organizations and has even made a special ruling outlawing Communists," the New Times asserted.

Fulton Tense, Has Big Welcome For Churchill

By TOM YARBROUGH

Fulton, Mo., March 5 (AP)—The tense atmosphere of a great occasion took hold of this midwestern college town today around the modest stage set for a major address by Winston Churchill on "The Sinews of Peace."

All was done that could be done to facilitate the handling of a crowd up to five times the size of Fulton's 8,000 population.

Westminster College campus was roped off and forbidden to all but ticket holders at the crack of dawn and Missouri State Guardsmen were ordered posted at 179 intersections.

President Truman has the assignment of introducing the former Prime Minister in the college gymnasium at 4:30 p.m. E.S.T.

Late additions to the number of passengers on the presidential train, wheeling westward from Washington, made it necessary to assign more official cars to bring the official party here from Jefferson City, Mo.

Uncounted throngs of central Missourians are determined to get at least a glimpse of Mr. Churchill and his cigar on the parade route through Fulton's flag-lined streets.

On the campus the menu for Mr. Churchill and Mr. Truman featured not only ham but fried chicken and something made to order for a man from Westminster—roast beef. The college offered no liquor.

One drug store advertised "Churchill and Truman sundaes," but had a hard time deciding how to make them.

For all schools and for many stores it was a holiday.

A "bull horn" loudspeaker was atop the town courthouse and smaller ones scattered over town for those who could not hope for one of the 3,000 seats in the gymnasium.

502 Wives And 301 Children On Mauretania

Montreal, March 5. (CP) — The Liner Mauretania, scheduled to arrive at Halifax early tomorrow, is bringing 803 Army and Air Force dependents to this country, the Canadian National Railways announced here today. The group comprises 502 wives and 301 children.

Fifty-one of the new Canadians will remain in Halifax, while the remainder will travel on three war bride special trains over C.N.R. lines to their future homes across the Dominion.

Also arriving on the Cunard-White Star liner will be 83 civilians, including 25 United Nations Organization delegates bound for New York, 108 British Ministry of War Transport personnel, six Canadian Army officers, 12 Canadian Army nurses, seven Canadian Red Cross nurses, 72 British Army staff of all ranks. They will proceed by boat special train as far as Montreal.

Mayor of 'Falls' Will Protest Against Brief

Toronto, March 5. (CP)—Mayor George Inglis of Niagara Falls, Ont., said today he will "protest strongly" against a brief to be presented to the Ontario Government opposing additional taxation by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The brief is to be submitted by W. R. Strike of Bowmanville, president of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, at the two-day joint convention of the O.M.E.A. and the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities, starting today.

Mr. Inglis said he questioned a clause in the brief which states that "arguments have been initiated by individuals or groups who are seeking to undermine Hydro for their own advantage".

"Surely they are not insinuating the Ontario mayors and the Municipal Association are seeking to undermine Hydro for their advantage," Mr. Inglis said.

Russians "Frozen by Surprise" Bar Manchurian Door to Newsmen

By RICHARD CUSHING

Tientsin, March 5 (AP)—Russians, frozen by surprise at seeing 22 uninvited foreign news correspondents roaming Soviet-held Manchuria, have recovered—and barred the door. Now that the stories are out, they're stopping trains to Mukden to search them for foreigners.

Only surprise could have enabled the coup which brought the first on-the-scene stories of Soviet activities, in the opinion of the first group of newspapermen to return. For Soviet hospitality cooled after the first startled week.

Undoubtedly any more foreigners appearing in Russian-held territory will be in for a rough time unless they have proper Soviet-approved ceredentials—especially when Soviet officers hear what the boys have been writing about.

(Cushing wrote about: Shipping of Japanese war prisoners to Siberia; dismantling and removal of Manchurian industrial plants; full-dress military manoeuvres of the Red army outside Dairen.)

The first wave of eight Americans and one British writer had grown weary of red-tape which kept them out of Manchuria. They wanted to cover what they considered a legitimate news story.

So they climbed aboard a train to Mukden.

DOENITZ ASKS FOR BRITISH AND U.S. NAVYSTATEMENTS

Defence of Goering, No 1 Accused, Will Begin on Thursday Tribunal States

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, March 5 — (AP)—Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz today demanded before the international military tribunal that Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz submit a sworn statement to show that United States submarines operated under "sink without warning" orders.

He also requested that British Admiralty files be opened to disclose the combat orders given to British merchant ships.

Through his lawyer, the man who directed the Nazi U-boat campaign informed the tribunal that he expected submission of an interrogatory to the United States naval commander to show that:

1. "United States submarines attacked all ships with the exception of United States and Allied vessels without warning in specified operational waters."

2. "United States submarines attacked all Japanese ships without warning, at least from the time it could be surmised that Japanese merchantmen would resist being taken as prizes."

3. "United States submarines did not assist shipwrecked people in such waters where a submarine would have endangered herself through such assistance."

What Doenitz' Lawyers Plan

Doenitz' counsel, Capt. Otto Kranzbuehler, told the tribunal that Admiral Nimitz' replies would prove the United States "made the same strategic and legal considerations in carrying out its submarine warfare . . . and gave identical orders as the German naval high command."

Admiral Doenitz, one of 22 defendants, was accused in earlier prosecution testimony of having issued orders to U-boat commanders to machine-gun lifeboats and sink vessels without trace.

His lawyer proposed to introduce in his defence confidential British fleet orders requiring merchant vessels to report U-boat positions by radio, to fire on surfacing U-boats and to attack those submerged with depth charges.

The tribunal announced that defence of Hermann Goering, No. 1 among the defendants, would open Thursday, and at the same time denied a defence motion which sought to have the trial of six indicted Nazi organizations separated from the present trial and tried at a later date.

The organizations are the high command, the Nazi Leadership Corps, the Cabinet, the Gestapo, the S. S. (Elite Guard) and S.A. (Storm Troopers).

Sees Tendency To Place Too Much Accent on Youth

Winnipeg, March 5—(CP)—A tendency to put too much accent on youth was giving collegiate-age students an "undue sense of their own importance," Education Minister J. C. Dryden said in the annual report of his department tabled last night in the Manitoba Legislature.

Motion pictures and comic strips which gave examples of how to gain an objective by four-flushing and wisecracking were having an insidious influence. Parents frequently were of little assistance in coping with problem children and the spirit and efficiency of schools would be improved if parents would refrain from criticising teachers and schools in front of the children, he said.

"DEAD" SOLDIER RETURNS TO "HONEYMOON"

Notified by the War Department that her husband, Joseph Hadrian, was dead, Mrs. Eva Hadrian refused to believe it. She had several offers of marriage, but clung to the hope that her man would one day turn up. He did. Sergeant Hadrian, who had been serving with a Canadian commando unit, is shown here with Mrs. Hadrian and their son, Joseph, Jr., as they "honeymooned" after his return to Detroit.

Etobicoke Creek in Freshet, Early Robins in W. Ontario, Trees Tapped at St. Thomas

(By The Canadian Press)

Springlike weather which brought many Ontario residents out of doors yesterday brought some out more precipitately than most as swollen waters of the Etobicoke Creek gave residents of the Toronto suburb of Long Branch their worst flood in 15 years and trapped several families in their homes.

An ice jam at the mouth of the creek was responsible for Long Branch's third flood of the winter and firemen were kept busy rescuing eight children and three mothers from the rapidly-rising water.

Red Cross officials lost little time swinging into action and organized a four-truck convoy to bring blankets and medical supplies to the scene. Two families were given shelter at Toronto Red Cross headquarters.

Elsewhere, southern Ontario was able to relax and enjoy the warm weather.

Early robin reports came in from Toronto, Hamilton, Fort Erie and Kitchener and St. Thomas as farmers were busy tapping maple trees and reported a good flow. Snow removal problems of many communities after last week's heavy fall vanished overnight and clogged drains became the headache of some municipal works departments.

The London area reported ice moving down the Thames River in orderly fashion except for an ice blockade of short duration in the south branch. Forecasts of colder weather reduced danger of floods throughout the province.

Ice on the Grand river, one of Ontario's most rampaging rivers in spring, shows no signs of breaking up. A second ice covering coated the river after an early winter thaw, is still holding despite mild weather since last Friday and rainfall yesterday. In some open water spots the level has risen two and one half feet since Monday noon, but the river is still safely below flood level.

CHARGE IS MADE ON ACCUSED'S OWN ADMISSION

Dr. Alan Nunn May Refuses to Disclose Names Who Received Information

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 5 — (CP Cable) —Impassive Dr. Alan Nunn May, 34-year-old physicist, appeared briefly today in dingy Bowstreet police station charged with disclosing information prejudicial to the state and Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan said the charge was made on the accused's own admission.

Mr. Morgan said Dr. May refused to disclose the names or nationality of the persons who had received the information. Dr. May who has maintained silence since his arrest yesterday, entered no plea and the case was remanded to March 19. He is held without bail.

Mr. Morgan said the charge was laid on Dr. May's admission to Lt.-Col. L. Burt who during the war was in charge of a special War Office Department dealing with counter-espionage and who last week was appointed chief of the Scotland Yard special branch which deals with counter-espionage.

Dr. May, who flew home to Britain from Canada last September, where his work was related to atomic energy, maintained his silence throughout the hearing, nodding curtly when asked if the March 19 remand date was convenient.

Mr. Morgan said the young scientist who was arrested last night as he completed a lecture at King's College in London, was before the court on "a very serious charge."

After outlining Dr. May's war

PARLEYS AIM TO BRING END TO TWO BIG DISPUTES

Possible Break in G. M. Strike; Hope of Averting 'Phone Strike Seen

New York, March 5 —(AP)—Settlement of the long and costly General Motors strike and halting of a threatened country-wide walkout of telephone workers were major items of business on the United States labor front today.

The government was represented in conferences, in Detroit and in Washington, aimed to end the disputes. In Detroit, negotiations were to meet as latest action by the C.I.O. United Auto Workers might bring a possible break in the 105-day-old General Motors work stoppage.

The government intervened in the threatened telephone tieup over a wage dispute. Although labor department officials expressed confidence privately the strike can be averted, union leaders went ahead with plans for some 250,000 members of the National Federation of Telephone Workers to leave their jobs Thursday.

The C.I.O. United Auto Workers' latest move was acceptance of a suggestion by General Motors that the 715,000 strikers take part in a secret ballot on the question of ending the walkout—but the union included a provision.

The union said it would agree to the G.M. proposal that rank and file workers vote whether they wish to return to their jobs under the company's latest 18½-cent-hourly wage increase offer, provided the ballot also included the alternative of submitting issues to a president-appointed

4 CIVIL SERVANTS FACE CHARGES OF HELPING MOSCOW

Woman Cipher Clerk Pleads Guilty and All Remanded Without Bail Until March 11

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 5. (CP)— Four Civil Servants today were under remand until March 11 on charges of violating the official Secrets Act by disclosing secret and confidential information to a "network" of spies operating under "direct instructions from Moscow."

The four, three employed by the Canadian government and one by the British government, were arraigned in police court here yesterday simultaneously with the release of a 3,000-word interim report from the Royal Commission on the espionage activity which identified them as participants in the under-cover ring.

Charged with conspiracy to provide and providing secret information to Russian agents, they were:

Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, of Montreal, Scottish-born officer in the Canadian army on loan to the Canadian Information Service, described officially as "head" of the group of Canadian agents. He did not plead.

Edward Wilfred Mazerall, 29, native of Fredericton, electrical engineer on Radar in the National Research Council. He did not plead.

Kathleen Mary Willsher, 40, native of London, Eng., deputy registrar in the British High Commissioner's office. She did not plead.

Mrs. Emma Wolkin, born at Blaine Lake, Sask., cipher clerk in the External Affairs Department. She pleaded guilty.

Lodged in Jail

The four, who face maximum charges of seven years' imprisonment on each charge if convicted were remanded to next Monday for further hearing and lodged in the County jail without bail.

The interim report, signed by Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau and R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court, the two Royal Commissioners, was made public by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

It disclosed the organization and development of a "network of under-cover agents" by members of the military attache's staff of the Russian Embassy under "direct instructions from Moscow".

Information sought by the agents covered a wide range, including data on the atomic bomb, explosives, the uranium-processing plant at Chalk River, Ont., Radar and the movement of United States troops from Europe and the strength and organization of Canada's post-war army.

Other Agents Active

The report said significantly that "many other agents" were active and that "information more intrinsically important" had been disclosed, but that the commission was not yet in a position to provide details.

In direct charge of the ring was Lt.-Col. Nicolai Zabotin, Russian military attache, who went under the "cover name" of "Grant" and took his instructions from an unidentified Moscow personage known as "the director".

The report made no mention of nine other men known to have been held since the inquiry was made public Feb. 15 or of additional arrests which have been expected.

Sun-Spot Mystery May be Solved With Appearance Again Wednesday

By JACK GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Science will have the solution tomorrow to another recurring mystery—whether sun spots that caused one of the worst tieups in the memory of communications officials on Feb. 7-9 will still be present when the sun's hemisphere that contained them again turns toward the Earth.

Scientists say sun spots accentuate aurora borealis, the dancing northern lights that interfere so much with radio and electrical circuits. Rotation of the sun, completed in about 27 days, is due to bring the spots around tomorrow, if they still exist. If they do, look for interrupted communications and intermittent or distorted radio reception.

Officials at David Dunlap observatory at suburban Richmond Hill say it is entirely possible the spots may have vanished, as most of them disappear in a few weeks. Occasionally, however, they last for months.

The February aurora, believed caused by countless free electrons from the sun spots entering the earth's atmosphere and setting up electro-magnetic disturbances, disrupted communications and radio and put news agencies' wire service out of commission.

But Dunlap observers predict even greater disturbances in the future. Although the February spots, with their attendant aurora may have vanished, new and greater ones may appear at any time. Their appearance runs

Say U.K. Rejects Proposal to Refer Spanish Issue

Problem Seen Primarily One For Spanish People

London, March 5—(CP)—Highly placed sources said today that the British government has rejected a French suggestion that the question of the Franco regime in Spain be brought before the United Nations security council.

These sources said the French proposal was made in notes sent last week to Britain, the United States and Russia.

They said Alfred Duff Cooper, British Ambassador to France, submitted the rejection note to Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, but that conversations were continuing in Paris.

The rejection was reported based on continued British insistence that the replacement of Generalissimo Francisco Franco as chief of the Spanish state was primarily a problem for the Spanish people and that further "outside influence" would only serve to strengthen Franco.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, (AP) — United States officials today pinned their hopes for overthrowing Spain's Franco government almost entirely on the possibility that the Spanish army might force the Generalissimo to yield to a caretaker regime.

The chance that any other group would be able to oust the Madrid dictators and set up a new government as suggested in last night's Anglo-American-French declaration is considered extremely thin, since no other force in Spain's political life is believed here to have enough power.

The declaration called on "leading patriotic and liberal-minded Spaniards" in effect to bring about a bloodless revolution because of Franco's close ties with the Hitler-Mussolini Axis. The pronouncement was issued simultaneously in London, Washington, and Paris, and government radios and other propaganda mechanisms were brought into instant play to make certain that it reaches the Spanish people.

Secret Documents Released

Along with the declaration, 15 hitherto secret documents dug out of German government files were released. These were designed to show Franco's close and prolonged collaboration with Hitler and Mussolini, involving promises in 1940 and 1941 to take Spain into the war on the side of the Axis.

The objective of the German war plans was to capture Gibraltar and strangle Britain's Empire lifeline.

The project fell through, Franco said, in a letter to Hitler Feb. 26, 1941, because Spain was incapable of existing without food imports. Meanwhile, the documents brought out, Spain had agreed to help with the refueling of German U-boats in her waters and German destroyers in the Bay of Biscay.

Franco also write Hitler that he was "entirely and decidedly at your disposal, united in a common historical destiny, desertion from which would mean my suicide and that of the cause which I have led and represent in Spain."

Franco Quoted

As late as Dec. 15, 1943, Franco was quoted in a memorandum by German Ambassador Hans Diechoff as having told the envoy that a British-American victory "would mean his own annihilation."

"He therefore was hoping with all his heart for the victory of Germany," Diechoff said, "and he had only one wish, that this victory would come as soon as possible."

Senators Begin Formal Study Proposed Loan

Washington, March 5 — (AP) —Senators beginning their formal study of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain called Treasury Secretary Fred M. Vinson today as the lead-off witness.

Hearings by the Senate Banking Committee, expected to last about two weeks, may make clearer the outcome of the issue.

Many members of both parties have said they want to learn more of the proposal, especially since their mail indicates a mixed reaction among their constituents.

With one third of the Senate and all of the House up for reelection this year, reaction back home is being weighed even more closely than usual.

Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader, is taking over the banking committee chairmanship in the absence of ailing Senator R. F. Wagner (Dem.-N.Y.).

Senator Barkley called yesterday for treatment of the proposed loan as a "cold blooded business proposition" devoid of politics. He told reporters it should be approached from the angle of helpfulness to the United States and the world in getting Britain back on her feet in world trade.

A favorable stand was expressed by Senator J. H. Ball (Rep.-Minn.) who commented to newspapermen: "We can't hope to move to a multi-lateral trade basis unless we help the British out—it is a very good investment for the United States."

Slaying Trial Is Resumed

Whitby, March 5 (CP) — The trial of Lorne Cecil Harris, 21-year-old construction worker charged with the slaying of Mrs. Audrey Lyons at nerby Ajax, resumed today after a five-day adjournment because of the illness of one of the jurors. Mr. Justice J. C. McRuer said the court would sit only a short time today to give the sick juror a chance to recover fully.

Inspector Wilfrid Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police was the first witness today and he described the scene in the slain woman's home last Nov. 10.

Kingston Man Dies Of Shotgun Wounds

Kingston, Ont., March 5—(AP) —Leo Colombo died in hospital early today after a charge from a shotgun wounded him in the abdomen. Police said Colombo suffered the fatal injuries in his home and that Pte. Cameron Bleeks and Ben Hum, a Chinese, were being held as material witnesses.

The gun was said to have discharged as Hum was about to hand it to Colombo. He died 90 minutes after admission to hospital.

Police said the fatality occurred when Colombo was attempting to prevent Bleeks from entering the home. Hum, who was visiting Colombo, was carrying the shotgun to the kitchen to give Colombo when it discharged, police added.

Lenten Abstinence And Meatless Days Under Ration Plan

(By The Canadian Press)

With the Lenten season beginning tomorrow, Roman Catholics in the dioceses of London, Hamilton and Sault Ste. Marie will observe abstinence from meat on Wednesdays as well as the two government regulated meatless days now in effect. The archdioceses of Toronto and Kingston have changed the customary Wednesday abstinence to Tuesday.

Authorities at St. Michael's Cathedral in Toronto noted it was at the discretion of the respective head of the diocese to rule on such matters. The Lenten period ends at noon April 20.

Catholics in the archdiocese of Toronto were told in parish pronouncements that apart from Ash Wednesday — tomorrow — all other Wednesdays in Lent are not days of abstinence. A similar pronouncement was made in a pastoral letter of Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan, read in all Roman Catholic churches in Kingston Sunday.

In the diocese of London, Bishop J. T. Kidd said in Lent-observance orders that customary Lenten days of abstinence — Wednesdays and Fridays — will be observed. In the Hamilton diocese similar instructions have been issued while in North Bay, headquarters of Sault Ste. Marie diocese, no dispensation will be granted this year for Wednesdays in Lent.

In 1945, Bishop R. H. Dignan dispensed with the Wednesday abstinence.

Last week it was announced Roman Catholics in a number of dioceses in the Province of Ontario have been granted special dispensation removing them from the obligation of the Wednesday abstinence. In the Quebec archdiocese, reasons given was "because of the meatless Tuesdays and present shortages of butter and other foods."

Edwin Hubble Instantly Killed By Falling Tree

Allan Mills, March 5 (Special) —While felling trees near Bonarlaw Monday, Mr. Edwin Hubble, 63, of Campbellford was instantly killed when he was struck by a falling tree.

Mr. Hubble was felling trees with Mr. Ernie Ayrhart who rushed him to the home of Dr. E. A. Carleton but he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Hubble is survived by his wife the former Ada Post, a son, recently returned from overseas and four daughters.

Report 15 Persons Killed in Rioting During Election

Bombay, March 5 — (Reuters) —Fifteen persons were reported killed today in an election riot, followed by police action, near Ranchi, Bihar province.

Police firing on an Indian mob caused nine deaths while a clash between Congress supporters and workers of the Aborigine party was believed to have caused six.

At Cheyyar, in the North Argot district, one person was killed when police fired on a crowd of 4,000 attacking a food supply centre after they had failed to get a particular brand of rice.

In Dacca, Bengal, a crowd agitating against an increase in the sales tax raided three cinemas, smashed furniture and projector and set fire to the screen.

Five New Members Inducted Into Kinsmen Club

Five new members were inducted into the Belleville Kinsmen Club at their regular bi-monthly dinner meeting held at the Hotel Quinte Monday evening. Past President Norman Garbutt installed the new members, while the official welcome was extended by President Newton Wilbur.

New members admitted to the club included Ross Schryver, Schryver's Drug Store; James Walker, C.D.S.; Jack Sherwood, The James Texts; James Ward, McIntosh Brothers, and Jack McNabb, Rawson Bus Lines. Ed. Shortt added to the musical entertainment of the evening with two vocal solos, "Why Should I?" and "Without A Song," while Phil Huddleston acted as accompanist and Doug Ellis as sergeant at arms.

Guest speaker for the evening was Flight Lieut. Cameron, former overseas padre with the R.C.A.F. and presently connected with the parole board for the Province of Ontario. Mr. Cameron spoke on juvenile delinquency and the importance of re-adjustment and re-education for these misguided young Canadians.

Lack of the proper home atmosphere in many cases was responsible for juvenile delinquency, according to the speaker. Correction of delinquency was merely extending a helping hand to those who in many instances never had a real chance in life, he said.

Conditions Responsible.

Reaction as result of wartime conditions was stated to be in a large measure responsible for the current crime wave sweeping across the country and for which young people under 20 years were mainly responsible. During the war school boys had been asked to go into industry as their contribution to the war effort. The atomic bomb suddenly ended the war and just as suddenly crowded these boys out of employment to make way for returned veterans.

Frustrated in Business.

"These young people were frustrated in their education; they are frustrated in business and in securing employment with result that their whole world has gone to pieces. During the war they were working under false standards and now must be cut to peace time standards."

Police departments and magistrates were stated to be sympathetic toward the juvenile delinquents, but the need for reputable citizens to lend a helping hand in order that these young people may get another start in life was apparent. Service clubs could do much splendid work in this direction, it was stated.

Kinsmen "Twig" Woodley introduced the speaker with club appreciation being expressed by Harry Rollins.

50 Cars in Motorcade Leave For Ottawa

Brockville, March 5 — (CP) — Fifty automobiles containing discharged Phillips Electrical Works employees left today for Ottawa to seek an interview with federal labor officials concerning a labor dispute at the plant which began Feb. 27.

The motorcade travellers, all members of Local 510 of the United Electrical Workers of America (C.I.O.), represent some 800 employees who were given discharge papers by the company after participating in one-hour work stoppages in a demand for a collective bargaining agreement.

EDUCATION IN RURAL AREAS

Winnipeg, March 5 —(CP)— Lack of education in rural areas was at the root of practically all the problems with which agriculture and rural life were confronted, E. F. Pineau of the Federal Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, said here last night in an address to the Canadian council on boys and girls club work.

Obituary

FREDERICK B. JARRELL

Frederick B. Jarrell died at his home, 24 Grier Street, on Tuesday morning, after an illness of about five years' duration.

The late Mr. Jarrell was born in Frontenac County near Seeley's Bay and was a son of the late Henry Jarrell and his wife, Mary Tuttle. For some time he lived in Trenton and for the past twenty five years he made his home in this city.

For many years Mr. Jarrell was a sailor on inland waters and for a considerable time he was mate on the steamer Varuna. He was a member of the Tabernacle United Church and fraternally he was a member of Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Lulu Reid; one son, John E. Jarrell, Ridgetown, Ontario; one sister, Mrs. Wesley Armstrong, Aylmer, Ontario; one brother, Isaac Jarrell, Kingston, and four grandchildren.

LATE DAVID LEWIS OSBORNE

The funeral of David Lewis Osborne was held Monday afternoon from his late residence, Byron Street, off Cannifton Road, to St. Thomas' Church where the Burial Office was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Arthur Smith, who also said the committal prayers at Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Frank Edgar, Leonard Button, John Henderson, George McDonald, Charles Matthews and Ralph Cannon.

MRS. RACHAEL BABCOCK

Stricken suddenly, Mrs. Rachael Babcock, age 26, 78 Foster Ave., died in Tyendinaga township, on March 4th.

Resident of the Belleville district for the past year and a half, Mrs. Babcock was the daughter of Mr. Joseph Sero and prior to coming to Belleville had lived in Picton. She was a member of the Anglican Church on the Mohawk Indian Reservation.

Surviving besides her husband, Howard Babcock, are four sons, Howard Jr., Deseronto and Larry, Thomas and Harold, at home: two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Stalkvioch, Belleville and Mrs. Myrtle Mae Powless, Deseronto; and two brothers, Joseph Sero and John Sero, both of Belleville.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. LAURA A. REEVES
(Tweed)

The death occurred in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday evening of Mrs. Laura A. Reeves, wife of Dr. Charles M. Reeves, dentist, of Tweed. She was in failing health for some time.

Born in Perth, Ontario, the late Mrs. Reeves was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles James. For the past thirty eight years she resided in Tweed and for a few years before her marriage she taught school in that village. She was a member of the United Church.

Surviving besides her husband is one brother, Mr. Clarke B. James, Montreal.

ERNEST GREEN
(Deseronto)

Ernest Green, Deseronto, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday. He was forty-two years of age and was a patient in the hospital since Feb. 18th.

WILLIAM ALBERT GRAHAM

Madoc, March 5 (Special) — Death came suddenly to William Albert Graham while he was engaged in felling trees, in company with John Rollins, on his property at Cooper on Monday. In falling, one tree came in contact with a large branch of an adjoining tree causing it to fall upon Mr. Graham and killing him instantly. His sudden death has created much regret in the district where he was a successful farmer and highly respected by many friends.

Born in Madoc township the late Mr. Graham was in his 70th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Graham. All his life was passed in the district where he was born. He was a member of the United Church at Cooper and fraternally he was a member of Madoc Lodge No. 48 A.F. & A.M.

Surviving him are his wife the former Annie Margaret Hagerman; three sons, Leonard, George and Gerald all of Cooper; one sister, Mrs. Charles Fox, Frankford.

Announcement of the funeral, which will be under Masonic auspices, is made in this edition.

SHERWOOD GERALD SCOTT
(Foxboro)

In failing health for some weeks, Mr. Sherwood Gerald Scott, Foxboro, died in the Belleville General Hospital early Tuesday morning. He was in his 61st year.

Resident of Foxboro for many years, Mr. Scott was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at that village, and until a few months ago was employed at the Belleville Sargent in Belleville. He is survived by his wife, and one son, Frank Scott, recently discharged from the Canadian army.

Community Recreational Facilities Step Forward In Solving Juvenile Delinquency

G. N. Dicks, Chief Probation Officer, Speaks to Rotary Club Members

Community recreational facilities, readjustment of home life and proper educational training in the majority of cases would be a great forward step in solving the problem of juvenile delinquency, G. N. Dicks, Chief of the Ontario Parole Board and Chief Probation Officer of Ontario, stated here on Monday.

Speaking to the Rotary Club, Mr. Dicks said that "80 percent of the lads he had interviewed, who are under twenty, admitted their position was such because some never had a home, others were foundlings, others said their fathers left them, or the families became separated."

"One thing I am assured of and that is the greater majority of these boys and girls are in the reformatories because of their home background and lack of educational training."

The relationship between these boys and girls is one of education, the speaker pointed out. "They began life by losing touch with society through truancy. That is evidenced in the fact that over 75 per cent of the delinquents did not pass through the 8th grade at school, 72 per cent left school before they were sixteen. Some say they got out with a permit, others simply left. Last year the Toronto Juvenile Courts had five times as many delinquents in front of them through this reason than the year previous."

"Another cause of erring ways" Mr. Dicks said, "is in some cases drink in the home while some offer the movies as an excuse for their downfall. The real reasons, he went on, are, first, the home, and secondly, the lack of recreational facilities and their subsequent fellowship, good guidance and character building. When these boys became truants they drifted until they came within the arms of the law.

Cannot Do It All

Sentence to reform schools is not the whole thing. It is the "coming-out" in which his board is interested, Mr. Dicks said. "There are a great many things that can be done, but the Parole Board cannot do it all. It is up to the various communities to assist us in every way possible. It is a problem for the people of Ontario and between us we can help win these boys and girls with a touch of real sympathy and interest."

"Together we should be able to work out a policy which will prevent these youngsters from getting into trouble. Isn't it possible to stress importance on home and recreational life? If recreational facilities were instituted these young lads would take more interest in their community so that they would not be led astray."

Plans are already under way in many centres, the speaker pointed out, illustrating the case of Ottawa where juvenile court cases decreased 25 per cent after a recreational park had been started in one end of the city. He believed a great deal of good would come out of supervised recreational centres adding that they would be the first step toward prevention of petty thievery and breaking and entering.

Paroled to Father

His board, Mr. Dicks explained, before letting a boy out in society made sure that at first he had employment. He is generally paroled to his father or a responsible citizen of the community and inspection guaranteed by a parole officer. The board, he added, dealt only with offenders undergoing indefinite sentences.

Times have changed considerably since the days of the old reform schools, "which were awful places". Since that time, there have been introduced probation, correction and adjustment in an effort to industrialize the delinquest. The country is becoming more and more interested in its quents. The country is becoming are between 17 and 19 years of age.

Mr. Dicks was introduced by Rotarian Tom Ruston with club appreciation expressed by Art Bateman.

Available Factory Space in City To be Advertised

Appreciative of the advantages of a city having available factory space to offer potential industries which may be desirous of locating in the district, the Belleville Industrial Commission will advertise in the local press regarding vacant buildings with 2,000 or more square feet of space.

This was the decision reached at the last meeting of the local industrial commission, when the advisability of having factory space to offer industry was one of the foremost topics of discussion. The meeting was held in the Mayor's office instead of at the Chamber of Commerce building as has previously been the custom.

Chairman R. A. Pringle reported on a new filing system which is being adopted by the commission with the view of keeping information regarding industrial prospects for ready reference. The new system will be completed by the time of the next meeting, it was stated.

The city of Belleville industrial folder will be off the press and ready for distribution in about six weeks time, the meeting was informed. The advertising folder points out the advantages of this city as an industrial site, and will be sent throughout Canada, to the United States and to Great Britain. Five thousand copies have been ordered.

Members of the commission attending the meeting included Chairman R. A. Pringle, Mayor Follwell, E. E. Follwell, Lorne McDougall, Bruce Lattimer, Harry Rollins, Ormonde Butler and O. H. Scott.

Two Young Men Are Remanded On Robbery Court

Arraigned on charges of robbery with violence, Douglas Bunnett, age 18 years, Strachan Street, and Keith Dunning, Plainfield, were remanded for one week when they appeared in city police court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on Tuesday morning.

The two youths were charged with robbing George F. Miller of East Lake, of $45 on Saturday night after allegedly striking him on the head with a rock. Miller is still under the doctor's care as result of the incident and was stated to have suffered a slight concussion.

When arraigned Bunnett elected summary trial and pleaded guilty to the charge, but Dunning reserved his plea and asked for the opportunity to procure bail. Both youths were remanded for one week to give Dunning the opportunity to procure counsel.

Alfred Brant was also remanded for one week to permit him to get counsel following his being arraigned on a charge of attempted arson. Brant is charged with attempting to set fire to the residence known as 122 South George Street.

Eighteen cases were listed on the morning's docket the majority being charges of drunkenness and infractions of traffic by-laws which were settled out of court.

34th Field Btty. To be Absorbed In Anti-Tank Regt.

Re-organization of reserve army units of the city call for a redesignation of the Argyll Light Infantry from a tank unit to an anti-tank regiment, with the 34th Field Battery Royal Canadian Artillery to be absorbed in the new organization, an authoritative military source disclosed today.

The new regiment will train headquarters and two batteries in the city with the remaining two batteries of the regimental establishment being stationed at Napanee and Gananoque.

Reserve army officers here today were of the opinion that the new designation will merge the old time city and district units of the Argylls and the 44th Field Regiment, RCA, formerly the 9th Brigade, RCA, into one unit for the immediate district.

This is emphasized by the fact that the former artillery units in Belleville, Napanee and Gananoque originally were parts of the now dormant 44th Field Regiment.

It was further intimated that the Church Street Armouries, now occupied by the 34th Battery, will be vacated by that unit when it is absorbed into the new anti-tank regiment. Headquarters of the unit as well as those of the two batteries will be located in the main Armouries here.

Main armament of the regiment, it was stated, will be the new seventeen-pounder self-propelled guns, although no weapons of this type have arrived here as yet.

Several returned officers and men, who served overseas with anti-tank regiments are disclosing exceptional interest in the new set-up and it is understood that some have already affiliated themselves with the gunner unit here.

Administrative work of the regiment, it was pointed out, will be done by part time civilian clerks, thus leaving active personnel of the regiment available for training.

List of Information Sought By Soviet Agents in Canada Released in Interim Report

Ottawa, March 5—(CP)—A lengthy list of information sought by Soviet agents in Canada, ranging from data on the atomic bomb to the movement of United States troops from overseas and the make-up of the Canadian army, was made public Monday by the Canadian government in the interim report of the Royal Commission probing the ramifications of the Russian spy ring.

The report said these specified tasks were assigned to the agents during the period from March to August, 1945:—

1. The technological processes and methods employed by Canadians and the English for the production of explosives and chemical materials.

2. Instructions as to which of the members of the staff of the military attache should contact particular Canadian agents and the suggestion of names of persons in the Department of National Defence for Naval Affairs who might act as agents.

3. (A) Information as to the transfer of the American troops from Europe to the United States and the Pacific; also the army headquarters of the 9th Army, the 3rd, 5th, 7th, 13th army corps, the 18th Armored Division, the 2nd, 4th, 8th, 28th, 30th, 44th, 45th infantry divisions and the 13th Tank Division, together with the dates of their moves, the location of the army headquarters of the 8th and 16th armored corps, the 29th and 89th infantry divisions, the 10th Tank Division and the location of the Brazilian Infantry Division. Whether or not there had been organized a staff for the American troops in Germany and, if so, its location and the name of the officer-in-command.

Plans for Troops.

(B) The location of the 1st parachute troops and the plans for their future use.

4. Instructions to take measures to obtain particulars as to the materials of which the atomic bomb is composed, its technological process and drawings.

5. To obtain from the National Research Council models of developed radar sets, photographs, technical data, periodic reports characterizing the radar work carried on by the council and future developments planned by the council.

6. Particulars of the explosives establishment at Valcartier, Que., and its work, including the obtaining of formulas of explosives and samples.

7. A full report on the organization and personnel of the National Research Council: "Give more details of organization of Research Council. Manipulate so as to get to their leaders and find out what they do."

8. Particular work of specified employees of the Research Council.

9. Obtaining of documents from the library of the National Research Council so that they might be photographed, with the expressed intention of ultimately obtaining the whole of the library of the National Research Council.

10. Particulars as to the plant at Chalk River, Ontario, and the processing of uranium.

Wanted to Know Details.

11. The obtaining of a sample of uranium 235, with details as to the plant where it is produced.

12. Specifications of the electro-projector of the "V" bomb.

13. Research work being carried on with relation to explosive materials and artillery.

14. The obtaining of material on the American airplane radar locator type, navigation periscope.

15. A list of the army divisions of the Canadian army which have returned from overseas and the names, or numbers, of the divisions which have been divided, or re-shaped, or undergoing re-shaping.

16. The number of troops in the Canadian army in the post-war period, together with the system of its organization.

17. Information from the Department of Munitions and Supply of various kinds relating to guns, shells, small arms, ammunition for small arms, arsenals, optical and radio appliances, automobiles and tanks, apparatus for chemical warfare and particulars of plants producing same.

18. Information as to electronic shells used by the American navy.

19. To endeavor to keep agents in government departments threatened with discharge as a result of shrinkage in size of the departments, in order to maintain their usefulness for the future.

20. Information with regard to depth bombs and double charge shells for cannon.

21. Information as to telegrams passing into and out of the Department of External Affairs and the office of the High Commissioner of the United Kingdom.

Low Valuation In Car Deal Results In $500 Fine

Convicted on a charge of failing to allow a reasonable and just valuation on a used vehicle traded in as part of the purchase price on another used motor vehicle, Mr. Allan Lipes, of the West End Motor Sales, Belleville, was fined $500 and costs in accordance with a deferred judgment of the case handed down last week by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The charge against Lipes had been laid last Autumn by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board with the case being heard in county police court on November 29th with Ormonde Butler acting on behalf of the prosecution and R. A. Pringle as counsel for the accused. Judgment on the case was deferred with decision being given late last week.

The facts of the case as stated in the judgment are that on 19 July, 1945, the accused having in stock a 1940 Pontiac, ceiling price $691.88 sold it to one Frank Lain for a price of $690.00, part of which price was paid by Lain trading in a 1939 Nash Lafayette, ceiling price $814.50 for $215.00. On the same day, the accused, without making any repairs or improvements to the Nash, resold it to a cash purchaser for $800.

In summing up the case Magistrate Wills said: "Apart altogether from the question of a reasonable and just price based purely on the consideration referred to in the evidence of Mr. Lipes and Mr. Harrison, I cannot ignore another aspect of the case. It will be seen from the evidence that on the sale of the 1940 Pontiac, with a ceiling price of $691.88 the accused actually received $475.00 in cash or its equivalent, plus a car which he the same day sold for $800.00 in cash or its equivalent, making a total of $1,275.00. This is in effect a gross violation of the ceiling price and confirms my judgment as to the reasonableness of the trade-in value for the Nash."

"The question of penalty has given me considerable concern, as the amounts involved in the transactions in question are substantial. I cannot think that the situation here disclosed is entirely isolated, or that it was allowed to arise suddenly. I feel, therefore, that this should be given some consideration, and I am accordingly awarding a penalty of $500.00 and costs, and in default of payment, three months in the common jail."

R. A. Pringle, counsel for Mr. Lipes, advised the Ontario Intelligencer today that the judgment on the case was being appealed.

Company to Send Cash Equity In Bonds to Workers

Brockville, March 5—(CP)—Company representatives of Phillips electrical works here, where some 800 employees have been involved in a labor dispute since Feb. 27, announced Monday a deadline of March 15 for instructions regarding victory bonds purchased by payroll deductions. The company last week announced the employees had been discharged.

Officials said that if no instructions have been received regarding the bonds by March 15 they would then be sold and cash equity mailed to workers. The company also announced that contributory group life insurance had been cancelled, that the National Employment Service had been notified of the discharges and that unemployment insurance books had been deposited with the service.

The local ministerial association and the Canadian Legion are attempting to bring company officials and union leaders together for a renewal of negotiations. Meanwhile picketing continued today at the plant where one-hour work stoppages for union recognition initiated the dispute.

HELD FOR GUELPH POLICE

London, Ont., March 5 (CP)—City detectives yesterday arrested Jack Nicholson, Toronto and Mildred Boomhower, Belleville, and held them for Guelph police in connection wiht theft of seven uniform coats 60 napkins and a number of towels from the Guelph Central Hospital.

Woman street-car conductor finds MUSTARD BATHS helpful

"In my work as a street car conductor," said Mrs. Gladys Hill of Toronto, "I often feel a bad cold coming on, especially on the days when the cars are wet. Whenever this happens I immediately go home after my shift and get into a good, hot mustard bath."

Mustard Baths Ward Off Colds All Winter

"I fill the bath with hot water," Mrs. Hill explained further, "and then add two heaping tablespoonfuls of mustard, mixed to a paste with cold water. I find this relaxes me after a busy night on the street car and it has been the means of keeping me free from colds all winter."

Many Rely on Mustard Treatments to Help Overcome Illness

Mrs. Hill also has the responsibility of three young children. Following the example of thousands of other Canadian mothers, she turns to her tin of reliable mustard whenever they contract a cold or chest congestion. She uses a poultice of 1 part of mustard to 5 parts of flour for the children, never leaving the poultices on in any case for more than 20 minutes.

In many a home, mustard treatments have been the means of helping to relieve rheumatic, arthritic and neuritic pains as well as chills, colds and everyday ailments of the family. However, your doctor should always be called if symptoms appear serious.

Use Keen's D.S.F. Mustard

You can always be sure of Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, packed to retain its uniform quality and full medicinal strength. Get it from your grocer or druggist.

Large Tourist Trade Future

All signs point to the likelihood that the coming summer will see the development of the tourist trek far beyond the customary volume. This future is not only for this year but for the years ahead it will be of growing importance. Col. Arthur Welsh, minister without portfolio in the Ontario Government says it will become the number one industry of the Province in five years.

The entry of thousands of American visitors to enjoy the vacation in Canada will mean a large export of Canadian articles which the visitors will take home, leaving United States money in payment for them. This money will prove of great advantage to the Canadian people and industry.

Among the things Ontario and the rest of Canada can provide is the entertainment for the guests of this country on holiday bent. There is this climate and there are the great open spaces.

Canadian attractions of special mention are the great parks, the fishing and hunting this land can provide.

Canada and the United States find their lines cast in pleasant places in this age, they are friends and relatives speaking the same tongue and with the same ideals of democracy.

So this interchange of visits across the border between these two peoples makes for a world of progress on this continent.

This will be the first summer since the war's end when Americans and Canadians will have the opportunity to visit one another's country and still further cement the friendship welded in war and in the years of peace.

Migrations

This is the month that brings the first of the birds whom the people of Canada have missed since late last summer or early last autumn. During the months these birds have been wintering in the Southern United States and some in Mexico and Central America or even in the South American countries. But the flights will soon begin from their winter domiciles across the thousands of miles of space that bring so many of the birds into Canada.

In Southwestern Ontario the returning birds arrive sooner than they do in these parts. In that section the horned larks come first, sometimes in late February and then followed in March by crows, robins, song sparrows, bluebirds, killdeer, redwings, grackles, meadow larks, Canada geese, marsh hawks, cowbirds, sparrow hawks, phoebes, flickers and blue herons.

Interesting facts are brought out by naturalists at the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology in Toronto showing the time it takes birds to spread across the province. One day is required to reach Hamilton from London, nine days are needed to make the distance from London to Toronto, ten days to Ottawa, 12 days to Collingwood, 14 days to Sault Ste Marie, 33 days to Cochrane.

In April come the other birds, mostly those which have been living in Central America and in northern South America and this migration reaches its peak in May with the insect-eating birds which will come back from far south in South America.

This month of March is one of the most interesting of the year because of the thrill in learning of the arrival of different species of the bird creation, as part of the liberating life of spring.

Still the reliable old standby, the English sparrow with the starling holds the landscape but soon these have to yield to the presence of the birds of song and color which come back to nest and rear their young. They add color and they make melodious the air.

Animals and War Morale

Amusing and serious stories of the animal mascots of the services were told at the BBC microphone a short time ago. "In Town Tonight" interviewed Miss Dorothea St. Hill Bourne, the secretary of the P.D.S.A. (People's Dispensary for Sick Animals) Allied Forces Mascot Club. Few people in civilian life realize what an enormous aid to morale servicemen receive from these animals.

The official purpose of the club is to enrol animals and birds serving in any theatre of war, to compile records of them for the Imperial War Museum in London, and to award the Dickin Medal (the animals' V.C.) for special acts of bravery. Thirty medals have so far been awarded.

The records of the club make fascinating reading. "Barney" was its first member. He was a baby donkey which the R.A.F. won at a darts match (he's in the P.D.S.A. sanatorium at the moment, and no longer a baby). Then there is "Bizerta Charlie." He was the goose the unit bought at Bizerta for four tins of sardines. The owner swore that Charlie knew a lot about aircraft, and would quack twice for an enemy 'plane and once for a friendly one. (Charlie, the interviewer suggested, must have belonged to the Marines). It wasn't long before his name had to be altered to Charlotte, because "he" proved a record egg-layer. "Group Captain Goat, D.S.O., M.C., Belgian Croix de Guerre," is the full title of an Air Force mascot goat, which was flown to Belgium and saw plenty of action before his popularity with the authorities waned because his favorite diet became confidential documents.

"Adelbert," a dog rescued from a U-boat by H.M.S. Orwell, which adopted it, was another entry in the records of the Allied Forces Mascot Club. Pet of the destroyer Exmoor was Nikki, a vixen, who went aboard at Salonica. Cressida, a kestrel falcon, went through the Italian campaign with her master, was taken prisoner with him, and though she used to bite the Gestapo, she lived, and is now back in England with her owner. Otto, a dachshund found outside a German concentration camp, joined the British Military Police.

"Bob" the first canine Dickin Medal winner; "Rifleman Kahn," an Alsatian who saved his master from drowning, and Rob, a Special Air Service half-breed collie, who has made twenty parachute drops, were others that received "honorable mention."

Special arrangements have been made for these animals when the units return to Britain. Under an official scheme, dogs are handed over to the Royal Veterinary Corps for transport home. Arrived there, they stay for a period in quarantine before they are restored to their owners.

Salvage Work

Since the outbreak of war the Authority's Salvage Department has raised 32 vessels approximating 82,000 gross registered tons. Forty-nine vessels totalling 208,000 gross registered tons have been rendered major salvage assistance in the form of patching, pumping and re-floating. Two hundred and fifty-two barges, tugs and other small craft totalling approximately 35,000 tons have been raised from river and docks.

Initial Carvers on Ships

The habit people have of scratching their initials in odd places has put Canadian Pacific steamship officials in a quandary. It seems that some 10,000 servicemen and women have carved their names or initials in the teakwood handrails of the Empress of Scotland, during the six years the former Pacific liner has been troop-carrying around the world. The question is what to do about it. Shall the rails be replaced; or shall they be retained in this unforeseen but highly distinctive state?

SHROVE TUESDAY

When I was just a little lad
This day for us a meaning had.
"Shrove Tuesday," said the mother then,
"With all its joys, is here again.
So let's ask pardon for our sins,
Tomorrow morning Lent begins."

In happy childhood's rapturous way,
We called this Tuesday: "Pancake Day."
And round the kitchen danced with glee
The yellow batter bowl to see.
And, through the kitchen's swinging door
For pancakes shouted, more and more.

"Now sing and dance to heart's content,"
The mother said, approaching Lent,
"And stuff yourselves with good things sweet;
Tomorrow plainer food we'll eat;
And forty days and forty nights
Forego what most the flesh delights.

"Tomorrow we shall start to fast,
Hold duty first and pleasure last.
And for the glory of the soul
We'll try to practise self-control,
Curbing our appetites a bit,
That we for Heaven may be fit."

Here are some interesting notes with regards to the Belleville-Midland hockey game here, in which the locals won by a score of 13 to 1—off setting their recent defeat at Midland by a score of 10 to 4: Brock Shorey has sure fulfilled all his promises. This is the first time since 1901 that Belleville has been in the finals. Conley is the greatest amateur net guardian—barring none—in the game. Whalen at centre is another hard worker and never lets up from gong to gong. Mitchell, like Sammy Symonds, is not spectacular, but he is there every minute of the play and his position could not be improved upon. Simons and Whitty are certainly a great pair to draw to, and when they start down the ice they are simply irresistible. It was their lightning like rushes that broke their opponent's hearts before the first period had ended. One welcome addition to the line up was our old friend Bill Finkle. He was there all the way through in his old time form, and my! but he is some dazzler! The return of Finkle raises Belleville stock immensely. One member of the Belleville team who is on the job every minute of the play is Sammy Symonds and he is one of the most effective men on the team. His back-checking and boring-in tactics help in no small degree to put the tally on the right side. Jack Marks, an old Belleville boy and former star on the old local team was present at the game. It is fifteen years since he played here and the last game he played was against Midland when the result was the same as the recent game against Midland here. He was on his way to Toronto to join his team which played there last night.

Bormann Seen At Black Forest Resort Report

Konstanz, March 5 (AP)—Interest in the fate of Hitler's missing deputy, Martin Bormann, has been revived by reports from German civilians in the French-ruled mountains bordering Switzerland and Austria.

Bormann supposedly was killed while attempting to escape from doomed Berlin; but investigations by intelligence officers of the three Western Allied powers still are open. The new reports say Bormann has been seen riding a motorbike from Bregenzer Wald, a mountainous frontier corner of Germany, to Konstanz to visit his girl friend.

Seen Aboard Bus

Other Germans said they saw Bormann board a bus several weeks ago at the Black Forest winter sports haven of Titisee. They "thought" he had come down from the wild, snowy country surrounding the nearby village of Schulsee where the Bormann family chalet is situated.

But at Schulsee townfolk said Bormann never had been seen in the vicinity although Frau Bormann and her children used to visit the chalet until her death near Berlin in 1944. The villa now is used as a dormitory for 12 French women working for the Military Government.

In building the chalet about four years ago, Bormann seemed to have a hideout in mind. It is in a lonely mountain spot, far removed from bomber routes, and a deep underground bunker is its main feature. Sealed off from the house by a heavy iron door is a passageway leading from the basement to a comfortable, gas-proof bunker equipped with electric heating, cooking and air conditioning facilities and an elaborate escape tunnel.

Not in America

French and Germans alike discount a recent report that Bormann landed in South America from a U-boat, and one officer even suggested that Bormann was in a position to plant such a story himself.

"It would take two battalions to begin an organized hunt for him," the officer said: "And he would be tipped off at once and flee somewhere else."

Those who gave credence to the Bormann rumors believe he is travelling under at least five aliases, but usually as a Swiss which permit him to skip around the Swiss-Austrian-German frontiers.

RUSSIANS

Russians in Mukden still were suffering from that first shock when another group of a dozen correspondents arrived by the same expedient, bringing the total there to 21. A French newspaperman turned up late, alone.

The first group found the Russians guarding the city with sub-machine-guns. The newspapermen didn't look around much, at first. The Soviets put them in the Intourist Hotel and said it would be dangerous outside. The correspondents drank Japanese beer and fumed, until eventually the Russians said they could roam. Certain factories, however, remained banned.

The first wave meanwhile decided to go to Changchun, the capital. The Mukden commandant strongly urged them not to go. They went, by night. That was a week ago, and they haven't been heard from, except indirectly. Chinese sources said they were detained at first, but later freed.

Three newspapermen wandered to Dairen. The Dairen commandant was not happy about this. He told us, in effect, that we were standing (univited, remember?) on Soviet soil. We went back to Mukden, some Russian guards going along for the ride.

From Mukden, we entrained for the long, cold ride back to Chinhsien. We got a rousing sendoff—a Soviet guard stopped our Chinese truck en route to the train by firing a sub-machine gun burst over our heads. But when he found the foreigners were leaving—not entering — Mukden, he became quite cheery, and even provided us with an escort.

He didn't want us to miss our train.

SUN SPOT

in 11-year cycles and their number and size can be expected to increase to a miximum three years from now and then slowly decline until the end of the cycle. We are about 1 1-2 years in a cycle now.

Scientists explain the earth is like a huge magnet with lines of magnetic force travelling from pole to pole. When the fluctuating aurora, with its potentials that may range up to 1,000 volts, upsets this field it causes inducted currents that tend to oppose or cancel the original current travelling on telegraph or telephone wires. In the case of radio, the sun spots seem to limit radio frequency waves which tend to cancel imissions from radio stations.

When aurora rides the skies telegraph companies shift to an all-metal circuit, instead of using the earth for a return path for their signals. This usually eliminates 98 per cent of aurora.

To counteract dangerously high voltages and currents both telegraph and telephone companies use a type of fuse called an arrestor which blows out when voltages get too high.

Yesterday I gave her some general suggertions in regard to the nutrition of the growing child. I mentioned some foods which are particularly important and desirable in the child's everyday diet. I did not and shall not waste your time or mine discussing things the child should not eat.

We had just reached a touchy point and I suppose I was off again on a harangue about giving the growing child a break— you know, freedom to go out and play whenever the child enjoys it, regardless of climate, season or weather — a line of chatter which I am well aware, irks some old fogie readers tremendously and delights some interests, for by such crazy talk I am playing right into their hands—we had reached this touchy point when the bell, as it were, saved me

Well, this is another round. I'm coming out fighting, and this time I lead, not with my chin, but with my left. I hereby reiterate and declare with every ounce of conviction and assurance I can put into it and with the fervent hope that every kid in the country may read this or at least hear about it:-

Infant, growing child, youth, adult or oldster never suffers injury to health from exposure to cold or dampness or sudden change.

chapping, chilblains, frostbite and freezing may occur from exposure to cold, of course, but that is all. Yes, and sometimes exposure to cold causes considerable discomfort for a while—such as aching fingers—but, I insist, never any illness or disturbance of health.

There is no scientific evidence that exposure to cold or dampness or wet or bad weather has the slightest effect on any immunity an individual may have to any known disease. This covers not only what we know about the nature and cause of diseases of the respiratory tract but also any quaint notions the old timers, medical or lay, may still retain in reference to "resistance" — whatever that may mean

From many years of battling at close quarters with the credulous public and the nostrum and quackery interests and the old fogy school of medicine and the shrewd "clinic" racketeers and all-around "specialists" about this have learned how difficult it is to persuade people to live free from that morbid fear-cryophobia (morbid fear or dread of cold) and hygrophobia (morbid fear or dread of dampness).

I am as fond of solid comfort as you are, I suppose. In fact, I'll not complain if I never again see snow, ice or bitter cold weather right up close, but you bet your boots, I'd never worry about the chance of getting pneumonia, rheumatism or any other illness from the climate or weather. Worrying about that, as I see it, is not only absurd but bad for anybody's health.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Butcher's Diet

My husband is a butcher, spends much time in the ice box. He complains of pain in knees. I wonder whether it is rheumatism or arthritis and whether he gets insufficient calcium from his diet. (Mrs. J. W.)

Answer—The exposure to cold has nothing to do with rheumatism or arthritis, in my opinion. If your husband consumes insufficient milk or milk products (cheese, cream, butter, skim milk, buttermilk, sour milk, evaporated milk, etc.) and insufficient nuts, peanuts and greens (salad stuff), he probably gets insufficient calcium and his trouble may be a manifestation of calcium deficiency. Send ten cents (clean) and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "The Calcium Shortage." Remember that even an adequate intake of calcium will not insure good nutrition unless there is an adequate supply of vitamin D to maintain normal assimilation and utilization of calcium in the body.

Terpin Hydrate is Terpin Hydrate

Druggist took exception to your statement that "any druggist can sell two-grain capsules or tablets of terpin hydrate to anybody without prescription." He felt this was misleading to the public —they might be under the impression that you meant codeine, morphine, heroin etc., capsules or tablets. (J. M. M.)

Answer—Aint the public dumb?

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who first called the Western Hemisphere the New World?

Amerigo Vespucci, from whose first name "America" is derived, is believed to have been the first person to refer to the newly discovered lands in the Western Hemisphere as the "New World."

He made three voyages to the Western Hemisphere in the wake of Columbus and Cabot—in 1499, 1500 and 1503. He wrote several letters describing these trips at the time or soon afterwards, and in one of them he suggested that the territories he had visited should be called "Mundus Novus" (Latin for "New World") since they had not before been seen by any other European.

Columbus and Cabot both died believing they had visited the western extremities of Asia but Vespucci lived to realize that the lands they had discovered constituted a "New World" lying between western Europe and eastern Asia. Up to that time uncertainty as to the nature and extent of the newly discovered lands had delayed the application of any specific name to the entire Western Hemisphere.

"New World" in the sense of the Americas and "Old World" in the sense of Eurasia did not become common in English until the 18th century. In Shakespeare's time and long afterward "new world" continued to signify "modern times" and "old world" continued to signify "ancient

"Antique world" occurs in "As You Like It:" In "King John" Cardinal Pandulph, the papal legate, says to Lewis, the Dauphin of France: "How green you are and fresh in this old world." And in "Sonnet 59" Shakespeare wrote:

That I might see what the old world could say
To this composed wonder of your frame.

In "The Tempest" Shakespeare uses "new world" in the sense of a personal discovery. Miranda, who had never before seen any human beings that she distinctly remembered except her father, Caliban and Ferdinand, exclaimed when she first saw the king of Naples and his companions:

O' wonder!
How many goodly creatures
are there here!
How beauteous mankind is!
O brave new world,
That has such people in't!

In the King's Message of December 12, 1826, Foreign Minister George Canning, alluding to his part in promoting the Monroe Doctrine and recognizing the independence of the Spanish American colonies, said: "I called the New World into existence to redress the balance of the Old."

times," figurative senses the terms still retain.

EIGHT REPORTED DROWNED

Brisbane, Australia, March 5—(Reuters)— Eight people yesterday were reported drowned in the worst floods in the history of North Queensland, which followed a violent weekend storm. In the town of Home Hill, 70 miles south of Townsville, 4,000 people are in danger from advancing flood water from the Burdekin river.

CONSCRIPTION ESSENTIAL

London, March 5 —(CP Cable) —Maj. J. G. Morrison, Conservative member for Salisbury, last night said conscription was essential for Britain. He suggested Canada could provide training grounds "as she did for air training during the war." Britain was not large enough to accommodate training grounds and at the same time provide vital food.

TORONTO'S TAX RATE UP

Toronto, March 5 —(CP)— Toronto's tax rate for 1946 will be 34.15 mills, an increase of 2.70 mills over last year's rate, city council decided last night, after approving a budget that called for departmental expenditures of $29,605,742 compared with 1945 expenditures of $26,458,432.

PAPER PURCHASES PLANE

London, Ont., March 5 —(CP) —The London Free Press yesterday purchased a five-passenger aircraft for use in news-gathering by its editorial staff. Official pilot is W. E. Corfield, a reporter, whose flying experience dates back from 1937 when he joined the St. Catharines Flying Club.

FOURTEEN KILLED, 300 WOUNDED IN ALEXANDRIA

Riots Break Out on Day of Mourning for Victims of Demonstrations

Alexandria, Egypt, March 5—(Reuters)—Fourteen persons have been killed and 300 wounded in riots which were in progress Monday following a day of mourning called in honor of victims of last month's anti-British demonstrations in Cairo.

Two British soldiers were reported killed and three British soldiers wounded.

Firing still was going on Mon., afternoon.

The riots broke out when British troops and Egyptian army police opened fire on demonstrating crowds.

Conditions Appear Good for Orderly Break-up of Ice

Given the right weather conditions the Moira River has a favorable appearance toward an uneventful annual break-up this Spring, according to Mayor Frank S. Follwell following a brief inspection of conditions over the weekend. The mayor, with City Engineer, Charles Mott, inspected ice conditions yesterday and reported that things "looked favorable".

Already there is an open channel in the river from the Fruit Machinery Company plant on Front Street to Cannifton, and the water is getting away very nicely. As result, cellars which for the past few days have been flooded, are now dry following the lowering of the water level in the river.

According to city officials bright sunny weather for the next few days would do much toward weakening the river ice and thus permit a break-up without disastrous flooding conditions.

Already much of the snow in the immediate Belleville district has been melted with the water gradually escaping down to the bay to further weaker river ice.

Gross Earnings T.N.&O. Railway Shows Increase

Toronto, March 5 (CP) — The speech read from the Throne Monday by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews at the opening of the Ontario legislature, said gross earnings of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway increased during 1945 by approximately $250,000. Comparative figures were not given.

The speech said the increased rate was due principally to growing demand for forest products.

Now that new rolling stock could be acquired, orders had been placed for 600 box cars and three diesel electric locomotives. Plans had been made to provide water transportation on Lake Nipissing and Lake Timagami.

12 Saddle Horses Lost as Stables Burn

Toronto, March 5 — (CP) — Fire of unknown origin swept the Four Oaks Riding Academy stable on suburban Don Mills Road Sun., night, destroying 12 saddle horses, four goats, a cow and some barnyard fowl. Fourteen dogs were saved when released from a threatened building nearby.

Owner, Thomas Wood, also dogcatcher and dog-pound keeper for East York township, estimated damage at $9,000.

WHALELIKE SUBMARINE

Brisbane, Australia — (CP) — When the British submarine Virtue ran through a school of whales some 60 to 70 feet in length, lazing on the surface of Moreton Bay, Queensland, she was apparently accepted as one of the whales as she cruised within 20 yards of one monster without causing any reaction.

British Girl Charges Hun Women Live in U. S. Officers' Quarters

Frankfurt, Germany, March 5—(AP)—A British girl charged in the United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes today that German girls were being permitted to "live in the United States forces' headquarters compound here with American fliers.

The chaplain for the European theatre, Col. L. Curtis, said the girl's letter brought into the open the "prevalence of looseness and immortality, and the general breakdown of army discipline in Europe."

The letter also brought sympathetic reaction from other chaplains and from soldiers. One chaplain said he was "glad the scandal has come at last into the open."

The compound, comprising several square miles, is a barbed wire enclosed area where the massive I. G. Farben Industries building house army agencies. Civilian houses have been converted into billets for officers and civilian war department employees.

The enclosure has several gates one reserved for German civilians and other outsiders. Officers and civilians are permitted to take girls in anytime except between 10.30 p.m. and 8.30 a.m.

Guests must leave by 8.30 a.m., with each officer himself signing his guest out. On weekends, girls are permitted to stay within the compound over Sunday but must leave early Monday morning.

Guards said these orders came from the headquarters command.

The register showed 120 officers and civilians, including ranks as high as lieutenant-colonels, signed in guests Saturday night.

The British girl's letter asked: "Why should German girls be allowed to live in the compound with American fliers? I know of several instances and if necessary would lead officials to men I consider to be rotten to the core . . .

"Maybe they have not lost anything in this war or suffered any hardships, and that is why they can forget the krauts they are with are part of the evil which caused so much suffering in this world . . .

"Why bother to have an enclosure here in the compound when the whole thing is such a farce?"

Old Country Letter

A new film venture is planned for Scotland, to show Scots in the Dominions and foreign countries what is going on in their homeland in the post-war development area.

Running the non-profit-making company will be Joseph Macleod, former BBC news announcer. The aim, says Mr. Macleod, is to put Scotland's film industry "on the map."

"At first our productions will be almost entirely documentary and educational, as realistic and truthful as possible, dealing with the post-war industrial and social problems of Scotland."

Beauty spot: One of those frequent controversies over the protection of pretty landscapes against inroads by industry and development generally has arisen in Cumberland.

The plan is to raise the level of Ennerdale Lake to obtain additional water for industrial and domestic purposes. The main opposition is that this will flood the old Anglers' Inn, near the shore at the northern end, and spoil farm land at a point where the fields are an essential part of the view.

Welsh problem: Better times are in prospect for Wales through the wartime establishment of new factories but the return of peace has had its bad effect on another phase of Welsh activity—the ports through which much of Britain's war supplies were channelled.

Trade at the principal South Wales ports dropped about 2,000,000 tons during 1945 because of sharp reduction—in some cases complete cessation—of special wartime imports.

For many years the general cargo trade has been concentrated at Liverpool, Southampton and London. Wales ports did almost twice as much business as they now are doing, however, with exports of coal and tinplate most important.

So far neither of these products is being shipped abroad in large quantities.

Ontario Salt Enough to Last For 90,000 Years, Studies Show

By A. M. in Windsor Star

There is enough salt beneath the surface of Ontario's familiar countryside to meet the needs of all mankind for 90,000 years, according to A. D. R. Fraser of Windsor, who has made a close study of the province's salt deposits.

"The plan of the Canadian Industries, Limited, to increase the number of its wells brings to mind some interesting facts about the salt deposits in this region," Mr. Fraser recalled in conversation with The Star.

In the late 60's of the last century the operation of drilling for oil near Goderich revealed extensive beds of salt, Mr. Fraser recalls. Progressive exploration has resulted in the recent estimate given above. Chief lodes of the salt lie in the area between Goderich and Amherstburg and cover an area of about three thousand square miles. In the Windsor and district deposits there is one bed of fine rock salt of 23 feet thickness. The average depth of the salt deposits is over 1,000 feet.

The process of obtaining the salt from so far below the earth's surface is explained simply by Mr. Fraser but he emphasizes that it is a highly skilled operation requiring much care and planning. A well is drilled until the salt deposit is reached. Then a stream of water is forced down the well. Later the resulting brine is pumped up.

Beginning in the early days with a simple boiling of the pumped-up brine, the industry has today evolved a highly efficient method of producing salt of the richest purity with great economy of the heat units in the fuel used. The old-fashioned methods permitted much of the steam from the boiling brine to escape, taking with it many heat units. In the modern method the escaping steam is led through a second step by a process in which the heat units are put to work for more evaporation. This process of utilizing the heat units twice over or oftener is applied the most skilful technical direction and with the air pressure reduced in the evaporating system, great economy of heat is attained.

The product of a modern evaporator is salt of a uniform, small grain size which, when finally packed, is treated with a harmless compound to prevent it forming damp lumps.

In a nearby portion of the salt bed area—which extends under the river to the Detroit side, there are operations carried on in which the solid salt is obtained from the beds by sinking a shaft and bringing out the mineral in cars, after which it is refined.

Origin of the salt beds leads investigators back to the time when it is presumed that the major portion of the lower Michigan-Ontario peninsula was a deep arid basin filled intermittently by flows of water from the ocean. Such inflows, Mr. Fraser points out, were probably regulated and restricted by a bar which permitted alternate inflow and evaporation with consequent deposition of salt continuing until the tremendous depth of 1,000 feet was accumulated.

One of man's chief needs, salt has been known as far back as biblical times. It has caused wars, governed social customs, determined the sites of some of the world's greatest cities and influenced the rise and fall of nations.

London, England, owes its location, it is believed by many, to the fact that salt-pack trains going from what are now Cheshire and Worcestershire to South Britain and Northern Gaul, crossed the Thames where Westminster now stands. Some of the trains were halted by floods and a stockaded village grew up. Thus, Britain's capital, the largest city in the world, developed from a way station on a salt route.

The early Greeks worshipped salt. Among the Hebrews newborn babes were rubbed with it to ensure their well-being. In certain districts of Czarist Russia no bride and groom would enter their new home without carrying a quantity of salt which was sprinkled into every corner. This was supposed to protect them from evil and to bring happiness and health.

These and other superstitions led to the current practice of tossing salt over one's shoulder to insure good luck.

Scientists are generally agreed life appeared first in the ocean. If this be true life was created in the presence of salt and early learned to use salt for its purposes. When life spread to the land it carried with it the needs developed in water. Not the least of these was for salt.

ENTERTAINING THE NAVY

Nairobi, Kenya — (CP)—There are indications that Kenya is to play an important part in the Royal Navy's recuperation leave scheme. A warm welcome was given the battleship Howe recently. Various sports teams of Howe were matched against local cricket, hockey, soccer and tennis clubs.

Hastings, England — (CP) — St. Leonard's Pier, wrecked during the war, may never be restored. The post-war reconstruction committee has recommended that the pier not be rebuilt.

BRITISH WOMEN STICK TO JOBS

By BARBARA WACE

London, March 5 —(CP)—English women aren't flocking back to cradle and kitchen quite as fast as was expected. But the reason the British girl is clinging to her job is not purely a desire for a career. More often than not it's a case of "I would if I could, but I can't" become a housewife again.

Last available Ministry of Labor reports admitted that the November estimate of 170,000 expected to go back to home life now has shrunk by 100,000. The exodus of married women from their jobs definitely is slackening. More than 6,000,000 women hold jobs in Britain today — over 1,000,000 above the pre-war figure.

"I've had a job for six years now. Can't afford to stop work, duckie." Legs apart, hands on hips, the stocky little railway porter at Charing Cross terminus grinned ruefully. "The old man don't make enough, not with those two youngsters of mine wearing out their boots the way they do. Besides — I've got used to it now. Like the life, you know. Like all the people and all." And off she trundled a mountainous truck full of baggage.

"I'll stop work just as soon as my husband comes home," declared the slim, pretty, dark-haired London bus clippie, juggling her ticket puncher and a handful of pennies as she spoke, and breaking off repeatedly to call, "Pass down the car please," or "Plenty of room upstairs, dear."

"We've been married five years. Since I was 18. But we've never had a home yet. I'll stay on until he's been demobbed. It's good to have the money, and living in one room what else is there to do? But once he's back — it's home and a baby for me."

Holds Political Job

But the immaculately dressed, highly efficient member of England's titled landed gentry, mother of an eight-year-old daughter and holder of a responsible political job since 1939, was as emphatic on the other side.

"I've tasted blood now," she declared firmly. "I've known what it's like to hold down a paid job during war. I'll never go back to doing nothing at home again.

The worn looking, gentle faced countrywoman from the Women's Voluntary Services smoothed her neat bottle green uniform lovingly as she talked.

"I'm terribly tired. There's the family, and the rations, and the evacuees only just gone home, and all the W.V.S. work. And then, of course, the garden. I feel now I want three months' rest. But I know I'll want to do something after that. Perhaps not full time, with my husband home again. But something useful; part time perhaps."

Typical of many of their countrywomen, if not of all, these women in their answers probably give a fair indication of how their sex is feeling. There must be thousands like the titled worker, who feel they can never give up the satisfaction of being needed in a real, honest-to-goodness job.

"Most married women in their hearts want to go back to their homes and care for their children and husband with all their time and energy," said the chief officer for release and resettlement of women in one of the Ministry of Labor's wide-spread information offices. "But many of them can't yet do so in the way they wish. And until they can, they'd rather work."

Eight Robins Seen In Don Valley

Toronto, March 5 — (CP) — Signs of spring mounted as 'baseball weather' continued in this district Mon. Eight robins were seen yesterday by two field naturalists in the east-end's Don Valley, along with crows; a small flock of goldfinches also were spotted.

HEIGHT A FACTOR

London — (CP) — Meteorologists supplied the cure for vapor trails, telltale tracks left in the sky by fighter pilots when vapor from the exhausts of their aircraft condensed. The solution was for the plane to climb into the stratopshere, where the air presumably was so dry the trail evaporated as fast as it was formed.

A DAY THEY'LL TREASURE!

Ontario's ski trails mean fun for hundreds of friendly visitors from the States every year. We want them to enjoy themselves . . . so they'll keep on coming! Let's do all we can to make their visit a real pleasure!

WHAT CAN I DO? Each of us can pitch in and help and, in our own interest, we should. Here are a few practical suggestions from an Ontario hotelman, famous for his hospitality:

1. There's lots to attract visitors everywhere in the Province. Find out what your neighbourhood has to offer and become a booster!
2. When you write your friends in the States tell them about the places they would enjoy visiting.
3. Try to make any visitor glad he came to Canada . . . and be really friendly when you meet.
4. If they ask for information or directions, take time to answer them fully and graciously.
5. In any business dealings you have with them, remember Canada's reputation for courtesy and fairness depends on you.
6. To sum it all up, follow the "Golden Rule."

IT'S EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS . . . it's good business!

Worth his weight in gold! Actually the Province of Ontario, in pre-war years, profited to almost the same extent from tourist business as it did from the gold mining industry. It is up to each of us individually to see that this business goes on growing.

We all share! Everyone benefits from the income Ontario's tourist business represents. This diagram, based on figures supplied by the Hotel Association, shows this. Aside from hospitality, it's good business to make our visitors feel at home.

It works both ways! They treat us royally when we visit them . . . we can't do less than return the compliment. Remember that it costs money to take a holiday . . . so let's see they get a good return for every penny they spend.

"Let's make them want to come back!"

There are plenty of good ski-spots in Ontario. The Ontario Tourist Bureau is always happy to answer enquiries of ski fans from the United States, who want to know where they can go, quickly and easily, to enjoy their favourite sport.

Women's Activities

EVENING BRANCH CHRIST CHURCH W.A.

Members of the Evening Branch of Christ Church W.A., met on Monday evening in the Parish Hall for their regular monthly meeting and special service of prayer. The business was conducted by the President, Miss Eliza Bell, following which Mrs. E. Hickey was leader for the "World Day of Prayer Service", with special prayers being given by Miss Bell, Mrs. C. Hayes, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. A. Simpson and Miss Adair. Mrs. H. Pitt was accompanist and read the Scripture passage. Mrs. H. W. Froats brought a very interesting and thought-provoking message to the group.

Later Mrs. J. G. Sparling entertained the members at the rectory when refreshments were served with Mrs. Hayes presiding at the tea table.

REBEKAH LODGE

Madoc.—On Thursday night, Oakdale Rebekah Lodge members had as their guests at their regular meeting Mrs. Ruby Webb, of Prescott, Warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario and D.D.P. Mrs. Mildred Morrow, of Stirling.

At the conclusion of the regular business of the lodge a presentation and address was tendered Mrs. Webb. Miss Helen Tate reading the address and Mrs. Cretney making the presentation. Also during the evening Mrs. Verle Bronson (nee June Holmes), a recent bride, was the recipient of a gift from the members of the lodge.

Bounteous refreshments were served in the dining hall and a pleasant evening spent in playing games and contests.

WEDDINGS

MILLS—CARMICHAEL

On Saturday, March 2, at 2.30 pm., Edythe Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carmichael, Cannifton, became the bride of Thomas Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Mills, New Liskeard, Ont., in a ceremony performed in Christ Church by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Calvert with Miss Marie Duesberry singing "I Love You Truly" and "Because", during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Donald Carmichael, the bride was lovely in traditional white slipper satin, with satin faced crepe flowers appliqued on the skirt. Her fingertip veil was caught to her head with a crown of gardenias and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Carmichael, who wore a floor-length gown of turquoise blue crepe with matching hat and veil and a bouquet of Talisman roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. George Duesberry, Belleville, and Mr. Allan A. Carmichael, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ray Huffman, were ushers.

For the wedding reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece dress of black with a corsage of sweetpeas. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a dress of blue flowered crepe and a corsage of sweetpeas.

For the wedding trip to eastern points, the bride chose a brown suit with matching accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mr. and Mrs. Mills will reside in New Liskeard.

Out-of-town guests were present from Gananoque, Kingston, Toronto, and New Liskeard.

SMITH—SAVAGE

St. Michael's Church was the scene of a quiet wedding on March 4, at 9.30 a.m., when Mary Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Savage, Boswell Street, became the bride of William Henry Smith, Owen Sound, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith, Meaford, in a ceremony performed by Rev. Father A. L. O'Donnell. The altar was beautifully decorated with snapdragons and sweetpeas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a suit of American grey with fuchsia hat and black accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by Lourdis Drummey, who wore a fuchsia dress with white accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Lawrence Savage, Montreal.

For the reception, held at the Old Tavern Bar-B-Q, the bride's mother received wearing a crepe dress of star ruby, trimmed with silk braid and black accessories, and a corsage of gladioli tips.

For travelling to Toronto and other western points, the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit and top coat with matching accessories. On their return, the couple will take up residence in Owen Sound.

FINKLE—FITCHETT

A pretty double ring ceremony was performed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, on March 2, at two p.m., when Catharine Helen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman H. Fitchett, Stirling, became the bride of Gilbert Spafford Finkle, only son of Mrs. Roy Finkle and the late Mr. Finkle, Stirling. The Rev. W. H. V. Walker performed the ceremony against a bank of hyacinths, daffodils and ferns as wedding music was played by Mrs. R. H. Williams.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a formal gown of blush satin fashioned with long torso waistline, sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over her wrists. Fabric roses surrounded her waistline and her bouquet was of red roses and fern.

Maid of honor, Miss Jean Dafoe, cousin of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of heavenly blue, printed sheer with short puffed sleeves and low neckline. She carried American Beauty roses.

Miss Beverley Ray, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in a floor-length gown of pale pink net and carrying a nosegay of rosebuds.

The groom was attended by his cousin, Gordon Spafford, Belleville, with William Spafford, Belleville, and Robert Cooke, Stirling, as ushers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver, to the groomsman and ushers, leather billfolds and to the organist, a china brooch. The maid of honor received a silver bracelet, and the flower girl a gold locket and chain.

The bride donned a light grey crepe dress with pale green sports coats and black accessories, with a corsage of white orchids for the wedding trip to Buffalo and other western points. On their return, the couple will reside in Stirling.

Out-of-town guests present included, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spafford, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Finkle, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spafford, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. V. Finkle and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bird, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter O'Neil, Toronto.

MULLIN—WILLIAMSON

A pretty wedding was performed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Saturday, March 2, at 2.30 p.m., when Catherine Turner Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Williamson, became the bride of William Scott Mullin, Toronto, son of Mrs. W. Mullin, and the late Mr. Mullin. Rev. S. Farley performed the ceremony against a bank of calla lilies and fern, while Mrs. John Deacon played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of white sheer, embroidered at neck and waistline. Her finger-tip veil fell in soft folds from her Mary Stuart headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Attending her sister, was Miss Rena Williamson, whose dress was fashioned similarly to the bride's of champagne taffeta. Her Juliet cap, embroidered with gold sequins, held her shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Margaret Drummond, bridesmaid, wore blue taffeta with matching Juliet cap embroidered with silver sequins. Her bouquet was of red roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ewart Mullin, Toronto, while Messrs. John Pring and William Sharpe were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors which were decorated with pink and white carnations and candles. The bride's mother received wearing a beige dress with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore blue with black accesories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip by car to Buffalo and other points in New York State, the bride donned a turquoise wool suit with matching hat and brown top coat, and a corsage of roses. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

54th Wedding Anniversasy Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sarles, R.R. 2, Trenton, wish to express their sincere thanks to the host of friends who offered congratulations on March 3, the occasion of their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Gilbert H. Sarles was born in West Huntingdon in 1872, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sarles. Mrs. Sarles, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul LeGrande, was born in Paris, France, in 1871.

The happy couple were married in Belleville by the Rev. S. A. Duprau, a Methodist Church minister, on March 3, 1892.

The couple spent some time in Manitoba, where Mr. Sarles was engaged in driving oxen after their marriage. After three years, they returned to Trenton, where they farmed until recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarles have three daughters, Mrs. George (Pauline) Page, Pontiac, Mich.; Mrs. Albert (Dorothy) Hall, Belleville; and Mrs. Jean Jackson, at home and four sons, two of whom served in World War 1.

There are seven grandchildren.

Newly Married Couple Honored

On Monday evening, about two hundred friends and neighbors gathered at Springbrook hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray (nee Marie Cassidy), with a miscellaneous shower from Springbrook and a presentation from Minto Community on their recent marriage. The evening was spent in dancing. About 10.30 the gathering was called to order and complimentary addresses were read, the address from Springbrook read by Miss Norma Mason and signed by Florence Galloway, Ruth Knox, Audrey Brown and Norma Mason. The address from Minto community was read by Mrs. Everett Sine and signed by John Courtney, George Runnalls, Lorne Cooke, Lorne Hagerman, and Delbert Sine. Both addresses expressed the esteem in which Carl and Marie are held in the community. The young couple were presented with a variety of useful and beautiful gifts, among which were an occasional chair, a rocking chair and six kitchen chairs. They graciously thanked their friends and invited them to visit them often in their new home.

Home-Coming Party for Returned Melrose Men Held

A large crowd, representing every family in the community gathered at the Township Hall in Melrose, on Friday evening to welcome home the boys of the Armed Forces, who have recently returned from overseas.

The first part of the evening was spent in progressive euchre with suitable prizes to the winners and this was followed by a short program.

Mr. J. Forestell, ex-reeve of Tyendinaga Township, acted as chairman and in a few well chosen words welcomed the boys home and wished them the best in the future. He also read a list of over fifty names of boys from Tyendinaga, who had received recognition for service overseas in the form of a cheque from the township. He then called the Melrose bays, who were present, to the front where they were given seats of honor and Mrs. R. Badgley read an address of welcome, expressing pride and gratitude for their safe return and deep interest in their future welfare. Mr. C. Sexsmith very capably replied on behalf of the boys and everyone joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Following this Mrs. S. Demille gave a reading entitled "What We Learned Over There", after which refreshments were served to all.

Food, Clothing Prices Increase

Ottawa, March 5 —(CP)— The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday that its official cost-of-living index, calculated on the basis that 1935-1939 equals 100, remained unchanged at 110.9 between Jan. 1 and Feb. 1.

Fluctuations in the index have not been reflected in wage rates since the cost-of-living bonuses were merged with basic wage rates under the Federal Government's wage control order.

The bureau said there was a small decrease in the food section, attributable to seasonal influences, but this was balanced by scattered increases in home furnishings and clothing.

The foods index dropped to 132.5 from 132.8, with lower prices for eggs, citrus fruits, contributing most of the decline. Fresh vegetables advanced moderately. The home furnishings and services index increased to 120.1 from 119.5, while clothing went up from 122.6 to 122.7. Rentals, fuel and light and miscellaneous remained unchanged.

The New Garbage Can

So our streets are going to shine now,
They will glitter like silver and gold,
For in front of each house new garbage cans
Will sparkle bright, so I am told.

But after the garbage collection
The cans will be battered and worn,
For I've seen them thrown back to the curb
Dented and jammed and torn.

I've seen the lids taken off and heaved,
I've seen them tossed high in the air,
Then the garbage can comes whizzing back,
The men haven't time to take care.

So they'd like us to have new garbage cans,
Cans that will sparkle like dew
When they take better care of the old ones.
Then we'll consider the new.

So here's to the garbage collectors,
"Good luck to you my boys,
But please don't use the garbage cans
Like broken up bits of toys."

(From one who puts garbage out twice a week and finds the lids once a month.)

PICTON

Mother and Son Forced From Home In Night Attire

Picton, March 5 — An early morning fire yesterday forced Mrs. John Cronk and her son, Morley, from their home in night attire. Both were asleep in their home when they were aroused by Fred Martin, a neighbor, who saw the flames shooting out the windows of the lower part of the house. He forced a door and called to them. They were able to make their way down the smoke-filled stairs and through the blazing living room to safety.

"Had it not been for Mr. Martin we would have been trapped upstairs," said Mrs. Cronk. "It was only a few minutes later that the fire swept up the stairs."

The fire started in the kitchen and was confined to the lower section for some time, as all the contents were burned and the walls charred. The wooden ceiling prevented the flames from sweeping upward for some time, and it finally burned through the roof, leaving a large hole. All rooms, except one bedroom, were charred.

Exterior of the house also suffered with two-thirds of it being charred. Firemen were quickly on the scene and got the blaze under control, preventing it from spreading to houses near by.

Game Postponed.

Due to soft ice, following the mild weather over the weekend, the first of the finals in the Prince Edward County Hockey League, between Wellington and Picton Vets, had to be postponed last night.

Col. and Mrs. Riches of Toronto, spent the week in Picton with Adjutant McBride of the Salvation Army and assisted in weekend services. Col. Riches was at one time stationed in Picton and has now retired.

Sam J. Martin, former Warden of Prince Edward County, is seriously ill from a heart attack, at his home.

At the Ontario Good Roads Association convention in Toronto last week, Reeve Harold Cleave, former Warden of Prince Edward County, was elected a director of the association.

BRIDES ON WAY TO HOMES

Halifax, March 5 —(CP)— Forced to mark time since Sunday afternoon while their ship waited for berthing space, 648 war brides of Canadian service men disembarked yesterday from the liner Letitia. The women and 159 children were delayed in setting foot in their new homeland when a train wreck slowed arrival of German prisoners of war Monday.

Marmora

Marmora—Edmund Nicholson, who is attending St. Michael's College, Toronto, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Nicholson.

Miss K. Doyle of Peterborough is spending a holiday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forestell of Lindsay spent the weekend with relatives here.

Misses Eleanor Regan and Marjorie Brownlie who are attending Bishop Strachan School, Toronto, spent the weekend at their respective homes here.

A miscellaneous shower was held in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Bell (nee Jean Crossen) in the Town Hall on Friday evening and was largely attended. Dancing was enjoyed and the young couple were the recipients of many useful and attractive gifts.

White's District

White's District—Mr. and Mrs. George Clapp entertained a number of friends on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Albert Jones opened her home on Wednesday afternoon when members of the White's Woman's Association met to work on a quilt.

Mrs. H. M. Brown was a Tuesday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parker (nee Alice Fair) on the birth of a son, Ronald Frederick, in Campbellford.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yateman who were married in Ottawa on Saturday, March 2nd. They will make their home at Bayside.

Friends of Mr. Ross Yateman will be pleased to know that he has just returned home from service overseas.

Mohawk Reserve

Mohawk Reserve—Mrs. Wm. J. Brant, who spent the past few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. George Deline in Belleville, returned home Friday.

Misses Joan Claus and Sherry Maracle spent the weekend with Miss Celia Zachariah.

Pte. Robert Green, Kingston, was a recent visitor at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brant spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Abel Green.

Mrs. E. S. Maracle and Mrs. Clifford Maracle were hostesses of the Guild Thursday.

Relatives of Pte. Roy Maracle have been informed of his marriage in January last to Miss Margaret Punton, in Scotland.

Mrs. Ernest Maracle has returned from Belleville Hospital.

Billy Brant, who spent a few days recently in Oshawa with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hill, returned home Thursday.

I GAVE UP FOOLING WITH A BAD ACID STOMACH

"I found out to my sorrow that continuous dosing with ordinary sugar-coated pills, laxatives and so-called alkalizers, which gave me temporary relief, did my stomach more harm than good. A friend recommended PFUNDER'S TABLETS. I bought them on the 15-day money-back plan. Now I recommend them to my best friends."

Leading Pharmacists and many users praise PFUNDER'S TABLETS for stomach troubles caused by excess acid. You, too, can try them for 15 days without risking one penny.

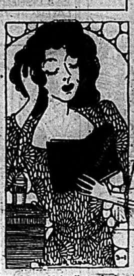
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Glorious Crowns Should be Polished



There should be five minutes of scalp massage every night in addition to the hairbrush work.

Don't worry about the color of your hair. All colors can be beautiful if they receive proper care, are arranged in a neat, chic and becoming manner. Of course, you can change the color, but before you take the step, find out what you are in for—a considerable outlay of time and money, and no letup, unless you want to go through a painful period of transition. Better experiment with rinses. They're all right. Whenever you yearn for pristine hue, you can stop using them.

Blonde, brown, black, golden, red, chestnut, white, pepper and salt—it doesn't matter. They all have possibilities of beauty. By exquisite grooming of scalp and tresses, lovely results can be obtained. Keep the growth healthy. Find a becoming hair-do. You're all set, as far as your topknot is concerned.

The root of each shaft rests in the papilla, in which are nerves and blood vessels. More than one realizes, hirsuite vitality depends upon the normal condition of these delicate mechanisms. Hence the need of absolute cleanliness of the scalp, sufficient friction to keep blood streams on the job. These streams bring food and drink to every little silky fuzzer that graces your head.

Don't overlook the fact that your diet has an effect upon your hair. Make it a practice to have a variety of foods, so that your system will receive the necessary vitamins and minerals. No beauty quester can afford to be a finicky eater. No cosmetics will compensate for the absence of fruits, vegetables and dairy products. Drink plenty of water. Get plenty of sleep. Loss of sleep is the world's best wrinkle-maker; it also has a deplorable effect upon the hair.

It isn't enough to trot to the beauty shop for a shampoo and wave set. To preserve the quality, tone and sheen of the delicate shafts, there should be frequent groomings. Brushing keeps the growth healthy. If the hair is falling, brushing is the answer. Dead shafts are removed, vitality is given to the little understudies that come to carry on.

Have two brushes, so there will always be a clean one handy. You can do better work with a narrow brush whose bristles are set in groups than you can with a wide one whose bristles are massed together.

Besides the hairbrush work, there should be five minutes of massage every night. Brushing will not injure your permanent if it is a good one. The brush performs better for end curling than the comb. After a few months of brushing and massaging, your hair will have more lustre, will develop a more agreeable nature, especially if it is in the habit of having tantrums when you arrange it.

Back again for a successful summer run is the bag of plastic patent. This practical material is used for a beautiful big bag shaped like a bishop's miter and gathered onto a wide frame of fluted lucite.

Mrs. E. Elmy, 14 Dunbar St., Belleville, writes: "Every woman likes to get her wash finished as early as possible on washday and I find Super Suds cuts my washing time in half and makes the clothes so clean and white, I never have to boil or scrub them. Super Suds is certainly a swell washday soap."

Thank you, Mrs. Elmy, for your grand letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power, which means sudsier, longer-lasting suds, for easier and quicker washdays. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

How would you like to have more money in the bank?

These twelve booklets will tell you how to save money and live better at the same time.

YOU'VE noticed how some people manage to save money and live very well while they're doing it. Then others—who don't live any better and don't make any less—can't save a cent. The difference lies in that little word "manage."

If you want to learn to manage your household expenses—you'll find the answer in these twelve booklets. They will tell you how to make a workable, simple plan for handling your money—how to make sensible economies in purchasing food, clothing, shelter, home furnishings and health—how to use credit constructively and how to budget your time. Look at the titles!

MONEY MANAGEMENT PRINCIPLES—Gives you the fundamentals to follow in handling family finances.
THE BUDGET CALENDAR—The work book for budget planning and simple records.
FOR NEWLYWEDS—How to start off on the right foot in planning family finances.
THE FOOD DOLLAR—How to economize on the food bill without neglecting essential nutrition.
THE CLOTHING DOLLAR—Tells how to plan and purchase the family wardrobe on a limited income.
THE RENTAL DOLLAR—Helpful pointers when you have to move.
THE HEALTH DOLLAR—Methods of guarding your health and your pocketbook at the same time.
HOME FURNISHINGS—Inexpensive ways to make a home attractive.
BETTER BUYMANSHIP PRINCIPLES—How to learn to be a wise buyer.
CREDIT FOR CONSUMERS—How to use credit intelligently and keep out of unnecessary debt.
TIME MANAGEMENT—How to manage time and save energy in housekeeping.
GEORGE CLARK'S CARTOONS ON MONEY MANAGEMENT—Money management treated with a light touch.

All for fifty cents! Household Finance, Canada's oldest and largest small loans company, has prepared these booklets as the result of long experience and research, covering the budgeting problems of thousands of families. We offer you the set of 12 booklets for only 50 cents.

Be a "Budgeteer." When you order the booklets at this nominal price, just check the square on the coupon and become a "Budgeteer." This will mean extra advantages for you at no cost. Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This High School Girl is in Love with a Married Man

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am so troubled. I have such a problem on my hands. I'm a high school girl, but I am really far more mature than the average high school girl.

I am in love with a married man. I fell in love with him three years ago. I haven't been seeing him steady since then, because I went away for awhile. He is not the kind of man a girl like me should love, and I know it. So therefore when I came back from my vacation I decided I would never see him again, and I thought I was nearly over him. But then a few nights ago I met him, and he again stirred up that love for him, and now I feel I can never live without him. At the mere mention of his name, my heart does a rumba. Shall I go on seeing this man again and again?

Puzzled and Worried

You don't really need any answer at all to this letter, do you? You already know perfectly well that you're a very foolish girl indeed if you keep on seeing this man.

You say yourself that you know he is not the kind of man with whom you ought to have anything to do. If you are as mature as you think you are, you'll make up your mind once and for all never to see him again, and stick to it.

Don't sit home mooning about him, either. Go out with boys your own age and have some normal good times. You were "nearly over him" once. You can get entirely over him for good, if you really want to.

Is This the Beginning of a Friendship or Just Another Pickup

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About three months ago I started going to this place of amusement with my girl friend. While there, this fellow tried to get acquainted with me, but I took it to be just another fellow looking for a pickup, so I didn't bother.

Since that night, every night after we have been there about ten minutes, he comes in, always managing to sit right in front of us. He is always alone, and every few minutes he turns around, looking at me and giving me such big smiles. Yet he makes no attempt to speak.

I have grown to really like this fellow, yet I'm afraid to speak first, as I don't want to be cheap, and I don't know if it would be proper. He seems to have all the qualities of a perfect gentleman. We are both in our early thirties. Please advise me what to do in this matter, or don't you think he cares?

Curious.

It is rather difficult to give you any useful advice without knowing just what sort of place of amusement it is that you're going to. If it's just the movies, and this man knows that you will be sitting in a certain spot on the same night each week, I think I'd be rather doubtful of the advisability of encouraging him. If it's some other perfectly legitimate recreational centre, such as a club, isn't there a hostess, or someone else, who could introduce you?

Of course, when people go regularly to such places as skating rinks and the like, they often become informally acquainted with others who are also regular visitors. But naturally, in any event, a girl should be especially sensible in her behavior when she meets a man under any unconventional circumstances.

Name and Address, Please, if You Want a Personal Reply

To "Ollie": You ask for advice in your problem, but you ask, also that your letter should not be printed, yet you do not give me any name and address to which I might write a personal letter.

If you would like me to write you, but do not want the letter to come to your home, perhaps the letter could be addressed to you in care of General Delivery at the post office in your town. But I'd have to have your name and the name of the place to which you'd like the letter sent, in any case.

She Doesn't Know Him But Wants to Invite Him to a Hay-ride

Dear Miss Fairfax,

I am a girl of sixteen, a junior in high school.

There is a very nice respectable boy that I would like to invite to a hayride, but don't know how to go about it, as I have never been introduced to him.

Would it be wrong for me to ask him? If not, how should I go about it?

F. M.

If this boy is one of your schoolmates, isn't there someone you both know who could introduce you? Or if he's just one of the boys in town, perhaps you have a mutual friend who could bring about a meeting. Do your mothers, by any chance, know each other?

If none of the conventional ways of making his acquaintance seem to be possible, I think it would be quite all right for you to write him a little note, telling him that a group of you are going on a hayride and would like him to join you. After all, there's much more leeway in such things these days than there used to be, and it's not considered out of the way for a girl to be the one to issue an invitation to a boy occasionally.

Wedding Guests Should Dress for the Hour of the Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1. My husband and I have been invited to a wedding reception dinner at a large hotel here. The wedding is to be a formal one. What would be the correct dress for such an occasion—must we dress formally, or will street-length dress for me and business suit for my husband be all right?

2. Does one send the wedding gift to the home of the bride-to-be?

C. S.

1. At what hour is the ceremony? The type of attire correctly chosen by wedding guests is determined by the hour of the ceremony, not by the hour of the reception, even though the reception is in the form of a wedding dinner. For example, if the ceremony is at five o'clock (followed, say, by the reception-dinner at six or six-thirty) you may correctly wear a street-length dress, your husband a business suit. A five o'clock wedding is a daytime wedding. But if the ceremony hour for this formal wedding is any time after six o'clock, you would, I believe, be expected to wear either a dinner or evening dress your husband, either tuxedo or formal evening dress.

2. Yes, as soon as possible after you receive the invitation you send your gift to the bride-to-be at her home.

Birth Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

To whom should birth announcements be sent when the second baby is born? My husband and I would like to send announcements of the birth of our second child, which will be in about two months, but we do not want people to feel that they are obliged to send gifts to the baby. On the other hand, we don't want some people to feel that they have been slighted by not receiving an announcement.

B. R. K.

Send the announcement of the birth of your second baby to all the relatives and friends whom you wish to have know of this "blessed event". Consider these as merely the "announcements" they are—they tell the news, don't ask for gifts. Receivers of the news do as they wish to acknowledge them. Most of them will probably write you notes of felicitation some may send gifts for the baby.

Wearing Long Gloves to a Dinner-Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

To a dinner-dance next month I am going to wear long black gloves that go just above the elbow. I am wondering when I should take them off—they are not to be worn while I'm eating, are they?—and when to put them on again. Will you tell me, please?

M. F.

No gloves, should never be worn when one is eating. So before you begin to eat, take off your gloves (entirely off, not with the hands turned in, which looks awkward); you don't need to wear them, of course, while you are dancing, and you'll undoubtedly be more comfortable not wearing them. Put them on when you are about to leave the dance

After-Marriage Monograms for Linen, Silver

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

My husband and I are about to start housekeeping, and I am planning to have my linens and silver monogrammed. For a three-letter monogram which initials should I use . . . my first name, maiden name, and married name?

W.M.

Yes: linens and silver monogrammed after marriage are marked with the initials of the wife's first name, her maiden surname, and her married surname.

Formal Tea Hours

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What are the customary hours for a formal tea or afternoon reception?

Alys

Usually from four to seven; sometimes from four to six.

The Marry Go Round

Women Set Their Own Styles

Have you style-sense? Have you an unerring intuition as to what the new lines and the next fashion surprises will be, long before they appear? Next to red hair and a retrousse nose, I have always most envied any woman this magic gift!

I once thought that new fashions were the machinations of the style experts, designed to betray women into throwing away whole closets full of beautiful clothes, and buying new ones, every season. Later I decided that they were just accidental, like a Spring cold or falling in love!

But now I know better. Women make their own styles! That is why I feel sure that the latest talked-of decollete atomic bomb, will turn out to be a dud. I refer to the prediction that the new evening gowns will be cut so low that the neckline will almost reach the waistline. That is just a false alarm! A dream or a nightmare!

Every new fashion is an outgrowth of mass psychology; and while a stylist may evolve a new idea, the women must take it up before it becomes a fashion. If a woman keeps her ear to the ground, she can predict what's coming as easily as a style expert. It isn't clairvoyance; it's just common sense.

General Montgomery and his men set a lot of new and snappy Scotch styles during the late war. No fashion is an accident There's always a reason back of it.

After World War One, short skirts, boyish bobs and straight-line boyish figures were born of feminism. When women threw off the domestic yoke, they began throwing off everything else—steel corsets, long trains, false hair, false modesty, and most of the conventions.

But, this war has been so very terribly serious that it has sobered most of us up and taught us to look at things more realistically. Wild ways, highly painted faces, cheap gin-and-petting parties, jazz—all those tawdry means of escape are an old story. Women have grown up in the last twenty years. Now they go in for long hair, delicate make-up polished manners and ultra-femininity.

But don't imagine that it's a mood or an accident. If the styles are more demure and more feminine this Spring, it's because the women themselves and have gone feminine. That's the whole psychology of style. The women set their own fashions!

The Beauty of Laughter

A smile from Alice Faye captivates anyone

By HELEN FOLLETT

"LAUGH IT OFF" is a good beauty slogan. The woman who always has a chip on her shoulder should paste it on her mirror. She is looking for slights and insults. If she is slighted, it is her own fault.

She is not good company. She is a depressing influence. Her face assumes a dill pickle expression that no beauty treatments or cosmetic will erase.

Tactful Woman

A tactful woman can nip a family argument in the bud. She behaves as if she considers the whole matter amusing. And so it is in many cases, as it is all about nothing, of no importance at all. There are people who love to fight, who seem to thrive on domestic battles. They're a terrible nuisance and a deadly bore but, like as not, one has to bear with them. Even so, they usually have their good points. They just love to talk.

Haven of Peace

The home should be a haven of peace, a place for work, laughter and fun. It seems pretty senseless to make it a battling ground. If you have a member of your family who is given to complaints and argument don't let that person get you down. If you have to live with him or her, make the best of it. Keep a tight rein on your tongue. To make you angry may be the intention.

You can't afford to be constantly disturbed, if you are to keep in a state of mental and physical health. You will lose the good looks the Lord gave you. You will grow old before your time.

Don't brood! If you are disturbed, get busy. Work! Work is good hygiene. No matter what soul pain a woman may have it eases up a bit when she is occupied.

A disorganized life does not make for animation or charm. The attractive woman has vitality, is on her toes. She realizes that few of us can have the life we want most to have.

In nearly every family there is a grouch, a loafer or a selfish individual who expects to have the white meat, be waited on. What can you do? Just let 'em rave. Go your way! Be tranquil!

Fashion Flashes

THE BIG THING this season is the flower-trimmed hat ablaze with color. Purple paillasson is used for a nearly molded bonnet, the front brim filled in with tiny multi-color flowers. In back is a big bow of uncut velvet ribbons in pink and lavender.

Big seller at the lingerie counters is the black luxury slip. Black satin makes a handsome slip with nylon fagotting marking a high waistline and making the seams. Wide bands of black lace at the top and at the hem plus medallions of lace on the skirt, mark this handsome piece of lingerie.

Coming up on the millinery horizon is the large-brimmed felt casual, but all dressed up for smart wear. Turquoise blue felt is used for a pretty, wide-brimmed casual, the high crown banded with a wide, lemon-colored ribbon caught by a buckle of tiny beige and pink seashells.

45 HOLDOUTS PLAGUE BIG LEAGUE BOSSES

This Number Does Not Include Those Who Jumped to Mexican Loop

By JOE REICHLER

New York, March 5 (AP)—Big league baseball bosses were besieged today by the biggest holdout brigade that ever clamored for more money.

With every major league training camp officially launched and the deadline reached for all hands to be present and accounted for, an Associated Press poll revealed today that at least 45 players were still outside the fold. And that does not include those who bolted to the Mexican Professional League.

With the exception of Boston Red Sox and Cincinnati Reds, every club is represented in the "we want more dough" club, with the Brooklyn Dodgers "boasting" 11 players in that select circle.

The most prominent of the unsigned group include the Dodgers' Dixie Walker and Pete Reiser, St. Louis Cardinals' Marty Marion and Whitey Kurowski, the Browns' Vern Stephens and Dick Siebert, Cleveland's Frank Hayes and New York Yankees' Ernie Bonham.

National League—Boston, outfielders Chuck Workman and Butch Nieman, infielder Ted Cieslak and pitchers Jim Trexler and Charlie Cozart; Brooklyn, pitchers Ralph Branca, Cy Buker, Ed Basinski and Leighton Kimball; Chicago, outfielder Harry Lowrey; New York, pitcher Adrian Zabala and outfielders Charlie Mead and Jess Pike; Philadelphia, pitcher Johnny Humphries and infielder Roy Hughes; Pittsburgh, pitcher Max Butcher, catcher Bill Salkeld and infielders Frank Gustine and Pete Coscarart.

American League — Chicago, infielder Gene Nance; Cleveland, infielder Mickey Rocco, pitcher Ambrose Palica and outfielder Stan Benjamin; Detroit, infielders Eddie Lake and Bobby Maier; New York, outfielder Tuck Stainback and infielder Joe Buzas; Philadelphia, outfielders Frank Demaree, Hal Peck and Gene Handley; and pitcher Phil Marchildon; Washington, outfielder Stan Spence.

Brooklyn President Branch Rickey admitted that while he was not particularly worried about the others, he was concerned over the refusal of Walker and Reiser to report until their salary squabbles were ironed out.

C.N.R. Majors Defeat Flyers In Bowling Tilt

The C.N.R. team of the Major "A" Bowling League here took the measure of a squad of sergeants from the Trenton Air Station over the weekend in a friendly tilt in the station alleys.

The city team won three straight games scoring 1073, 1230 and 988 for an aggregate of 3291 as against 2881 compiled by the Flyers. Kiser was top man with a single of 312 while Jackson nearly equalled his feat with a score of 300.

The C.N.R. scores were:

Gariepy	230	268	225	723
Moore	173	203	227	603
Kiser	172	312	153	637
Hardwick ...	198	178	201	577
Jackson	300	267	182	751
	1073	1230	988	3291

Montreal, March 5 (CP)—Now that Toronto Maple Leafs have all but disappeared from the National Hockey League playoff picture, Coach Happy Day feels more free to reveal some of those things the Stanley Cup strategists usually keep to themselves so as not to provide the enemy with information which may prove damaging later on.

Day believes Montreal Canadiens will have little trouble in taking the Stanley Cup. He expressed that view during Leafs last visit here, after the Montrealers had taken Toronto by a 6-2 score.

Day thinks poor goal-tending and inexperienced defence work accounts for Toronto's bad showing this year.

"If Turk Broda had started the season with us I'm willing to bet we would have reached the playoffs. McCool always was a goalkeeper of minor calibre and never could be compared with Bill Durnan, Harry Lumley or Broda."

Day made these selections for his all-star teams of the season:

First team: Bill Durnan (Montreal) goal; Butch Bouchard (Montreal) and Babe Pratt (Toronto) defence; Max Bentley (Chicago) centre; Bill Mosienko (Chicago) and Gaye Stewart (Toronto) wings.

Second team: Harry Lumley (Detroit) goal; Jack Crawford (Boston) and Jack Stewart (Detroit) defence; Elmer Lach (Montreal) centre; Maurice Richard Montreal) and Alex Kaleta (Chicago) wings.

Reluctant to name coaches for his team, Day said: "You come and see me later about that, will you."

Montreal, March 4 (CP) — With all the limelight being shed on Jackie Robinson and John Wright, first Negro players to crash the color gates of organized baseball in modern times, the boys will be operating under more than ordinary pressure.

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, parent club of the Montreal Royals, who signed the Negro players, appealed to the rest of the players to treat the newcomers as just a couple more ballhawks. It was a good gesture, but emphasizing the color distinction as though Wright and Robinson were a different type of species from white ballplayers doesn't help matters any.

The boys will get a fair chance all right, but the sooner everyone forgets their race and accepts them as just ordinary ballchasers without all the fanfare, the sooner the problem will be solved.

SHAG'S WORRIED:

Frank Shaughnessy, International Baseball League prexy, just refuses to get steamed up over the current threat by the outlaw Mexican Baseball League against the organized circuits. Shag, according to Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, figures that any players taking the jump at those juicy contracts offered south of the border may end up sadder and wiser. Unless they get their salaries in advance, he comments, they may find the payoff isn't as large as promised.

BATTLE OF THE BOTTLE: ....

Heaving of bottles at hockey games in the Montreal Forum, long a fiercely-treasured constitutional right of the bleacherites, is being severely frowned on now, amid considerable furore. Despite the fact that the fans may have legitimate excuses for hurling said bottles—to wit, spring is in the air and full crocks are more readily available at the liquor stores in these greener days of peace—the Forum security council has launched an all-out drive to nip this form of aggression against the referee minority and visiting teams.

The C.N.R. Major "A" trundlers had an enjoyable tilt at the Trenton Air Station over the weekend, meeting and defeating a sergeants squad in the well-kept station alleys. Kiser and Jackson compiled enviable scores with the latter being top man with an aggregate of 751. Highlight of the get-together was the fine hospitality accorded the winners following the game. Should be more like it.

ASIDE TO THE SKIING FRATERNITY

The Department of Health and National Welfare, Ottawa, gives out with a highly informative booklet "Better Health Through Ski-ing" a copy of which has just reached this desk. Written by Norval Riffon, chief instructor of the R.A.S. Ski Club and School, the tome is profusely illustrated with cuts of the various ski exercises while detailed stories disclose to the beginner and to the veteran as well, how to make the various turns and what have you. The tome should be of more than passing interest to those who love this form of winter sport, and copies may be had free by writing the department.

A MARATHON CLASSIC

Down in the archives of marathon history is the memorable race that highlighted the 1908 Olympics when a British runner was literally carried across the finish line by his compatriots and held the crown—for a short time at least.

• • •

It began, so the story goes, on the lawn at Windsor Castle in England, so that the royal grandchildren could get a first hand view of the frolic. The Prince of Wales, later King George V fired the gun that sent the 75 contestants under way. The favorite was Heffernon, South Africa, and he was true to his trust for the first fifteen miles. In the lead he fled past Stoke Poges, where Gray wrote his Elegy in a Country Churchyard.

• • •

Heffernon almost was in sight of the stadium when a little chap in white shirt and red knickerbockers jogged past him. It was Dorando, the Italian candymaker from the Isle of Capri. His full name was Dorando Pietri, but he has gone down in history and to a unique post among Olympic immortals by the simple baptismal name of Dorando.

• • •

The Britons, assembled in the stadium, were whetting their lips in anticipation at the thought that a British Empire runner was in front as they'd been informed all during the early stages of the race. Great was their amazement to see not Heffernon, but Dorando come chugging through the White City portals.

• • •

Greater was their amazement when the tiny Italian dazedly made a wrong turn on the track and fell flat on his face. The ever helpful Americans, preferring an Italian victor to one owing allegiance to the British Empire, loudly suggested that the gallant little fellow be given an assisting hand. The bewildered English officials had just started to do that when there came a warning shout from the United States delegation.

• • •

The chap who followed Dorando through the gates wasn't Heffernon but Johnny Hayes, a ribbon clerk at Bloomingdales. "Let that man alone!" they thundered. But by this time the shoe was on the other foot. The annoyed Britons, who hadn't seen eye to eye with the Americans on any phase of the meet, had decided that an Italian victor was much to be preferred to a wearer of the Stars and Stripes.

• • •

Willing arms hauled the exhausted Dorando to his feet and propped him up on rubber legs. It was no dice. Dorando fell flat on his kisser again. The eager officials righted him once more. Phainting Phil Scott, the Swooning Swan of the Soho, never went down more often than did the Italian. The final count was five falls in all and Dorando majestically "won" the Olympic marathon championship by being carried bodily across the line.

• • •

While these slightly illegal manoeuvres were under way, a slender, little fellow with a puckish grin on his face came trotting onto the track, oblivious of all that went on around him. It was Hayes, the youngest member of the American Olympic team. He had passed Heffernon just outside the stadium and entered it as Dorando's corpus delicti was being hauled over the finish line.

• • •

Out of sheer perverseness, or something, the British officials refused to disqualify the Italian. International amity, the true Olympic spirit and what-not were conspicuously missing from every part of this meet. And you couldn't even blame the Russians for messing up the international porridge. Every nation seemed to hate every other nation and no holds were barred.

• • •

The English—they may sound like arch-villains in this piece but they actually weren't—followed Olympic protocol by hoisting the flag of the nation of the marathon "winner" to the top of the flagpole. It was, annoyingly enough, the Italian flag, with the American banner underneath.

• • •

For some three or four hours the arguing and debating continued. The Americans sardonically refused to enter formal protest. They knew that Hayes, the first man to finish the race under his own power, had to be declared the official winner and they knew he'd get it once British stubbornness began to fade away. It was a long wait, but justice eventually triumphed. Johnny Hayes was finally declared the Olympic marathon champion of 1908.

HAMILTON TIGERS TAKE STAFFORDS TO WIN SERIES

Galt Red Wings Defeat St. Michael's to Stay in the Running

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers advanced to Allan Cup playdowns by defeating Toronto Staffords 4-2 last night in the fifth and deciding game of an O.H.A. semi-final series.

In Junior A matches, Galt Red Wings kept in the running for league honors by downing Toronto St. Mike's 6-3 in their best-of-seven series, and Oshawa Generals took the first game of their best-of-three series with Toronto Marlboros 10-1.

Right-winger Johnny Conick paced the Bengals' victory drive by scoring three goals. He whipped a backhand past Douglas (Red) Gilbert in the Toronto net shortly after five minutes of play in the opener, with the assistance of Dillon Brady and Clarence Shillington, and 10 minutes later, with Rhys Thomson serving a penalty, he repeated with Doug Runions' aid. Brady's last period effort rounded out the Hamilton scoring.

When Tigers were shorthanded at the start of the second period, Doug Gillespie scored for Staffords with Norm Mann's aid, and Thomson tallied from a face-off in front of the Tigers' net seven minutes later, the puck bouncing off Conick.

The ice was fair in the opening period, but the teams finished the game on a water-covered, soggy surface that made it almost impossible to control the puck.

Meet Northern Winners

Tigers go on to meet the winners of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior playoffs, possibly Timmins' McIntyre Mines who last night won their second straight game in a best-of-five final series with Sudbury Wolves.

Third game of the McIntyre-Sudbury series will be played at Schumacher Wednesday night and the fourth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Thursday.

Galt Red Wings gained their first victory in their series after three defeats by St. Mike's. Playing on home ice, Win Mousseau scored two goals for Galt, and Lee Fogolin, Bill Adamo, Jim Uniac and Marty Pavelick got the others. Tod Sloan got two for the Irish and Johnny Blue had a single.

Fifth game in the series will be played in Toronto Wednesday night.

The defeat was the third for the Irish in the 1945-46 season, the second at the hands of the Red Wings.

Ike Hildebrand scored five goals and earned three assists as Oshawa swamped Toronto Marlboros. Bill Curik scored twice for Generals and Thaler, Bauer and Marshall each tallied once. Fryday, assisted by Lovelace and Hessard, gave Marlboros their lone goal.

Chandler Goes To Mexico To Find Out Score

By GAYLE TALBOT

West Palm Beach, March 5. (AP)—All is confusing on the Latin-American baseball front, so far as Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler is concerned.

Before leaving for Cuba today, baseball's new head man confessed he did not know what—if anything—would be done about the big leaguers who are jumping to the "outlaw" Mexican League.

He said he might even make a trip to Mexico if it were necessary to do so to get a complete understanding of the situation.

"One thing I can tell you for sure," he said, "is that there is no rule of organized baseball which automatically suspends a man for competing against ineligible players".

Chandler said he expected to learn a great deal about the whole Latin-American baseball picture in the next few days, in the course of conferences at Havana with President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators and Merito Acosta, Cuban baseball leader.

JACK DEMPSEY'S NEW JOB WILL PAY $50,000

Promoters Liken Position to That of Fight Game Czar

By SID FEDER

New York, March 5 (AP)—Jack Dempsey came back to the fight game's big-time today with a job that boxing promoters he'll work with described as making him some sort of a Judge Landis of the boxing business—outside of New York. His salary is estimated between $50,000 to $100,000 yearly.

None of the promoters stood up in meeting to say that a stew was cooking against Promoter Mike Jacobs in connection with the old Manassa Mauler's new combined spot as President of Boxing Promoters of America, Incorporated, and a Director of Adams Hat Company in charge of Public Relations. But reading the script, you got somewhat of an idea about it.

Jack, himself, came closer than anyone to speaking a piece concerning the possibility of bucking Uncle Mike in the industry.

"Today, in New York," he contended yesterday, "if you don't fight for one man—you don't fight."

It is known, too, that Jack is interested in building an arena in mid-town Manhattan to stand up against Madison Square Garden, and that the members of Boxing Promoters of America, Incorporated, now organized in 11 cities, as well as Adams Hats, which has broadcast rights to all fights put on by Promoters, Incorporated probably would be behind him on it.

Jack wanted it understood, though, that he's neither a one-man boxing commission, nor does he think boxing commissions and associations aren't pretty good policemen, themselves.

His job will be chiefly to select, for broadcast purposes each Monday, the "fight of the week," among the shows scheduled by the members of Promoters, Incorporated. That's one of the big parts of his deal with the hat outfit, which will provide his fancy salary, for a reported six years.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

After baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler checked on reported betting activities among baseball players in Florida, Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Dick Wakefield of Detroit Tigers, both noted sluggers, declared they had been only kidding in their reported $1,000 wager on their respective performances during the 1946 season. Williams said he was only fooling because he wasn't betting with Wakefield or anybody else. Wakefield said they were "kidding bets."

At Tampa, Fla., yesterday Chandler said he could only repeat "gambling in baseball is not tolerated."

Concordian, odds-on favorite, was defeated by four lengths by Calumet Farms' Armed in the $50,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday. Concordian, carrying only 109 pounds to the winner's 128 pounds, had beaten Armed in the McLennan Memorial only two weeks previously.

With a five-point margin over Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., won the $10,000 Open at St. Petersburg, Fla., yesterday after carding a 68 to make his aggregate 269. Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville was third.

University of Buffalo wound up its home basketball season Saturday with a 67-47 victory over Ontario Agricultural College from Guelph. Early in the winter the Guelph Aggies had beaten Buffalo U. 61-57.

After a thrilling stretch drive at Santa Anita Park Saturday, jockey Johnny Longden brought the five-year-old Canina over the line to win the $50,000 Santa Margarita Handicap by a neck from Happy Issue. L. B. Mayer's Be Faithful was third.

Leslie MacMitchell, former New York U. star, copped the invitation mile in 4:16 at the National intercollegiate indoor track meet at New York Saturday to give him his sixth straight victory. Marcel Hansenne of France was second 10 yards back.

Leading all the way and finishing six lengths to the good, Bernard Seroy's Hillyer Court took the $25,000 New Orleans handicap at Fair Grounds Saturday in a gallop. Pique was second.

A former Army ski-trooper, Steve Knowlton of Aspen, Colo., defeated Barney McLean of Denver, an ex-serviceman and defending champion, in the national downhill ski competition at Franconia, N.H., Saturday. Harvey Clifford of Ottawa was third. In the women's section, Rhona Wurtele of Westmount was fifth behind Paula Kann of North Conway, N.H.

The Gordon Curling Medal for international team competition was recaptured by the United States Saturday 398 points to 273 in the finals at Utica, N.Y. The American rinks won 20 of 32 matches.

FOUR RINKS UNDEFEATED
By Mel Sufrin

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Saskatoon, March 5 (CP) — A small-town rink held the spotlight today as the Macdonald's Brier Bonspiel for the Canadian Curling championship entered its third round.

Alberta's four, skipped by Billy Rose of Sedgewick, a village of less than 500 population, sent a crowd of about 2,500 fans home shaking their heads last night after they had overcome a 10-3 lead held by British Columbia and gone on to win 13-11, remaining undefeated in the second round of play.

Last night's draw left four of the 10 rinks unbeaten as Manitoba, Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan also chalked up their second victories.

Gaye Stewart Leading Goal Getter of Loop

Montreal, March 5. (CP)—Gaye Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs, and Bill Mosienko, of Chicago Black Hawks, running neck-and-neck in the National Hockey League scoring race, closed the gap separating them from the leading scorer, Max Bentley, of Chicago, to eight points, in official league statistics issued today.

Stewart now has 32 goals and 13 assists for 45 points, while Mosienko has 17 goals and 28 assists. Max Bentley, who was injured two weeks ago, remains the top man with 30 goals and 23 assists. Stewart has taken over from Bentley as the leading goal-getter with his 32 goals, while Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens is leader of the assists column with 29.

Jack Stewart of Detroit Red Wings is the penalty leader, and in 41 games played has spent 69 minutes in the penalty box in minors and majors. His nearest competitor for this position is Bep Guidolin of Boston Bruins who has 62 minutes, including one misconduct penalty.

The Black Hawks and Canadiens lead in penalties in minutes by Clubs, with 299 minutes spent by players in the box. The Chicago total includes two misconducts, while Montreal's includes one misconduct.

Bill Durnan of Montreal, continues to hold a slight edge for the goal-keeping leadership. In 34 games he has passed 86 shots, giving him an average of 2.529. Harry Lumley of Detroit Red Wings, with 122 goals against in 44 games is second with an average of 2.773.

TEN LEADS

With the bidding you know, you may stir up a glow. But that's only half of the story. If you hope to succeed, you must know how to lead before you can claim all the glory.

The best card to lead is an honor. An honor is any card higher than a nine. It is a ten or jack or queen or king or ace. The lead of an honor is no haphazard venture. It has a precise meaning.

An honor is led from the top of a sequence or of the sequence part of a group containing honors. It shows the card below, denies the card above, and may have a higher non-touching honor.

Knowing this, consider what is shown by the lead of a ten. The ten is an honor. So, it is led from A 10 9 or K 10 9 or Q 10 9 or 10 9 8 or 10 9 7. That is its basic showing.

A suit containing no card higher than a ten is not desirable. There is usually a better suit to lead from in almost any hand. So, experienced players seldom lead from 10 9 8 or 10 9 7.

This started a custom that has ripened into a rule. It is: The ten lead is confined to combinations that contain the nine and at least one higher non-touching honor; A 10 9 or K 10 9 or Q 10 9.

Therefore, when a good player leads a ten he will have the nine. But you may assume he will also have with it either the queen or the king or the ace of that suit.

Suppose partner leads the heart ten when you have these hearts:

♥A Q 6 3

You know he has the nine and not the jack. If you do not see the jack in dummy, declarer must have it. With the ace and queen in your own hand, you may assume partner has the king.

Declarer will win this trick with the jack unless you go with a high card. Go with your ace. You may return that suit confidently.

A diffident lead can make partner bleed.

"They Were Expendable"

In line with the policy that great books make great films, M-G-M adds "They Were Expendable" to its impressive list of picture adaptations of best-sellers. Recent successes include "National Velvet," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," "Mrs. Parkington" and "The Human Comedy."

"They Were Expendable," co-starring Robert Montgomery and John Wayne, and opening tomorrow on the Belle Theatre screen, was adapted from William L. White's best-selling narrative of the part played by Torpedo Squadron No. 3 in the Philippine campaign.

The plot follows the heroic action of this gallant group throughout the many phases of the battle. These are the men who enabled high-ranking officers to escape on a perilous trip out of Bataan under the noses of Japanese destroyers; the courageous few, who had to be "expendable" in order to slow the Japanese offensive.

Only a few of the squadron survived but this powerful story of their courage and devotion to duty will live as a saga of grim bravery.

Together with Montgomery and Wayne, the cast of "They Were Expendable" features Donna Reed in the film's only featured feminine role, Jack Holt and Ward Bond. It was directed by Capt. John Ford.

CAPITALS JUMP INTO FIRST PLACE WESTERN DIVISION

Buffalo Bisons Also Win Both Weekend Games to Hold Position

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitals swept two games over the weekend to jump into first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League. Before a home crowd of 8,049 last night they swamped the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Flyers for a 7-4 victory with Pete Leswick and Cliff spearheading the attack with a brace of goals each.

Saturday Caps exploded a last-period rally of six goals to crush Cleveland Barons 8-5 before 11,346 Cleveland fans. Les Douglas and Mud Bruneteau flashed the light twice each for Caps.

In the Eastern Division Buffalo Bisons also won both of its weekend games to consolidate their already comfortable lead in first place. Saturday they eked-out a 5-4 verdict from St. Louis to mathematically clinch the championship of the Eastern Division. Individual star of the game was Morey Rimstad who notched three goals for Flyers. Last night before 10,371 fans— the largest home crowd of the season, they thumped Pittsburgh Hornets 4-2 as Veteran Doug Lewis provided the margin of victory for the Bisons.

Providence Reds staged a rough and tumble third period rally at Hershey Saturday to pound out a 4-2 victory over Bears in one of the roughest games of the season. It was the first Providence victory on Hershey ice in five years. Last night, led by Bill Juzda's pair of counters Reds turned back Cleveland Barons 6-4.

Paul Courteau scored two goals last night as New Haven Eagles defeated Hershey Bears 5-3 before 3,500 fans. Eagles had grabbed another victory Saturday night when Hermie Jones' two goals led them to a 4-2 win over Pittsburgh Hornets.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 5 — (AP)— Hollywood is the land of diets. Few screen actresses are lucky enough to have escaped the ravages of hunger during the run of a successful screen career.

Even the heroes, from Ronald Colman to Bing Crosby and Van Johnson, know what it is to pass up the succulent carbohydrates, and sweat on a tennis court or in a steam bath. From the days of Nita Naldi and her famous pineapple and lamb chop repasts, down to Garbo and her hauser diet, weight has been a problem.

It remains for Patricia Morrison, whose career has been delayed by lack of success in her bouts with diet, to hit on an unusual expedient. She doesn't recommend it for other people, however.

After several years of excessive dieting, with lowered physical resistance, Miss Morrison contracted pneumonia. In a few weeks, she lost 20 pounds. She recovered, but the weight hasn't returned. Five feet five, she's a neat 113. She hasn't tempted fate by going back to desserts, bread and gravies, however. She says the mental scars of those years of dieting have deprived her of any appetite for such things.

Singer Dick Haymes has conducted search for the most popular song. Ninety-nine per cent of the nominations are oldies, with "Stardust," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Always," and "I'm always Chasing Rainbows" leading the field.

PLAYOFF TRAIL FOR FOUR QUEBEC TEAMS OPENS

Montreal Royals Are Picked to Win Group and Also Allan Cup

Montreal, March 5 —(CP)— Four Quebec Senior Hockey League teams will set off tonight along the play-off trail that some observers believe will lead to the Canadian amateur championship and the Allan Cup.

The teams which made the grade are Montreal Royals, Ottawa Senators, Shawinigan Falls Cataracts and Quebec Aces. They finished in that order when the six-team league ended its schedule Sunday.

Royals, who went through the 40-game schedule with only eight defeats and finished 12 points ahead of Ottawa, travel to Quebec for the opening game, while Ottawa is at home to Shawinigan.

Montreal and Ottawa are favored to qualify for the final for they are star-studded teams, but they can expect stiff opposition from their less-favored opponents. Cataracts are a well-balanced team and if the injury jinx that plagued Quebec all season stays away during the play-offs Aces can't be counted out.

On the basis of the schedule, Royals should win the title in a romp for they finished 12 points ahead of Ottawa and 24 ahead of Shawinigan, but such hockey experts as Frank (King) Clancy pick the Senators. Ottawa got away to a slower start than Royals and never caught up, but they were the "hot" team of the league in the second half of the schedule.

Play-offs begin tonight too in the Quebec Provincial Hockey League, with Sherbrooke, Victoriaville, St. Hyacinthe and Lachine seeking the league's first championship since before the war. Sherbrooke finished in first place and will tackle fourth place Lachine, with Victoriaville and the Saints clashing in the other best-of-five series.

In Montreal's Junior League, the race for play-off positions is still wide open, and only six points separate the leading Canadiens and fifth and last place Nationale. Canadians have 21 points, Concordia 20, Verdun 19, Royals 17 and Nationale 15.

The schedule has not yet been completed.

Sincere Patriots Swept Away By Mob Hysteria

By HAL BOYLE

Bombay, March 5 — (AP) — It isn't an easy matter to fix responsibility for the casualties that occur in India's rioting.

Many of those killed or wounded during native demonstrations are sincere patriots swept away by mob hysteria. Others are calculating hooligans who take advantage of disorders — in fact help foment them — to feather their own nests by looting jewelry and clothing shops. They are urban guerillas who owe no loyalty to anyone but themselves and by any law they deserve to be treated as common bandits.

Indian politicians, whose inflamatory utterances often help lead to the rioting, are the first to deplore these outbreaks after they occur and simultaneously they almost invariably accuse the British authorities of unnecessary brutality in quelling the rioters.

Here is the British side of the story as given by one captain who has taken an active part in subduing two serious riots here within a month:

It's all well and good for people who don't have to do the dirty work to say that we go around firing needlessly—as if we got any pleasure out of shooting people down in the streets. What they don't bother to learn is that we don't fire haphazardly. We are forbidden by civil law from opening fire except with permission of a magistrate—and nine times out of 10 it's an Indian magistrate who gives the order for us to shoot.

"If it looks as if we are going to have trouble during native demonstrations we send out platoons of troops on patrol. Each platoon has with it an officer and a civil magistrate. If the demonstration is orderly the native police handle it themselves and we do nothing but patrol.

"Even if the demonstration breaks up in a riot we don't step in unless it begins to get entirely out of hand. Usually the Indian police with their lathi sticks can rush in and scatter the crowd, and all anybody gets out of it is a sore head or a few bruises. And those Indian police take their share of thumps, too.

"When the magistrate with us decides there is no other way to halt the rioting he gives us order to fire—and we fire only on his order. And who gets the blame afterwards? Not the Indian civil magistrate who gave the order. No—it's always blamed on the British troops who pulled the triggers."

VIC FLEMING, GRAND CIRCIUT DRIVER, RETIRES

Dundas - Born Fleming Has Driven Eight Horses in Two-Minute Class

Dundas, Ont., March 5. (CP)— Vic Fleming, Dundas boy who used to drive on Ontario Harness tracks and then moved on to make a name for himself on the Grand Circuit as one of the greatest harness horse drivers of his day, has decided to retire.

That is the information reaching his old home town from Pinehurst, N.C., where Vic is staying with his son, Bill, helping train harness horses. Of recent years he has lived in Syracuse, N.Y., and Goshen where he was a familiar figure at the classic Hambletonian in which he drove year after year.

Vic is no longer young but it isn't age that's caused him to doff his green and white silks. He got into a four-horse spill last September at Delaware, Ohio, and broke his jaw, strained his shoulder and upset his nervous system.

Back on Sept. 18, 1938, Fleming drove the four-year-old pacer, Billy Direct a mile in 1.55 at Lexington, Ky., for a world record that nobody has yet seriously challenged and he remains tied with the famous Dr. H. M. (Doc) Parshall of Urbana, Ohio, for driving the most trotters and pacers in the two-minute class.

Fleming's horses in this select class include Billy Direct, Dusty Hanover and Nate Hanover, 1.59; Calumet Evelyn 1.59 1-4; Gratan Bars and the Widower, 1.59 1-2; and Earl's Moody Guy and Peter Song, 2.00. With Calumet Evelyn he broke two minutes both on the trot and pace.

A harness driver for more than three decades Fleming came to love the sport and the homey atmosphere it engenders; particularly the fact that on the harness track the welfare of the trotters and pacers comes first. He once expressed amazement that anybody should still come out for a Hambletonian that had been called off because of a bit of rain which made the track heavy.

Beaugay May Be Third Filly To WinRacingCrown

By SID FEDER

New York, March 4 (AP)— There is an old racing chestnut that goes something like "a good three-year old filly can't be as good as a good three-year old colt," but every now and then, some young lady with something special shows up.

It happened two years ago, when plain Ben Jones brought out Twilight Tear and she whipped all the boys. And lightning struck right back last year when Busher breezed to the throne as "horse of the year."

Now there's the possibility that it can happen for the third year in a row, what with half a dozen of the ladies among the three-year olds classed as definite threats for the big pots ahead.

Beaugay heads the list. But in addition to the flying filly who rounds out the Maine Chance barnful of aces you have to put Louis B. Mayer's Honeymoon, a piece of Whirlaway, up there, along with Sonny Whitney's Enfilade. Also, there is Athene, an $8,500 yearling bargain who won $48,525 and showed she could cover a distance of ground in the mile-and-sixteenth Selima Stakes, and Husky Challadette, sister of Mighty Challedon of half a dozen years ago.

Down in Louisiana this winter, there's also Texas-born Earshot, pride and joy of oilman Bill Hells, who has romped home in four of her last five starts, the last one a mile-and-a-sixteenth affair against colts.

CARRIES WAR PRISONERS

Halifax, March 5 —(CP)— The liner Scythia sailed from Halifax yesterday, her passenger list including approximately 2,500 German prisoners of war brought from Western Canada and herded aboard the vessel under a heavy guard of Canadian Army Provost Corps personnel.

Gillette Launches "Look Sharp" Ads In 61 Newspapers

Always strongly supporting the power of continuous newspaper advertising, the Gillette Safety Razor Company of Canada, Limited, has now launched a new campaign for Gillette Blue Blades in 61 Enigish-language newspapers. Similar advertisements will soon appear in selected French-language papers. While Dominion newspapers have been carrying Gillette advertisements regularly the present campaign marks the company's greatest promotion in this field since pre-war days.

Keynote of the campaign is "Loop sharp! Feel sharp! Be sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!"

"This new, aggressive campaign heralds the Gillette Safety Razor Company's return to full peace-time production," J. I. Stampleman, president, said in Montreal. "Once more we can supply our vast civilian markets with virtually our entire production of blades, shaving cream, and razors."

Negro Recruits Start Training With Montreal

(By The Canadian Press)

Shortstop Jackie Robinson and pitcher John Wright, Negro recruits for the Montreal Royals in the International League, turned up yesterday at the Sanford, Fla., training camp and started right in with the squad for the practice grind. Robinson spent some time answering reporters and posing for photographers and had little time for a real workout. Both are ex-servicemen, Robinson having been an army lieutenant until discharged a year ago and Wright serving in the navy until recently.

Robinson showed he was in fairly good shape, having returned in January from a 24-game tour in Venezuela with a Negro team.

Nat Hines, 24, Negro light-heavyweight of Philadelphia, died there yesterday after being knocked out by Billy Eck in a bout Friday night. Dixon Walker, 20-year-old freshman, died Sunday at Washington after a knockout Saturday night in a college bout.

Granted the use of the Boston University clubhouse, the Boston Athletic Association yesterday decided to go ahead with its 50th Boston marathon on Saturday, April 20, instead of the usual April 19 date which is Good Friday.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday indefinitely suspended Arturo Godoy of Chile and Lee Savold, Paterson, N.J., heavyweight, after their Friday night's bout at Chicago had been declared "no contest" by referee Johnny Behr.

With basketball fans storming Madison Square Garden yesterday, 10,000 tickets were sold within four hours for an invitation tournament scheduled for March 14-20. Prior to the ticket sale, police had to close off 50th Street because of the jam.

Open to women players from the United States and Great Britain, the Wrightman Cup matches will be resumed this year, being scheduled for Wimbledon June 14-15, it was announced yesterday at London.

Leading scorer in the American Hockey League is Les Douglas of Indianapolis Capitals, according to statistics released last night. His total of 79 points is four more than the figure for Pete Leswick of the same team.

The Supertest Pacing Stake for three-year-olds will be staged at Tillsonburg, Ont., July 10, it was announced at London yesterday. The trophy race for two-year-olds has been awarded to Ridgetown in August and the two-year-old trot goes to Glencoe.

Alex Higgins, former trainer, was in police court at Bombay, India, yesterday to face a charge of doping race horses and was granted bail by the Magistrate. Some months ago the accused, an Australian, had been warned off the Bombay course.

The Ogdensburg, N.Y., club in the Borden Baseball League yesterday was reported sold to Clinton W. Hodges of Victoria, B.C., designated as a former semi-pro baseball operator. Canadian teams in the six-club circuit are Granby and Sherbrooke, Que.

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 17

Lora was holding Patsy in her arms, in the small slipper rocker, the only rocker in the room, and singing to the baby very softly in a voice that was a little rusty from disuse. "The only song I could remember was Rock-a-bye Baby in the Tree Top."

Gina said, "Look here, you're fixing to spoil my child."

"Nonsense! People rock babies now. You know they do. It was silly the way they used to leave them alone in a dark room to go to sleep by themselves and not even pick them up except to feed them. We're going to bring our baby up differently!"

"You bet. She's going to be loved a lot, and between you and Barbara and myself, she'll probably turn into a very spoiled little brat. But just now, she's going to get a bath and into some real clothes."

Patsy opened her eyes drowsily, saw Gina and smiled. "She always smiles at you like that," Lora said just a shade enviously. Then she added, "She doesn't need a bath. I gave her one in the lavatory. She just fit in it, and boy, did she like it?"

Gina smiled and lifted the baby in her arms. "Come on, sweet, let's get into your little nightgown."

Barbara didn't dawdle over breakfast any more. Sometimes she was over at the cottage almost before Gina was fully dressed. She was early this morning and Patsy was still asleep. "I'm glad she has some civilized things to wear at last," Barbara commented, her eyes on the small pile of little dresses, skips, dimunitive shirts and other things. "Forgot to tell you I'm making her a party dress. I just happened to have some real Valenciennes."

As Gina went to work, she was thinking happily: Patsy had lost her real mother, but she now had three substitutes, which wasn't so bad. But she didn't know just how long Barbara could manage during the day, staying awake and playing with Patsy when she was awake, and snatching her sleep whenever Patsy was ready for another nap. Barbara worked hard when on duty and should have unbroken sleep.

It seemed an endless day. Maybe because so much of Gina's thoughts were on the child; not that it impaired her efficiency for one moment.

Timothy had a number of operations. Phil also had several. Gina had hoped to have a minute to spend with Doctor Edson, but hadn't.

About a quarter to six Timothy came in the little office, sank down into a chair. "I still say there's something very odd about that kid in 48. I'd say he's been mesmerized, hypnotized, if you believe in such things."

"I believe in hypnotism, don't you?"

Timothy didn't answer. He was sitting there with his fingers over his face, as he often did. It was a way he had of relaxing. After a few minutes, he stood up. "How about going over to Harry's with me? Could you leave Patsy for, say half an hour?"

Gina said, "Patsy's in good hands, and Lora will stay with her when Barbara comes on duty."

Timothy smiled. "She doesn't lack for attention, does she?"

When they were seated over at Harry's and had given their orders, Timothy said, "What sort of husband do you suppose I'll make?"

Gina didn't look at him for a minute. She busied herself with re-arranging her knife and fork and spoon in a straighter line; then she looked up and managed a smile, "Oh, I daresay you'll be fair to middling. Thoughtful at times and forgetful at others."

"It's going to be rather hard to live up to Cynthia's opinion of me," Timothy wasn't looking at her now, "but I'm going to do my best."

There just wasn't anything she could say. It was all she could do to remain perfectly still, and keep that set, stiff little smile on her lips.

Then somehow, the stiffness was gone. She was able to smile almost naturally, was becoming relaxed, conscious only now of a dull steady ache in her heart.

"The trouble is," Timothy went on at last, "Cynthia's father is just a little obduarte about my taking quarters in the Medical Arts, with a very finely equipped laboratory..all that sort of thing. To tell you the truth, Gina, I've been very happy out here at Havenhill."

"And you've done a lot of splendid work."

Timothy smiled. "That goes for you too, Gina," he said softly.

The thought of Timothy's leaving Havenhill had brought a feeling of cold desolation. It wouldn't ever be the same place with Timothy gone.

"And so," Timothy resumed "last night I promised to give his idea my serious consideration. I warned him, though, that nothing could induce me to leave until the serum had been finished. And of course," he went on with a brief smile, "the army will have first say at my services, which would automatically cancel out the Medical Arts business until after the war."

"Here's hoping," Gina said fervently. She was taking it now on the chin. She'd got her second wind. But the little pain was still there. It was like a wound.

"So the marriage will take place six weeks from tomorrow. Cynthia thinks it will be spring then. She wants all the fuss and feathers I guess every girl does. But I I'd much prefer just going to the minister's study. Most men do, you know."

"Yes most ment do. They always have to play such a an insignificant part," she said mischievously.

"It isn't that at all," Timothy contradicted. "Men just don't like display. Women do, especially beautiful women, and who can blame them?"

They finished their food and said good night a few minutes later. When Gina went back to the cottage, Lora and Patsy were both asleep.

Several days went by. Gina found a chance for a visit with Doctor Edson at last. He looked more feeble than she'd ever seen him. He said, when she came in, "Timothy has just left. He told me the news."

Gina sat down. "He..told me, also."

"I wish you could have stopped it, Gina," the old doctor observed, studying her face with his keen eyes under his shaggy brows.

"I couldn't have. I didn't have a chance in the world."

"I've never been quite convinced of that," the doctor frowned. Then he shot a direct question at her. "Are you going to marry Phil Chester?"

Gina shook her head. "No, he.. doesn't really like me. He wants to do the same thing Timothy's doing."

"Wha-at?" The doctor was still frowning. Suddenly he shook his head. "No, Gina, there's a vast difference. Timothy is infatuated, but Chester is looking at it from a cold, calculating point of view. But even at that," he went on unwillingly, "Timothy's a bit of a fool."

"Oh, no. No he isn't," Gina's voice came impulsively.

"Listen, Gina, Timothy isn't the sort of man who can turn himself into a tame cat. There'll be friction from the very beginning. In fact, I think there is already, with old man Snowden insisting on having his way. And it will increase day by day until Timothy's efficiency will be completely gone."

"I believe I'll have to go now," Gina said a little shakily. She couldn't bear any more. Everything Doctor Edson said was so true. Timothy was wonderful. He was—but there were no words that would really describe Timothy.

"Run along then dear child. Come back when you can."

The day was almost over. Gina wanted Patsy in her arms as she'd never wanted her before. The warmth and comfort of that tender little body, the touch of her fingers against Gina's cheek. Patsy loved her.

Sometimes Gina made plans for the future. She'd work hard and save all her money, every possible cent. And some day she and Patsy might have a tiny little home of their own with a garden and a cat and a dog. That was about as far as Gina's imagination could carry her. It was a lovely picture and one that, by the wildest miracle, might even come true.

When Gina started over to the cottage after finishing supper in the basement, someone brought her a telegram to take to Lora.

Lora was giving Patsy her bath in the enameled tub Gina had managed to find at last. Patsy was patting her hand happily in the water. Gina said, "Let me take over from here. There's some news for you, Lora."

Lora stood up, holding out her wet apron from her uniform. "Some news?"

"A telegram," Gina said very matter-of-factly, as she bent down and wet the sponge Lora had handed her. "Suppose you read it, darling," Gina teased.

The telegram was from Pete, and it contained astounding news. Everything was all right. He wanted to be married at once—the earliest possible moment.

Lora was still holding the telegram and trembling a little. "Did you understand, Gina? He says it's all right. Everything's all right. He wants to get married at once."

"That's wonderful, darling." Gina was lifting Patsy's little wet squirming body from the tub and was drying her very gently.

Lora hadn't moved from the position in which Gina had given her the wire. "The earliest possible moment," she repeated. "How soon would that be, do you think, Gina?"

"Just as soon as he can get a pass, I imagine, and as soon as you can get your clothes ready. Probably just a few days," Gina added.

"A few days! It. it's frightening, isn't it?" Lora's voice was a little quavery.

Gina came back matter-of-factly, "Not when you're marrying the man you love."

"The telegram says a letter follows."

"Then when it gets here you can really begin making plans."

This was something Lora was already doing, as was only natural. "One or two street frocks, a few underthings, shoes, a hat. Not a screwy one. Pete likes 'em sensible."

"I believe most men do."

Patsy was ready for bed then. When Gina put her down and drew up the fluffy blankets, she gave a cry of protest. "She wants to be rocked," Lora offered.

Gina made no move to go to her. Lora started but Gina motioned her not to go.

Patsy started yelling in earnest, a pure case of temper, her little face red with anger. "Look, she's kicked off the cover."

Gina went over and put the blankets over her again. She looked down at the screwed-up, furious little face. "No one will like you, darling, if you have a temper like that. Aren't you ashamed?"

Patsy screamed louder in protest. Lora looked as if she were about to collapse, and finally as Patsy's screams increased in tempo and fury, Gina gave in. "All right, darling, you win. After all, there are three of us. If you're spoiled, we'll just have to take it."

Patsy's screams subsided into little snuffles. When Gina sat down with her and put her head against her shoulder, she began talking and cooing.

"Fine mothers we are.. all of us," Gina scolded, smiling at Lora.

Another few minutes and Patsy was in her little bed, sleeping serenely, one little plump arm flung outside the cover. Gina went over and placed it underneath, bent over and kissed the sweet little face. Then she was busy doing the small tasks that awaited her in the evenings, much augmented now by Patsy's needs.

Lora had her letter the next day. Pete would have a weekend pass. He explained that he might go overseas any day now, and his mother had at last realized what it would mean to him to marry the girl he loved before he left. They would have a two weeks honeymoon later. Pete didn't know just when. In the meantime, Lora made her plans to remain in the hospital, as long as it wasn't possible for her to be with Pete. They'd be married Saturday night, she'd report on Monday.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was up in her room taking things out of one draw and putting them in another, and I said, Hay ma, do people always know when they're not feeling well, or do they just imagine it sometimes?

Some people are always and forever imagining there's something wrong with them, the poor soles, although I suppose the docters have to be kept bizzy by some hooker crook, so after all it's an ill wind that leads nowhere, ma said. And now I'm trying to concentrate, so dont bother me, she said, and I said, Well anyways, ma, would it mean anything if your forehead was berning hot and your hands were freezing cold?

Such a question, of course it would mean something, naturelly, ma said. They would be 2 of the werst simptoms a person could possibly have at the same time, and I hope it will be many a day before you experience such a sensation, she said, and I said, Well it hasn't been many a day since I did experience it, because it's only been one day, and that's not many.

What on earth are you talking about for land sakes? ma said. Do you mean to say you actually felt anything remotely like that? Why, that's terrible, why didn't you tell me? she said, and I said, You didn't ask me. Anyways it didn't last long, I said.

Had you been eating anything? ma said, and I said, Sure, everything, but it wasn't anything I ate.

How do you know it wasn't? ma said, and I said, Because it was something I did. I held an ice cube in each hand and stuck my forehead against the radiator, and pretty soon that was the general effect, I said.

I've got a good mind to give you a good hot and cold smack, ma said, and I said, G, ma, why?

I'll give it to you and tell you why afterwards if you're not out of this room and out of site in 5 seconds, ma said.

Which I was.

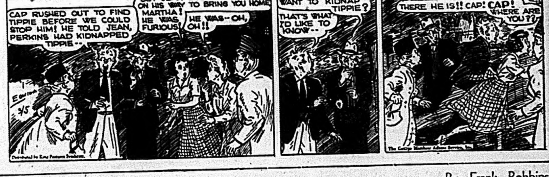
TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —



CAP RUSHED OUT TO FIND TIPPIE BEFORE WE COULD STOP HIM! HE TOLD JEAN, PERKINS HAD KIDNAPPED TIPPIE--
BUT JEAN SAID PERKINS WAS ON HIS WAY TO BRING YOU HOME MARTHA! HE WAS FURIOUS!
HE WAS--OH, OH!!
3/5
WHY WOULD PERKINS WANT TO KIDNAP TIPPIE?
THAT'S WHAT I'D LIKE TO KNOW--
TIPPIE! OH, TIPPIE!
THERE HE IS!! CAP! CAP! WHERE ARE YOU??

Meyer Transferred To Headley Barracks

London, March 5 (CP Cable)—Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, German S. S. Commander convicted of war crimes against Canadian prisoners of war during the battle of Normandy, has been transferred from Reading gaol to the Canadian army detention barracks at Headley, Hampshire, England.

Meyer was sentenced to death last December by a Canadian army tribunal sitting at Aurich, Germany. His sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment and he was flown to Reading gaol, then a Canadian military prison. The German officer was removed from Reading gaol recently when Canadian forces evacuated the historic prison.

Wearing overalls with a large ring on the back, Meyer occasionally is permitted to take exercise in the detention compound.

It is understood no decision has yet been made as to whether Meyer will be taken to Canada to serve his sentence.

Marmora Wins Second Game Of Final Series

Establishing a long lead in the first two periods which would not be denied, Marmora pucksters evened matters at one game each in the Trent Valley hockey finals when at Madoc on Monday evening they downed the homesters by a 6-3 count.

Playing before the biggest crowd of the year numbering some 900 rabid hockey fans, the two teams battled on soft ice with the homesters staging a determined but futile effort in the final period to tie up the score. The third game of the best in five series will be played in Madoc.

Lavender with four goals to his credit was outstanding for Marmora, while Leonard and Trumble counted with one goal each. Fischer for Madoc scored the prettiest goal of the evening in the final period when he outskated the entire Marmora team to sink the rubber behind Callery in the opposition nets. Kellar and Alexander were the other two marksmen for the homesters, while Carswell in the Madoc net stopped the proverbial million in holding the visitors' sharpshooters at bay.

Lineups:

Madoc—Goal, Carswell, defence, Hackey and Baker; centre, Reynolds; wings, Beamish and Thompson; subs, Kellar, Alexander, Fischer, Kincaid and Lewis.

Marmora—Goal, Callery; defence, L. Leonard and E. Lovelace; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Johnston and J. Lovelace; subs, Lavender, Cousins, Trumble, Nayler and McInroy.

Referees: Don Lee and "Red" Townsend, both of Belleville.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Prices were down moderately on the stock exchange at noon, and volume tapered off to 980,000 shares for the first three hours.

The paper stocks were inclined to improve. Sherritt featured the base metals. It advanced to 2.30 and was holding around 2.25 at early afternoon, up 15 cents overnight.

Moderate weakness was shown in the gold group by MacDonald, Macassa, Aunor, East Malartic, Conwest and Joliet.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, March 5 (AP)—Leading steels, motors, liquors, rails and utilities today extended the slow-motion stock market recovery which got under way at the tail-end of the preceding session.

Dealings were sluggist from the opening on but gains of fractions to three points—there were a few wider swings by "thin" stocks—predominated near the fourth hour. Scattered losers persisted.

Canadian issues were irregular on the exchange. At noon on the big board Distillers Seagram showed a gain of 1 1-2 at 89. International Nickel was up 1-8 at 37 7-8. Dome Mines dropped 1-8 at 26 3-8 and Canadian Pacific was unchanged at 19 3-4.

work which lay in Canada, Mr. Morgan said "At this stage, with more inquiries going on into this matter, I propose to offer only evidence of arrests."

Reader in Physics

Dr. May appeared after the court had gone through a routine of 17 cases of begging and prostitution. Of studious appearance, he looked older than 34 as he sat in the dock. He had been a reader in the physics and science department of King's College since last September.

A reader is junior to a professor in British universities and Dr. May's position is not important. He lectured in general physics subjects similar to those taught undergraduates at Canadian universities.

Rooms Registry Office Will Be Located in "Y"

Waging what might be called a struggle against heavy odds, yet doing a highly creditable and useful form of war work, The Belleville Rooms Registry, operated at its headquarters on Campbell Street for the past four years by the Y.W.C.A. War Auxiliary, has closed its doors, it was announced today.

However, the City Council, at a recent meeting unanimously decided to accept the responsibility of the work formerly done by the Registry for a period of six months, dating from January 28, 1946. The city will assume the salary of Mrs. John A. Kerr, who has been associated with the registry first as a volunteer then as a paid worker since its inception in November, 1941. Headquarters for that period of time will be in the Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Kerr is now operating as a part time worker, and her office hours are from 2 to 6 p.m. Applicants for rooms or apartments can get in touch with her at 2738 or better yet register personally in her offices at the Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Kerr today paid tribute to the generosity of Secretary Joe E. Shortt of the Y and his officials who have offered free office space and other facilities for the duration of the extended term of operation of the registry.

Many Applications on File

"The rooms and housing situation in Belleville is far worse than the general public realizes," Mrs. Kerr said today. Accumulated applications are piling up and new ones are coming in daily. At the present time 100 applications for rooms or space of any kind are in the hands of the secretary with no alleviation of the problem in sight. The need is urgent and any one having rooms is requested to get in touch with the registry secretary.

The greater number of applications are family set-ups with children involved. Unless something of a community nature is forthcoming, it was stated, there is no telling what developments might occur.

The registry during its four years of existence as an entity within the Y.W.C.A. Auxiliary Services, has done a splendid work, finding lodgings for service men and women by the hundreds over that period of time. Besides that it has provided rest rooms and lounging quarters for women of the services and their friends with all facilities afforded by other war services.

arbitration. The union has held out for an 19½-cent-an-hour boost, which was recommended by a fact-finding board.

Phone Wage Issue Wide Open.

Although government conciliators made attempts to avert the scheduled strike of telephone workers, a declaration by President Truman left the wage issue wide open for 250,000 C.I.O. steelworkers who still were on strike in 700 steel fabricating plants. In a conference with steel fabricators, Mr. Truman said that his recommendation of an 18½-cent-hourly wage increase applied only to basic steel plants, not to fabricating plants.

The Federal Conciliation Service called today's meeting in Washington in an attempt to settle the wage disputes between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and 17 N.F.T.W. local unions. The Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers was the only union involved in the session. Negotiations between the A. T. and T. and the Long Lines Union have been deadlocked over union demands for a wage hike of 18½ cents an hour and the company's offer of 15 cents.

In Philadelphia, C.I.O. Electrical Workers, denied a permit to parade in connection with the strike at the General Electric plant, planned federal court approval "to use public streets."

There were a few minor work stoppages and a few new strikes with labor disputes throughout the United States keeping idle approximately 800,000.

Toronto, March 5 — (CP) — Prices were generally steady in cattle trade up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. Weighty steers were $11.35-13.50, butcher steers $10.25-12.50, heifers $10-12, butcher cows mostly $8-10, canners downward to 5.50, bulls $9.50-10.25, fed yearlings $12-13.50.

Calves were steady at $16-$17 for choice with plain light vealers downward to $10.

Sheep were steady $4-9.

Hogs were still unsettled with $18 bid and $18.50 asked for grade A, dressed.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

With the band at its best assembly opened to the strains of a rousing march.

Beginning the Devotional exercises Mr. Hancock read from the 12th chapter of Luke — that chapter which shows so vividly the truth of the maximum "And this too shall pass away" especially when pertaining to life and its inequalities.

After the hymn Mr. Hill gave the stamp report and the total is now $1617.75.

Mr. Hancock very definitely cleared matters up about the reduction for stude[illegible] on the fifty-cent tickets. You [illegible]ust take yourself, complete with student's card and thirty-five cents directly to Mr. Hancock, second floor, room 210, (and boys! just don't forget to take Beulah — she won't mind if you ask her for her card, she'd sooner give you that than work on dad for a little extra allowance.)

"Co-operation" was presented in a humorous way by Mr. Townsend but behind his joke was true feeling and optimism. His words must have had a certain amount of influence because there was a good crowd out in both gymns to watch the senior teams make two wins over Trenton. That trip to Toronto looks like a sure thing.

The Home and School Club was represented by its able president, Mr. J. Wood. He explained just how important parents are, or should be, in connection with the schools. That is the main function of the club — to bring parents and teachers to a closer understanding. The movement has been well supported by all those actively connected with the school but not by the homes. Next Monday evening Mrs. O. Palmer from Toronto will be in the library to speak on a subject which should be heard by every parent interested in the welfare of his children. The talk will be on vocational guidance and the results of education. Mr. Wood predicted that competition will be getting even more keen and the need for learning will be greater.

Speaking for the Elevator, Mary Lo Wishart asked that there might be more response to the request for pictures of boys killed or decorated and ordinary snaps.

Grant McCaw asked for a little more co-operation, too on the part of the older boys who are too busy to get out for O.T.C.

Last week was one of special note for Belleville. Four of her boys won honor for themselves in Toronto at the Kiwanis Music Festival. Bob Stebbings came first in his own age group and in the open competition section playing the euphonium.

Don Charlton and Jack Fenn received honorable mention and Stan Hagerman made first class honors on the piano.

Best of luck in the future, boys.

After a snappy band selection a colorful movie showing some of the pictures and life of Tom Thompson was presented. As an artist and as a man Thompson felt the extreme beauty of the Canadian North and loved it. His tragic death may have been to him the perfect way to leave this world. In one of his many attempts to reach life's greatest beauty he was drowned.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The inter-form basketball games continued this week in the Girls' Gym. On Thursday, February 28, XID and XC proved to be the victorious teams. In the game against XIF, XID won with a score of 13-1. For XID, the score was achieved by Jean Palmer gaining 9 points and June Matthews gaining 4 points. Norma Dafoe scored the basket for XIF. XE proved the victims when opposed to XC's team on Thursday. Scoring for the XC team were Betty McGowan with 4 points and Barbara Young with 2, Beverley Asseltine scored one basket for XE—making the score 6-1 for XC.

It was discovered on Friday that the long-awaited month of March had come in like a spring lamb — but the frisky basketball players in the Gym that day were certainly more symbolic of Spring than the gentle young lamb. In the first game XIIA succumbed to the team of XIIB. Although not an exhibition game, this one really was a strenuous game. XIIA's forwards tried their best to gain a victory over their friends (?), but the superior guarding of XIIB proved too much for them. (Okay, Bashers, you can let me go, now.) The fact that XIIB had 3 players which are on our school's champion teams, also helped. Scoring for the latter team were Molly Camp 8, Dot Dobbs 4, and Lois McLean 2 points. For XIIA, Dot Bishop scored 2 points, Louise Pattrick ('Paddy' to us) 2 and Eleanor Allen 1.

After the second game played on Friday, XA walked off with a score of 3-0 over XE. Stars of XA's team were Marie Marinoff with 2 points and Mary Bongard with 1 point.

BOYS' SPORTS

B.C.I.'s hockey seniors covered themselves with glory this week by winning both of their games. First, last Friday they defeated St. Mike's 7-2, and then on Thursday they defeated Albert College 7-0. The goal-getters for the latter game were Holway 3, Lyall, Upper, Lockyer and Keyes one each.

In the interform schedule, four more games were played this week.

On Monday XIC defeated XIB 21-16. For XIC Strahan 9, Lockyer and Massey 4, Galbraith and Locke 2, carried the honors, while Buchanan 9, Cameron 3, and Pappas and Watson 2, held up the load for XIB.

On Tuesday 9G squeezed through with a 3-2 victory over 9H. 9G's points came from Semark 2, and Vandervoort 1. 9H's lone basket came from Jackson.

Thursday's game went to 10C over 10G. Summets sparked the winners with 7 points. The other scorers were Clare 3 and Ethier 2, and for 10G Green 4 and Bush 2.

The closest game of the schedule was on Friday when 12A and B played to a 16 point tie. A rematch will be played later. Watkins led 12A with 6 points, helped by Button 4, McBurney 3, Miller 2, and Speege 1. For 12B, Vaughan and Stebbings split 12 points evenly and Legate and Campbell took two each.

On Wednesday our senior basketball team won an expected but not so pleasing victory over Trenton seniors. Our boys were decidedly not up to their usual form and they will have to pull out of it before going to Toronto. The final score was 41-22. "Chesty" Cameron led B.C.I. with 10 points, followed by Lyall 8, Garrow 6, Rollins 5, Vaughan 3, Ashley, Watson, Wonnacott and Spafford 2 each. George Miller accounted for the remaining point.

COMING EVENTS

Hockey is over for the 1945-46 season with BCIVS. Basketball has just about arrived at the same point, what with the final game of the season played in Picton on March 5. So that leaves only two or possibly three things to talk about. One of these is that rising young thing, the Elevator. Just when the book will be ready for distribution is still a military secret but we can say this — unless some hitch occurs the book should be ready for the printers some time before the end of this month.

Item number two on the menu of extra curricular activities is the Pirates of Penzance. This outstanding musical extravaganza will be unveiled for the people of Belleville March 13, 14 and 15. If you haven't got your ticket yet pay a visit to the Quinte Book Shop and Miss Nichols will gladly oblige you by providing the tickets and marking the date, row and seat on them. If you have got tickets remember to take them to Miss Nichols anyway and have her mark on the date, row and seat. Opening night is less than two weeks away and already good seats are at a premium. So whether you have tickets without any date and whatnot you had better pay a quick visit to the Quinte Book Shop. As the man said to his friend upon seeing a banana skin lying on the sidewalk: — "Step on it, Brother! Step on it."

Although inter-school basketball is through for this year, at least locally, inter-form ball is still good for another two weeks—one week of regular play and another of playoffs. Tuesday 9D vs 9C, Thursday the winners of the 11C-11G game play the winner of the 12A-12B game. Next Monday the winner of last Tuesday's game between 9D and 9G play 10C. This Tuesday 13B plays the winner of the 11-12 game.

Following this . . . but we have balled you up enough for one week so we'll hold over the rest of the timetable till the next time this column appears in print.

RED CROSS

The regular Red Cross meeting was held at Miss Dwyer's and Miss Smith's apartment on Monday, Feb. 18 after four. The president was in charge.

The first matter of business was the babies' clothing to be sent to Holland. Miss Dwyer had received a goodly amount and we decided to pack this on Wednesday after four. Miss Dwyer told us that the Home and School Association wanted six or eight girls to assist them at their tea on Thursday. About eight girls volunteered their services.

A possibility of our giving a donation to the new Red Cross Hospital at Bancroft was discussed.

We have three new members for our society. Welcome girls, we really are glad to have you.

Our next meeting will be held on March 4 in Miss Dwyer's room. Everyone is supposed to bring a needle and some thread to sew on a quilt we are going to complete.

Miss Dwyer served a very delicious lunch and the meeting was adjourned.

On Wednesday, Feb. 20, after four some of the girls helped pack one box of clothing for Holland. A week later we packed another box.

Miss Dwyer reports the Home and School Association wished to thank those girls who assisted them at their tea. From all reports they did a splendid job.

Cuff Notes

At last, O nauseated and sleepy students, I have become immune to your nasty remarks at, and grudging acceptance of the appearance of this column each week. Long have I labored in vain to drag one little crumb of acclaim from your claws, one speck of gratitude from the Ivy mob. Long did I slave here in the dusty, drafty boiler room to print things of world-shaking interest, mediocre news and also, sometimes, trash. Each time the news was published I would grope my way up the rusty iron stairs that lead from the subcellars of our brick mausoleum, hoping against hope that someone, just ONE person, would admit having my works. But no, my reward was always the same: a sneer and the ice-capped shoulder.

However, such ill will can touch me no more. Not that I have died. Please don't get that impression. No, I am merely aloof from rabble and their harsh criticism. No more will Sliv's caustic remarks or Loole's cutting jibes ruffle my good humor. Windy may spout all he cares to about my lack of cerebellum and I will simply chuckle inwardly, for I have a secret. .someone has read my column! Laugh that one off, O garbage-mongers. (Editor's note; a complete set of these ravings may be had for the box-top from package of dehydrated turnips and 2,000 pesos. The book, You Too Could Be An Opium Addict, is not recommended for children who can't read.)

Many are the odd happenings which have taken place in old Ivy's past but here is a doozer. we now have a ghost. At least that is the kinder of two opinions. The other is that the person(s) who is running around bending locker doors out of shape is a mono-maniac. Our ghost has a yen for things that do not belong to him, and in his efforts to get at them, destroys anything of no use such as lockers and doors. There seems to be no accounting for some mental attitudes.

La Guardia Says "Power Crowd" Against Project

Washington, March 5 (AP) — Former Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York City Monday asserted that the "whole opposition" to the St. Lawrence seaway and power project comes from the "power crowd".

"The power interests," Mr. La Guardia told a Senate Foreign Relations Sub-Committee, "have opposed everything and anything everywhere when they fear it will interfere with the absolute monopoly they have enjoyed."

Mr. La Guardia testified as the sub-committee began a final week of hearings on the proposed development by the United States and Canada. Legislation to authorize the project is before the committee.

Mr. La Guardia said he approved the project today as he did 20 years ago as a member of Congress and when he was Mayor of New York.

"If the power phase of the development were to be separated from the navigation phase," he declared, "I think all the opposition to it would simply disappear."

DEPARTURE DELAYED

Paris, March 5 —(CP)— Former Premier Leon Blum's departure to the United States to discuss an American loan to France has been postponed indefinitely. The Socialist leader is ill from grippe, but political reasons played their part in delaying his trip, a responsible informant said yesterday.

BARGAINING AGENTS NAMED

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Ontario Labor Relations Board yesterday announced certification of the International Moulders and Foundry Workers Union as bargaining agent for employees at the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company of Canada, Ltd., at Belleville.

Three Speakers Pay Tribute To Howard Ferguson

Toronto, March 5 (CP) — The session of Ontario's 22nd legislature moved into its second day today, with R. E. Elliott (PC—Hamilton East) scheduled to move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne read at yesterday's opening by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews.

John A. Fullerton (PC—Algoma-Manitoulin) is to second the address in reply to the Throne speech, which forecast legislation affecting practically every government department, including establishment of a minimum wage for men and amendment to the Ontario Liquor Authority Control (1944) to "improve licensing and controlling of licensed premises."

The 5,000-word speech, read before well-filled galleries attending the first full session of the legislature since March, 1945, was followed by first reading of 15 government bills, preparation for appointment of standing committees and a tribute by three speakers to Rt. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, one-time Conservative Premier of Ontario and Canadian High Commissioner to London who died last month. Then the House adjourned.

Full peacetime ceremony was not observed at the opening, but a military note was injected by presence of a travelling escort which used jeeps and motorcycles to replace the customary cavalry. The Lieutenant-Governor was accompanied by a guard of honor from the Kent regiment and 15 rounds, 10 seconds apart, were fired by a saluting battery of four guns.

Will Amend Many Acts

Bills to continue subsidies on cheese, hogs and sugar beets were among those read, along with acts to amend the Companies Act, Municipal Act, The Insurance Act, an Act respecting Marine Insurance, The Collection Agencies' Act, The Money Lenders' Act, The Collection Agencies' Act, Surrogate Courts' Act, The Mental Incompetency Act, and Territorial Divisions Act and The Parole Act.

In a tribute to Mr. Ferguson, Premier Drew described the former Ontario Premier as "one of those genial souls who was able to engage in vigorous debate" and at the same time retain friendships. Farquhar Oliver, Liberal House Leader, and W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader, also paid tribute to Mr. Ferguson.

Women Rates Increased

The Throne Speech in addition to forecasting a minimum wage for men, said new regulations will be framed to increase rates of pay for women workers and that The Minimum Wage Act generally will be broadened. A minimum wage for women already is in effect.

Other highlights included licensing of all persons engaged in marketing farm produce or operating a fruit market; establishment of a wholesale fruit and produce terminal in the Toronto area; increase in loans negotiable under the Co-operative Marketing Loan Act and improvements in policing services, particularly in rural areas.

It was announced a planning bill will be introduced permitting expropriation for housing purposes, that fixed per-diem grants will be extended for public ward beds to all public general hospitals and that a new government department will be created to supervise tourist activities.

Termed "Great Human Being."

In his tribute to Mr. Ferguson, Premier Drew termed the former premier as a "great human being" who was as likely to be called "Fergy" by an opposing politician as by a taxi driver in London.

"Taxi drivers knew him as well as politicians did and the same nickname was likely to apply," said the Premier.

Mr. Ferguson's life span covered all but the first few years of Canada's term as a nation and there were few men who more clearly expressed "what it means to be a Canadian citizen." As Canadian High Commissioner in London Mr. Ferguson had left an imprint that would have a "marked effect" on relations between Canada and Britain for many years.

Mr. Oliver paid tribute to Mr. Ferguson as a "rugged party man" who always maintained "an element of fairness and justice" in his political dealings.

Mr. Grummett praised Mr. Ferguson as a political leader who had served his country well.

Subsidies paid producers of cheese, hogs and sugar beets will be extended to March 31, 1947, under two of the bills given first reading.

Amend Acts in Force.

Most of the bills deal with amendments to acts already in force. Under an amendment to the Surrogate Courts Act, the office of surrogate clerk would be abolished and the duties transferred to Ontario Supreme Court registrars. An amendment to the Insurance Act would permit a different type of insurance to be written for vehicles used chiefly "off the highway" — for instance, army vehicles purchased by civilians.

Another amendment proposes to change the Mental Incompetency Act to permit a person who has recovered from a mental illness to regain control of his property in less than a year. The act as now constituted provides that such property can not be restored for a year whatever the time of recovery.

Provisions of the Coroners' Act would be made effective in Haliburton County under another amendment. A Parole Act amendment proposes technical revisions with no substantial change in principle.

J. E. (Ned) Belliveau of the Toronto Daily Star was elected president of the legislature press gallery for 1946-47, succeeding Gerry Reding of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Jack Pethick of the London Free Press was elected vice-president and Reg Pitt of the Toronto Telegram will be secretary-treasurer.

GIVEN TWO YEARS EACH

Alton, Hampshire, England, March 5 —(CP Cable)— Sentences of two years at hard labor were promulgated yesterday by a field general court martial on Tpr. Gerald Albert Sym, 20, of Winnipeg, and Pte. Ronald Joseph Jean, 20, of Port Arthur, after their conviction on desertion charges. They were arrested by United States immigration officials at New York last Nov. 4. The accused testified they boarded an American ship at a British port after drinking and when they awoke from a long sleep the ship was at sea.

U. S. Army Rules Don't Forbid Female Guests

Frankfurt, Germany, March 5. (AP) Maj.-Gen. Miller G. White, commenting on reports that German girls were allowed to "live" with United States officers in their bachelor quarters here, said tonight "there is no army regulation to stop a man from entertaining a girl over night in his private quarters."

General White, Deputy Chief of Staff in Europe, declared, however, that the army probably would investigate the reports immediately and tighten up on regulations.

He added that he did not intend to raid the billets, where officers and civilians live within the United States forces headquarters compound, but that if individual cases were reported the army probably would take "strict disciplinary action" for conduct unbecoming a gentleman.

General White said he did not believe that "by and large our military or civilian personnel are immoral or indecent," and said he resented the implications that every officer was immoral if he brought a girl whether German or British, into the compound.

He said it was virtually impossible to stop officers and civilians from having guests "and there is no more way of preventing that type of fraternizing than flying to the moon."

Meanwhile, a high officer who did not want to be quoted by name, said there probably were dozens of women spending one or more nights within the closely-guarded enclosure.

Other officers emphasized that the regulations regarding the admittance of women to the compound were "not based on moral grounds but on security." They said officers or civilians bringing German guests into the enclosure were personally responsible for the observance of security.

Headquarters command sources admitted that there was nothing to prevent German girls, working in the compound as maids or waitresses, from staying there "forever" if they found some one to provide them food and quarters.

Officers and civilians living in the compound, a barbed-wire enclosed area of several square miles, are permitted to take guests inside anytime except between 10.30 p.m., and 8.30 a.m., on weekends girls are permitted to stay in the compound over Sunday, but must leave early Monday morning. An officer must sign his guest in and out.

Sergeant Dennis Moore of Cleveland said: "The strangest thing I ever saw was the registration of a male German by an UNRRA dame."

Lieut. G. I. Stoickert of Queens Village, N.Y., said "the youngest (German) girl registered was 14."

Colonel L. Curtis Tiernan, chaplain for the European theatre, adding to a statement he made Sunday in which he decried "looseness and immorality throughout the E.T.O.," said he had received many letters of complain from officers and men, but that no formal request for action had been taken by the chaplains' corps.

PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGES

Hanover, Germany, March 5—(AP)— Maj. T. C. Irvine, 50, Deputy Provost Marshal in the British Army of the Rhine, pleaded guilty yesterday before a military court to eight charges of improper military conduct in associating with the former wife of a German army officer. Sentence will be promulgated. The prosecution charged that Irvine used his official position in Hamburg and Berlin to do favors for Frau Rosemary von Zimmerman.

$20,000 DAMAGE SUIT ENTERED

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Damages totalling $20,000 are sought in two statements of claim filed yesterday at Osgoode Hall in a libel and slander suit against Premier Drew by John Alvin Rowe, key witness in the Royal Commission investigation of C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe's "Gestapo" charges in last spring's Ontario election campaign. The former provincial police constable charged his reputation had been "gravely injured" as a result of statements made concerning him by Premier Drew.

WAS RUNDOWN, NERVES ON EDGE; HAD DIZZY SPELLS

"Several Times Had to be Taken Home from Work," Tells How Syntona Built Him Up. Improved Appetite, Ended Gas and Acidity. Now Working Every Day. Feels Fine.

If you feel tired, wornout and nervous; if bowels are constipated and you suffer from indigestion, gas, headaches and rheumatic pain; if you have backache, night rising and dizzy spells, try a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound and the chances are that you, like thousands of others, may find this medicine to be just what you need to put you on the road to better health again.

A good example of what Syntona can do is found in the recently reported experience of Mr. Stanley Soules, 32 Caroline Street north, Hamilton, Ontario.

"Ever since last Fall I was feeling in a nervous, rundown condition," said Mr. Soules. "My nerves were all on edge and I couldn't sleep. I had a poor appetite, but what little food I did eat gave me gas and sour acid risings. I was subject to very bad dizzy spells. Several times I had to be taken home from my work. Frequent headaches and constipation added to my troubles and many days I didn't feel like doing anything at all.

"I tried to get help and took about everything I heard of, but nothing seemed to do me any good, so when I read about Syntona I decided to get some and this medicine has certainly done wonders for me. It deserves all the credit I can possibly give it. I not only have a good appetite now, but I can eat heartily and have no bother with gas, sourness or indigestion. My bowels are acting better than they have for a long time. I haven't had any headaches or dizzy spells and my nerves are calmed down, so that I enjoy restful sleep. As a result I have gained strength and my entitre system feels built up and improved."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

STRIKES THREATEN COMMUNICATIONS AND RAILWAYS

Hopes However Are Felt for Settlement or for Delay

New York, March 6 —(AP)— Two vital United States industries — railroads and communications — were threatened with strikes today, but there were hopes of settlement or delay of both scheduled walkouts.

As the deadline for the country-wide stoppage of 250,000 telephone workers — 6 a.m. Thursday — drew near, federal conciliators reported "some progress" as they sought to effect a settlement of a wage dispute between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Long Lines telephone workers.

A walkout of about 300,000 locomotive engineers and trainmen was reported set to start next Monday on most major railroads but there were indications that "Railway Labor Act procedure would delay the strike for at least 30 days.

No News if Strike Date Set.

Although officials of the two big railroad brotherhoods in several cities disclosed receipt of calls for the walkout of engineers and trainmen, presidents of the unions at headquarters in Cleveland did not confirm or deny that a strike date had been set. In Chicago, a railroad spokesman said no railroad had been notified officially of the reported walkout.

As officials of the A. T. and T. and union leaders planned to resume wage negotiations in Washington, Joseph A. Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, parent affiliate of the Long Lines Telephone Workers and 16 other unions scheduled to strike, did not appear optimistic over a settlement being effected.

A N.F.T.W. spokesman said the strike would cause a virtually complete blackout of telephone service throughout the country.

Meanwhile, the 106-day General Motors strike appeared no nearer settlement as the C.I.O. United Auto Workers leaders planned to resume negotiations with corporation officials in Detroit. The union charged the strike was "a lockout" after General Motors repeated its rejection of a union proposal for arbitration of unsettled issues, including wages.

Poll "Out of Picture" for Present

Federal mediator James F. Dewey, who planned a telephone conference with Labor Department officials in Washington, said a poll of the 175,000 strikers, suggested by both union and company in separate proposals, was "out of the picture for the minute."

In Washington, bituminous coal operators agreed to meet with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers committee March 12 to discuss a new contract covering wages, working conditions and the issue of recognizing supervisory employees. The U.M.W. has filed 30-day strike notices threatening a walkout of 400,000 miners April 1 unless wage demands are met.

Throughout the country the idle because of labor disputes was approximately 800,000.

HUNGARY BURGLAR FINDS IT

Dallas, March 6 (AP)—L. T. Busby thought he had a burglar-proof method of locking his bedroom. He removed the door knob and hid it in the refrigerator. A hungary burglar raided the ice box, found the knob, entered the bedroom and took Busby's radio and clothing.

Iranian Premier Prolongs Stay In Russian Capital

Understanding of Some Sort Might be in the Offing

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 6. (AP)—Iran Premier Ahmed Qavam prolonged his stay in Moscow today for further conversations with Soviet officials concerning the troublesome situation in Iran.

The Premier originally was scheduled to depart for Tehran yesterday but changed his mind suddenly and an informed source said an understanding of some sort might be in the offing.

Ahmed Qavam said in an interview that he had discussed with the Russians the question of the presence of Red Army troops in Iran—troops which had been scheduled under a British-American-Russian treaty to depart by March 2.

"One of my main aims was taking up the question of the evacuation according to the terms of the treaty", Ahmed Qavam told newspapermen. "I have done this."

There was no indication of the outcome of this discussion, but a well-informed source expressed belief that the Russians and Iranians had not reached any agreement to date. The Premier said he expected to remain in the Russian capital at least until tomorrow.

Says No Answer to British Request

Informed foreign quarters in Moscow said the British Embassy had received no answer from the Russian government to a request for an explanation as to why all Russian troopes were not evacuated from Iran on the specified date.

(In London yesterday official Iranian sources said Iran had made a formal protest against the Soviet decision to keep troops in Northern Iran, including troubled Azerbaijan province, and said the Security Council of the United Nations might be called on to take up the matter again.)

Ahmed Qavam said he had not been "negotiating" the question of the continued presence of Russian troops in Iran, and an Iranian sources said the question of Iranian oil was not being negotiated either.

"This question cannot be negotiated while foreign troops are still on Iranian soil," this source said.

An Iranian source said Ahmed Qavam might request permission of his government to visit London and Washington following the conclusion of the Moscow conversations and his subsequent report to Tehran.

Find Bodies of 5 U. S. Missionaries Beheaded By Jap Police in '44

Manila, March 6 —(AP)— Bodies of five American missionaries, beheaded by Japanese military police Aug. 25, 1944, were discovered today in Manila's north cemetery. A Manila dentist identified the bodies as those of Mrs. Mary Boyd Stagg, pastor of a Manila church; Helen Wilk, church business manager, and Dr. Hawthorne Derby, director of a hospital; a Sister Sybil, and Mrs. Blanche Jurika.

Details of Concrete Floating Docks To be Used by Britain Revealed

By RONALD BEDFORD

London, March 6 (Reuters) — Details of a hitherto secret weapon—concrete floating docks as big as the Queen Mary— which were to be used by Britain had the war against Japan continued, and additional information about the ring of sea forts encircling Britain which enabled the munition and food convoys to reach the islands from the United States and Canada, were revealed today by G. A. Maunsell, consulting engineer for design and construction of the admiralty.

Mr. Maunsell told the story to the members of the Royal Society of Arts. The floating docks, or arks, were specially built to repair within air-striking distance of the Japanese coast any units of the British fleet damaged in action. They were capable of dealing with the largest vessels which formed the British naval task force.

"The beam of the arks was the same as that of the Queen Mary", Mr. Maunsell told his audience.

They were fitted as floating hotels to accommodate at least 600 dockyard specialists and were put in hand in the summer of 1945.

"Had the war continued they would have been ready for service by Christmas," he said.

Mr. Maunsell is the man who invented and perfected the heavily-armed sea forts which drove off German bombers which tried to raid convoys as they steamed up Britain's river estuaries.

"These sea forts were planted far out in the open sea at various points around our coasts," he said. "Each fort was a complete pre-fabricated hotel accommodating 100 citizens complete with its own kitchens, power stations, drainage system and furniture. Built of reinforced concrete, the pre-fabrication took two months, towing out took two days and the crucial operation of planting the forts on the seabed took exactly one minute. One of the forts actually went into action a few hours after being grounded.

"Living quarters for the crew, the magazines and a great deal of complicated machinery were housed inside the cylindrical towers.

Each tower consisted of seven storeys so that man and material were accommodated under water. But in spite of the rough treatment they received there was no leakage. Many aircraft and flying bombs were shot down by the men who manned these forts."

"During storms, the forts standing in a depth of about 70 feet of water at high tide were exposed to waves which were found during the height of the storms to run 30 feet from the crest to trough."

Need of New Meeting Of Chiefs of State Felt in Some U.S. Circles

By ALEX. H. SINGLETON

Washington, March 6 (AP) — A disturbing new element beset suspicion-riddled Big Three relations today—Winston Churchill's plea for quick creation of an Anglo-American military alliance.

Two schools of diplomatic thought here reacted to the impact of the Churchill address. One held that it would bring hidden distrust out into the open and force a showdown; the other that it would bolster belief that security must entail spheres of influence.

There appeared little sentiment to discount the weight of Mr. Churchill's words on United States public opinion, coming as they did only five days after State Secretary Byrnes told the world the United States must stand ready to fight, if necessary, to protect the principles of the United Nations charter.

On top of Mr. Byrnes' words have piled these developments in recent weeks to strengthen arguments in some United States diplomatic quarters that another face to face meeting among the chiefs of state has become essential to renew wartime bonds of co-operation:

1. British and United States protests sent to Moscow against the failure of Russia to withdraw Red Army forces from Iran by the March 2 treaty deadline.

2. A second United States note of protest based on a Chinese report to this government that the Soviet Union has claimed Japanese industries in Manchuria as "war booty" and has proposed joint operation of much of the territory's basic industry. The United States has taken the stand that no such reparations settlement in Manchuria could be undertaken by Russia alone or by only Russia and China.

3. Canada's disclosure — and Russia's acknowledgment — that Soviet agents in Canada attempted to obtain military secrets thru' espionage.

4. Published reports from Dairen that Russian troops were deporting Japanese forces to Siberia for use in labor battalions.

5. A Soviet announcement that the Kuriles, strategic chain of islands across the entrance to the Sea of Okhotsk, and southern Sakhalin, have been incorporated into Russia on the strength of a Yalta agreement but without ratification by the United Nations.

6. Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson's statement yesterday that the soybean crop in Manchuria—essential to the people's diet—had been "liberated." Asked specifically as to whether Russia was responsible, Anderson replied "not primarily." He added that it might have been one of the Chinese factions.

SECOND INTERIM REPORT IN SPY PROBE EXPECTED

May Request That Additional Persons be Interrogated Under Original Order

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Pess Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 6 (CP) — Another interim Royal Commission report, possibly in a week or so, appeared today to be the next likely development in Canada's Soviet spy ring inquiry, in which four persons stand accused to disclosing secret and confidential information to Russian embassy members here.

The next report may disclose additional detentions which have been expected since commission counsel reported to Justice Minister St. Laurent more than a week ago that it was apparent it may be necessary to "request that additional persons may be interrogated under similar orders."

Sources close to the police inquiry into the ring's activities say the detention orders still are awaited.

The latest official word on the behind-the-scenes developments is Monday's first interim report, which identified four persons as participants in the ring and told of a "network of under-cover agents" developed by Lt.-Col. Nicolai Zabotin, military attache at the Russian embassy.

The four, all now under remand until next week, were charged under the Official Secrets Act with conspiracy to provide and with providing secret and confidential information to Russian representatives.

They are Capt. Gordon Lunan, intermediary for the Canadian spy group and a member of the Canadian Information Service; Edw. Mazerall, 29, radar engineer with the National Research Council; Mrs. Emma Woikin, 25, a cipher clerk in the External Affairs Department, and Kathleen Willsher, deputy registrar in the British High Commissioner's Office here.

The interim report said the ring sought information dealing with the atomic power, radar, explosives and secret documents from the National Research Council. They also were instructed from Moscow to obtain details of United States troop movements and the make-up of Canada's post-war army.

LAWYERS SURPRISED

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—Four lawyers in Renters Court yesterday became speechless, momentarily, when their own names were read off as defendants in an eviction suit. The four occupy a suite in a building from which the building corporation seeks to evict them. None had been served with a summons. The case was set for March 11.

TICKETS EVEN COPS

Chicago, March 6 — (AP)—Policeman Dave Mill whose assignment includes keeping autos from parking in front of Central Police Station, says he hasn't received one valid excuse from any of the 12 policemen he gave tickets for traffic violations. One policeman yesterday explained "Some other driver pushed my car into the no parking area." Mill's reply was: "Tell it to the judge."

VAST PROBLEMS WILL FACE INDIA UNDER FREEDOM

Sweeping Changes Seen Necessary in Life of People of India

By HAL BOYLE

Bombay, March 6 — (AP)—India, standing on the threshhold of political independence, shows little evidence of realizing what weighty internal problems will come with freedom.

Her politicians now are openly divided on only one question — the religious issue of whether India shall remain united or divided into two states, Pakistan for Moslems and Hindustan for the Hindu majority.

Regardless, however, of whether India splits or remains intact, there must ensue the grasp for power on the part of conflicting elements among the population of this "jewel of the empire" when British rulers drop the reins.

This vast, sprawling sub-continent then will become a political battlefield of opposing economic and social philosophies.

India is a great land with few "haves" and many "have-nots." It shares with China the unhappy distinction of being one of the most illiterate major countries on the globe. Its wealth is concentrated in a small upper class, and huge masses of people live in lifelong financial bondage. They are born into debt and die in debt.

Young Indian intellectuals don't bother themselves much about what will happen when their people are "free." At present they blame all of India's ill on Britain.

If Indian cows give less than one fifth as much milk as European cows, who is to blame? The British.

If crops fail and famine follows, whose fault is it? The British.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, alone among India's popular leaders, has counselled need of lifting India from its present agricultural feudalism to industrial democracy. But few of his followers appear yet to realize what sweeping changes must be made in Indian life to achieve even the rudiments of real democracy.

India already is the world's 8th industrial power. The factory system is slowly helping break down the age-old caste system, but it has helped less to break down economic barriers or provide an avenue out of poverty for toiling millions. Ignorant factory workers and educated Indian school teachers alike earn less than native servants in larger cities, who get less than $20 a month.

The machine has failed to become the major liberating force in India as it has been in western lands. And most observers agree that working conditions and pay are better in European-run factories here than in those operated by rich Indians.

Those who best love India — and many foreigners here hold her in equal affection with their own countries — know that the shackles of empire are only one of many bonds that must be broken — through bloodshed or long compromise — before she can be truly free. They are the shackles of caste, prejudice, religious antagonism, bigotry, ignorance, superstition, exploitation and cruel

CHURCHILL PINS HOPES ON ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY

Former British Premier Warns Against Russian Expansion, Avoids Term Military Alliance

By TOM YARBROUGH

Fulton, Mo., March 6—(AP)— Winston Churchill, with a stern warning against "indefinite expansion" of Russian "power and doctrines," is pinning his hopes for the next century of mankind on a "fraternal association" of the United States and Britain.

In one of the major addresses of his career, and his most pertinent utterance on world peace since he stepped down as Britain's prime minister last June, Mr. Churchill voiced his warning and his hopes here yesterday.

He expressed faith in a British-American "fraternal association" — "eventually there may come the principle of common citizenship" — recalled the dark days of June, 1940, when he offered to share British citizenship with the stricken people of France.

He and President Truman received Honorary Degrees of Doctor of Laws from Westminster College here after travelling from Washington by special train.

Avoiding the term "military alliance," Mr. Churchill said, "fraternal association requires not only the growing friendship and mutual understanding between our two vast but kindred systems of society but the continuance of the intimate relationship between our military advisers, leading to common study of potential dangers, similarity of weapons and manuals of instruction, and interchange of officers and cadets at colleges."

More for Joint Care

Referring to islands already used by both Britain and the United States, Mr. Churchill suggested "more may well be entrusted to our joint care in the near future."

Mr. Churchill did not mention Russia by name until he was two-thirds through his speech. When he came to that point, he said:

"A shadow has fallen upon the scenes so lately lighted by the Allied victory. Nobody knows what Soviet Russia and its Communist international organization intends to do in the immediate future, or what are the limits, if any, to their expansive and proselytizing tendencies."

He mentioned his "strong admiration and regard" for the "valiant Russian people and for wartime Comrade Marshal Stalin," then asserted:

"It is my duty, however, to place before you certain facts about the present position in Europe." There, he said, an "iron curtain" has descended from the Baltic to the Adriatic.

Cited Examples

Declaring that "this is certainly not the liberated Europe, we fought to build up," Mr. Churchill cited as examples of Russian activity:

Warsaw, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest and Sofia subjected to "a very high and increasing measure of control from Moscow"; the Russian-dominated Polish government encouraged to make "enormous and wrongful inroads upon Germany"; an attempt to build up a 'quasi-communist party' in Germany and communistic influences at work in Italy and France. He mentioned the anxiety over the Far East, especially in Manchuria, and said Turkey and Persia are "profoundly alarmed" by Moscow demands."

New Constitution Vests Sovereignty With the People

Limits Emperor's State Functions Very Materially

Tokyo, March 6 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur today announced a new and radically altered Japanese constitution in which war and its threat "are forever renounced as a means of settling disputes with other nations."

The document vests sovereignty in the people and says the emperor is "a symbol of state," deriving "his position from the sovereign will of the people." He "never shall have powers related to the government."

The new constitution also limits the emperor's state functions to such specified acts as proclaiming elections and convoking the Diet and says these functions may be delegated as provided by law.

It specifically states that maintenance of land, sea and air forces "as well as other war potential will never be authorized. The right of belligerency of the state will not be recognized."

The document was announced suddenly after a two-day cabinet meeting. It will be submitted to the next Diet session—presumably shortly after the April 10 general election—for approval.

Abolishes Right of Peerage.

The constitution includes an unprecedented clause for establishment of a regency. It also specifies authorization of the Diet before property can be given to the Imperial House or disbursements can be made by it.

It abolishes the right of peerage to any national or governmental power and provides for an end to the peerage upon the death of those now holding titles.

Voicing a desire for "peaceful co-operation with all nations" it proclaims the rights and duties of the people and eliminates discrimination.

It resolves "that never again shall we be visited with the horrors of war through action of the government."

Hirohito issued a special rescript stating:

"It is my desire that the constitution of our empire be revised drastically on the basis of the general will of the people and the principle of respect for the fundamental human rights.

"I commend hereby the competent authorities of my government to put forth in conformity with my wish their best efforts toward accomplishment of this end."

Gen. MacArthur's approval of the constitution, maintaining the Mikado as a symbol of state, presumably ends any possibility of the emperor being arrested as a war crimes suspect.

1,940 Mentioned In Despatches

Ottawa, March 6 — (CP)—The award of 1,940 mentions in dispatches to members of the Canadian Army for distinguished service overseas was announced today by the Defence Department.

The list included Gen. Crerar, former 1st Canadian Army Commander recently retired; Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, Officer Commanding the Canadian Army of The Netherlands; Lt.-Gen. Chas. Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff; 10 Major-Generals and 34 Brigadiers.

Spiritual Awakening Necessary To Substitute Brotherhood for Force

—Truman

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Columbus, Ohio, March 6 (AP) —President Truman today appealed directly for church support of his stalemated domestic legislative program against the opposition of interests he said were "greedy for gold."

He urged religious support also for the development of atomic energy under "a high moral code" to rescue a "sick" world "in the doorway to destruction."

The President said that if the people "really believed in the brotherhood of man, it would not be necessary to pass a fair employment practices act" to prevent racial discrimination in job-giving, and added:

"If certain interests were not so greedy for gold there would be less pressure and lobbying to induce Congress to allow the price control act to expire, or to keep down minimum wages, or to permit further concentration of economic power.

"A truly religious fervor among our people would go a long way toward obtaining a national health program, a national housing program, and an extended and improved social security program."

Mr. Truman spoke at a special meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Mr. Truman included in his address an appeal for food sharing "to save the starving millions in Europe and Asia and Africa."

He said America's churches — Protestant and Roman Catholic and the Jewish Synagogue— bound together in the American "unity of brotherhood," must provide the "shock forces" to accomplish the "spiritual awakening" necessary to substitute "decency and reason and brotherhood for the rule of force in the government of man."

Highlights Of Churchill's Speech

Fulton Mo., March 6 —(AP)— Highlights of Winston Churchill's speech Tuesday at Westminster College:

"The United States stands at this time at the pinnacle of world power . . . with primacy in power is also joined an awe-inspiring accountability to the future."

"It would . . . be wrong and imprudent to entrust the secret knowledge or experience of the atomic bomb . . . to the (U.N.O.) world organization while it is still in its infancy."

"Nobody knows what Soviet Russia and its Communist international organizations intends to do in the immediate future, or what are the limits if any to their expansive and proselytizing tendencies."

"The Communist parties or fifth columns constitute a growing challenge and peril to Christian civilization."

"From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the (European) continent."

"I repulse the idea that a new war is inevitable; still more that it is imminent . . . I do not believe Soviet Russia desires war."

"The United Nations Organization must immediately begin to be equipped with an international armed force."

"The Russian-dominated Polish government has been encouraged to make enormous and wrongful inroads on Germany."

"There is no reason except human folly or sub-human crime which should deny to all nations the inauguration and enjoyment of an age of plenty."

"We cannot be blind to the fact that the liberties enjoyed by individual citizens throughout the British Empire are not valid in a considerable number of countries, some of which are very powerful."

"Here is the message of the British and American people to mankind. Let us preach what we practise and practise what we preach."

"If the dangers of war and tyranny are removed, there is no doubt that science and cooperation can bring in the next few years to the world . . . An expansion of material well being beyond anything that has yet occurred in human experience."

"If we adhere faithfully to the charter of the United Nations and walk forward . . . the high roads of the future will be clear, not only for us but for all, not only for our time but for a century to come."

Germans Still Impenitent Says Major H.G. Scott

"You can be sure that we won't repeat the asinine performances of the First Great War and throw away the victory which had cost us such an awful price." Such was the feeling expressed by Major H. G. Scott when he addressed the Women's Canadian Club at Bridge Street Church Tuesday night. His theme was "Germany in Defeat."

Major Scott has recently returned from Germany and the trials of the war criminals and was formerly liaison officer between the Canadian and Allied armies and then attached to the Intelligence Department.

Major Scott told of the conditions that exist in Germany and the method of "policing". He described a beaten Berlin with the flags of the United Nations fluttering in the main streets of the once haughty German capital.

"Bear in mind that these are the Germans who have made two planned attempts to conquer the world," he said, "and they are receiving just retribution for their unparalleled atrocities."

"The Germans could be a fine race but for their sheer lust for power and conquest, they've thrown it all away. Wherever their eyes turn there is nothing but desolation."

Overwhelming Triumph

"As far as Russia is concerned, the scene is one of overwhelming triumph," he continued. "We of the British Empire survey the scene with humble pride. We can look back to 1940 when it seemed that everything was lost and we stood alone in the gateway of civilization."

"The greater part of Berlin is utterly destroyed. The people are living in cellars and the food ration is half of what is considered necessary for normal living" he continued. The people are allowed to cut down any trees in the city for fuel because there is absolutely no coal or coke.

"Berlin is a city of terror at night" said Major Scott. "Armed raiding gangs and pillaging parties run rampant through the streets and no Germans are allowed out between ten-thirty at night and the morning."

Cities Smashed to Bits

"The cities of the Ruhr are smashed to bits and Cologne is just a cathedral and a memory, nothing else," he continued.

"The countryside shows practically no damage. The farms are in good shape and the stock is in good condition. The only sign of war is the fact that the bridges are all down, ruined by the Germans retreating before the Allied armies."

"There is no sign of penitence, shame or remorse among the Germans. They're sorry they lost the war, that's all."

A question period followed the address in which the speaker answered many vital and interesting questions.

Mrs. B. C. Sisler, president of the Women's Canadian Club acted as chairman and introduced and thanked Major Scott.

Guidance Subject Of Address At H. & S. Assoc.

The regular meeting of the Collegiate Home and School Association was held in the library Monday with Mr. J. M. Wood presiding. The meeting opened with a lively sing song led by Mrs. H. Rollins. Mrs. Wright read the minutes of the last two meetings. Mr. Lockyer gave the treasurer's report which showed a substantial increase due to the untiring effort of Mrs. McCormick, finance convener. Mrs. Ward announced that nomination papers should be submitted before the next meeting, April 1.

Mrs. R. Morden reported that a Home and School Convention would be held in Toronto during Easter week. All members are urged to attend the conference and avail themselves of this opportunity to become better acquainted with the wide field of study undertaken by the association. "The Review" Home and School quarterly publication was recommended to the members.

Mrs. O. Palmer, guest speaker, was introduced by Mr. Wood. Formerly Dean of Girls and Guidance Counsellor in Owen Sound Collegiate, Mrs. Palmer is now Assistant Director of Guidance, Department of Education. The subject of her address was "Guidance in Secondary Schools."

Not a New Idea.

Guidance in itself is not a new idea. It has always been given informally by good teachers interested in their pupils' welfare. Guidance service seeks to help the pupil make intelligent decisions based on knowledge rather than chance. The objective of the school is to educate the child to live according to his own initiative and ability. Children are not self-sufficient. They have more complicated lives to live than we and need our help. Guidance forms a closer link between the school and actual living.

Guidance accepts two fundamental ideas: that all children are different; that a child should not be dubbed a failure because of low marks in academic work. Interest tests, mechanical aptitude tests, school records, use made of spare time and hobbies are aids to guidance. The aim of guidance is to put the skills to work while avoiding the weaknesses.

Word of Warning.

Guidance service gives class room instruction in occupations. It also recommends that a pupil get a first hand acquaintance with the requirements of a vocation.

Mrs. Palmer issued a word of warning. "Scientific tests in the hands of untrained people can be dangerous. Tests are only a tool. The test in itself does not help the child. Guidance is not magic."

A program of guidance service brings more help to more peoples. Guidance offers the pupil understanding help to solve his problems, and it is for all who can be helped by it.

In closing Mrs. Palmer stated that guidance service has always been practical. Guidance counsellors have some understanding of world work and students are recommended to work for which they are most suited. The slower-than-average pupil can be encouraged and the brilliant student kept busy.

Mr. Bowden moved a vote of thanks for this most instructive address. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by Mrs. Robbins and her committee.

Home for Aged Report Given

Previous to the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association, the monthly meeting was held Tuesday afternoon in the Doctors' Room of the hospital. The report on the Home for the Aged was given by Mrs. Carmichael, the lady on duty for February.

The report of the donations given was as follows:

Kiwanis Club, sandwiches; Miss Wallbridge, two nightshirts and magazines; Mrs. Henry, gramaphone records, in memory of Shirley; Mrs. J. B. Boyce, flowers.

The weekly services were taken by the Rev. Mr. Freeman, and the first Sunday service by the Salvation Army.

5 REPORTED KILLED DURING ELECTION

Ranchi, India, March 6 —(CP) —Five persons were reported killed today in clashes between Congress party workers and Abibasis (Aborigines) during a provincial election campaign demonstration in the Ranchi district, a subdivision of Bihar Province in Bengal. All those killed were said to have been Adibasi workers.

ON HUNGER STRIKE

Bombay, India, March 6 — (Reuters) — Pandit Godavari Misra, former congress leader and former finance minister in Orissa Province, went on a hunger strike yesterday. He declared he would continue it until allegations he said certain newspapers made against his integrity as a minister are substantiated or until the newspapers apologize.

Meeting to Form Flying Club Here Will be Held

Want to fly—or learn to fly? Well, here's your chance.

Tentative plans which have been flitting through the heads of fliers now resident in the city, have finally reached the stage of more or less completion and a meeting to form and organize a flying club here has been called for Friday night.

Sponsoring the movement to form the club are Messrs. Charles Cawker W. J. Brown and Malcolm Robb, all experienced fliers in their own right. The meeting is being held in the Y.M.C.A., and those interested in the project and in flying are cordially invited to attend.

It was stated today that the charter for the club will be here in the near future while the R.C.A.F. Flying Club Association is holding two aircraft secured through the War Assets Distribution Corporation, for the new organization.

Since the idea was mooted here some time ago, interest of those who fly and those who are desirous of flying has been steadily mounting, and it is felt by those in charge that the newly proposed club will meet with approval of a large number of city and district enthusiasts.

It is expected that definite plans will reach completion at the meeting and if membership is assured, and sufficient interest aroused, it will be only a matter of a short time before the club is in the first stages of operation.

"Tale of Shirt" Told Kiwanians By W. J. Moore

The "Tale of a Shirt" was told to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at the Quinte Hotel on Tuesday by W. J. "Bill" Moore, production manager of Deacon Brothers, Ltd. Mr. Moore, who has been in the shirt business for a number of years, outlined the progress of this wearing apparel from the earliest years. The members were told many things they did not know about a shirt, the principal thought being expressed that men not women should buy shirts.

President Mark Vanner presided at the luncheon and expressed regret at the loss of "Bill" Steer from the club. "He was an active worker," said the president "and his loss will be felt." Jack Marsh was welcomed back after a holiday in Florida. Reg Hinchey introduced the speaker of the day stating he had been production manager for Forsythe Shirts for many years before coming to this city and that he was a rabid baseball and hockey fan with leanings toward the Canadien Hockey Club of Montreal.

Mr. Moore stated that the shirt as we know it has only been in existence for the past 75 years but that it was the first wearing apparel of man. "It was first the skin of animals, then a large sheet wrapped around the body and first took form in the reign of the Romans, who used it as a uniform," said the speaker. "Down through the ages it was made by women with no attempt at precision until the advent of machinery." The speaker then detailed the progress in machinery for the making of shirt and outlined the progress in invention of the sewing machine with the Singer people making the machine that is universally in use today.

The speaker explained how collars were fused and remarked that George Carpentier, the fighter, was the first person to wear an attached collar the same color as the shirt. It was explained that it was good policy to buy the best shirt obtainable and that Pima yarn used in the manufacture of shirts was the best in the world. Mr. Moore advised his listeners to never wear a collar button at the back of the shirt and he showed how a collar should be prepared before being placed around the neck. The address was most interesting and instructive.

PAY INCREASES FOR P.O. WORKERS IN INDIA ARE GRANTED

New Delhi, March 6—(Reuters) —After a strike threat by 180,000 postal workers throughout India, W. H. Shoobert, director-general of posts and telegraphs, yesterday announced immediate pay increases and pension concessions for lower grades of the staff.

Employees' representatives had notified the authorities they would strike March 11 for improvements of pay, pensions and allowances.

Fined For "Abstract Reflection"

Vancouver, March 6 (CP) — Gustav Shirmer of Vancouver had "so much on my mind," he told Magistrate H. S. Wood yesterday that he did not realize how abstractedly he abstracted five bottles of extract from a department store. Accepting the plea, the magistrate imposed a fine of $15—with an option of 10 days for "abstract reflection."

Scottish Bride of Belleville Soldier Amazed by Luxurious Food on Liner

Bevies of young British war brides clustered around the spacious lounge room canteen of the huge liner Aquitania as she plowed through the smooth waters of the Atlantic last week.

They stared, goggle-eyed with amazement as boxes of sheer nylon stockings appeared before their gaze. They gasped in delight at packages of cosmetics; they laughed in sheer enjoyment as actual boxes of chocolates were brought down from shelves.

They looked with unbelieving eyes at trim beauticians, standing ready in modern salons ready to give them the latest hair-do.

For it seemed as though they had been transferred to another world. The luxury of the liner's surroundings; the tempting food, the movies; the anticipation of a new life that lay ahead in Canada seemed to them a modern Utopia as compared to the battle-checkered life they had lived since 1939.

Never Missed a Meal

"It was simply gorgeous. I was not sick a day; I never missed a meal, and I enjoyed every minute of a trip that was not marred by bad weather," said Mrs. Jimmy Ling, a petite lass from Inverness who arrived in the city yesterday morning to join her husband, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ling.

The dark-haired, dark-eyed bride her eyes lighting up with happiness at the long-awaited reunion with her husband and her new home is going to like Canada, she says. The splendid treatment accorded her on board ship and by officials here created a deep impression on this attractive young Scotswoman.

In a voice flecked with the rich brogue of the Inverness highlands, Mrs. Ling recounted her adventures since leaving her native Scotland for her new home beyond the seas.

Served With A-A Unit

One wouldn't think to look at this attractive young lady, who is distinctly feminine, with an air of refinement, that for four years she served with a heavy anti-aircraft battery, searching battle-flamed skies for the dreaded Luftwaffe and standing at her post as the vicious rockets brought flaming death from the blue.

Mrs. Ling was a member of the predictor detachment of the battery and served her guns in various parts of Britain. She was on duty in London when the first rockets flashed down on an unsuspecting Britain. And she proudly states that she wore the stripe of a lance-corporal.

But all that is now behind her. Relegated to memory are the dark day of war when embattled Britain stood alone. Gradually the memories of "points for clothes and food"; an egg every three weeks, and other strife exigencies of a war-torn country are fading.

Grand Food

One of her treasured mementoes of the ocean voyage is a menu taken from the dining saloon. "The food was simply gorgeous and I certainly made up for lost time," she smiled.

Roast turkey, chicken, roast meats, delicious vegetables cooked to the King's taste and delectable desserts, and above all, ice cream, were served on board the liner.

The brides sat down to a breakfast of kippers, bacon or eggs, hot rolls, fruit, toast and beverages. For lunch there were filleted cod, cold cuts, hot buttered cabbage, baked potatoes "with the jackets on." At dinner they were served poached halibut, or supreme of chicken, French beans, eggplant and other delicacies.

Mrs. Ling is the former Margaret Telford and was born in Iverness. She was "called" to the colors when but twenty years of age and served courageously for four years in the A.T.S. of Britain.

World Famous Drivers of Power Boats Will be Here for Regatta

With world-famous boats and drivers here and United States meets cancelled during the period of time, the spotlight of speed-boat publicity will be focused on Belleville and district during the first week in August.

Sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association, of Washington, D.C., American and Canadian kings of the speedboat waterways will vie for world championship honors and records in a series of regattas which has been called the "Canadian Vacation Circuit."

Regattas have been scheduled for Picton, Barrie, Belleville and Valleyfield, Que.

The A.P.B.A. is co-operating to the fullest extent with Canadian officials and in order that the cream of American drivers will be able to compete in the various regattas, has cancelled all meets scheduled to be held in the U.S.A. during the first week in August.

Held on August 7

The regatta held here on August 7 is being sponsored by the Rotary Club with Messrs Lloyd Hicks and Enos David in charge.

Information reaching the city yesterday disclosed that arrangements are under way to have photographers and reporters of Life Magazine here for the occasion.

World's records will likely go by the board, and residents of the city will get an excellent opportunity to actually see the events, when drivers of the 225 Class, boats which rip through the water at 90 miles an hour, will attempt to shatter existing records over a sanctioned measured mile course on the Bay of Quinte off the Government Dock. Speed trials will be held each of the three days prior to the regatta.

Famous Band Leader to Attend

Guy Lombardo, famous Canadian orchestra leader, who is chairman of the 225 Class of the A.P.B.A. has announced his intention of attending the events and will bring his crack 225 class boat with him.

Former world's record holders such as the famous "Pops" Cooper who won the title when he was 74 years of age; Harold Schafft, Buffalo and others will be here.

Fourteen entries have already been received by the Rotary Regatta Committee here and were received before any publicity was distributed. Announcement of the regatta here, which will be held off Massassaga Point, will be sent to 800 drivers of the United States and Canada.

There is also a possibility that John Charles Thomas, noted baritone of radio, screen and concert stage, who has donated the trophy emblematic of the world's championship in the 225 Class, will be here in person.

GIVES UP INHERITANCE FOR LOVE

Princess Gold of Sarawak, widow of Lord Inchcape, is shown with her fiance, Colonel F. C. Tompkins of the U. S. forces, after a dinner in London to celebrate their engagement. The Princess gave up an inheritance of $15,000 a year to wed the American colonel.

Aged Woman Defies Eviction Order of Court

Weston, Ont., March 6—(CP)— An 84-year-old ailing grandmother said today after a restless night on a borrowed bed that she is determined to stay in the tiny home her family had occupied for nine years, despite eviction proceedings that left but one article of furniture — her favorite chair. The sheriff's men did not take that because she was sitting on it and wouldn't budge.

While officers considered best methods of completing the eviction to allow the war veteran owner to move in, Mrs. Catharine Ferguson conferred with her elderly son and daughter, who also remained overnight, then told newspapermen:

"I want to know who took the furniture and where it is so we can get it. Why, those men who took it, even took the food with it."

Mrs. Ferguson retired to her bare bedroom last night after posing for newspaper pictures in the drab room, heated only by a faulty furnace. She posed in her chair against a livingroom wall covered with slightly-discolored wallpaper, with a background of bare floor.

She said she had suffered a heart attack recently and was able to barely move about with aid of a cane.

Unable to Budge Woman

The bailiffs, carrying out an eviction order on behalf of the war veteran owner who needed personal possession, were unable to budge the aged woman yesterday. They managed to remove the furniture, the stove and the linoleum — but they couldn't move Mrs. Ferguson, who remained in triumphant possession of a chair, the only piece of furniture left, after the bailiffs gave up for the day.

Whether the law would make another attempt today was problematical. Sheriff J. D. Conover had admitted last night that the eviction could not be considered carried out while Mrs. Ferguson remained in possession.

And Mrs. Ferguson was definitely in possession. After the forces of the law had retired, baffled, she moved the chair from the verandah into the house at darkness last night.

For a time the old lady and her son, George, 42, and daughter, Mary, 61, held the empty house with the one chair. Then neighbors who had previously supplied the hold-outs with food provided a couple of beds and the family were set for the night.

Granted to Veteran

The eviction order was granted on behalf of owner Arthur Bredin, a discharged veteran who wished to occupy the premises. He said several previous attempts to execute the order had failed because Mrs. Ferguson was ill each time.

Mrs. Ferguson said: "When we moved into the house nine years ago we found that taxes had been in arrears and we paid the rent to the township (of York) to pay taxes. Then we paid the rent on the mortgage. We have paid off $400 like that at $15 a month, and I won't move."

Refusing offers of welfare officers who said they had arranged accommodation at a Salvation Army hospital, Mrs. Ferguson declared: "I won't move. I can pay my way and you can't shove me out on the street."

While the furniture removal was carried on Mrs. Ferguson shifted her chair, but she would not leave the house. When stretcher-bearers were summoned to take her away neighbors came to her aid and the stretcher-bearers retreated. Mrs. Ferguson was still there today.

No Decision Made On Itinerary of Lord Montgomery's Visit

London, March 6 — (CP Cable) —Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, recently appointed chief of the Imperial General Staff, probably will make a trip to Canada next autumn but no decisions have yet been made regarding his itinerary, it was learned here today.

A score of invitations from Canadian provinces, cities and organizations have been received by the famed British commander asking him to visit specific places. However it is likely it will be sometime before plans for his tour are drawn up.

Iran's Premier Goes Home Bearing Six Red Demands

London, March 6 (CP)—Premier reported Qavam Tuesday was reported en route home from Moscow bearing six Soviet demands, including one that his country "invite" Red army troops to remain in Iran.

Moscow advices said the Premier prepared to depart following a banquet last night attended by Premier Stalin. The outcome of his talks with Soviet officials had been inconclusive, it was indicated. An Iranian spokesman in the Russian capital said the premier and his delegation had listened to "proposals" concerning Russian troops in Iran. The spokesman described the talks as "friendly but difficult."

The London Evening News said the six demands had been handed Ahmed Qavam prior to his departure. Heading the list, the newspaper said, was a specification that Russian troops should remain in Iran until such time as the other five demands were accepted.

These five points, the newspaper said, are that Iran recognize the "autonomous" government of Azerbaijan, grant oil concessions to Russia, sign an alliance with Russia, co-ordinate its foreign policy with Russia, and allow Soviet military advisers to organize the Azerbaijan armed forces and to station them at points of strategic interest to the Soviet Union.

Iranian troops have been prevented by Soviet forces from entering Azerbaijan, a northwestern Iranian province.

A Conservative member of parliament F. H. R. MacLean, asserted in the House of Commons last night that Britain "cannot take the risk of south Persia (Iran) and the Persian Gulf falling into the hands of any power hostile to this country."

Mr. MacLean asked the Labor Government whether it intended to "leave our Soviet Allies to carry—perhaps some people would say kidnap—the baby and make the whole of Persia a Soviet sphere of influence."

335 Items Listed In New Mark Up Order For Textiles, Leather

Ottawa, March 6 — (CP)—The Prices Board announced Tues., a new markup order adjusting maximum prices for textiles and leathers at the retail and wholesale levels.

The order permits the trades to recover increases in the costs of their goods resulting from the removal or reduction of subsidies on textiles and leathers.

Three hundred and thirty-five items are covered in the order which extends the maximum markup policy now in effect for certain garments to most lines of merchandise containing cotton, wool or leather.

The board said the order maintains price control regulations at both wholesale and retail levels and that the resulting changes in consumer prices would be "relatively minor."

Every Community Should Attack V. D. Problem

Yorkton, Sask., March 6 (CP)—Venereal disease is Canada's number one problem and every community should attack it with the utmost vigor in all its phases, including the moral and social aspects as well as the medical. Dr. Cecil G. Sheps, director of the division of Venereal Disease Control of the Provincial Health Department said in an address yesterday to a Service Club (Rotary) luncheon, as part of a province-wide anti-V.D. campaign being launched in Saskatchewan.

French Opposition Firm On German Problem

Paris, March 6 — (AP) — The Ministry of Foreign Affairs announced Monday that it had advised the United States government that France is standing firm in her opposition to the formation of a central government for Germany before Germany's western border is fixed. The announcement said that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had proposed that a four-power conference be held in Paris to settle the issue.

Thousands can cut down on laxative dosing this Carter way. Ask for Carter's Pills by name to get the genuine at any drugstore—25¢. Start the Carter graduated dose method tonight, and jump out of bed tomorrow rarin' to go.

Work of C.W.A.C. Nearly Finished; Performed Valiant Duty During War

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa March 6 (CP) — With more than half the girls of the Canadian Women's Army Corps with overseas service back in Canada ready for discharge and a civilian future, the Corps looked back today on almost five years of hard work which freed an estimated division of soldiers for front-line duty.

It wasn't always easy at first for the girls in khaki to overcome the obstacles in the path of a young service. With their sisters-in-arms of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division), they calmly and efficiently took over the jobs they could do—from typing to helping man coastal patrol units — to free soldiers desperately needed in active combat.

The C.W.A.C., organized by Miss Elizabeth Smellie — later Col. Smellie of the R.C.A.M.C. Nursing Service—in August, 1941, is one month younger than the W.D. but grew to become the largest of the women's services.

By D-Day, June 6, 1944, there were 21,614 CWACS answering roll call. By VE-Day, May 8, 1945, this figure had dropped to 17,117, and today there are only 7,317 left to help complete the army's discharge program before they are discharged in turn.

Their work took them to all the provinces and to Washington, New York, the United Kingdom, Italy, Holland, Belgium, France and Germany. One officer served in India.

All army girls now have been brought home except for a few still in Britain and Washington.

The C.W.A.C. grew in stature and efficiency to become one of the models for the United States Women's Army Corps, its Women's Marine Corps Reserve.

The C.W.A.C. uniform was voted "smartes and best looking" at an international women's service party attended by American, British and Canadian girls in uniform.

Started by Col. Smellie, who now is chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the corps was first headed by Lt.-Col. Joan Kennedy, of Victoria. Later Col. Margaret Eaton, of Toronto, became director-general, and when she retired to be married in 1945, Lt.-Col. Daisy Royal, of Winnipegosis, Man., assumed command.

London Letter

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 6 — (CP)—An English family named the latest addition to their flock "John Uno" to commemorate the Assembly of the United Nations here and touched off one of those discussions dear to the British press.

The Times of London devoted an editorial to "The Great Lottery of the Font," remarking that "many people are christened in haste to repent at leisure" and predicting the eventual naming of "a little Miss Unrra."

"The evil that parents do lives after them, but it is interred at least," the editorial reflected. "The Almas (named after the Battle of Alma), at least the genuine vintage, are today a dwindling band, for they must be 92 years old.

"The once infant Mafekings are middle-aged and have long since produced little Mafekings of their own to whom, it may be hoped, they have been kinder than their parents were to them."

The objection that these names date the recipient "does not necessarily apply to the still unconscious master Uno," the Times went on, "for he may have generations of successors called after a blessedly enduring institution.

"Yet it may be doubted whether any of them will be grateful. Small boys are less offensive than they used to be about each other's names. But they will probably always retain a rather crude sense of humor, and in the matter of names there is much to be said for the strictly ordinary."

People with odd names can, however, sometimes find humor in the situation, as demonstrated by Grace, countess of Wemyss and March, whom Sir James Barrie once called "the most beloved and most bewitching of women." She died in London recently.

Lady Wemyss (pronounced Weems) drew gaily fantastic sketches for the family young fry. One showed a retinue of nightmare animals marching to a nightmare zoo and beneath she wrote this verse:

"Grannie Wemyss
"Has dreadful dremyss,
"Oh, you should hear
"How grannie scremyss
"When Grannie dremyss."

The Wemyss name, however, was not acquired at the font like John Uno's. But letters to the editor proved he is far from alone in the christening fantasy.

The prize, if there was one, would have gone to this letter:

"What, if any, is the correct reply to be made by him who administers holy baptism when, in response to the direction, 'Name this child,' the Godmother answers, 'Albertenry, an' don't pore too much water on 'im, guv'nor, corse 'e's go' a corf.'?"

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, March 6 (CP)— Except for preliminary negotiations there have been no further communications between Defence Headquarters at Ottawa and British officials over permanent prison quarters for Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, German S.S. division commander, given a life sentence after his conviction in connection with the shooting of Canadian war prisoners.

It was reliably learned there will be no further developments until the last elements of the Canadian army overseas are about to be withdrawn from Britain.

Meyer will be kept under Canadian military guard until that time. "But we'll have to have a decision on his disposition to keep him in a military prison in England or if a German civilian authority hasn't been organized to receive this type of prisoner by that time, then we'll have to bring him to Canada."

Service pay: It has been reliably learned the inter-service committee studying peacetime permanent force pay rates have reached a decision and their recommendations now are being studied by the three armed forces.

It is expected the new rates will be announced within the next two weeks and it already has been officially stated they will be higher than existed for the pre-war permanent forces. Serious recruiting programs are expected to be launched immediately after the new rates are announced.

Arctic warfare: Possibly sponsored by the joint permanent force board, Canadian and United States military planners are taking an increasing interest in Arctic warfare.

Soon after the Muskox land expedition got underway in a study of the development of snowmobiles over the Arctic wastes, it was announced that the United States carrier Midway was bound for the top of the world to test her flying power in those icy climes.

There are United States observers with Muskox and Canadian observers with the Midway. The Midway went north on tests that were originally scheduled to be tried by the new Canadian carrier Warrior—and which will eventually be tried by a Canadian naval squadron, possibly made up of a carrier, a cruiser and some destroyers.

Labor Delegation Waits on Premier

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—Premier Drew yesterday told a labor deputation that until the Federal government abolishes its wartime labor regulations the Ontario government will be unable to bring in a new labor code in this province.

The deputation, representing all unions affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, met members of the cabinet and presented a brief asking for legislation granting a 40-hour five-day work week, a minimum wage rate of 65 cents an hour and two weeks' vacation with pay annually.

Premier Drew said the Ontario government could not introduce new labor legislation until the national war labor code was discontinued. Federal Labor Minister Mitchell had indicated in December that it would continue in force for another year. Ontario had been promised six months' notice of discontinuance, when such action was taken.

Premier Drew also spoke of advertisements in recent newspapers and suggested they resembled advertisements published by the Labor-Progressive party. He advised that there should probably be a "house-cleaning" in labor ranks to purge labor of the communist element.

D. A. Dunlop, spokesman for the delegation and chairman of the Ontario executive of the T. L. C., insisted there was no connection in the advertisements. He maintained that labor union members had the right to belong to any political party.

The depuation's brief said the standard of living in Ontario was falling rapidly "as a result of unfair practices of organized employer groups and the failure of our government to enact legislation to provide employment."

The brief's recommendations included a public works program notably completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and a start on a provincial housing project.

Synopsis Of County Farm Forum Findings

By WANDA SINE

Foxboro, March 6 — Thirteen Farm Forum groups met in Hastings County on the last regular forum meeting night prior to review or round-up night.

Groups meeting with the names of their secretaries and their attendance follows: Aikens, Murney Jeffrey 10; Brookdale, Mrs. K. A. Fall 20; Carmel (Thurlow), Mrs. W. E. Sills 10; Carmel (Rawdon), Harry E. Brown 40; Centenary, Gilbert Sills 22; Foxboro, James Reynolds 26; Hubble Hill, Audrey Robson 19; Hungerford 9th line, Bernard J. Hunt 18; Lodge Room, Dewey Kleinsteuber 9; Marsh Hill, Mrs. Harry Coulter 11; Melrose, Mrs. J. C. Milligan 14; Trent River Valley, Mrs. Roy Bush 40; Wellman's, Mrs. W. L. Pollock 13.

The subject of the meeting "Will the Consumer Pay for Quality" with its subsequent discussion on grading of farm products was one upon which farmers of Hastings as well as those of all 554 forums in Ontario had much to say.

Most evident was a widespread approval of any stamping measures which will ensure grading being carried through to the consumer.

Rail grading of hogs was generally considered to be more satisfactory than older methods.

Amidst widespread feeling that cream testing is not standardized came a pleasing tribute to Stirling creamery. A satisfactory grading arrangement is now in effect at Stirling creamery where cream may be delivered from surrounding farm communities and graded while you wait. The result is a better understanding by the producer of quality of product required, says Carmel Forum.

Where is No. 2 Butter?

Where does 2nd grade butter go, since little or none is seen in stores? was a question asked with the expressed suspicion that No. 2 cream ends up as No. 1 butter.

There was little criticism of cheese grading, in fact Foxboro Forum goes so far as to say "cheese grading is satisfactory."

In the matter of egg grading came overwhelming and diversified criticisms. Cracks, careless handling deliberate damage and dishonesty were charged. Spread in price between producer and consumer is too great. Melrose Forum says, as did a number of other forums throughout Ontario. "As a forum we feel that eggs should be sold by the pound." Several groups say "extra," "special," "extra special" or "extra large" eggs are sold in chain stores. This is considered upgrading and unfair to the producer since no such grade appears on their grading sheet.

There is a very widespread disapproval of methods used in peach sales last year. Several groups mention either immature, wormy or small fruit sold as No. 1 and the leno covering was deceptive.

From Hungerford comes a plea to educate the producer through newspapers and local lectures that he may learn methods of grading and reasons for it, thus enabling him to produce better quality.

In a letter to Farm Forum Folks printed in January issue of "Food For Thought" Ralph Staples, of National Farm Radio Forum says, "Farm Radio Forum is one of those powerful ideas whose time has come. We are building. We are building in a modern way a structure in keeping with the times."

HELD PERFECT CRIBBAGE HAND

Toronto, March 6 — (CP)—Pte. W. E. Dunlop obligingly cut a five and promptly lost interest in the cribbage game at Chorly Park Military Hospital. He had cut Pte. James Danforth, his opponent, a perfect 29-hand.

EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

Collingwood, March 6 — (CP)—A new 200-foot cattle exhibit building and extensive improvements on other buildings will be completed before the 91st annual Great Northern Exhibition at Collingwood this fall, it was announced Monday at a meeting of the fair board.

Statement Signed By Harris Says 'Was Pretty Drunk'

Whitby, Ont., March 6 —(CP)—A statement signed by Lorne Harris, 21-year-old district laborer charged with the strangle-slaying of Mrs. Audrey Lyons last Nov. 10, said in part that "I was pretty drunk that night (the night of the slaying) and I don't ever remember going back to the (Lyons) house after I left," it was testified when the statement was admitted as evidence today.

Police said the statement was given them Nov. 17, the date Harris was charged with the murder of the young mother who resided at nearby Ajax, and that it followed a statement by Harris he had attended a party at the Lyons' home but had left with the other guests.

A previous statement, which police said Harris had given while being held on a vagrancy charge, was read to the assizes court. It was a detailed statement of Harris' movement from Nov. 9 to noon of the following day and it began:

"If I am accused of murder, or guilty, I do not remember."

The trial was resumed today after a five-day adjournment through illness of a juror. Mr. Justice J. C. McRuer said sittings would be shortened today to allow the juror more time to recover fully.

First witness was Inspector Wilfrid Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police who described the scene in the Lyons' home after the body, a portion of silk pajamas wrapped around the neck, was discovered in the bedroom.

Mrs. Lyons' husband, a member of the R.C.A.F., was on duty in Newfoundland at the time of the slaying.

GIVEN LIFE TERM

Manila, March 6—(AP)—Pilar Barrera De Reyes, first Filipino woman convicted of treason by the Philippines Peoples Court, was sentenced to life imprisonment and fined $5,000 Monday. The prosecution said she disclosed hidden guerillas to the Japanese police.

Lord Montgomery Coming

September is to be the month in which Field Marshal Lord Montgomery of Alamein will visit Canada as the guest of the Government. This is the first definite information as to time that has been given and it comes from the redoubtable soldier's brother, a barrister in Vancouver, who has just received a letter from the Field Marshal.

The great Irish military commander's name has been before the British world and the Allied world for the great feats of arms be performed with his forces in the war which began at Alamein and carried him and his forces through Italy into Germany.

There is an added interest in his coming for when he arrives there will be in Government House at Ottawa Viscount Field Marshal Alexander the Governor-General designate and Viscountess Alexander who will succeed His Excellency the Earl of Athlone and the Princess Alice at the close of the term of the Earl's office as Governor General. The two new Viscounts have been comrades in arms in the late war where their names were linked in many brilliant operations.

Churchilliana

Stories of the private cracks Mr. Churchill made, even in the worst days of the war, were rife at the time. Disclosing some of them in a recent broadcast from London, Macdonald Hastings said that the (then) Prime Minister's epigrams and sallies kept those around him rocking with laughter, even though London was rocking with bombs.

Hastings told a few of the stories at the microphone. Manifestly during the war years Mr. Churchill's safety was a major factor in Britain's defence, and looking after him ranked as a military operation. It was known as "Operation Elephant" — the elephant apparently being the P.M. One of the features of this operation was a mobile anti-aircraft battery. It used to accompany Mr. Churchill wherever he went, and to the indignation of the officers concerned, he used to call it his "personal flak." To the crew manning the gun it was a terrifying ordeal, because the Prime Minister never failed to shoot a battery of technical questions at them about muzzle velocity, range and the rest. And heaven help them if they were wrong — the P.M. knew all the answers.

Churchill's abounding energy and his interest in all manner of incidents became a legend. Nobody who was anybody could be sure, Hastings declared, that they wouldn't get a sudden telephone call and hear that unmistakable voice saying: "This is the Prime Minister speaking." On one occasion it fell on the ears of a young man who'd just been awarded the Victoria Cross. The young pilot — a mere boy — was so overjoyed when he realized who was at the other end of the wire that he couldn't speak at all, he only gulped. Mr. Churchill sensed what was the matter. "I suppose it's a moving experience for you," he said, "to be talking to a man like me over the telephone. I assure you it's a moving thing for me to talk over the telephone to a man like you."

Resettlement Advice Service

About 1,000 offices of the United Kingdom's Ministry of Labor and National Service have, for the past few months, been answering questions from, and giving advice to, ex-service men and women and war workers who are returning to their homes and settling down again into civilian life. There are 371 Resettlement Advice offices in the principal towns throughout the United Kingdom. These are engaged solely on giving such advice, while in the less populous areas between 600 and 700 of the ministry's smaller offices are dealing with resettlement problems in addition to their ordinary work. Altogether about 30,000 enquiries are being dealt with every week and the number is rising steadily. Some of the questions asked are straightforward, such as requests for publications or the address of a government authority or local authority from which certain information can be obtained. This type of question is answered by a reception clerk. But the majority of callers have problems which are more complicated and which must be discussed in private with one of the specially trained Resettlement Advice Officers. One half of the 20,000 problems discussed with Resettlement Advice Officers every week are settled right away; the others necessitate giving a personal introduction to someone who can help solve the difficulty.

Nail Machine

William H. Wilkerson wanted to build a machine that would make its own nails and then drive them. Research experts told him it couldn't be done. So he set up his own research shop — and proceeded to make the machine, writes John Mebane in "Manufacturers' Record," Baltimore.

One version of the device nails soles on shoes and another drives nails in wood. A roll of wire is mounted on top of the machine. In one swift stroke, a nail is cut and formed from the wire and driven into the wood or leather. Nails can be driven at any desired speed up to three a second. If the pedal is held down, the machine drives a continuous stream of nails, operating in much the same manner as a sewing machine.

Wilkerson, a six-foot-two native of Rome, Ga., began making the machine in 1932, with a capital of $6,050. His assets are now approaching the $250,000 mark, and last year production of Auto-Solers and Auto-Nailers reached $636,521.

His invention should result in cheaper furniture, since it knocks a costly kink out of the production line. It performs automatically all the tiring, time-wasting jobs that were previously done by a man with a hammer.

As the head of a furniture company said: "The automatic nailer doesn't do a thing—except make it possible for each man to do four times as much work."

The present demand for furniture by thousands of young families gives special importance to this machine which the experts said couldn't be built, says Mebane.

Out of Dictionary

An Ottawa woman who sent to Holland a parcel of clothing including a suit of men's pajamas, with her name and address in the pocket, shows us a letter of thanks from the wife of the grateful Dutchman who received them.

"This correspondence," writes the Dutchwoman, "is out English dictionary. Can you decipher?" One can. There is a story between the lines:

"Very much thanks for the night dress that you send. On 22 January 1946 have I she receive. My man is all 7 months sick, and I have no clothing for him. It is here very bad late, hunger, cold and German! By war-misery is my man sick of want. He drove chauffeur of motorbus. Twelve year married, 38 years and have 3 kids, boy 6 year, 2 girls 9 and 11 year."

That, in the writer's dictionary English, is the story of much of Europe today — hunger, cold, privation, too many Germans. It is the great privilege of Canadians, out of their comparative abundance, to help relieve this acute distress.

Making Ships Fireproof

A factory in Southern England is now mass-producing a plastic fabric which will help to make ships fireproof. It is a light but strong material which does not support combustion, is unaffected by water, normal heat changes, most solvents and oils. The new material is being made into cabins, wall and ceiling panels, doors, internal partitions, stairways and other shipboard equipment. It has already been successfully fitted in an aircraft carrier and a number of merchant ships.

Newspaper Facts

The Brockville Recorder has just marked its 125th anniversary of continuous publication, with not an issue missed since 1821.

J. Walter Jones, Premier of Prince Edward Island, may know his Holsteins and his Island voters, but matrimony is something deeper and more unpredictable than Maritime politics — and that's something. His advice to O.A.C. students is useless because the girls will go right on mowing the boys down, regardless of what the Island Premier says declares the Farmer's Advocate.

ASH WEDNESDAY

Lent's a season mortals make
Wholly for the spirit's sake.

As the Master scorned delights
Forty days and forty nights,

So His followers turn away
From the pleasures of the day.

Not by hunger, as was He,
Tempted cruelly are we;

Not all joys to put aside,
Not to be severely tried,

But above the flesh to rise
By some little sacrifice,

Once a year the members of the Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club engage in a curling match for a big feed. The match will be played on Monday evening, three rinks to a side. The Kiwanians have selected their rinks as follows: Rink 1—J. McIntosh, Ed Gartley, Dr. Mallott, H. A. Fish, skip; Rink 2—J. D. Bankier, A. Donahue, H. Bryant, E. W. Dickens, skip; Rink 3 — A. Prentice, F. Domenico, W. Walshe, J. W. Davison, skip. The Rotarians will select their rinks from the following: C. J. Symons, Dr. M. Day, D. C. Ramsay, R. J. Wray, W. E. Scott, J. A. Cokers, H. W. Ackerman, Eardley Wilmot, J. A. Kerr, M. P. Duff, O. H. Scott, Jamieson Bone, J. A. McFee, Judge Wills, Arthur McGie and C. C. Walker.

Last night at the meeting of the A.Y.P.A. in connection with Christ Church a debate was held on the subject "Resolved that women should be allowed to enter the professional walks of life." The affirmative was presented by Mr. Harold Bateman and Miss Beatrice Miller, and the negative was upheld by Mr. Bert Wells and Miss Marguerite Coulter. The judges decided in favor of the negative, but pointed out that the debate was close as both sides had fine points well presented.

World Markets at Our Doorstep Says Member in Moving Adoption Of Throne Speech in Legislature

Toronto, March 6 — (CP) — Industrial opportunities such as never before faced Canadians challenge residents of this province, Robert W. Elliott, Progressive Conservative Member for Hamilton East, said Tuesday moving adoption of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne at the second session of the 22nd Ontario Legislature.

"World markets are at our doorstep," he said. "We have the factories and the trained help to operate them. Then, why not get down to work and manufacture? If we do this, products of Canada will be on the highways and into all the world markets."

Working men were satisfied with present labor laws that enable them to have the union of their choice. When they had a majority in favor of the union, management automatically accepted the specified union.

"So far as management and labor are concerned, they are working very well together in Hamilton. True, we have a few communists in some of our trade unions who at times like to cause trouble. But the majority of our workers soon quiet them down.

"The majority of workers, it is my opinion, believe that workers and management must co-operate for the good of Ontario and the nation as a whole.

Something new in the province was a minimum wage for men as announced in the Speech from the Throne. Arguments would be made that these minimum wages were not high enough but it had to be remembered they were the minimum — a floor, as it were, under which wages could not go.

Apprenticeship training had greatly increased, especially since the end of the war.

Receiving Training

Many thousands of young men were receiving training in the skilled trades, which not only provided an opportunity for these young people to become skilled but also would launch them into the industrial world with a far greater chance to make a satisfactory living. It also had the effect of replenishing the greatly depleted supply of skilled labor in Ontario. This big operation was carried on in co-operation with the federal government.

"Co-operation of the department of labor has been extended to many lines of endeavor under the Industrial Standards Act. Gasoline sales representatives are very anxious to come under this Act and are receiving every assistance from this department. I think it is safe to say that the sale of gasoline will soon be almost entirely controlled under the Act which will bring to this industry a more satisfactory condition by reducing hours of work and by improving conditions of employment."

It was recognized almost throughout the world that the Ontario Compensation Act had no superior. Paying guaranteed benefits for longer periods at less cost to the employer, . it was more widely interpreted than was known in any similar piece of legislation.

The health department's diagnostic laboratories had expanded to a point where 10 branch laboratories were operated in strategic centres and more than a million specimens were examined annually. These services were almost entirely free of charge and were supplied to the public thru attending physicians.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

General Franco And Spain

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Paris, March 6 (AP)— Will Generalissimo Francisco Franco capitulate to demands for a democratic form of government in Spain or will it take another terrible civil war to settle the issue?

A month ago it seemed clear that Franco recognized his dictatorship was doomed by Allied opposition and that he was manoeuvring for a graceful, face-saving exit from the rank of Chief of State, though he had hoped for retaining command of the Spanish army under a restoration of the monarchy.

The signs are that the Generalissimo still is manoeuvring for a compromise.

This is a tense moment for Europe, because it wouldn't take much to set the civil conflict of 1936-39 in motion again.

Militarily Franco's position is far more powerful than it was when he unseated the Republican regime in 1939 after three years of horror and established his dictatorship. He has had plenty of time to consolidate his ground and he hasn't neglected the military side.

The Spanish standing army is estimated at 700,000 men and while it is equipped mainly with light arms, that is a lot of strength numerically. Moreover, Spain has been building highways and bridges which may have been designed for peaceful purposes but which would be invaluable for the quick movement of troops and supplies. In the vicinity of Madrid I saw many concrete redoubts which commanded the highway leading to the capital. Obviously the Generalissimo has anticipated the contingency of further civil war. It is equally clear he has had in mind that he who controls the army controls Spain.

Discussions by Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne, with Franco's representative regarding a possible restoration of the throne, have been going on quietly for a long time and I have small doubt that the Generalissimo hoped an agreement would provide him with an avenue of escape from the dilemma created by the Allied insistence that his totalitarian government must go.

There are two things which the Spanish people certainly desire. They want an absolutely free national election at which they may choose their own form of government, and they want to achieve that election without another civil war.

That presents a delicate problem for the Allies, because, while firm hand is needed, obviously a wrong move might precipitate a tragedy.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet.

BEWARE THE BARBITURATES

Almost every day a tragedy somewhere occurs because a pistol is unnecessarily kept in the home or because some one "didn't know it was loaded." Equally tragic accidents have happened because people are careless about keeping poisons within reach of children or irresponsible persons in the home.

Quite as dangerous if not so obvious to the casual observer is the practice of keeping any quantity of barbital, or any of the barbiturates under whatever fancy trade name in the home.

It is not at all difficult to understand how one might take the dose prescribed by the physician and then, hours later, half-conscious, reach for the drug and take an overdose without realizing just what one is doing. For this reason it should be the rule, when a physician prescribes such drugs for the patient, to give the patient only the quantity for the prescribed dose—if any of the drug remains unused it should be locked or hidden away beyond the patient's reach.

Aside from benumbing the senses and producing narcosis (it shouldn't be called sleep, for it is not at all healthful or refreshing) these drugs have no remedial value and never cure any ailment. To use the barbiturates regularly or frequently or daily or nightly over a long period is tantamount to concluding that one doesn't expect or doesn't want to be cured. There is never justification for self-dosing with any such drug, in my opinion. Some cities, states or provinces now have regulations prohibiting sale of such drugs except on bona fide prescription by the physician.

Characteristic effects of habitual use of these drugs are mental depression, lethargy, loss of judgment, loss of memory, ideas of persecution and neglect, speech disturbance, vertigo, and too often these very effects are misinterpreted as manifestations of "nervous weakness" justifying or excusing further indulgence in the drug.

It seems fair to say that in reference to the characteristic ill effects of abuse of excessive use of the barbiturates an experienced medical colleague in whose professional judgment I have complete confidence observes: "In my experience of 20 years with them, I have never seen any pathology" (morbid ill effect) "or psychopathology" (serious mental disturbance) "resulting from their use. There is a minor danger, to wit, people getting up at night, under their influence are disoriented . . . may stumble and fall . . . patients have thus suffered broken arm, broken collar bone, scalp wounds, fractured ribs. . . still, in their proper place the barbiturates seem to me one of the greatest blessings . . take their place alongside of arsphenamine, insulin, the sulfas, even penicillin."

Note, however, that the doctor says "in their proper place" — meaning in the hands of the physicians. He is emphatic about one thing—"People under forty years of age should under no circumstances touch a burbital preparation unless it is specifically prescribed by the physician for the immediate purpose. For them the drug is a bad escape. It produces a profound, seemingly sound sleep, and they imagine all is well, and on they go down the dizzy path to serious trouble."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Pimples

I have a systic pimple condition. . . have Ben Told chocolate in any form is harmful, also salt, nuts, white bread and mayonnaise. These are the very foods I enjoy eating. (Mrs. G. J.)

Answer—If the "pimples" are goose-flesh, nutmeg grater type associated with excessive dryness and sallow appearance of skin, perhaps the trouble is a manifestation of vitamin A deficiency. On the other hand if the pimples matterate or pustulate, and are associated with excessive oiliness of skin and blackheads, the trouble is probably ordinary acne. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (clipping will not do) for pamphlet on Acne—Blackheads and Pimples. In your place I'd continue eating the things Ben Told dislikes—until a competent physician determined by specific test my allergic sensitivity to such foods.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What famous reformer threw an inkwell at the devil?

After Martin Luther appeared at the Diet of Worms in 1521 his friends feared his safe-conduct would be violated and that he would be seized and punished as a heretic.

Therefore his protector, Frederick III, Elector of Saxony, had the monk secretly conveyed to the Wartburg, a historic castle at Eisenach.

This protective imprisonment lasted for about ten months and Luther took advantage of it to translate the New Testament into German.

During this work he fancied that Satan continually appeared before him. The monk, however, refused to desist from his sacred task. According to a legend, one day when Satan appeared Luther became so incensed that he seized his inkstand and hurled it at the intruder. The apparition disappeared and the missle was dashed to pieces against the wall of the castle.

In his "History of the Reformation," published between 1835 and 1853, Jean Henri D'Aubigne says: "The keeper of the Wartburg is still careful to call the traveller's attention to the spots made by Luther's inkstand.

Such is the case at the present time, and there is reason to believe that fresh ink is occasionally applied to the spot for the benefit of visitors at the Wartburg.

Naturally enough, the legend has many refinements and elaborations. According to one version, the devil appeared in the form of a fly, which continually buzzed around the monk's head and so annoyed him that he could not work. The insect vanished after Luther flung his inkstand at it and the ink was splashed on the wall.

Another version has it that the wall opened and Satan presented himself as a hideous giant, who pointed his finger at the monk in a threatening manner and gnashed his teeth furiously. When Luther reached for his inkstand Satan was too quick for him. The wall closed behind the giant and received the contents of the ink bottle.

Continued Reductions In Rates of Electric Power Not Expected

Toronto, March 6 — (CP)—Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said Monday: "I do not think we can expect" continued reduction in rates of electric power in Ontario.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electric Utilities, Dr. Hogg said Hydro's capital expenditures in its post-war program may amount to about $200,000,000.

"I say 'may' because it is contingent upon our ability to procure the necessary labor and materials and, of course, it is flexible to some extent in the matter of timing."

Of rates he said: "Reductions in rates have been almost a yearly event in hydro's history. With the trend toward rising costs of materials and labor and with the labor construction program ahead of us, I do not think we can expect a continuance in the reduction of rates, or the growth of reserves in the near future."

Of the projected 200,000,000 spending program, about $112,000,000 was approved last year and a further $65,000,000 "relates to other additional generating stations, transmission lines, sub-stations and the like and $23,000,000 for the rural five-year plan."

Projects approved and the horsepower they will produce are: DeCew Falls plant extension, 70,000 horsepower; new developments at Stewartville on the Madawaska River, 54,000 horsepower; development at Des Joachine Rapids on the Ottawa River, 560,000 horsepower; Aguasabob River, Thunder Bay district, 53,000 horsepower.

The five-year rural plan "contemplates the building of nearly 7,300 miles of primary lines to serve nearly 58,000 customers, of which more than 32,000 are farm consumers.".

Earlier president Ross Strike of the O.M.E.A. said in his presidential address that a full report on the proposed change-over from 25-cycle to 60-cycle power in the H.E.P.C.'s Niagara division would be sent to affected municipalities in about two months.

Mr. Strike, who is also a Hydro commissioner, reviewed accomplishments of the Association since its last meeting two years ago and urged its members to do all possible as representatives of municipal hydro commissions to contribute to national employment and public works.

The 25 to 60-cycle conversion is "the most complicated problem your executive has ever had to tackle." It had originally been hoped to have the report ready

Town Council Moves to Instal Sewage Plant

Picton, March 6—Following a heated debate, town council at its March session Monday night instructed a Toronto engineering firm to proceed immediately with preparation of data pertaining to the sewage installation here for the purpose of submitting tenders.

Previously, a general plan at an estimated cost of $300,000 had been presented.

An extended discussion ensued when Councillor Robert Cockburn declared he was not in favor of the plan unless government aid was forthcoming. He opposed the motion.

Wise to Act Now

Speaking for his firm, Mr. Proctor felt that it would be wise to act now. He felt that when ceiling prices on materials is lifted that prices will sky-rocket, making the project much more costly. He did not believe government aid for such projects would be forthcoming for some years and by that time increased prices for materials would offset any grant received from that source.

Council acted on the suggestion of a committee appointed last month to investigate a recreation program for the town. A director of Recreation is to be engaged. The town will open the house at Benson Park, providing heat, light and water. Supervision and management will be provided by a Recreational Council, with two members of Town Council and a representative of several local organizations.

Federal Secretary Heard

Charles Austerberry, Field Secretary of the Ontario Welfare Council, was present to support the committee's report. He said 35 other Ontario towns had taken such action, and stressed that success depends upon co-operation of service clubs and organizations.

Town council will be responsible for salary of director while Picton Recreational Council will assume liability for cost of suitable equipment for community centre projects.

Mr. Austerberry pointed out the need of planned activity, stressing its importance in connection with control of juvenile delinquency.

Daylight Saving

A by-law was passed to provide for daylight saving time. This will be effective from April 28 to Sept. 29.

Mail Delivery

A survey of Picton homes to see if requirements for house-to-house delivery of mail are met, is to be carried out by the Kinsmen Club. It is required that 2,000 homes be served under this plan. In numbering the town, 1,400 houses have been registered, with one-third of the town yet to cover, it was reported. It is believed five mail couriers would be employed.

Relief costs in February were $383 with 30 receiving aid.

Plan For Regatta

Plans are now being made here for a revival of Prince Edward Yacht Club's power boat regatta. This is to be held on Civic Holiday, Monday, Aug. 5. Picton will form part of a racing circuit that month, with similar regattas held at Barrie, Belleville, Kingston and Valleyfield, Que.

The last regatta here was held in 1940, and then discontinued owing to wartime restrictions.

At the last regatta, and also at previous regattas, world records were established, including those for the 225 class, in 1939 by 'Pops' Cooper of Kansas City, Mo., and Dave Forman, Buffalo, present holder of that record at 91 miles per hour. The local course is considered the finest in Canada for such racing.

Churchill Recites Barbara Fritchie Poem to Truman

Fulton, Mo., March 6 —(AP)— Winston Churchill dramatically recited the heroic story of Barbara Fritchie for President Truman yesterday while their special train passed through Harpers Ferry en route to Missouri.

Telling Mr. Truman it was at this point that General Stonewall Jackson of the Confederacy seized General McClennan's stores, Mr. Churchill was reminded of a trip he made with the late President Roosevelt to the latter's "Shangri-La" near Thurmount, Md.

When he and Mr. Roosevelt went through Frederick, Md., Mr. Churchill had Mr. Roosevelt point out the Fritchie home, he told Mr. Truman. Then, Mr. Churchill recalled, he recited the famous poem for Mr. Roosevelt.

"Up from the meadow rich with corn, clear in the cool September morn, the village spires of Frederick stand," the former British Premier began.

When Mr. Truman nodded his enjoyment, his guest went through all the lines of the famous John Greenleaf Whittier tribute to the Union heroine who defied Jackson.

"Who harms a hair of yon gray head dies like a dog," was a line to which Mr. Churchill gave particular dramatic fervor. Another was, "'Shoot, if you must, this old gray head, but spare your country's flag,' she said."

Earlier, President Truman donned the engineer's cap and took a turn at the throttle of the Diesel - powered train. Mr. Churchill remained in their special car.

Laski, Pepper Say Speech is Plea For Imperialism

London, March 6 —(Reuters)— Harold J. Laski, British Labor party chairman, said today that Winston Churchill's speech at Fulton, Mo., yesterday advocating an alliance between Britain and the United States as a guarantee for world peace, was "a beautiful plea for the continuance of British imperialism."

"Senator Claude Pepper of the United States Senate has taken the words right out of my mouth," Laski said. "He said admirably what I wished to say — and there is nothing that I could add to it."

(Senator Pepper (Dem.-Fla.) said: "Mr. Churchill speaks beautifully for British imperialism. I think his Tory sentiments make him as much opposed to Russia as to the Labor government in his own country. Of course we want Anglo-American co-operation — but not exclusively.")

Fenner Brockway, Independent Labor party secretary, said Mr. Churchill's speech was dangerous and ill-timed.

"It will be time enough for Churchill to criticize Russian expansionists' policy when he and the Labor government have liquidated the British Empire," Mr. Brockway added. "We realize that Russia does not stand for the democratic and libertarian conception of Socialism for which we stand out nevertheless in the present world situation a basis of agreement with Russia must be found."

Barbed Wire Guards Building Where Problems Of Palestine Studied

Jerusalem, March 6—(Reuters)—Barbed wire has been erected around the building which the Anglo-America Commission of Enquiry, expected here today, will occupy during the three-week investigation of the Palestine government to safeguard the commission. Police are checking identity of all callers at the commission's headquarters, and armed cars and uniformed police patrol the area night and day.

Happy Newcomers Reach Halifax

By DAVID McKAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, March 6. (CP)—Hundreds of war brides and children of Canadian soldiers and airmen stepped ashore here today from the Liner Mauretania after what crew members called a "So-So" voyage.

Five days out of Liverpool, the big Cunard-White Star liner moved up Halifax Harbor with the 803 new Canadians among her 1,100 passengers lining the rails to get a glimpse of their new homeland.

When the ship docked there was no sign of the seasickness that had kept doctors and nurses of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps busy all the time at sea.

A few of the wives greeted husbands who stood on the pier and shouted a welcome to them as the Mauretania nosed into her berth ahead of the Aquitania which docked here Saturday with another group of servicemen's dependents.

The ship also carried members of all branches of the British services and a small group of Canadian servicemen and women.

Three special trains waited in pier sheds to transport the brides and children to homes across the Dominion.

This was the second trip of Mauretania in the role of floating nursery. During this voyage, many of the 301 children and the 502 wives stormed the ship's canteen to get chocolates. But crew members, remembering the first trip, looked on disapprovingly and muttered "wait and see."

Since last Friday, four ships including the Scythia and Letitia, have landed more than 3,400 dependents of Canadian servicemen here.

So India — land of choleras, elephants, snake charmers and one-day laundry service — stands at only the first of two cross-roads. It is the second crossroads that holds the chief interest to the outside world. What do its signposts say? Industrial feudalism or industrial democracy? Fascism or Communism?

India lacks now the leaven of a great middle class that likes the middle way.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marsh and son, Bob, Foster Avenue, have returned after spending the past six week at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Harold Mott and daughter, Judith, Oakville, are spending a few days visiting friends in the city.

Friends of Mrs. Murray Hinchliffe, Hillside Street, will be glad to know that she is making satisfactory progress, following an operation in the Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Elizabeth Gladney, Ann Street, a popular Belleville girl, is leaving tomorrow for New Zealand, where she is to be married. Friends are sorry to see her leave but wish her every happiness in her new home.

Friends of Fred Longhurst, R.C.N., formerly of 18 Murney Street, will be interested to learn of his marriage on January 28, Joyce Tatania Podgorenco, Vancouver, B.C.

Mr. Earl Onderdonk is a patient in Toronto-General Hospital, having undergone a major operation on Monday. His condition is satisfactory.

Mrs. Robert Sills, Molson Apts, received word recently from her son, Pte. Bruce Sills, who is stationed in Germany, of the death of her sister, Mrs. Jean Urquart, at Inverness, Scotland. Mrs. Urquart was also a sister of Mrs. John McIntosh and Mrs. Wm. Givens.

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rogers, 45A West Bridge Street, surprised them last night on the occasion of their 23rd wedding anniversary. Cards were played in the early part of the evening and later delicious refreshments were served featured by a wedding cake lighted with 23 candles. The couple received a number of lovely gifts and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers thanked all for their kindness. Mr. Rogers shows continued improvement in health.

Mr. Jack Beaton, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for the past three months, is convalescing at his home, North Park Street.

High-Heeled Shoes, Frills and Pleats For British Women

By MARGARET BUTLER

London, March 6—(Reuters)—High-heeled shoes, frocks with unlimited pleats, frills and pockets, and glamorous lace-trimmed and embroidered underwear will soon take their place again — coupons permitting — in the war-depleted wardrobes of British women.

The last "austerity" regulations on clothing and footwear in Britain will be abolished between now and June, Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons yesterday, giving British citizens their best homefront news for many months.

For four years, British clothes have been subject to numerous restrictions, imposed when shortages became acute and clothes rationing was introduced in 1942.

After June 1 men again will be allowed double-breasted suits with trouser cuffs and unlimited pockets and buttons, and will be freed from restrictions in the length of shirts and socks.

However, few people in Britain have many clothing coupons left and the new issue, due in May, consists of only 14 coupons. It takes 26 to buy a man's suit, so it may be some time before people can take advantage of the new concessions.

Convalescent Hospital Main W.C.A. Project in Coming Year Members Told at Annual Meet

Report of Hospital Auxiliary Shows $1,044.70 Raised for Several Projects

Tribute was paid Mrs. R. Abrams by members of the Women's Christian Association upon her resignation after five years as president. Her splendid work and guidance were commented on and the hope was expressed that she would continue to be interested in the association and advise it whenever possible. The Rev. H. O. Eastman opened the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association held Tuesday afternoon, following which the annual reports of the committees were submitted.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. Abrams who expressed her deep appreciation for the co-operation and consideration which she has received from all members during her five years as president. Mrs. E. M. Purdy submitted the report of the W.C.A. in which it was stated that the Home for the Aged, operated under the Board of Management had added several improvements during the year for the comfort of the elderly people. The hospital has given to the W.C.A. very gratifying monthly reports, despite operating difficulties due to the war. Appreciation was expressed to the Board of Governors and to Dr. Cronk for their valuable assistance throughout the year. Thanks were also extended to Miss Lynch chairman of the Indigent Fund and to the Hospital Auxiliary for their outstanding assistance. With regret the passing was noted of two members of the W.C.A., Mrs. J. F. Wills and Miss Anne Hurley, both valued members of the executive for years.

Co-operation Requested

The association's main project for 1946, that of planning, executing and maintaining a Convalescent Hospital was briefly spoken of and the co-operation of all members asked.

Submitting the report of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Harley Wray stated that the past year had been a particularly successful one for the organization. During the year, its four large projects, consisting of a fashion show, a mixed bridge party, a tag day, and an afternoon tea, netted a total of $1,044.70. The amount of $20 was used in the purchasing of small comforts for indigent patients. One of the greatest helps received by the hospital, according to Mr. Barclay, was the posting of two ladies from the Hospital Auxiliary on duty at the hospital each evening to receive and care for flowers for the patients.

Oxygen Tent Purchased

At Christmas $25 was spent on baskets of delicacies for the indigent patients. A like amount was spent at Easter. $10 was received from St. Andrew's Women's Guild for similar uses. In June a shower was held for flower containers for the hospital and a large number were received. An oxygen tent, costing $388 was purchased, two invalid chairs at $150, new drapes and easy chairs for the women's 2nd floor public ward, at $76.55 were purchased and $75 was donated for the refurnishing and decorating of the kitchenettes in the nurses' residences.

Expressing appreciation to the Board of Management and the matron, Mrs. M. L. Thompson stated that the Belleville Home for the Aged had completed a very successful year. In August the home was painted on the outside and one bedroom was also painted. The attic was insulated and new draperies were purchased for a bedroom and the women's sitting room. Thanks were expressed to the many who had remembered the inmates with gifts and entertainment and also to Dr. Cronk and to the Clergy of the city for their services. Col. P. H. Wills donated a convalescent chair during the year and donated tobacco twice a week as did the Kiwanis Club.

Tribute Paid Mrs. J. F. Wills

Mrs. Thompson expressed the feelings of the Board when she said that the passing of Mrs. J. F. Wills would be greatly felt, as she had been an interested and active member for a great many years.

Miss M. H. Lynch, in her report of the Indigent Committee, spoke of the passing of Miss Anne Hurley, long a valued member of the organization. She stated that 66 homes were supplied with fuel for Christmas from the Corby Fund, as well as 14 receiving food and the Home for the Aged receiving turkey and vegetables. From the Trust Fund, $55.91 was dispensed for special emergencies.

The treasurer's report for the Women's Christian Association, submitted by Mrs. L. Imlah, is as follows:

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY STREET C.G.I.T.

The regular monthly departmental meeting of Holloway Street C.G.I.T. was held in the Sunday School rooms on Tuesday evening. The meeting opened by a sing-song led by Mrs. Hyke. The President, Mary Potter, read the call to worship. The Worship service was presented by Mrs. Buck's group. Jean Thurston and Betty Gibson read the Scriptures and Mrs. Buck and Betty Nesbitt told stories about Africa. Donna Ferguson led in prayer and the offering was taken by Jean Scott and Phyllis Kane.

Mary Potter welcomed Mrs. McMurray, the C.G.I.T. mother to the meeting and Mrs. McMurray spoke to the girls for a few minutes.

New business was discussed after which Mrs. Campbell made a few announcements. The president dismissed the girls to their groups and the separate business meetings were carried on. The girls were called together again and games, led by Mrs. Ruth Lowther, were played.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

The monthly meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was held on Tuesday afternoon in the upper room of the Parish Hall. After the reports of the secretary and treasurer, a special Lenten Prayer Service was conducted by Miss Fitzgerald. A very interesting address was then given by Mrs. Isobel Winter on "Missions in Africa", which was enjoyed by all.

The meeting then took the form of a birthday party, and Mrs. Sparling, whose birthday it was, was presented with a beautiful cup and saucer, after which she closed the meeting. Refreshments were served.

Young People Of Holloway St. Church in Charge

Wallbridge.—On Sunday evening last, a group of young people from Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, had charge of the service at this appointment and they gave a splendid service. Miss Maude Burke was leader and Miss Dorothy Mitts was organist. Two splendid addresses were given by other members of the group.

Miss Norma Arkles rendered two most appropriate solos: "Open the Gate of the Temple", and "I Walked To-day Where Jesus Walked", during the service.

Rev. Mr. Hillis thanked the group most sincerely for the splendid service and pronounced the benediction. All who attended enjoyed the service very much.

Executive of Kingston Presbyterial Meets

The morning devotions are taken by Mrs. William Shaw, Ivanhoe, Minutes were read and approved by Mrs. H. Rollins, Stirling.

The plans for the Diamond Jubilee to be held on May 1, in Kingston on St. Andrew's Church were discussed. The honorary Life membership to be presented on May 1, was also discussed.

The afternoon devotions were taken by Mrs. Eric Larsen, the corresponding secretary of Presbyterial from Madoc.

The treasurer's report was read by Miss Mary Nesbitt, of Kingston, the treasurer, which showed favorable work.

Prayer by Mrs. John Wallace, of Stirling, closed the meeting.

Mrs. J. W. Imlah Elected Pres. Of The W.C.A.

After serving for thirteen years as treasurer of the Women's Christian Association, Mrs. J. W. Imlah succeeded Mrs. J. R. Abrams as president of the Association. After five years in the president's chair, Mrs. Abrams regretfully submitted her resignation, as several members spoke of her splendid work in the Association.

With Mrs. W. C. Mikel presiding, the following slate of officers was accepted:

Honorary Presidents—Mrs. W. C. Mikel, Mrs. G. F. Stewart, Mrs. O. A. Marshall, Mrs. J. R. Abrams.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHILDREN OF MARY

The monthly meeting of the Children of Mary of St. Michael's Parish, was held on Monday evening in St. Michael's High School. An excellent discussion on vocations for girls was presented by Joan Boyle, after which a quiz on the orientation, customs, and history of the Catholic Church was conducted by the Apostolic Committee, under the direction of Miss Mary McDougal. Of the ten contestants questioned by Miss Kathleen Callaghan, Rose Marie Scanlon was the winner.

Miss Joan Finkle, chairman of the Eucharistic Committee, reminded the members of the Lenten devotions to start on Wednesday, and urged attendance at them. Miss Mary McDougal of the Apostolic Committee, announced a father and daughter communion breakfast to be held the end of March.

Reverend Sister Mary Lenore, directress of the Sodality, then urged the interest and support of the Children of Mary in the St. Patrick's concert to be held under their auspices. Work in connection with this concert was assigned to the different committees.

Upon the completion of the business of the meeting, the members adjourned to the Assembly Hall of the School, where refreshments and entertainment had been provided by the Catholic Truth Committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Mary Flynn. The Sodalists were enthusiastic in their appreciation of a piano recital by Miss Barbara Forhan. With splendid expression and excellent technique, Miss Forhan rendered Solfegietto—Bach, Sonata in G—Mozart, Waltz in A Flat—Schubert, Valtz—Borowski, and Etude—Heller.

Chief Superintendent V.O.N. Reviews Work of the Order; N. Edwards Re-elected Pres.

102 Districts in Canada With 451 Nurses; Belleville Branch Shows Progress

Inauguration and rapid growth of the Victorian Order of Nurses as a public health service, together with its plans for further expansion in future years were reviewed before members of the local organization at their annual meeting held Tuesday evening at the Y.M.C.A. when Miss Elizabeth Smellie, C.B.E., R.R.C, L.L.D., chief superintendent of the V.O.N. for Canada was the guest speaker.

The entire organization of the Victorian Order of Nurses was reviewed by the chief superintendent, who stated there now were 102 districts in Canada with a total of 451 nurses. Future expansion of the V.O.N. would call for extension of their nursing service to many rural areas and full co-ordination with public health units which in many instances are being set up across the country.

"The Victorian Order is in the enviable position that it never has to worry about any objective," stated the speaker. "Our work is there already waiting for us. Our nurses are women who get heart-felt satisfaction from their job, and our volunteers are people really interested in their work."

Recalls Opening

Miss Smellie recalled the opening of the local branch of the V.O.N. and indicated that in accepting responsibility the branch had grown with the job until now, it was a three-nurse unit.

Establishment of health units would in no manner lessen responsibilities of the Victorian Order as a health service and as the non-official agency would bring much to the service.

Miss Smellie paid splendid tribute to married women who returned to service as nurses during the war years to fill vacancies and keep the essential home front nursing service in operation.

Speaking of V.O.N. policy, Miss Smellie stated that this nursing service was gradually getting closer to the hospital and was giving nursing care to an increased number of patients following their return home from hospital. Maternity nursing had also increased tremendously.

The speaker emphasized that the V.O.N. nursing service was available to all regardless of the family income bracket and she urged all possible publicity be given in order that its advantages be further known.

Must be Discipline

Miss Smellie admitted that the nursing profession was not as attractive as it might be to high school girls but stressed that there must be discipline as they dealt with "life and death". When campaigning for recruits for the nursing profession she asked that not only the difficulties be stressed, but that the brighter side also be presented. "Nursing is not easy work," assured Miss Smellie, "but it is a worthwhile work."

As an inducement toward young girls entering the nursing profession a program of pensions for V.O.N. nurses has now been instituted, while the national organization awards 50 scholarships each year and provides a uniform allowance. Local boards had also done much to encourage the nursing profession.

In closing Miss Smellie again expressed assurance that the V.O.N. would gladly co-ordinate its nursing service wherever public health units were set up.

Speaker Thanked

Past President Taylor Franklin introduced the guest speaker while appreciation was expressed by Dr. Charlotte S. Dafoe.

President Norman Edwards expressed his appreciation to the local Kiwanis Club for their interest and financial assistance in inaugurating the Victorian Order in Belleville 21 years ago, and pointed out that activities during the past year had reached an all-time high. He expressed his appreciation for the generosity of the general public in subscribing funds in order that the work may be carried on, and paid tribute to the nursing staff for their untiring efforts.

Representing Mayor Frank S. Follwell who was in Toronto on business, Alderman Lorne McDougall expressed the city's appreciation to the V.O.N., stating they had saved the city many thousands of dollars in indigent patient costs. He trusted that a health unit would be established in Belleville within one or two years.

Secretary Mrs. H. M. Francis, presented a comprehensive report of the year's branch activities, while in the absence of E. S. James, Mr. P. C. McGuire gave the financial report. A musical interlude was provided by Mr. James Bankier who was heard in several well-appreciated vocal solos with Mrs. M. P. Duff acting as accompanist.

Re-Elected President

Mr. Norman Edwards was re-elected to the presidency for his second term of office, while C. B. Morgan and Richard Hart were named as vice presidents. Mr. E. S. James was named acting treasurer with Mrs. H. M. Francis being returned as secretary. Honorary presidents are Mayor Frank Follwell, Judge C. A. Cameron, J. Fred Wilson, M. L. A. and George H. Stokes, M. P. P.

Members include Mrs. Lashbrook, Mrs. H. McBurney, Rev. J. W. Houston, Mr. B. Stone, Agnes Gallagher, Mrs. G. Sparling, Mrs. T. Franklin, Mrs. W. H. Lattimer, Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Mr. K. Reid, Alderman Newton Wilbur, Alderman Ted Follwell, Mrs. C. A. Camerson, H. B. Fetterly, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, Mrs. J. Lynch, Mrs. J. Tilley, Mrs. A. Hitchon, Mrs. G. F. Lent, Mrs. J. E. Madill, Mrs. N. E. Wardner, Mrs. F. B. Foley, Mrs. Ernie Finkle, Mrs. Ed Buchanan, Mrs. C. W. Howie and P. C. McGuire.

50 Per Cent of Work

That the Victorian Order of Nurses is sparing no effort to lend every possible assistance to young mothers and their new-born infants was emphasized by the annual V.O.N. report presented by Miss G. Vivian Adair, nurse-in-charge, which showed that the care of maternity and new-born patients made up more than 50 per cent of their work for the past year.

Last year in Belleville there were 15 babies born at home and 360 in hospital with the Victorian Order giving care in 160 cases. Maternity service given by the V.O.N. includes health supervision of the mother during pregnancy, known as prenatal care, nursing at the time of delivery and for a week or ten days following, then weekly health supervision until the baby is six weeks of age.

If the baby is born in hospital, the mother may return home anytime from the third to tenth day and call in a nurse to Bath the baby and demonstrate the care the baby needs. This service is especially helpful to the young mother with her first baby.

Request V.O.N. Service

There has also been a notable increase in the number of expectant mothers who request the V.O.N. service. There were 77 in 1945 as compared with 53 the year previous. Prenatal classes were begun in September and although the registration has been small, it is felt that as the service becomes better known, more expectant mothers will take advantage of the classes.

Despite the vastly increased maternity service given by the V.O.N., the chronically ill patients were not neglected as was shown by the 1,160 visits to this class of patients which had been given during the year. Medical and surgical visits numbered 1,749, while V.O.N. nurses assisted in 37 operations. Total visits made during the year amounted to 5,896.

772 New Cases Attended

A total of 772 new cases were attended by the Victorian Order, 279 being medical, 133 maternity, and 175 newborn. Health instructions was given in 62 instances.

Accustomed to visits from the public health nurse while living in England, brides of Canadian service personnel coming to Canada to live are quick to take advantage of the V.O.N. service it was stated. Nineteen war brides have been visited since November, while these young women have also availed themselves of the Well Baby Conferences and prenatal classes. Through the year 454 visits were made to 318 families of service men in Canada.

The well baby conference had a most successful year in spite of the many service families moving from the city while for their work in this department a special thanks was extended to Mrs. Madill, Mrs. Burton and Mrs. Buchanan. The Kiwanis club was also thanked for additional space which had been granted to V.O.N. to conduct toxoid clinics. Two hundred and ten infants and pre-school children had received inoculations against diphtheria and whooping cough.

Medical Profession Thanked

Special appreciation to the medical profession for its members' co-operation in the work of the V.O.N. was expressed in the report.

Other special activities included two lectures and a demonstration to senior students of the Belleville General Hospital. Last March the Victorian Order sponsored a film and lecture on venereal diseases in the collegiate auditorium. In the spring and fall of 1945 assistance had been given at 14 clinics held by the travelling chest clinic when 2264 were X-rayed.

Nursing staff of the Belleville Victorian Order includes Miss Adair, nurse-in-charge who came to Belleville from Ottawa in September, Miss Dorothy Connor and Miss Marion Werry, graduate of Brantford General Hospital, who following post graduate training from the University of Toronto, joined the staff in June.

Beware the Dowager's Hump! Massage, Alone, Can Help

Your back and shoulders can be lovely and straight, like Janet Blair's shown here.

By HELEN FOLLETT

ONE of the pet peeves of the poor dear who runs to bulges and over-curves is a roll of fat that pops up between the back of the neck and the shoulders, known through the modern ages as the dowager's hump.

It can be deflated and flatteded by a system of muscle strapping. Clever operators in reducing salons know how to do it, get speedy results.

The beauty patient reclines on her tummy, hands relaxed at the sides. The operator starts in the middle of the back, just north of the waist-line, does rotary motions with her skillful fingers until they are on a line with the shoulders. Then she picks up the flesh and rolls it.

Dissolved Cells

This form of manipulation dissolves the fat cells. So flabbiness will not result, there is a brisk slapping afterward. During the operation a heavy cream that offers resistance to the movements of the fingers is used.

An ice rub follows, as astringent is applied. The treatment finishes with a talcum with more slapping and patting. The patient is given strict orders to hold her head on the level at all times.

Chin Drop

Letting the chin drop not only creates the back hump, but it invites a spare chin to come along and mar the facescape of the woman who has indulged too freely in the good things of the table.

Reducing is possible with no great discomfort or sacrifice. To make the bathroom scales give a cheerful report, one has to cut down food elements that build adipose tissue. These elements are fats, starches and sweets. Candy, pastries, fat meats, cream soups, cereals, macaroni, rice are off the diet record.

One can have lean meat, sea food, poultry, vegetables that grow above ground, fruit, fruit juices. Tea and coffee should be taken clear as sugar and cream cause one to take on weight.

REALLY IN TROUBLE

Pasadena, Calif., March 6 — (AP)—Ching — half chow, half husky dog — is really in trouble now. When a postman complained Ching had bitten him, the sheriff's office sent Deputy C. L. Brownlee to investigate. Brownlee reported back that the dog had caught up with him too, after a block's chase. Ching's owner is due in court today.

TENDED BY PLANE

Ortonville, Minn., March 6 — (AP)—When a farm woman telephoned Dr. A. J. Hanson and said she was suffering from a toothache but couldn't get to his office because of snow-blocked highways, the dentist jumped into his plane and flew to her farm home, landing on a nearby ice-covered lake. His surprised patient was given prompt relief.

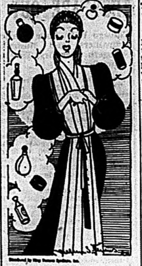
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Hands should be white, smooth, expressive



Wring your hands as though you were in a state of panic

Hands should be smooth, white, well cared for and under control. They should not be waved about in the air to emphasize one's speech, nor should they be limp and inert. Hands express character. They should be conscious of their movements, behave prettily.

There is beauty in useful, strong, capable hands. Some people do not realize this fact. They are the ones who cannot see beauty in the serenity and peacefulness of old age. There is much in the way of beauty that is overlooked. One must be aware of it. To be aware of it, one must use the old head, be susceptible to what appeals to the heart.

The surface of the hands responds quickly to a little care. It is sometimes grateful for a change of soap; it gets tired of the same old lather which may not have been congenial in the first place. If hands show the effect of heavy work about the house, if you have been cleaning the kitchen range, wiping dust from closet shelves or polishing furniture, add cornmeal to the suds. It will grind out the dark lines in the knuckles. The starchy content of the meal softens and refines the skin.

Usually it is the complexion and the glorious halo that receive all the attention. Hands also should be invited to cosmetic parties. How they look is important to any self-respecting woman who understands that she is a part of the world's good looks spectacle.

After giving the complexion its nightly creaming, don't wash or wipe away the emollient that remains on the fingers. Give your precious mitts a five minute massage which will not only improve their appearance but will keep them more flexible.

Put on more cream. Wring your hands as if you were in a state of panic, forcing the fragrant oils into the flesh. Beginning at the base of each finger, work upward with the thumb. Massage the inner surfaces of the fingers. Work on the wrists. Give a few creamy licks to your elbows. Elbows are seldom up to standard in color or smoothness.

Rub the cosmetic into the cuticle surrounding the finger nails. That practice will make your manicurist happy. She won't have to do so much work detaching the flesh, nor will she flush up hangnails.

All this won't take more than five or six minutes. It should be a part of the beautifying half hour to which every women is entitled before she crawls under the blankets. You might spend five minutes more doing some torso twisting, just to keep the waistline in form. You're too sleepy? Oh, well then, never mind. Teacher won't insist.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Engaged Girl is Welcomed by Her Future In-Laws

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I am at a loss to know what is the correct thing for me to do. My nephew has become engaged to a young lady whom I have met only once, and that was before the engagement. Would it be proper for me to write his fiancee; and if so, just what should I write?

I do not know her parents. Should I write her mother?

B. S.

When a man becomes engaged, his kinfolk either call on the girl to welcome her into the family, or (if she lives at a distance) write her a cordial note of welcome and best wishes. So please do call on or write to your nephew's fiancee, for naturally she will expect and will be happy to be welcomed by her fiance's "Aunt Beatrice" (as she too will soon have the right to address you). Tell her how delighted you were to meet her, how happy you are about the engagement; if you are devoted to your nephew, tell her that and of your admiration of him (an engaged girl rejoices in having her future in-laws tell her of their love and admiration of her fiance); perhaps speak of the glowing things he has told you about her if he has; and say warm-hearted words of welcome into your family, and of best wishes for their future happiness.

Although your nephew's mother and father should write to his fiancee's mother and father, it is not necessary for you to; but it would be gracious, and I'm sure, much appreciated.

A Note Not a Printed Card to Thank for Baby's Present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I was just about to buy printed "Thank-you cards" to send to relatives and friends for gifts they sent to my new-born baby; then I read in your column today that this is not proper, that personal notes of thanks should be written. Will you tell me please how such notes should be worded? And will you tell me too how I should sign these notes?

A Mother.

I'm delighted that my words kept you from sending these impersonal products of a printing shop to thank your relatives and friends who were so kind and generous. For any note of thanks, here is a good basic recipe; thank for the thought that prompted the sending of the gift; then, mentioning the gift specifically, comment enthusiastically about its attractive and useful features. Perhaps like this:

Dear Norma,

How kind you were, and how generous, to send such a lovely gift to my baby! The lovely pink sacque, is a delight to her, a snuggly comfort, and I'm sure she already knows how becoming it is to her. As I am writing to thank you, Nancy is wearing your wonderful gift, and is waving her little fist to try to thank you too.

I do hope you and Bill are coming this way soon so that you can come to "meet" this new member of our family.

Dearest love and thanks to you both from Bob and me. . . and from our new daughter.

Affectionately,

(Since these gifts were sent by relatives and intimate friends, you would, naturally, sign only your first name to the notes.)

Fashion Flashes

A BIG SUCCESS is a suit of 12-ounce worsted suiting in a silver blonde shade. The longish jacket is made with high-placed, tiny revers and has three rows of silver ball buttons, one row on either side of the closing.

Just beautiful is the only label we can bestow on an evening frock fashioned of nylon-net in black or gray. The high neck is finished with silver embroidery and necklace of the turquoise blue stones. The same detail is used for the wristbands of the huge sleeves of open knife pleats. Full skirt is stiffened over black taffeta.

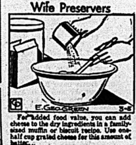
Real news on the dress front was made at one showing by a simple frock of blonde wool, with high closing done in softly tucked surplice detail and back buttoning. But the big thing was the deep cape stole of matching wool belted in navy blue leather.

Theatre suits made for smart women include several variations of the black satin and wool theme, the jacket of satin often trimmed with jet beading, and worn with a slim wool skirt. Jet forms window-pane checks on a satin jacket made with a jutting peplum, a nice contrast with the pencil-slim woollen skirt.

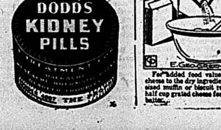
Big season ahead for the petticoat, for shops report that, regardless of style or fabric, petticoats, just can't be kept in stock. Black crepe is used for a pretty petticoat with nylon-fagotted seams. It is embroidered with bright red lips across the front and along the scalloped hemline.

Shades of night include lemon, noticed in several lovely nightgowns. Yellow satin is used for the high-waisted skirt of a lovely nightie made with softly shirred and banded top of yellow chiffon to tone.

Wife Preservers



For added food value, you can add cheese to the dry ingredients in a family-sized muffin or biscuit recipe. Use one-half cup grated cheese for this amount of batter.



Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Young Man Had a Bad Case of Shyness

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 31 years old, and I'm lonesome. I would like to talk to girls and find a steady girl to go with, but something in me keeps me back. I don't know what's wrong. Maybe you could tell me.

F. J. G.

What's wrong with you, F. J. G., is a bad case of shyness. And while it's a painful disease, it's nearly always curable if you go at it the right way.

But you've got to work at it yourself. Nobody can wave a wand and pass a miracle and suddenly make you gay and talkative and popular without any trouble on your own part.

First thing for you to do is to look around and see what opportunities there are to meet nice girls. What organizations are there in your town that you could join? If there's a Y.M.C.A., join that and get acquainted with the other men who go there. Swim with them, bowl with them, work out in the gym with them, and presently you'll be sufficiently friendly with them so that they'll be inviting you to their homes where you'll meet their sisters and friends. Also, the Y undoubtedly gives parties to which girls are invited.

How about a lodge. That's a good place to make friends. Lodges give parties occasionally, too, to which members bring women relatives and friends. Do you go to any church regularly? If not, maybe you'd better begin! Almost every church has different clubs and other organized groups that bring men and women together.

But whatever you join, take an active part in it. Let them know you'll be a worker in the group. And as you become familiar with its programs and friendly with its members, the first thing you know, you'll forget about being shy, and start having a good time. After that, you'll be surprised how easy everything gets!

She Spends Lonely Evenings While Her Husband Seeks Pleasure Elsewhere

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married 12 years and have two little girls, the oldest nine and the other six.

For a long time we have been a very happy family, but about a year ago things began to be different and my husband seemed to lose interest in doing things with his family. He just wanted to go out by himself, first to bowl with his men friends, he said, and now lately he doesn't tell me where he goes. It is very lonesome just staying home by myself with the children most nights, Miss Fairfax, and I am very unhappy. What should I do?

Unhappy Wife

You don't say whether or not you have ever tried to talk this over with your husband. If you were happy together for so much of the time that you have been married, those years must have built up between you a certain amount of real understanding and confidence. All that can't have disappeared at once.

So don't give this thing a chance to build itself up any longer before making an opportunity to try and find out what is wrong. Since you and your husband were once so close, perhaps, if you are very tactful, you can get him to talk frankly with you. Try not to let your talk turn into a quarrel that will only tangle the situation up more.

Perhaps you'll find it's just that you've wanted to stay home with the children too many nights instead of going out for good times with him. At any rate, if you can discover definitely what is at the bottom of the trouble, you'll be in a better position to know what you can do about it.

Believed Overseas Brides Will Adapt Themselves To The Canadian Way of Life

Some Reports of In-Law Difficulty Particularly if Wife Repatriated Before the Husband

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The special train — a veritable nursery on wheels — chugged slowly into the warm station at Everytown, Canada. A tense, emotional excitement that swept the people waiting on the platform and the anxious passengers, grew in that moment's "eternity" until the train spilled forth its travellers.

Except for the relaxed puffing of the huge engine, all was silent. Then there were mingled cries of "There she is — I think!" "It's queer looking for someone you don't know!" "Look at the baby — just like Bob!"

For a small group of British war brides this was the end of "Operation Daddy" which had brought them from their homes in the British Isles to the far-away Dominion of Canada, their new homes and, most important, their husbands.

It was the end of a strange, long trip in ships converted to floating nurseries and specially-fitted trains, to a new country, new cities, new people — a new life.

Since late in 1944, brides of Canadian servicemen have been coming to Canada. Now with the majority of Canada's fighting forces home, the government's Operation Daddy has been bringing across the balance of some 25,080 English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish girls.

Wide-eyed at Expanse

Wide-eyed at the expanse of the Dominion and agog at the seeming plenty of many things they were without in everyday life during the war years, all agreed their biggest thrill was seeing their husbands again. Next to that, without exception, was the abundance of food.

Marriage normally has many hazards, but transplanting a young girl thousands of miles from her home to a place where she is a stranger, where the people live, act and talk in a manner alien to her, is an extra hazard the British war bride has to face.

There have been instances where subconscious anxiety and repression have been inducted by evidence of hostility of Canadian women toward the British brides. But generally this is not the case. One spokesman for a group of Canadian women who are helping adjust the British girls to Canadian ways, said tho' the utmost is being done to make the brides welcome, "they don't always respond."

"Of course they are coming to all sorts of homes and it's possible the boys have 'blown up' Canada and the girls may be slightly disappointed," she added.

A survey by the Rehabilitation Information Committee found that generally Canadian-British couples are "progressing well" though a great proportion report in-law difficulties "particularly if the wife was repatriated before the veteran and tried to live with his family."

Part of Many Marriages

In many cases in-law difficulties have been irritated by the housing shortage which has forced hundreds of couples to live with parents. But "in-law difficulties are part of many marriages," one war bride said, adding that most British brides felt nothing but gratitude and appreciation for the way Canadian families have accepted them into their homes.

The brides are captivated by the countless household conveniences, such as electric washing machines, toasters, irons, vacuum cleaners, central heating and refrigerators — if "only we had our own homes in which to use them." But when the housing shortage eases and many more move into their own homes, they feel the difficulties they now are encountering will vanish.

"Our marriages have been no mistake," one bride said, "and we love Canada."

Food supplies have fascinated the girls, most of whom have known the strictest rationing during their adult lives and all are eager to learn to cook and keep house the "Canadian way."

Red Cross classes have been formed in most cities to teach the girls Canadian recipes and cooking methods. Home nursing, practical housekeeping, general hygiene, first aid and child care also are among the Red Cross' popular courses.

But while "we get a whole month's ration of eggs or meat in a single day now," many of the new Canadians miss things they have been accustomed to all their lives, such as English-style deep-dish pies and custards that invariably accompany fruit in English desserts. Too, they miss the open fireplace, but agree that central heating is much more comfortable in Canadian winter weather.

Many Shopping Sprees

Buying food and clothes "without coupons" was responsible for many shopping sprees by the young brides as their trains stopped at various points on the cross-Dominion trips. Each woman, allowed £10 when she left home, found sufficient time to buy sweaters, cosmetics, lingerie, stockings, clothes for their children — and fruit.

Impressions as the brides travelled across Canada's more than 3,000 miles have been varied. The enormity of the country with its vast expanses of seemingly unsettled land left most breathless. Many were willing to admit their disappointment after having heard stories of Indians and cowboys, wilderness and large snow-bound ranches, and other tales told by Canadian pranksters overseas.

But the new brides have not been long learning to adjust themselves in their new surroundings. British Wives Clubs have been formed by old country women to teach the newcomers about Canadian life and customs and Second Great War wives have organized Overseas Brides' Clubs to help them make friends and offset homesickness.

As well as helping teach the brides about Canada and provide organized recreation, the Brides' Clubs are sewing children's clothes in their spare time to alleviate the urgent need for garments in the countries they so recently left.

Most sociologists agree a majority of the Canadian - British marriages have every reason to endure, but there is a fear that some men will change their minds after they have been home a while and wish they had been less precipitate. Many of the girls will want to go home after a few miserable months spent with indifferent husbands in a country that seems "cold" to them.

Yet to the oft asked question: "Will the overseas brides be able to adapt themselves to the Canadian way of life?" The answer—a loud "yes" — has become apparent.

NORTHERN ONT. RINK UNDEFEATED IN BRIER TANKARD

Manitoba Rink Upset by Perry Hall of Kitchener by 10-7

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Saskatoon, March 6. (CP)—An unheralded rink from Kirkland Lake, representing Northern Ontario, held the spotlight today as the MacDonald's Brier Tankard moved into its fifth round.

The Kirkland Lake four, skipped by Tommy Ramsay, scored a 10-7 victory over Dalt Henderson's Saskatoon Mutana quartet, Saskatchewan Champions, yesterday to take an undisputed lead in the bonspiel with four wins and no defeats.

But almost over-shadowing Ramsay's feat was the 10-7 upset of the highly-favored Manitoba representatives— Leo Johnson's Winnipeg Strathconas—by Ontaria's skip Perry Hall, of Kitchener.

That result dropped the hitherto unbeaten Manitoba rink into a second-place tie with Ontario and Alberta which ran up the highest score of the round with an 18-3 triumph over the luckless Prince Edward Island entry. Each has three wins and one loss.

In other matches, Dr. George MacIntosh's Nova Scotians rebounding after two straight losses took their second game by edging out British Columbia 11-10 and Quebec kept pace by overcoming New Brunswick 12-8. Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Quebec are tied for third place with two wins and two losses, British Columbia is next with a lone victory and three defeats and New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have dropped four straight.

The Northern Ontario-Saskatchewan battle was a hard fought affair for ten ends but Tommy Ramsay's men scored four points in the last two to take the match.

The 2,500 spectators got an equal thrill out of the Ontario-Manitoba contest, likewise a tightly fought match throughout which saw three ends posted without a score. A four-end and a single in the last two ends gave Perry Hall's rink the game.

Northern Ontario meets Nova Scotia today, Manitoba plays New Brunswick, British Columbia batties Prince Edward Island, Alberta takes on Saskatchewan and the fifth game is a Quebec-Ontario match. Three rounds are scheduled for the day.

Connie Mack Says Team Will be Stronger Than Last Year

By GAYLE TALBOT

West Palm Beach, March 6 — (AP) — Baseball's most remarkable specimen, 83-year-old Connie Mack of Philadelphia Athletics, is laboring with 54 assorted athletes here, and about the best he found to say was:

"It isn't as bad as I expected it to be."

What the venerable president expected must have been horrible, for it is difficult to see where he detects a gleam of light in connection with the coming American League race.

His team was a solid last in 1945, and it figured to finish there again this year.

In an hour's discussion of his team, he could lay his hand on little about which to be optimistic.

"We will be stronger than last season," he conceded. "We have some good men coming back, and we have some splendid young prospects, especially a half-dozen young pitchers.

"Bu my young men probably are at least a year away, and the other teams also are going to be much stronger than they were."

Observers of Connie Mack's camps say he never before drove a squad so hard. For the first 13 days he permitted no inter-squad games. There was nothing except what the players classified as "drudgery" — batting and fielding drills and running.

Their pitching is extremely uncertain, and their catching only moderately promising. They have not a double play combination in sight, and they have only one outfielder to - fielder of proved big league calibre — Sam Chapman, who has been in the service four years.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.)

New York, March 6 — (AP) — Jimmy Proscia and Jesse L. Stern who need a new outfit trying to revive six-day bike racing, are toying with the idea of "streamlining" the grind . . . the plan would call for rest periods from 5 a.m. to noon — when no one is in the joint anyway — except in the last 48 hours — and almost continuous sprinting the rest of the time . . . Another ambitious plan, provided the "test" races in Chicago and Montreal this spring draw the fans, is to set up eastern and western circuits with a "final" in New York . . . They're also talking about building a velodrome on Long Island to develop new riders and new customers and then importing a lot of European talent to race against the Americans . . . Come to think of it, if the riders can pedal as fast as Jimmy and Jesse can talk, — they'll probably set a record the first time out.

Today's Guest Star

C. M. Gibbs, Baltimore Sun: — "Rogers Hornsby is 'teaching' Chicago White Sox how to hit . . . Anyone would naturally suppose that ball players who reach the high estate of employment by a major league club would have learned how to hit before they got that far . . . Apparently the White Sox are somewhat different.

READ THE PAPERS, CHUM?

Aside to the Petes' scribe:— That semi-pro pitcher you heard about, as announced in this pillar six weeks ago, is now cavorting around the lush pastures of Batawa where he will bolster a pitching staff already consisting of Jack "Lefty" Garten and Frank "Smoky" Smith. They are the forkside slinging duo who split 104 strikeouts in the memorable thirty-five innings three-game series between Thornbury and Batawa last apple-picking time. Regarding the semi-pro, he is said to have played for a Brooklyn team prior to his RCAF days. In the service he knocked off 18 consecutive wins for a Camp Borden squad. He, pal, throws 'em from the knife side.

The old Rah-Rah spirit is flaring again between Varsity and the Redmen of McGill. Now comes the suggestion by Coach Dave Campbell of the McGillers that the two teams stage a home-and-home total goals series for the Intercollegiate title in case the squads are tied at the top of the loop ladder. Varsity at present rests in the second slot two points behind McGill, but have another game to play with the U of Montreal. According to the dopesters the U of Emmers should be easy pickings for the Blue and White, hence the Campbell suggestion. Both McGill and Varsity won their home games although the Reds had to stage a Merriwell third period, scoring four goals to win after trailing the Blues by three tallies. The series will be a bit of added diversion for the students, added glory for the winners, and what else?

TIMED 45,000 BOXING MATCHES

Known to ring fans as 'Nick' Cecil Henry Nichols will shortly complete his thirtieth year as timekeeper for professional British boxing. The other evening he recalled for the BBC overseas audience some of the fights he's timed—45,000 is a low estimate he considers.

• • •

Among the many big contests —such as the Petersen-Len Harvey and the Len Harvey-John Henry Lewis match—he thinks that for sheer sustained excitement the fight between Pat O'Keith and Jim Sullivan, back in 1916, beat any of the others. In Nichols' own words: "Even the most hardened followers of boxing were spellbound as the two middleweights fought like tigers for fifteen rounds, taking and giving punishment until by the last round they both looked like Red Indians. O'Keith got the verdict on points, but in all my experience I've never seen a gamer exhibition."

• • •

Nichols was once knocked out himself—by a missile thrown from the gallery but which was really intended for the referee. The most amusing incident he remembers was once when a boxer put on his gloves in the ring, took off his dressing gown, and then discovered he'd forgotten to put on his trunks. . "he went out of that ring like a rocket, followed by the biggest roar of laughter I've ever heard."

Speeding greyhounds of the inland waterways, 225 Class speed boats will vie for world honors in this district in August. World famous drivers, some of them ex-holders of records are back again in the race for speedboat supremacy and residents of this city will have the opportunity of seeing these dare-devils of the water-lanes in flashing action.

The American Power Boat Association, with headquarters at Washington, has sanctioned four meets to be called the Canadian Vacation Circuit. These will be held at Barrie, Picton, Belleville and Valleyfield, Que. In addition, the APBA has cancelled all meets in the USA during that period so that all American drivers wishing to participate will have the opportunity to do so.

JUNIORS FOR KINGSTON

Kingston Saints knocked off the haughty Victorias inter-city rivals in the Junior "B" grouping down that way in two straight games and will now meet the Belleville Bears in the first playdown series. No dates have been set as yet but Coach Toots Holway stated last night that efforts are being made to have the first joust of the series here on Friday night. The Saints are a smart team and have been playing plenty of hockey while the Bruins have been sittin' around waiting for the Kingston series to end. It is believed the Kingston-Belleville series will be best two-of-three.

Galt fans aren't the least downhearted over their team's standing in the Junior "A" finals with the starry St. Mikes' squad. They beat the Irish 6-3 in the last tilt but they are still two games down on the round. The loyal Galters will pile into sixteen (count 'em) busses tonight and trek down to Maple Leaf Gardans where their gallant youngsters take on the Green in the fifth game of the series. If the Reds lose then it's curtains and the doughty Irish go on to the finals. In the meantime it looks very much like Oshawa Generals against Toronto Marlboros and then the wars will really start when the Gens and the Irish meet. Yer pays yer mony and takes yer choice.

OMAHA CLINCHES SECOND PLACE

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Sadler's goal in 46 seconds of the final period saved Tulsa from a shutout last night as Omaha clinched second place in the United States hockey league with a 5-1 victory over the Oilers at Omaha.

The battered Omaha Knights, minus injured Don Morrison and Carl (Winkie) Smith, built their victory slowly, scoring twice in the first period and once in the second.

After Sadler's quick thrust at the goal in the third, Conrad Poitras and Johnny Holota collected the final two scores for Omaha.

IF LEAFS LOSE TO BLACK HAWKS THEY ARE OUT

Chicago Will Have Bentley Brothers and Mosienko Together for First Time in Months

(By The Canadian Press)

This is the night that decides whether the Toronto Maple Leafs are dead ducks in the National Hockey League. If they lose to Chicago, they're out, but definitely.

Right now Montreal Canadiens lead Chicago by one point, with Boston and Detroit tied for third, another three points back. Leafs are five games back of the third-place ties, and they have only six games left.

It's a sample of the Leafs' luck that their game tonight is in Chicago, where the great Black Hawk forward line of Max and Doug Bentley and Bill Mosienko will be skating together for the first time since December.

Another game tonight has Detroit playing at Boston, and one of them should win. The third game has New York Rangers at Montreal.

Should the Black Hawks whip Toronto, the Maple Leafs will find themselves six games back of either Detroit or Boston — with only five games left before the schedule ends on St. Patrick's Day.

The Leafs have been driving hard lately after the mid-season troubles. They beat Chicago and New York in turn last weekend and Gaye Stewart has jumped into the race for individual scoring honors with 45 points compared to Max Bentley's 53.

But if the Leafs lose tonight it's curtains.

How the great Hawk line will As a unit it has been out of ac- As a unit it has bee nout of action for 26 games. But it's still the league's top scoring line with 131 points, 14 better than Canadiens' crack line of Lach, Richard and Blake. Manager Johnny Gottselig said yesterday that both Bentleys have been performing satisfactorily in workouts.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By E. L. WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 6 (CP)—Winnipeg is in a fair way toward being the cradle of big-league hockey players, as a look at National League rosters will reveal. Two former N.H.L. stars agree the chief reason is the number of rinks the city's parks commission makes available for youngsters.

Baldy Northcott, star of the now-defunct Montreal Maroons, and Art Somers, a player of considerable note in the better days of the New York Rangers, say it isn't any mere accident that so many Winnipeg names grace the payrolls of the Dutton-circuit clubs.

Admittedly both gentlemen are Winnipegers from some time back but before they are disqualified on that count, let's count up.

Toronto Leafs have Babe Pratt, Wally Stanowski and Bill Ezinicki. Chicago Black Hawks place considerable faith in Bill Mosienko and Joe Cooper and then there are Alf Pike of Rangers, and the Reardons, Terry of Boston Bruins and Kenny of Montreal Canadiens.

Pete Langelle won't exactly be given a cold reception by the Leafs when he gets out of the Canadian army. Another Leaf, Billy Taylor, was born in Winnipeg according to records and Alex Shibicky, now in the minors after a long and brilliant career with Rangers, is also from here. So, too, are Wilf Field, Rene Trudel—and if you want to delve into the past, Northcott, Somers, the faultless Chuck Gardiner, now dead, Art Coulter, Iron Man Murray Murdoch and others.

Somers saw only one cloud on the horizon—the reluctance of juvenile and junior players to refrain from eating such things as French fried potatoes, beef sandwiches and hot dogs before, during and after games. They'll never make the big league by eating their way into it.

Best Crack-of-the-Week Department: Gorde (Winnipeg Tribune) Hunter in a sports page cartoon: "The kingly crew (Winnipeg Monarchs, Junior hockey team) .. are still under the impression that a pass is something you take at a shapely blonde."

RATION STILL 40 OUNCES

Montreal, March 6 — (CP) — The Scotch whisky ration in Quebec province is still 40 ounces a month, a Quebec Liquor Commission spokesman said yesterday. Denying earlier reports that the ration was being increased to two 40-ounce bottles a month, the spokesman said commission stocks are not yet sufficiently large to permit the issue of the extra bottle.

LITTLE TOO OPTIMISTIC

London, March 6 — (CP)—Anthony Eden told the House of Commons last night he thought the labor government might be "optimistic" in its estimate that Britain's armed forces could be reduced to 1,100,000 men by the end of this year. The former foreign secretary, acting Conservative leader in Winston Churchill's absence, wound up for his party a two-day debate on defence policy.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 928

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

HONOR LEADS

For my dough, every department in bridge follows an order of preference. That goes for each subdivision in bidding, plays, and leads. Also for each subdivision of each subdivision.

In the lead department, the lead of an honor is most preferred. From A K and others, the king is led. From all other combinations of honors, lead the top of the sequence.

Thus, lead ace from A K alone; king from A K with others or K Q J or K Q 10; queen from Q J 10 or Q J 9; jack from J 10 9 or J 10 8; ten from 10 9 8 or 10 9 7.

With a choice between two or more honor leads, prefer the one that uses the higher honor. When the same honor is used with either of two groups, prefer the one from the highest combination.

Ace from A K alone is chosen before king from A K with others; and before king or queen or jack or ten from the top of a sequence. The ace is a higher card than any of the other honors.

King from A K with others is preferred to king from the top of a sequence; and before queen or jack or ten from the top of their sequence. The A K is a higher combination than any of the others.

King from K Q J or K Q 10 is chosen before queen or jack or ten from the top of a sequence. Queen from Q J 10 or Q J 9 is before any lower sequence top. You get that idea, I'm sure.

King from K Q J is preferred to king from K Q 10; queen from Q J 10 is chosen before queen from Q J 9; and so on. Leading from a complete sequence is a better combination than an incomplete.

It is your lead ffom this hand:

♠9 4
♥K Q 10 5
♦8 7 3
♣J 10 9 6

Prefer to lead your king of hearts rather than your club jack. The king is a higher card. Its sequence cards are higher, too.

The best is none too good for a leader.

PRISONERS PICKED UP

Ste. Blaise, Que., March 6 (CP)—Two fully-uniformed Nazi soldiers were "back on the farm" today after being picked up at nearby St. John's by R.C.M.P. The two prisoners of war were employed by a district farmer who took them with him to St. John's where he had business. He told them to "wait around" and that's when police came in They told the farmer to stick more closely to conditions under which prisoners were put under his care.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 6 — (AP)—Robert Walker, a contentious character, says at last he is getting a chance to act.

"So far I have been playing naive boys," he said. He contends he is neither a boy (he is 27), nor naive (he didn't explain this).

His first chance to escape the gee-whiz type of role is in "Till the Clouds Roll By," the Jerome Kern biography on which Metro is lavishing most of its talent and a sizable hunk of dough. Walker is playing the late composer and he says it is a challenge to his acting ability.

"Most of the picture portrays Kern in middle age," he said. "Any actor will tell you it is easy to play youth or old age, but middle-age is tough."

Bob complained about fan magazine stories which described him as just as naive and homey as the roles he has played. "Nuts," he said. "I have become selfish and money-conscious."

Careful, Robert. You're liable to get a reputation for being honest.

The John Garfield-Oscar Levant ribbing feud got off to an early start when the two began scenes together in "Humoresque." A temporary substitute for the dour Levant's regular stand - in was found to be a trifle taller than Levant. The cameraman was fussing a bit over the situation, when Garfield stepped forward and said, "I happen to know that this guy is a very good stand-in; why don't you keep him and get a taller actor?"

When you see the English star, Rex Harrison, in "Anna and the King of Siam," you'll notice that he's photographed largely in profile. Not exactly because he's usually looking at Irene Dunne, who plays Anna, but because his makeup makes it a good idea. The slant eyes needed for the portrayal are achieved by the use of adhesive tape, concealed by make-up, and the tape is most uncomfortable. Sometimes excessive use of it will create painful water blisters, which are dangerous because of possible infections. To relieve the situation, only one eye is made up at a time. That's why you'll see so much of the handsome Harrison's profile.

Ont. Legislature Turns to Govt. Bills

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—With speculation on projected liquor legislation still an insistent theme in Queen's Park corridors, Ontario's 22nd legislature turned today to consideration of government bills after two short sittings which provided only a brief hint of government policy.

As the new session entered its third day the only clue to possible changes in liquor laws remained in the announcement in the Speech from the Throne that the Ontario Liquor Authority Control Act (1944) will be amended to "improve the licensing and controlling of licensed premises."

What that meant provoked a wide range of discussion—including the possibility of open warfare between Ontario's wets and drys—despite the absence of any reference to the topic yesterday in the opening of the Throne Speech debate.

R. E. Elliott (PC—Hamilton East) moved the address in reply to the Throne Speech declaring that Ontario labor laws had provided benefits which were generally appreciated. The address was seconded by John A. Fullerton (PC — Algoma-Manitoulin), who devoted his speech exclusively to developments in northern Ontario industry.

Shortly before the debate opened Aurelien Belanger (L—Prescott) rose on a point of privilege to ask why the usual colored seating plans had been replaced by black-and-white sheets. Premier Drew said the colored plans would be available shortly.

IT MIGHT AS WELL BE SPRING

Although spring isn't scheduled to make its official entrance for another couple of weeks, she dropped in incognito today. That was good enough for pretty Frances Kay, of Woodside, L.I., who shucked her shoes and dunked her pretty puppies in a pool at Central Park, New York.

R. J. Smith, Perth, Elected Pres.

Toronto, March 6 —(CP)—The Ontario Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities continued its annual meeting today after electing R. J. Smith of Perth as president and hearing Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, declare that now is the time to decide whether the Niagara division should change from 25-cycle power to 60-cycle.

Dr. Hogg told the Association yesterday, meeting with the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, that the change from 25 cycle to 60 cycle would involve expenditure of millions of dollars but that it would be desirable to standardize the Niagara frequency with that prevailing on the rest of the continent.

Expenditures arising from such conversion, he suggested, should be amortized "so that the present consumers should not have to bear all the costs of the benefits which will be extended into the future."

Dr. Hogg said the decision must be made within a limited time, because it would affect hydro's post-war program involving expenditures of possibly $200,000,000 in the next five years.

$100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Will be Run on Saturday

Arcadia, Calif., March 6. — (AP)— Sparkling workouts and the important question of who's going to ride which, occupied the attention of horsemen today as Santa Anita began to run a temperature over Saturday's $100,000 handicap.

Ed Mulrenan's favored First Fiddle, fourth ranking all-time money winner, worked leisurely mile and one-eight yesterday in 1.54 4-5. Veteran Johnny Longden of Taber, Alta., winner of three stakes at the current meet, will be aboard the seven-year-old gray horse.

But the works that brought clockers up short were Sirde's 2.02 3-5 and Man O' Glory's 2.03 3-5 for the mile and one-quarter handicap distance. Sirde, coupled with Snow Boots as Mrs. A. L. Rice's entry, will pack 117 pounds and Man O' Glory only 114, compared with First Fiddle's top 126.

Jockey Basil James is tabbed for Snow Boots, with Otto Grohs probably aboard Sirde.

Conn McCreary again is coming out from Florida to ride Tom Taylor's Bric A Bac, and Aaron Hirschberg is after Joe Dean Jessop, 1945's top rider, for his filly threat Canina, winner of last week's Santa Margarita handicap.

Young Bob Howard tried to lure Eddie Arcaro out to pilot Bail Bond, but Bail Bond wasn't sufficient incentive for the Stakes Ace.

NEGRO WOMAN HONEST

Nassau March 6 (CP Cable)—An impoverished negro woman yesterday picked up a bracelet, brooch and ring in a post office and turned them into the office of a newspaper, the Tribune. They proved to be among jewelry worth $30,000 stolen in Nassau Feb. 17 from Mrs. John Boatwright of New York. The diamond and platinum bracelet alone was worth $14,000. All the stolen jewelry now has been recovered except a pearl necklace.

Father Coaching Rookie Son At Brooklyn Camp

By The Canadian Press

Brooklyn has a unique father and son story this spring at Daytona Beach, Fla., in rookie outfielder John Corriden Jr. and his 59-year-old dad coach Johnny Corriden Sr., of manager Leo Durocher's board of strategy. Johnny Sr. is getting one of the biggest thrills of his 38 years in baseball from his son's fight for a job with the Brooklyn ball club, yet he remains strictly neutral .... or as neutral as a father ever can be. Young Corriden, who played with Montreal and New Orleans in 1943, has been a regular with Montreal, hitting .313 for 102 games last year.

The American Baseball League, with New York Yankees turning on the arclights for the first time, this season will play 130 night games, an increase of 20 over last year when five teams had lights. The junior circuit's 1946 schedule, released yesterday showed all eight teams starting April 16. This matches the National League get-away and both leagues will close the same day, Sept. 29.

Pellicle, the gelding shipped from Florida by Hal Price Headley to compete in the $15,800 Louisiana Derby, came through for his owner with a convincing victory yesterday at New Orleans in the 21st running of the Fair Grounds' three-year-old classic. He bested William Helis' Earshot by two lengths.

Thirty two rinks from Quebec, Ontario and the United States will begin play at Seigniory Club Thursday in the McCrea Trophy curling bonspiel. Defending champions are a Country Club, Brockton, Mass., four skipped by George Willett. Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Hamilton, Kingston and Galt are among other cities whose clubs will be represented.

Each team will play four games of 10 ends, with the rink compiling the highest point margin in four victories winning the trophy.

A short 31-year-old slugger who once trained with Joe Louis and claims he floored the heavyweight boxing champion with 16-ounce gloves, Jersey Joe Walcott proclaimed at Camden, N.J., yesterday he's ready to tackle Louis for the world title.

"With light gloves," the Merchantville, N.J., Negro asserted, "I'd tear his head off. He's too easy to hit."

Red-haired Don Budge asserted at Chicago yesterday that big Bill Tilden is a bust as a professional tennis promoter and said the game needs 'better guidance to achieve the success of professional golf. Budge admitted Tilden, now over 50, still is "a terrific court personality," but said he is unqualified to give tennis pros the proper organizational leadership. Tilden recently organized a pro tennis group.

St. Mary's Hospital yesterday defeated London Hospital 34-3 in a semi-final of the London, England Hospitals' Rugby Union Cup.

Miss Rose Hanley of Belleville spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hanley.

AT THE BELLE

"They Were Expendable"

One of the closest reunions in Hollywood took place when the new M-G-M drama, "They Were Expendable," opening today on the Belle Theatre screen, went into production. Starring Robert Montgomery and John Wayne, with Donna Reed, Jack Holt and Ward Bond in featured roles under the direction of Capt. John Ford, the picture joined three who have spent much of their lives and careers together.

When Wayne and Bond were still in college, Ford launched a local search for university men to appear in "Salute." The two were among the first chosen.

Since then the three have had hilarious experiences together. There was the time that Ford was in San Francisco on his way to Honolulu. Bond decided to fly up to bid him good-bye. Since he left on short notice, he didn't even take a tooth-brush with him. He saw Ford, and before he knew what was happening he was on the Clipper bound for the islands.

Wayne owes his first big movie break to Ford. The director kept in touch with him after "Salute," watched him play stellar football at U.S.C. After graduation he got him a prop boy's job. Raoul Walsh, getting ready to make "The Big Trail," and needing a new man for the principal role, saw Wayne ambling across a sound stage carrying a heavy chair. He was taken by the lad's outdoor gait, and offered him the screen test which resulted in overnight stardom. Ford kept his ball of success rolling by featuring him in "Stagecoach," "The Long Voyage Home" and other hits, climaxed by "They Were Expendable."

The engagement ends on Friday.

AT THE CAPITOL — Charles Laughton and two of his devil's crew look over their loot in "Captain Kidd", a United Artists release, next at the Capitol Theatre. His co-stars Randolph Scott and Barbara Britton eventually trip the wily Kidd into the gallows' noose in this film produced by Rowland V. Lee and presented by Benedict Bogeaus. On the same program "Trail of Kit Carson," with Allan Lane.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Tugboat Annie"

Once of the most beloved characters in motion pictures, Tugboat Annie resumes her screen career in a rollicking, dramatic story, "Captain Tugboat Annie," which opens today at the McCarthy Theatre.

Producer of the picture, James S. Burkett, has successfully filled the cinematic shoes of the late, great Marie Dressler by casting a noted Academy Award winner, Jane Darwell, in the title role. Co-starring as skipper of the opposition tugboat fleet is Edgar Kennedy, both players turning in excellent performances.

As the first of the new series, which originally gained recognition in the Saturday Evening Post, the story shows the riverfront conflict when the government, after the war, returns tugboats and barges to their original owners. While struggling for her old position in the fleet, Tugboat Annie takes under her wing ex-veteran, Charles Gordon, who is on probation, and fosters a romance between the soldier and pretty Pamela Blake, playing the judge's daughter.

Topnotch entertainment is found in the film when Tugboat Annie sponsors the career of a ten-year-old violinist, performed to perfection by Saundra Berkova, a child prodigy whose screen bow brings a touch of the concert stage to theatres.

Second Feature

Judy Canova's being taken for a riot at the McCarthy Theatre, where she is currently starring in Columbia Pictures' "Hit the Hay," which features Ross Hunter, Fortunio Bonanova, Doris Merrick and Gloria Holden.

Playing the role of a country girl who is persuaded to counterfeit an opera singer, she gets the key to the city and gives the big town the business. She sings. She clowns. She makes love, hunting beaus with arrows. It's a goofy, hilarious "hey-hey riot" of fun and music for you!

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 18

This was a relief. Gina didn't know where to look for a nurse. They were dreadfully shorthanded as it was, and Lora had really become efficient in the last few weeks, had actually been able to concentrate on her work.

Barbara, too, was happier lately and told Gina, "It isn't all Patsy. It's you, too, Gina. I like you. I like you a lot. You help me. I mean when I'm with you, it isn't so difficult.... you know what I mean."

Gina did know what she meant only too well. For Doctor Lucian Pryor had called Barbara several other times, and once or twice, watching Barbara's face when she'd given her the message, Gina had thought she'd seen a sign of weakening. Each time it had been harder for Barbara to say, "I don't care to speak to him." Each time her voice had been a little mor tremulous; had carried a deeper note of heartbreak. Gina was afraid Dr. Pryor would break down her resistance eventually.

Timothy came in the office in the late afternoon; had just entered when Cynthia called him. Perhaps he'd had his orders to be near the phone. He took the telephone, smiling at Gina, "Hello, Cynthia."

A burst of quick words from the other end: then Timothy's voice again, "Yes, I promised. I'll be there. I'll try not to be late. Yes, dear. Yes, dear."

There was something about Timothy's subservience that was sickening to Gina. Had he already turned himself into a yes-man, into Cynthia's tame cat, squiring her around to teas and social functions, dancing on her every whim, forgetting his noble calling.

Gina sat very still at the desk, not looking at Timothy. He sank down into the big chair nearby. "Cynthia is trying to find another building for the BB's so we can keep some of them, the most needy ones, during the rest of winter and spring. She's really working very hard, but there doesn't seem to be a building available."

Gina knew that the Tri-State Hospital had been closed a few weeks previous, and the babies had been sent to their respective homes, some of them, as Gina knew, to hovels, more or less, like the one in which she'd found Patsy.

"I hope she can find the right place," Gina said still not looking up.

"Rather doubtful, I'm afraid."

Gina told him then that Lora would be married tomorrow night at the Belvedere Methodist church at seven-thirty.

"That's the one that's almost covered with ivy, isn't it?"

Gina nodded.

"I'm glad. She's a good kid," Timothy said, and got up stretching himself and smothering a yawn. "I could sit there until daybreak without moving."

"You put in too many hours at night after..dancing with Miss Snowden," Gina ventured.

"You're right. But I want to go on and get through now. Too many other things calling my attention. And Doctor Edson is getting a little impatient, too, I think."

"But he doesn't want you to kill yourself," Gina said lapsing into the old school-marm voice.

"No danger of that, Gina. I'm as strong as a horse." Timothy was starting out. He came back a moment, "Look, tomorrow night? Lora's wedding, I mean? Seven-thirty? We'll all go . as many of us from the hospital as can be spared. I'll wait for you at the entrance. We'll want to give Lora a nice send-off."

Gina nodded and Timothy lifted his hand in a salute and was gone.

They had been very lucky at Havenhill. Nora Choate now married, her husband at work in a defense plant, came to the hospital to see Patsy, after Gina had written her that she'd brought Patsy home with her. After she found out just how much they needed nurses she was glad to take Lora's place temporarily, at least.

So on Saturday night when Gina, wearing a new frock of a navy rayon-chiffon under her little box coat and a little pincushion of a hat on the back of her head, went out to meet Timothy, she left the hospital in Nora's capable hands.

Timothy was standing beside his shabby car, smoking a cigaret. He threw it away as Gina approached, reached inside for a small box, which he opened, throwing away the inside wrappings and bringing out a gardenia corsage. He had a small flower in his lapel, and was wearing a dark suit, in which he looked very handsome. "We must be festive, you know . at least insofar as it seems advisable. Will you hold still! The pin that goes with it is like a dagger. I don't want to stab myself, or.. you," he finished with a little self-conscious laugh.

Gina stood obediently still, and after a minute of what seemed to be real exertion, Timothy had the corsage pinned on securely.

Then he leaned back and surveyed her critically. "Just what you needed. Flowers become you, Gina."

"Thank you, Timothy."

He helped her in the car. "I suppose it won't take long, or will it? I've an engagement .. later, of course."

"It won't. It's going to be very simple."

Lora and Pete were in the vestibule of the church. Barbara was there, and Helen Wilson had turned up from somewhere. There were a few others to who Gina and Timothy were introduced, and then the small group was moving toward the minister's study which was built in one side of the church, a large, book-lined room with a little fire crackling away in a fireplace, and a tall vase of flowers, yellow pom-pom chrysantheums on the minister's desk, a leather chair or two, several Currier and Ives prints.

A minute later Phil drove up. Phil was usually so absorbed in his own plans they'd hardly expected him.

Lora was wearing a new brown suit, with very handsome brown shoes to match, a lovely, sheer white blouse and a corsage of sweetpeas and sweetheart roses.

Pete was a tall, rather lanky young man with a thin, good-natured face and a sort of contagious smile. Gina thought there was strength in his face, for all of its boyishness. She liked him on first sight.

They moved up to where the tall minister stood in his frock coat before the fire, Lora and Pete in the centre, Timothy and Gina on one side, Phil and Barbara Beatty on the other.

The minister began the solemn words in his resonant voice, "Dearly beloved, we are gathered together here"....

It was over very soon. There were congratulations, kisses, a few insane jokes. Lora looked smart in the new brown suit, and really quite pretty, and there was a look of pride in Pete's brown eyes. Then they were moving to Pete's good-looking convertible on which someone had tied a pair of old shoes. Pete took them off laughingly and received a shower of rice from the small group on the steps of the church. He shook himself like a water-spaniel, grinned, and helped Lora in the car. In another minute they had disappeared.

Phil came up. "I'll take Gina home if you like," he said to Timothy. "I rather imagine you're due up town."

Timothy looked at his watch. "I have time."

Then Phil said, "Well, I'll see you when you get back, Gina. As a matter of fact, there is something I must tell you, explain. That is.. it's something you'll have to know." Phil was almost stammering. He had actually sounded serious. And there was a look on his face which Gina didn't understand.

She said, "All right, Phil. Only I won't have much timee. I left Nora Choate to look after Patsy. She only has time to run over every half hour or so."

Phil's face seemed to darken. He started to say something, then changed his mind. "I'll be there by the time you are," he promised and got in his car.

Timothy drove as rapidly as the law allowed on the way back and seemed in a rather abstracted mood. Gina tried to say lightly, "Are they worth the proverbial penny?"

"My thoughts? I was thinking of the solemnity, the seriousness of the marriage ceremony. The absolute finality of it. 'Til death do us part'. Those are words that should give everybody pause, but people rush in and then rush out, a good many of them without even giving marriage a chance."

"That is true. Divorce is too easy, but still sometimes it's the only solution."

"Those whom God has joined together, let no man put asunder," Timothy quoted thoughtfully. "The trouble is, so often God has nothing to do with it. In Cynthia's set, sometimes it seems to me, people get divorces just as they'd buy themselves a new coat. Something's wrong about that. Of course Cynthia isn't that way," he went on, "Heaven forbid!"

They reached the entrance in no time at all. Timothy helped Gina out, and Phil moved forward almost at once. "Phil is certainly punctual," he said teasingly, then added, "Good night," climbed back in his car and drove off.

Gina turned to Phil. "I haven't much time."

At which Phil returned, "You've got all the time in the world." He stopped a minute, then added, "Gina, why on earth did you want to bring that child with you? Wasn't it a rather quixotic thing to do in the first place?"

"Of course not. Patsy needed me. She needed a home."

"You should have known that you had no right to make up your mind that you wanted a child, and simply pick her up and walk out with her. The law has something to say about this sort of thing."

"Phil, what are you saying? What are you trying to tell me?" Gina's voice suddenly held a sob. Had something happened to Patsy? She turned and started to run to the house. She'd have to see. She'd have to hurry ..

But Phil caught her arm. "Listen, Gina, they came after Patsy and took her away. The welfare authorities, I mean."

"But they couldn't! They couldn't! They had no right! Oh, Phil, if they have taken Patsy " Gina was close to tears, trembling all over. "Tell me it's not true."

Phil put out his arm and drew her to him in a tender gesture. "It is true, Gina. They've taken Patsy back to where she belongs. To her relatives. No matter how poor they may be, Patsy belongs with them. Try to look at the thing in a reasonable light, darling. The idea was preposterous in the first place...."

But Gina had pulled away from him. "Let me go, let me go!" she managed to extricate herself from his arms and soon was running a little wildly toward the cottage.

It was true. It was only too true. Patsy was gone. There was the little empty bed..the little pillow where Patsy's head had crumpled it....

Gina was not the one to waste time in tears, to give way to the dreadful sense of loneliness that had seized her when she'd gone in the room to find Patsy's little empty bed. Most of her clothes had been taken along, but they would be used by poor Mrs. Barnett for her own baby who was only a little older than Patsy and much smaller. Patsy would probably be wrapped in anything that happened to be handy, no matter how soiled.

Nora Choate was highly indignant. "This isn't the first time that child welfare organization has been guilty of such stupidity Why in the name of Heaven couldn't they have sense enough to see that Patsy was receiving every care?"

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, Now that they've reached the moon with radar, it seems they're going to try the other planets up on those places, they'll probably get quite a serprise. My my, science is certainly at its peek, she said.

Then it had better clime down and make a little practical use of some if its stored up nollege, pop said. Why cant those scientific sharks fix up something to rub on your teeth so they wont get cavities in them? That tooth of mine only hurts me once a week or so, but by gollies I'd give that dentist a ring the ferst thing in the morning to see if he has any time open for me, only I'm afraid he'd really give me an appointment. That's another thing—simple invention like the telephone, he said.

Just to think only a few hundred years ago the sky was just a mass of unknown stars, and today we know their names and what keeps them up there and all about them, ma said, and pop said, Why dont the professors combine their nollege of combustion and geometry and contrive some way of keeping a cigar from berning down faster on one side than the other?

Well if you ask me, I think it would be more of a boom to civilization if they would invent some way to make cigars smell as sweet to the beholder as they do to the smoker, ma said, and pop said, f they really want me to be gratefill, they'll look away from the moon long enough to invest a degree of temperature that will heat a house just enough to make the women comfortably warm without causing the men to steem at every pore. Anyway, I'm willing to settle if they'll just make the common cold uncommon, he said.

Now you're talking sensibly, ma said.

Being the end of the subject.

Churchill Speech Rouses 'Interest, Some Surprise'

London, March 6, (CP)—Parliamentary circles today predicted that Winston Churchill's Speech in Fulton, Mo., might have repercussions in the House of Commons, where some members were said to be curious as to whether the government had prior knowledge of his remarks.

The parliamentary correspondent of the British Press Association said that Foreign Secretary Bevin probably would be interrogated in Commons concerning the speech, in which the former Prime Minister expressed anxiety over Russia's intentions and urged a virtual British-American military alliance.

The correspondent said that Mr. Churchill's remarks had caused "a good deal of interest and surprise" in the House and declared the address had been criticized by some members "on the ground that it was very unhelpful to the United Nations Organization."

The text of Mr. Churchill's speech had not been distributed here when Commons rose last evening after a two-day debate which ended in approval of a White Paper setting forth pleas for the future of Britain's armed forces, which the government expects to cut to 1,100,000 by 1947.

Before recessing the members heard A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, declare that Britain wants to achieve an agreement with Russia but that "it can only really be made effective if it is a two-way agreement."

Mr. Alexander also told the House that the government was not yet ready to announce whether it planned to continue conscription during peacetime. Britain's commitments, he said, must be examined before a final decision can be made.

American Views

Washington, March 6. (AP)—A number of influential Senators today rejected Winston Churchill's suggestion for a military coalition with Britain as an affront inviting Russian retaliation and a "body blow" to the United Nations.

Senator W. F. George (Dem.-Ga.) told a reporter that an agreement to dovetail American and British Armed Forces, such as proposed by the former Prime Minister in his Fulton, Mo., speech yesterday, would "weaken the United Nations as a strong and dominant organization."

"I think it would be a body blow to the U.N.O. if the world understood that the United States and Britain were entering into anything that had the aspects of an outside military coalition," Senator George said.

Similarly, Senators Claude Pepper (Dem.-Fla.), H. M. Kilgore (Dem.-W.V.) and G. H. Taylor (Dem.-Ida.) declared in a statement that Mr. Churchill's proposal would "cut the throat of the U.N.O." and destroy the unity of the Wartime Big Three. Criticizing what they termed "Tory clamor in Britain and the United States which is building up war," they said "the new British - American imperialism which Mr. Churchill proposes. . . simply makes the world situation intolerable."

John Galbraith To Stand Trial At Lethbridge

Cornwall, March 6 —(CP)—John Galbraith, Cornwall's mystery man of many aliases, tomorrow starts a journey back to Lethbridge, Alta., to stand trial on a charge of obtaining $60 by false pretences.

He made a brief appearance in police court here this morning when charges of failing to have a National Registration Card and failing to report a change of address were withdrawn. He was immediately re-arrested by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable from Lethbridge on the false pretences charge.

The 19-year-old Galbraith caused a sensation a week ago when he said under police questioning that he was Hans George Schulte, an escaped German prisoner of war. Later he said his name was Galbraith and that he came from Lethbridge.

He came here in December under the name of Derek Helfin, and claimed to be a medical graduate awaiting his degrees. After a whirlwind courtship he married Josce Rabin, daughter of a prominent Jewish merchant.

While waiting in the cells for his case to be called Galbraith chatted with reporters, saying "I loved my wife or I would never have married her."

"Too much has been said already," he said of his case.

Mrs. Galbraith, a former beauty parlor operator, wasn't in the court room for the hearing. But she and her mother were in the corridors.

In his chat with reporters Galbraith said he wasn't Scottish. Asked if he were a Jew, he said "I don't care to answer that question."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—Cattle moved slowly at steady prices up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. One car of western lambs unsold from yesterday sold at $14.75, 25 cents cwt. lower. A few local lambs sold steady at $14.50. Calves and sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 350, calves 120, hogs 400, sheep and lambs 30. Unsold from yesterday were 500 head of cattle.

Prices in the trade included:

Cattle: Weighty steers $11.50-$13, butcher steers $10.25-$12.25, heifers $12 down, butcher cows $8-$10, canners downward to $5.50, bulls $9-$9.75, fed yearlings $12-$13.50.

Calves: $16-$17, choice, plain vealers downward to $10.

Sheep: $3-$9.

Hogs closed previously steady to 50 cents down at, dressed, grade A $18-$18.50, grade B1 $17.10-$17.60.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, March 6 — (AP)—The stock market's attempts at recovery faded today before steady but light selling which sent leading steels, motors, metals and rails fractionally lower.

The ticker tape loafed frequently after a moderately active opening. Although a few tentative nibbles by purchasers brought some shading of losses in scattered issues, minus signs generally prevailed near the fourth hour.

Canadians were generally lower on the exchange at noon. International Nickel was off 1/2 at 37 5/8, Dome Mines down 1/4 at 26, Distillers Seagrams minus 1 1/8 at 88 1/4, Canadian Pacific off 1/4 at 19 1/4.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—The market moved downward in the early period, led by the base metal issues with an index loss of 1.01 by noon. Index losses of .47, .28 and .35 were boarded by the industrials, golds and western oils respectively. Volume was about even with that of recent sessions at 1,167,000 shares for the first three hours.

MacDonald was the outstanding soft spot in the gold list. It slipped sharply to a low of 3.10 and then recovered to 3.60 for a net loss of 1.30.

The papers, steel, utility and building issues were the heavy industrial groups.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

Mnotreal, March 6 (CP)— All classes sold at about steady prices today on the livestock markets. Receipts: Cattle 18; sheep 1; hogs 135; calves 54.

Heifers ranged from 8-11, good butcher cows 9.25-10, medium kinds 8.25-9.25 and comon butchers 7 up. Canners and cutters 6 up. Good bulls 10.25 and bologna bulls 7.50 and more.

Most veal calves offered common to medium quality at 12.50-13.50. Yearlings 7.50-8. Sheep were 4-9. Practically all hogs disposed of at 18.50 for Grade A. Sows 18-18.25 dressed.

HOGS

Toronto, March 6 —(CP)—Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs were down 15 cents cwt. at Peterborough at $17.50 plus transportation, unchanged at Hull at $18.50 delivered, unsettled at Stratford, in markets reporting early today.

Jodl Asks For Production Of Marshall Report

Nuernberg, March 6 — (AP)—Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl, last Chief-of-Staff of the German Army, today asked the permission of the international military tribunal to introduce in his defence reports by Hitler's headquarters relative to the fettering of German prisoners captured by the Canadians in the Dieppe raid.

Because of the alleged fettering of the Germans, the German high command ordered reprisals against Canadian prisoners of war under its control, Jodl's counsel told the court. The reports by Nazi headquarters were said to be dated Sept. 2 and Oct 7, 1945.

Jodl's counsel also asked for production of Gen. Marshall's 1945 report to President Truman to disprove a charge that Jodl was a "warmonger."

"These notes by one of the Allies' most outstanding officers about the activity of the German high command and general staff relieve Jodl of the reproach of having been a warmonger with far-reaching plans of conquest," defence counsel Franz Exner said in requesting that the Marshall report be furnished Jodl for his defence.

In addition, the defence demanded the right to present a Nazi foreign office compilation of Red Cross reports relative to breaches of international law by the Allied powers as "cause for high command reprisals;" and the Soviet official view of partisan warfare in White Russia as evidence justifying "thorough counter measures."

Earlier, the tribunal, on written request from Hermann Goering's counsel, postponed the opening of the No. 1 defendant's defence from tomorrow until Friday.

Another defendant, Baldur Von Schirach, former head of the Hitler Youth Movement, asserted in a written appeal for witnesses that they would prove he sought the Fuehrer's permission to be a peace envoy to the United States in 1940.

Schirach's Written Plea

In addition, he said, he and his wife virtually risked their lives three years later to bring to Hitler's attention a personal account of suffering Jewish women in German-occupied Holland. One of the witnesses he asked was his father-in-law, Heinrich Hoffman, Hitler's favorite photographer.

During an evening with Hitler at Obersalzberg, Mrs. Schirach broke in with her eye-witness account.

"Hitler put a hand over her mouth, said she did not understand anything about it and should mind her own business," the petition said.

Schirach quoted Hitler as saying in 1939 that "during the war, the fight against the Catholic church rests; I will cause a suspension of this fight."

Schirach cited as proof that Hitler was not naturally hostile to religion an instance when the Fuehrer took Hoffman's 11-year-old son to a Roman Catholic cloister in his car and turned him over to the mother superior with these words:

"Make a good man of him."

U.S. Strikes At-a-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

Continuing labor disputes keep idle approximately 800,000.

Major developments:

Railroads — Officials of two big railroad brotherhoods in several cities report strike of 300,000 engineers and trainmen to start Monday but National Union presidents withhold immediate confirmation or denial; delay of reported walkout by mediation under Railway Labor Act appears possible.

Communications—Federal conciliation chief reports "some progress" in efforts to avert country-wide strike of some 250,000 telephone workers, set for 6 a.m. Thursday; Union president says only "satisfactory company offer" in wage dispute can prevent walkout.

Automotive — deadlock continues in General Motors strike but corporation officials and CIO United Auto Workers resume negotiations in renewed attempts at settlement of 106-day work stoppage by 175,000 production workers; union says strike is "lockout."

Coal — Bituminous coal operators agree to meet with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Mar. 12 for contract negotiations; union has filed 30-day strike notices threatening walkout of 400,000 U.M.W. workers April 1 unless wage demands are met.

Shipping — Port of Philadelphia threatened with complete shutdown as 5,500 A.F.L. dock workers set to strike after breakdown of negotiations for wage increase.

Collides With Hay Truck

New Hamburg, March 6 (CP)—August Schaller, 56, R.R. 4, Stratford, is in Stratford General Hospital today in serious condition from injuries suffered in an accident last night near here when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck loaded with hay.

Schaller had three fingers of his left hand amputated and suffered a broken nose and multiple cuts and bruises.

NO DECISION YET ON INITIAL CITY

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—The initial city in which the Canadian Red Cross Society will establish a centre for the intended new system of blood collection and distribution, has not yet been decided, headquarters of the society said today.

In a speech Monday, Ontario Health Minister Kelly said the new system, under which whole blood and plasma will be available free under one system operated by the blood donor service of the society, will start in one city, and he added that eventually centres will be set up in Halifax, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Finns Hoping For Formal Peace Pact With Russia

By ARVO AARI

Helsinki, March 6 —(Reuters) —Finns are hoping that spring will see the conclusion of a formal peace treaty with Moscow confirming their independence and leaving them free to solve their own problems in their own way.

But to obtain this the Finnish government must maintain reparation deliveries to Russia, purge politicians and officers who have troubled Russo-Finnish relations and preserve internal peace by fighting inflation and labor unrest. To do this she will have to look for some foreign help unless Russia agrees to accept a smaller proportion of heavy industrial products in the $300,000,000 reparations deliveries Finland must make during an eight-year period.

Finnish shipyards, cable and machine factories have been built exclusively for reparation work, but the necessary raw materials must be bought abroad. As the Finns have nearly exhausted their stocks of foreign currencies they have sent a delegation to Washington to negotiate a loan between $60,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Reports in Helsinki said Washington has agreed but will sign no undertaking until Finland has completed her purge of politicians and officers accused of having plotted war against the Soviet Union.

The first stage of this purge was completed with the sentences passed on Risto Ryti, former president, John Rangell and Edwin Linkomies, former premiers and six other of Finland's wartime leaders.

The second was the resignation of Marshal Gustaf Mannerheim, Finland's president who allegedly sanctioned an agreement between his general staff and the German general staff for a joint war against the Soviet Union in March, 1941, before Hitler invaded Russia.

The third stage was prepared by the extension, in January, of the emergency "protective legislation," under which censorship is maintained and the police empowered to arrest any one suspected of disturbing Finland's internal stability or relations with foreign powers.

CHARGED WITH GIVING SECRET INFORMATION TO SOVIET RUSSIA—FOUR FACE SEVEN YEAR PENALTY

Three Canadian government workers and a worker in the office of the British High Commissioner in Ottawa, have been charged with betraying Canada's secrets to the Soviet, and remanded in custody to reappear in court March 11.

Here Edward Wilfred Mazerall, a native of Fredericton, N.B., and a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, RIGHT, is being booked by Sergt. Knight in Ottawa, on charges of giving Capt. Lunan reports on radar.

Kathleen Mary Willsher, 40, who worked in the office of the U. K. High Commissioner in Ottawa, Ont.

Mrs. Emma Wolkin, 25, a cipher clerk in the Canadian External Affairs Department.

Edward Mazerall, 29, an electrical engineer with the National Research Council.

Northern Ontario Developing Into One of Canada's Most Valuable Territories Claimed

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—Thirty years ago a visitor predicted that Northern Ontario's economic future would be limited to production of Christmas trees and paperweights but "the facts of today" are in sharp contrast to that gloomy forecast, John A. Fullerton, (PC.—Algoma-Manitoulin), told the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

In seconding the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the 22nd legislature, Mr. Fullerton said Northern Ontario, once condemned as an almost impassable barrier between east and west, now is developing into one of Canada's most valuable territories.

In a speech devoted almost exclusively to Northern Ontario industry and development, Mr. Fullerton said there now is greater activity in the north's mining fields than ever before.

"Tens of millions are available in the treasuries of hundreds of mining compaines for the purposes of probing mineral deposits and bringing into production those mines that have already been proved by diamond drilling and underground exploration."

All Records Surpassed

Final figures were not available on footage drilled by diamond-drilling companies but "I am assured all former records have been surpassed." By early summer mine shafts would be sunk from Porcupine in the east to the Lingman Lake area near the Manitoba boundary. Prospecting activity was "unabated" with 15,252 claims filed in 1945.

Ten geological parties would undertake field work in active mining areas this summer. Resident geologists in Kirkland Lake, Red Lake and the Thunder Bay district would also be active.

Mr. Fullerton predicted a "banner" tourist year in Ontario. Tourist inquiries were higher than ever before. The Ontario travel and publicity bureau—to be expanded into a new government tourist department—was making a survey of the tourist industry which would list all tourist homes, hotel resorts, camps and tourist cabins. A course in resort management had been inaugurated and encouragement given to native handicraft through competitions in tourist areas.

Ontario's wild, rugged north country, the lovely rural sections and metropolitan centres have a strange fascination for all who visit it—and they keep coming back. It was estimated about 14,000,000 United States residents would visit Ontario in 1946.

Veterinary Service Offered

Discussing agriculture, the Algoma-Manitoulin member said about 2,000 head of cattle were sold by auction last year for a total of $155,000 at the Manitoulin cattle sales. A veterinary service has been offered and Kenora and Algoma districts now had resident veterinaries under the plan. A modern potato grading and storage warehouse had been opened in Cochrane, a policy of freight rates assistance had been adopted to aid farmers bringing pure-bred bulls from other parts of the province and assisted freight rates on livestock from the Cochrane and Temiskaming districts to Toronto had been inaugurated.

In New Liskeard an annual lamb sale had been organized and loans arranged under the Co-operative Marketing Loans Act to assist co-operative marketing. To provide practical agricultural education for young farmers in Northern Ontario arrangements had been made to train 30 boys as resident students at Kapuskasing where a month's course would be given.

Major Handicaps

One of the major handicaps in clearing and breaking land said Mr. Fullerton, had been reliance on the old manual method. Now plans were being developed to establish a pool of large-scale machinery in northern districts. This machinery would be available at nominal rates.

"When this plan is in operation, the whole picture of agricultural development will be changed and settlers will be able to go on land there with every hope of making a farm in so short time that there will be every encouragement to new settlement and development of former settlements."

Mr. Fullerton said the government's educational grants had been of great assistance to the north by improving eudcational services, permitting higher salaries for teachers and accelerating the swing toward township school areas.

Enrolment at the Ontario mining institute in Haileybury had exceeded all expectations.

New Highway Mooted

Construction of a new highway from Quibell to Red Lake previously announced, would open one of the north's fast-growing communities. An all-year road with a 24-foot grade and gravel surface, it would reduce freight rates to the mining camp to about one quarter of present average charges.

Three new paper mills and townsites now were under construction near Schreider, at Peninsula and at Espanola. A fourth at Red Rock already was in operation. Capital expenditures in these projects would total upwards of $50,000,000.

Mr. Fullerton quoted editorials from the Port Arthur News-Chronicle as saying announcement of the projects was a "big boost" for the district.

Afrika Korps Sgt. Guilty of Murder, To Hang June 26

Medicine Hat, Alta., March 6 (CP)—A 30-year-old one-time Afrika Korps sergeant, Werner Schwalb of Rheinpfalz, Germany, will be hanged at Lethbridge, Alta., next June 26 for the prisoner-of-war camp murder of a comrade, Pte. August Plaszek, 42, in 1943.

A six-man Alberta Supreme Court jury found Schwalb guilty yesterday after an eight-day trial. They deliberated an hour and 15 minutes after hearing a two-and-half hour charge by Chief Justice W. R. Howson who repeatedly urged them to give the prisoner the benefit of any doubt which might exist.

When they returned their verdict, the Chief Justice turned to Schwalb with the formal words: "The jury has found you guilty of murder as charged. Have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed on you according to law?"

The answer was a firm "nein."

It was the first time in Canadian legal history a prisoner of war had been tried for murder. Two other prisoners, L. Cpl. Johannes Wittinger and Pte. Adolf Kratz, also are charged with Plaszek's murder and Kratz will be placed on trial Thursday with Wittinger following later.

Witnesses said Schwalb was one of a mob which hanged Plaszek in a Medicine Hat prisoner of war camp recreation hall July 22, 1943.

Their testimony established Plaszek, who once served in the French Foreign Legion, as one of four men suspected by the German camp leaders of plotting to overthrow them. When the four were brought up for interrogation, one escaped and fled to the protection of Canadian guards but a mob carried Plaszek to the recreational hall and there hanged him. The other two apparently were unmolested.

Young Sisters Accuse Head Of Private School

Norristown, Pa., March 6—(AP)—Two sisters--one 11 years old, the other 14--accused the headmaster of a private school they attended of having improper relations with them.

George W. Balles, jr., 35, founder of the co-educational Warminister Academy, and his wife, Laura, 37, are on trial under indictments charging 37 morals offences.

District attorney Frederick B. Smillie Monday told a jury of 10 women and two men that "more sex was taught than anything else" at the school.

The courtroom was closed to all except witnesses and newspapermen.

Police testified they arrested Balles last Jan. 11 when he was found parked in a country lane with an 11-year-old girl.

The Balles', parents of a five-year-old girl, have pleaded innocent to all counts. Charges include contributing to the delinquency of minors, open lewdness, assault and battery and corrupting public morals. Balles also is charged with rape.

SOME SUBSIDIES DISCONTNUED

Ottawa, March 6 (CP)—Subsidies paid canners on certain bulk vegetables and canned products will not be paid on the 1946 crop, a joint statement by the agriculture department and the Prices Board said last night. Per ton subsidies paid by the Agricultural Food Board during 1945 on tomatoes, peas, corn and green and waxed beans destined for processing would not be paid this year. Later the Prices Board would authorize increases in the canners' price ceilings.

American Sources Charge Reds Ruin U. S.-Owned Wells

$25,000,000 Damage Done To Oil Fields in Hungary

The following dispatch, filed in Budapest Feb. 19, still is withheld by the Russian censor there. However, it was sent by courier to another European capital for radio transmission. Indefinite suppression of this dispatch without notification to the writer that it was being withheld was one reason for a protest filed with the Allied Control Commission for Hungary by Jack Guinn, AP correspondent.

By JACK GUINN

Budapest, March 7 —(AP)— Responsible United States sources said Feb. 19 that "the Russians have ruined one American oil well" in the Lispe area fields in southwestern Hungary and that the total damages to date from the Russian operation of this American property amounted to roughly $25,000,000.

The sources, who asked to remain anonymous because of a desire "not to get involved with the Russians," said another well on the American-owned Hungarian-American Oil Company property "is being ruined, and if the present method of operation is continued, it will be a matter of months before the pressure is down and the entire area damaged."

It was reliably learned that the United States military mission sent a note to Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov calling attention to the company claim of one well ruined.

The sources said Paul Ruedemann, American representative of Standard Oil, went into the area just before Jan. 1 to attempt to have the situation corrected by the Russians and prevent further damage. They said Ruedemann was told by Russians at the wells that they had orders from Voroshilov "not to pay any attention to Americans."

It was learned reliably that at a conference following this, Voroshilov said the Americans wanted to reduce the production just because they did not want the Russians to have the oil.

FIVE ARE KILLED, MANY INJURED IN DELHI RIOTS

Civil and Military Police Fired Three Times into Unruly Crowds

New Delhi, March 7 —(CP)— Five persons were reported killed and 10 injured today in riots which broke out in the business section of Old Delhi. The deaths were caused when civil and military police fired three times into unruly crowds demonstrating against Victory Week celebrations.

A curfew has been imposed in Old Delhi from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m., British authorities announced.

Gurkha troops were called out to help preserve order following the demonstrations.

No disorders were reported in New Delhi as a parade of 15,000 Allied troops moved through the capital, but in the old city two miles away the crowd set fire to the rambling, one-storey town-hall housing the municipal offices and stoned a canteen.

Tramway and municipal workers stopped work and demonstrators tore down at least one of a number of victory arches which had been erected along the route of the parade.

An electric-sub-station and a tax office opposite the main railway station were set afire by a crowd composed largely of striking millworkers and students.

Many shops remained closed as a protest against the Victory Week celebration.

Ontario, Alberta Divorce Rates Growing Fastest

Toronto, March 7 (CP)—Ontario and Alberta have the fastest growing divorce rates among Canadian provinces, the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada was told today by its Secretary, Dr. R. J. Mutchmor. Number of marriages ended by divorce in Ontario increased from 10 in 1918 to 1,243 in 1943.

Illegitimate births in the province number 46 in each 1000 and the number has more than doubled since 1922, said Dr. Mutchmor, adding: "The rise in illegitimacy is not a wartime development. The curve went up most sharply in the years before 1935 but it has been climbing steadily ever since."

A report by Dr. Hugh Dobson of Vancouver Assistant Secretary of the Board and Rev. William Scott presents a study of civil marriages, for which there is provision in four western provinces. It said that civil marriages comprised 7.48 per cent of all marriages in British Columbia and of these 40 per cent were marriages of divorced persons.

The report favored civil ceremonies for "those to whom the religious vow is not significant."

Murder Trial Moves to Climax

Whitby, Ont., March 7 —(CP) —The murder trial of Lorne Cecil Harris, 21-year-old construction worker, moved toward a climax today as T. J. Rigney, special Crown prosecutor from Kingston, began his address to the jury.

Evidence in the case terminated unexpectedly yesterday when K. H. MacDiarmid, counsel for Harris, announced he would not call any witnesses in defence of his client, accused of the strangle slaying of attractive Mrs. Audrey Lyons, mother of two children, at her home at nearby Ajax last Nov. 10.

Mr. Rigney told the jury that the case was one which depended largely on circumstantial evidence.

Detroit Rejects Idea Of Joint Airport

Detroit, March 7 (CP)—Detroit common council by a vote of 5-3 last night rejected a proposed international airport site at across-the-river Windsor, Ont., as the answer to its airport problems.

Strong opposition to the international site, located in the Sandwich West Township section just outside Windsor, was expressed by Mayor Edward Jefferies.

Because of Detroit's urgent need for another airport, attention was turned last month to the international site following rejection by Detroit council of a site in northwestern Detroit. Main concern of Detroit council then was that the Windsor plan might create international difficulties. Later, Mayor Arthur Reaume of Windsor assured co-operation.

ANCIENT JAP SWORD FOR PRESIDENT

PLAIN WORDS FELT IN DIAMETRICALLY OPPOSITE CAMPS

Some U. S. Diplomatic Officials Said Concerned Over Emphasis on Blunt Talk

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Washington, March 7 (AP) — The newly-stressed United States emphasis on blunt talk in world affairs has some American diplomatic officials worried lest the policy appear aimed exclusively at Russia.

Acknowledging their concern, these officials today made a point of nothing that the sting of frank words has been felt in diametrically opposite camps—that is, in Spain and Argentina, as well as in the Soviet Union.

These officials, who must remain unnamed, said critics of United States foreign policy should remember that American notes protesting Russia's plans in Manchuria and Iran were preceded first by an indictment of Argentine action during the war and by a three-power denunciation of Franco's Spanish government for collaboration with the Axis.

Await Russian Reaction

Meanwhile, the State Department:

1. Awaited Russian reaction to its note protesting the presence of Red army troops in Iran after the March 2 deadline for their withdrawal.

2. Weighed the effect of a likely Peron victory in Argentina's election and the effect it might have toward postponing the Rio conference of American Republics to write a hemisphere defence alliance.

PLAIN WORDS FELT—Page 14

French Landings Carried Out At Saigon

Saigon, Indo-China, March 7—(AP)—Chinese artillerymen who opened fire on a French naval and troop force off Haiphong harbor yesterday killed at least 10 soldiers and severely damaged the French light cruiser Triomphant, French authorities said today.

The cruisers Triomphant and Emile Bertin and escorting craft were standing off Haiphong, port of Hanoi, the Indo-China capital, with 20,000 troops prepared to take over occupation from Chinese forces.

(Chinese dispatches from Chungking said the exchange was due to "technical difficulties" and that French occupation of the port had been delayed until Thursday.)

(The French Ministry of War announced in Paris that 10 French soldiers had been killed and nearly 40 wounded.)

Unconfirmed reports said the French landings were finally carried out at dawn today.

Protest Ship Has Nearly Treble Passenger List

Sydney Australia, March 7 — (CP)—Public protests today demanded recall of the Japanese ship Yoizuki, which sailed from Sydney yesterday carrying almost three times her normal passenger capacity in homeward bound internees.

Aboard the 3,000-ton demilitarized destroyer were 1,005 repatriates including 147 Formosan women and 112 children who had been interned in Australia since 1941. They were being returned to their homes in The Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines and other tropical islands north of Australia.

The protests arose following reports by Australian army officers that conditions aboard were "so cramped and vile that it would mean certain death for some of the women and children to compel them to make the voyage." There were 1,185 including the crew aboard the ship, which normally carries a complement of 450.

Brauchitsch Says Hitler Kept Generals Ignorant of Plans

Nuernberg, March 7 —(AP)— Hitler forbade the German Foreign Office to give his army commanders political information and kept them guessing about his war plans until almost the eve of the march into Poland, Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch has told Allied interrogators.

He said he was kept in the dark about the Fuehrer's real plans and failed to see trickery behind a 1938 order that the army was to make no real war preparations before 1945. He said he believed it meant peaceful policies would be adopted.

CANADIAN AGENTS HELPED RUSSIA OUT OF SYMPATHY

Sums of Money Were Paid but Amounts Small Sources State

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 7 (CP)—Most of those who supplied secret information to Soviet agents in Canada did so more out of sympathy for the Soviet Union than for financial gain, official circles close to the Royal Commission inquiry into the ring said today.

These sources, while agreeing that sums of money were paid to some of the Canadian agents, said the amounts were small and that most of the agents were moved in their actions by political leanings and a desire to assist Russia.

It also was learned that some of the nine men still held in the inquiry definitely will be charged under the Official Secrets Act. They will be arraigned following issuance of the commission's second interim report, as were the four persons arraigned in county court last Monday.

Meanwhile it was learned the wives of the nine men, although permitted to visit their husbands Monday, have not been allowed a second visit as yet. This drew a protest last night from the wife of one of the men—whose name was not disclosed—against the manner in which she said her husband was being treated.

She said she was "shocked" on seeing her husband Monday at his loss of weight, shaking hands and "pale and haggard" face after 18 days of detention.

Tried to Co-operate

She quoted from letters received from her husband, in which he said "I have tried to co-operate in every way in spite of being given only a nebulous idea of the problem." He added in another letter that he had lodged a formal protest "against what I considered irregular proceedings" and "expressed doubt whether I should continue to co-operate under the circumstances."

When the commission's second interim report, with its new charges, will come was not known definitely but it was considered likely it would be released some time next week, possibly Monday or Tuesday.

There was no indication on the number of persons who would be charged in this second group but it was believed they would constitute a complete "cell" in the ring, which the Royal Commission said in its first interim report Monday was operated by members of the Russian Embassy in Ottawa "under direct instructions from Moscow."

Described as Group

Capt. Gordon Lunan, one of the four persons arraigned Monday, was described in the commission's report as the "head" of a group which operated under personal instructions from a member of the military attache staff in the Embassy.

In view of this statement, it was believed the Commission planned to make public interim reports each time it had completed its inquiry into the activities of one of these "cells" in the widespread espionage organization.

Captain of Ship With Unwanted Cargo Tells of 185-Day Odyssey

(By FRANK WHITE)

Tokyo, March 7 (AP) — The merchantship Edwin Markham sailed from San Francisco "after we definitely knew the war was over," her skipper said today, carrying around the Pacific — for 185 days — war material "that somebody obviously wanted shipped out of the States rather than have it piled up there."

At one stage of its odyssey, the ship—with 25 others — was ordered from one side of Okinawa to the other, and "we understood this was for the purpose of hoodwinking a Congressional Committee into thinking we had just arrived," says the skipper, Capt. C. C. Wright of Alameda, Calif.

Today the vessel began unloading officers' club furniture, "expensive sedans for generals" and other cargo it had picked up in Manila in January.

The captain told this story in an interview:

"The ship was berthed at .. San Francisco, and had loaded 2,000 tons of cargo by August 15 when Emperor Hirohito made his surrender offer. After a delay of a week and many conferences, we finally loaded 6,700 tons of miscellaneous cargo.

"Some items were puzzling to me—camouflage netting, camouflage paint, iron stakes, land-mine markers and a lot of other stuff that somebody obviously wanted shipped out of the States rather than have it piled up there. .. We had on deck 12 of those 11-ton tank trailers, designed to pull disabled tanks from the battlefields for repairs. We sailed August 26 after we definitely knew the war was over."

The ship "finally wound up in Ulithi .. where we spent 42 days." Officers there told the skipper that the army and navy didn't want his cargo, but "somebody in the Marianas command would not issue orders to send it home."

He was ordered to dump all ammunition at sea, which he did—an estimated $40,000 worth.

When Ulithi was "closed down" the Markham was ordered on to Saipan; and after eight days there, to Okinawa. After a few days there, "the ship reverted to army control because of the navy shutdown."

The "man in charge" of a navy dump "pointed to a spot of ground and said, "we had to get rid of that stuff, so we took a bulldozer, dug a hole and dumped it in, then covered it up."

TELEPHONE STRIKE IS CANCELLED AT LAST MOMENT

Executive Board Says Agreement Reached In Respect to Wages For Affiliates

By WILLIAM NEEDHAM

Washington, March 7 (AP) — The Executive Board of the National Federation of Telephone Workers today ordered cancellation of the threatened strike of 250,000 telephone workers.

Strikes were on here and in Baltimore, however.

A telegram from Joseph A. Beirne, union president, to member unions of the N.F.T.W. said an agreement "in respect to wages for affiliates has been reached" and that the member unions which had wage disputes with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company were "in general, in agreement with the settlement."

Mr. Beirne's telegram was based on a wage pattern established by an agreement between the A. T. and T. and the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, an N.F.T.W. affiliate. The pattern provides for some $6,800,000 in wage increases for more than 19,000 Long Lines employees.

Wage increases ranging from $5 to $8 a week are provided in the agreement which becomes effective as of Feb. 1, 1946.

In Effect to March 1947

The new wage rates will remain in effect until March 6, 1947. The rates were labelled a national pattern by Edgar L. Warren, chief of the Federal Conciliation Service, in announcing the settlement less than 30 minutes before the 6 a.m. strike deadline.

The Long Lines agreement provides for a wage increase averaging 17.6 cents an hour, Warren told newspapermen. The same increase applies to employees now on strike at the Western Electric Company in Kearny, N.J.

Meanwhile, the strike already was on in Baltimore and three other Maryland towns. Baltimore operators voted at a mass meeting last night to walk out at once and were joined by fellow workers at Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Today's strike threat stemmed from an N.F.T.W. meeting in Milwaukee last December, which decided on a $2-a-day wage demand. Last month representatives of the 51 locals met again and issued the strike call even though some of the unions had reached agreements at lower figures.

POLICE HUNTING GANG

Winnipeg, March 7 —(AP)— Police today are hunting a mixed gang of robbers, two boys and three girls, all about 18-years of age.

The five attacked Frank Jones in northwest Winnipeg last night, dragged him into a lane, and robbed him of $32. Jones told police the boys and one girl were the main aggressors. They knocked him to the ground, searched him and escaped with his wallet. The other girls acted as lookouts at the lane entrance.

EARLY MEETING REMOTE

Moscow, March 7 —(AP)— Foreign observers, taking note of press suggestions abroad that the time is ripe for another meeting of British, American and Russian leaders, said today they believed the chances for an early meeting of the "Big Three" were remote.

Britain Loaned $1,250,000,000 By Canadian Govt.

Repayable in Fifty Years With Interest Starting in '51

Ottawa, March 7 (CP)—Canada has agreed to loan Britain $1,250,000,000, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in announcing some of the agreements reached during loan negotiations which concluded yesterday.

Terms of the loan are similar to those of the $4,400,000,000 loan to the United Kingdom by the United States, said Mr. King in a statement that was released simultaneously in London by Prime Minister Attlee.

The Canadian credits represented an entirely new loan and are not connected in any way with the $700,000,000 interest-free loan made to Britain in 1942.

The new loan will carry interest at two per cent from Jan. 1, 1951, and will be repayable over 50 years, beginning at the end of 1951. As in the case of the United Kingdom-United States loan, there is an article providing for the waiver of interest payments in defined circumstances.

The agreement contains a provision under which Canada agrees to cancel the $425,000,000 Britain still owed as her share of the cost of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Supplementary Agreement

A supplementary agreement was arranged for the settlement of all remaining claims which each government has against the other, arising out of the war.

Under this supplementary agreement, the United Kingdom government will make a payment to Canada of $150,000,000 and will cancel all its claims on the Canadian government outstanding as at Feb. 28.

In return, the Canadian government will cancel all its outstanding claims on the United Kingdom not otherwise dealt with, including the cost of food and other supplies delivered to the United Kingdom between VJ-Day and the end of February.

The amounts involved in the cancellations were not disclosed, but Mr. King said the text of the agreements will be published shortly. The agreements are subject to ratification by the British and Canadian parliaments.

Announcement on details of the agreement was delayed to permit simultaneous announcement in Ottawa and London.

Signing of the agreement ended negotiations which had been under way since Feb. 11.

London, March 7 —(Reuters)— Prime Minister Attlee will make an important statement in the House of Commons this afternoon on terms of the new financial agreement with Canada, including the $1,250,000,000 loan, which Canada is making to Britain.

It is understood the agreement is regarded with satisfaction in official quarters, clearing up outstanding matters which have arisen due to financial transactions between Canada and Britain during the war.

London, March 7 — (Reuters) —Prime Minister Attlee, in a statement also issued simultaneously today in Ottawa by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, told the British House of Commons that under a new loan agreement Canada "will provide the government of the United Kingdom with a credit of $1,250,000,000."

"This credit," Mr. Attlee said "will carry interest at two per cent from Jan. 1, 1951, and will be repayable over 50 years beginning at the end of 1951. As in the case of the United Kingdom-United States agreement there is an article providing for the waiver of interest payments in defined circumstances."

Immediate purpose of the agreement, the Prime Minister said, was "to overcome Britain's temporary financial difficulties in purchasing from Canada." The agreement also would contribute to steady trade development between the two countries, removal of trade barriers and free use of currencies for international trade.

Mr. Attlee said the agreement also contained a provision that the interest-free loan granted Britain in 1942 would be continued on the same basis until January, 1951, and that before then the two governments would discuss how service and repayment of any outstanding balances of the loan would be treated.

Cancels Air Plan Debt

Another provision, he said, would involve cancellation of Britain's indebtedness concerning the Commonwealth Air Training Plan. "The amount of this indebtedness is $425,000,000."

Finally, he said, in regard to exchange controls and import restrictions, the governments had agreed to treat each other "not less favorably than provided for in any agreement which either of them has made with the government of any other country."

A supplementary agreement also was arranged, Mr. Attlee said, for settlement of remaining claims each government had against the other arising out of their respective war efforts.

Under it, Mr. Attlee concluded, "the United Kingdom will make payment to Canada of $150,000,000 and will cancel all its claims on the Canadian government outstanding as at Feb. 28 in return for which the Canadian government will cancel all its outstanding claims on the United Kingdom not otherwise dealt with, including the cost of food and other supplies delivered by the Canadian government to the United Kingdom between VJ-day and the end of February, 1946."

Aga Khan to be Weighed Against Diamonds at Celebration Sunday

Bombay, March 7 —(Reuters) —Forty thousand Moslems from India, the Middle East and Africa are living and eating free this week in eight large camps here as part of the celebration of the Aga Khan's diamond jubilee, which will reach its climax Sunday when the 250-pound potentate will be weighed against diamonds.

The Aga Khan for 60 years has been spiritual leader of the Ismaili Khoja Moslems, a sect with 20,000,000 followers in Asia, Africa and Europe.

When the Aga Khan was weighed against gold on the golden jubilee of his accession 10 years ago, the scales were balanced with £20,000 ($90,000) worth of the precious metal.

Since then he has put on weight.

London diamond interests have lent 600,000 carats of industrial diamonds—264 pounds in weight to be on the safe side — valued at £400,000 ($1,800,000). In addition, eight pounds of sparkling diamonds will be sold as souvenirs to wealthy followers.

The diamonds from London, now in 80 bullet-proof, plastic containers in a Bombay bank, will be shipped back after the weighing.

The diamonds will remain in their bullet-proof containers when they are placed in the scales.

The Aga Khan's wealthy followers will present to him the value of his weight in diamonds and he will use it for the benefit of poor members of the sect.

In India the sum will be used for interest-free loans to small farmers and related projects and the financing of higher education.

The Aga Khan's place on the coast at Bombay is floodlit at night. More than 20,000 homes, from spacious bungalows in the Malabar Hill section to one-room tenements in the crooked side-streets have been especially illuminated since Tuesday night.

EXTENSIVE CHANGES NOW COMPLETED

Dressed up with a new exterior and with extensive alterations to the interior, the Elite Credit Jewellers on upper Front Street is now again open for business, featuring new lines of utility and costume jewellery.

A new store front faced with vitrolite tile has been installed, adding considerably to the exterior appearance, while the store itself presents the last word in modern blonde maple showcases. New lighting has also been installed, while the modern fixtures add greatly to the convenience and spaciousness of the store.

TOWNSHIP WANTS GRANT FOR NEW HALL

Members of the Sidney township council will communicate with J. A. Carroll, superintendent of provincial fairs, regarding the possibilities of obtaining a grant towards the construction of a township hall at Wallbridge. Decision to ask for the grant towards the reconstruction of the hall which burned several years ago, was made at the last meeting of township council.

On motion of Councillors Bleecker and Morrow it was recommended that the township forward the sum of $200 toward the county federation of agriculture, the balance of money owing to be paid at a later date. February road and relief accounts were ordered paid.

SCHOOL DELEGATION TO INSPECT SCHOOL

Trustees and principals of schools of two or more rooms in the South Hastings Inspectorate will visit the College St. School, Trenton, on Friday afternoon, Inspector R. H. Macklem announced today.

The tour is planned to give the guests an opportunity to see one of the most modern school buildings in Eastern Ontario.

The visitors will witness the afternoon school assembly, be conducted on a special tour of the building and enjoy refreshments. Mr. V. P. Carswell is the principal of the school.

The name of the wife of Hon. Captain T. S. Gault, Deseronto, was deleted from the list.

FEARS FOR SAFETY OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Fears for the safety of school children walking on their way to and from school are being expressed in the village of Rossmore as result of dogs which have developed the habit of chasing automobiles on the highway. On Wednesday it was claimed one school child had the skin on his leg scraped when a racing dog came into contact with the lad's body.

According to reports a number of the neighborhood dogs in the village chase cars and trucks on the highway and continue the practice for hours. When children start again to ride bicycles to school, it is felt they will be in greater danger unless something is done. County constable Thomas Thorne was notified of the incident with attention being promised.

B. K. SANDWELL TO BE GUEST SPEAKER

B. K. Sandwell, editor of Toronto Saturday Night, will be the guest speaker at the annual Ladies' Night banquet of the Rotary Club, it was disclosed today.

The banquet is scheduled for Friday, March 22 at the Hotel Quinte. Rotary officials are making arrangements for a number of extra guests.

HOLDS COMMANDING LEAD

Buenos, Aires, March 7—(AP)—Col. Juan D. Peron today held a commanding lead in the Argentine presidential race, both in the popular and indicated electoral vote, with 20 per cent of the ballots in the Feb. 24 election counted.

With the tabulation complete in seven provinces, Peron has 50 sure electoral votes of the 189 needed to cinch the election, while his Democratic Union opponent, Dr. Jose Tamborini, has only 20. In addition, the Argentine strong man leads in five other provinces, including this capital, bringing his indicated electoral total to 232.

ROCKS THE THRONE AGAIN

The Marquess of Milford Haven, cousin of King George, must renounce his royal prerogatives if he wishes to marry the young lady at his side — and he does. She is Sandra Rambeau, American glamor girl. After this picture was made in New York, he flew to London, allegedly to ask the King's permission to wed her, if and when he renounces his right to the throne.

Canadian Girls Just About Tops Says Muskox Flier Here on Visit

"It's great to be down 'south' here in this summer weather" remarked one of the two trim United States Army Air Corps first lieutenants.

They stood at the Front Street-Bridge Street intersection viewing this city for the first time. They were First Lieut. R. A. Hopkins, Michigan and First Lieut. M. G. Brown, of Arkansas.

On their breasts gleamed the multi-colored "fruit salad" as they termed it, combat and campaign ribbons won in hard-fought aerial battles in the Pacific and Europe.

They are members of the Muskox Expedition and arrived in Trenton yesterday flying a huge Dakota transport plane, sent down for repair and overhaul. They left for Ottawa last night where they will spend the next few days prior to flying gliders back to Churchill far northern base outpost of the expedition.

They were "tickled to death" to get back into "civilized clothes" they chorused. Brown, with his soft Arkansas drawl "opined, it was suah good to see that ole earth once mawuh."

Asked what they liked best about Canada, Hopkins said "Your Canadian girls are just about tops, as far as I am concerned."

His youthful companion from the south stroked a beardless chin. "Ah don't know, son," he drawled, "This bee-ah they serve in Canada is mighty good for the palate."

And with a smile and a cheery salute they strolled down the street, the cynosure of several eyes in their immaculate American air force uniforms.

Send Donations For War Amps To W. Allore

With the end of the campaign in sight and still more money needed if the allotted quota of $10,000 is to be reached, the War Amps' Health Centre campaign committee today urged those who have not yet done so, to send their donations in as soon as possible.

Mr. Walter Allore, secretary of the campaign committee, headquarters of which is in the Hotel Belvedere, requested today that all funds or contributions be sent or brought to him.

The response to date has been very generous and the amps of the city and district are gratefully appreciative. But if the quota is to be reached then a little more effort must be forthcoming.

The armless and legless men of the district have ample faith in their fellow citizens and are confident that by the end of the campaign, the quota will have been achieved. So send in or take that donation right away to Mr. Allore at the Hotel Belvedere.

All Quiet On Police Front

A comparative lull in police activities, both from the standpoint of city and Provincial police circles, has been apparent during the past 48 hours with the city police blotter being almost completely blank Thursday morning.

Only six cases were listed for hearing at the county court Thursday morning, three of the charges being settled out of court, while a fourth, a charge of careless driving, was withdrawn at the request of the Crown. Fines and costs of $12.50 each were paid by the accused on the cases settled out of court. These included a charge of speeding, another of careless driving and a third of intoxication.

Convicted of Manslaughter

Brampton, March 7 — (CP)—A Supreme Court jury yesterday convicted Kenneth Putnam of Norval of manslaughter in the motorcar death of Mrs. Verna Bignell of Norval last December but recommeended leniency. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier was to pronounce sentence today. Evidence was that Mrs. Bignell was killed when her stalled car was struck by another motorcar.

London, March 7—(Reuters)—The 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth yesterday completed her war work when she arrived at Southampton with 1,500 passengers. During the next few months she will be refitted for civilian traffic. She is expected to start civilian passenger service in September.

MARMORA

Deloro Safety Committee Holds Monthly Meeting

Marmora — The March meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee was held in the Electric Shop on Tuesday afternoon C. H. Buskard chairman, presiding over a good attendance. For the Suggestions Committee G. Brooks reported the receipt of one suggestion. The Competitive Committees report handled by G. H. Rennie, mentioned that there was no lost time in February and that this month had been accident free for the past twelve years. No awards were made for worthy suggestions. The Star is retained by the General Division. W. M. Regan spoke for the Inspection Committee. Nineteen suggestions had been turned in by this committee. H. Sabine was the choice for floating member for the ensuing month. Speaking for the Publicity Committee A. W. Drew described the circulation of Safety First magazines throughout the plant and referred to the circular letter sent out in February calling attention to fire hazards. J. A. Rice reported for the Health and Investigation Committee, referring chiefly to the prone method practice at which twenty-five had been present and to the inspection of First Aid boxes.

The chairman followed with the monthly statement of the Benevolent Relief Fund and after M. J. Corrigan had reported for the Plant Bulletin the meeting adjourned.

Collie Dog Gets Ducking in River

A canine 'Eliza' which attempted to cross the treacherous ice in the Moira River a few yards south of the lower city bridge this morning almost met with disaster, and escaped with an icy ducking after an unidentified man hauled him out of the water.

The dog, a large collie leaped on the ice off the east bank of the river and successfully negotiated his way across a moving ice-field to a point a few yards from the opposite bank.

Suddenly he disappeared from view into the swirling ice-dotted water. He struggled against the current and managed to keep his head and forepaws on the ice.

Police were notified but before they had time to get to the scene, a passer-by, noticing the dog's plight, jumped to the ice and hauled the shivering pup to safety. He shook himself, wagged his tail and trotted off to West Bridge Street.

Obituary

LATE MRS. E. P. COLLINS

The funeral of Mrs. Ethel Pearl (Rushlow) Collins, wife of Mr. Herbert Collins, took place from her late residence, 41 South Front Street, on Wednesday afternoon. The service in the home and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Smith, Rector of St. Thomas' Church.

The bearers were R. D. Arnott, Herbert Thompson, Sheldon Williams, Harry Rollins, Raymond Arnott and Maurice Callaghan.

The flower bearers were Hughie Rosebush, Eugene Rosebush, Douglas Rosebush, Keith Doyle, Willie Meens and Wilbert J. Reppard. The first five mentioned are grandsons of the late Mrs. Collins.

LATE MRS. LAURA A. REEVES (Tweed)

On Wednesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Laura A. (James) Reeves, wife of Dr. Charles M. Reeves of Tweed, was held from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street. The service in the chapel was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church, and the Rev. W. Sisco, minister of the United Church at Tweed.

Interment took place at Belleville Cemetery. The bearers were J. A. McFee, Dr. M. J. Clarke, Merle McKerrow, C. H. Kerr, S. B. McGie and Eugene Doyle, the last three mentioned being from Tweed.

MRS. C. A. KNAPP (Melrose) (Contributed)

After an illness of several months' duration, Mrs. Catherine Annie Knapp, beloved wife of the late Thomas O. Knapp passed away on Friday, March 1st, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Melrose, with whom she had resided for nearly two years.

The late Mrs. Knapp was born in Napanee and was in her 78th year, the eldest daughter of the late Samuel Bruce Wilson and Sarah Sills. Following her marriage to Thomas O. Knapp of Kingston, they resided near Selby for thirty-five years where their family was born and where Mr. Knapp predeceased her in June, 1904. In 1919, the family moved to Napanee. She was a member of Grace United Church, and although unable to attend the church services for some time, she had maintained a deep interest in all its activities. She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society. Her cheerful disposition and thoughtfulness for others, won for her many friends, both young and old. In recent years, frail of health, she gratefully welcomed her friends. She was well known and most highly esteemed. Her passing will be widely mourned by many friends.

She leaves to mourn her loss and cherish her memory, two sons, S. W. Knapp, Napanee, F. W. Knapp, Kingston; three daughters, (Carrie) Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Melrose; (Hazel) Mrs. Alex Winter, Napanee and (Beatrice) Mrs. W. W. McCabe, Napanee. A sister, Mrs. R. A. McIlwaine, predeceased her a year and a half ago.

The funeral was held at Napanee, Monday, March 4th, at 3 p.m. from the Tierney Funeral Home and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. D. McLellan who delivered a comforting message and paid warm tribute to her Christian character and life of service. He was assisted by Rev. A. W. Lougheed of Shannonville.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The body was placed in Riverside vault for interment later.

Those actings as pall-bearers were: Messrs. J. Frisken, R. S. Wales, A. F. McKnight, W. A. McLeod, H. A. Wood and R. D. Martin.

Farmers Asked To Place Orders For Help Early

An appeal for Belleville district farmers to place their orders for farm help early as possible was issued from the local employment service office today. Early placement of orders would give greater assurance that requirements would be filled in time for the Spring season's work, it was stated.

To date only about two dozen applications for farm workers have been received at the Belleville employment office, with farmers offering from $50 to $55 per month for "year round" hired help. Such offers are getting few takers from among the number of unemployed factory workers, who in some instances ask as high as $100 per month. Some farmers are offering as low as $30 per month for single men with board and lodging, and claim that at present prices they cannot afford to go higher.

Every effort on the part of employment officials is being made to encourage idle factory workers with farm experience to accept jobs on farms but with limited success at the rates of pay being offered. These men, accustomed to short hours, are reluctant to work on farms where they claim longer hours of work would be expected of them.

In view of the increased food production which is being called for in Canada, employment officials are urging that farmers secure immediately what assistance is needed in order that odd jobs may be caught up before spring's work commences. They also point out much mechanical experience has been gained by former farm workers who went into industry during the war, and these men could work to splendid advantage in making "on the spot" repairs to milkers, tractors and other farm machinery.

Marmora Takes One-Game Lead In Final Series

Madoc, March 7. — Marmora took a one-game lead in their best of five series with Madoc on Wednesday night, when that team defeated the Madoc crew 6-1 on ice that was covered with water and very heavy. The play was very rough and the referees had a hard time controlling the players but most of this was due to the bad condition of the ice surface. Rolling pucks kept combination play to a minimum.

Trumbull was seriously injured early in the first period when he tangled with Alexander and had to be carried from the ice. While Barker was resting his heels in the penalty box, Lavender scored the first of his three goals for the night for Marmora. The tally was made after a scramble in front of the twine. Beamish of Madoc, was sent away for hooking and although Madoc had the best of the territorial play they could not score on McInroy in the Marmora net. In the second period Lavender scored his second goal on a rebound from Cousins and Cousins came right back to score another for Marmora.

Beamish drew a penalty and while he was away Leonard scored from Loveless to make it four and came right back to make it five. At this point the Madoc defence went to pieces and Carswell stood between his team and a bad licking. In the third frame Madoc scored their only counter, Hackey making the counter on a pass from Fischer and shortly before the period ended Lavender completed the "hat trick" by scoring his third goal of the contest.

SITTING MARKED BY FIRST CLASH AMONG MEMBERS

Second Reading Given Bills to Continue Subsidies on Cheese, Hogs, Sugar Beets

Toronto, March 7 — (CP)—Ontario's 22nd Legislature resumed Throne Speech debate today after a sitting marked by the first clash among rival members since the new session opened Monday.

The heated debate was brought about yesterday in discussion of government bills, 12 of which received second reading. J. B. Salsberg (Lab-Prog. — Toronto St. Andrews) sought to raise the question of penal reform in consideration of an amendment to the Parole Act and finally was vigorously ruled out of order by Speaker W. J. Stewart after crossing swords with three government members.

Earlier second reading was given bills to continue subsidies on cheese, hogs and sugar beets after Agriculture Minister Kennedy stressed that the world faces its "greatest food shortage of modern times." The bills also were referred to the agriculture committee.

The session opened with introduction of private bills and tributes by four speakers to opposition leader Farquhar Oliver, who celebrated his 42nd birthday yesterday. Premier Drew, C. C. F. House Leader W. J. Grummett, Labor-Progressive Leader A. A. MacLeod and Harry Nixon (L.—Brant), former premier, congratulated Mr. Oliver who entered the legislature at 22.

The members were considering proposed changes in the Parole Act when Mr. Salsberg suggested the possibility of debate on penal reform. Attorney - General Blackwell protested penal reform was not within provincial jurisdiction and Premier Drew appealed for members to confine discussion to the Parole Act amendment.

Ruled Out of Order.

Mr. MacLeod echoed the words "British institutions" which the Premier had used in asking that discussion be confined to the amendment, Mr. Salsberg rose again to assert that the subject of penal reform was "not inappropriate" and the Speaker rapped sharply with his gavel. Mr. Salsberg persisted and finally was ruled out of order.

In urging subsidies, Mr. Kennedy said aid to sugar beet growers must be continued because of the "desperate need" for increased sugar production. In 1945 sugar supply was 2,400,000 long tons below normal requirements. The government proposed to allocate $112,500 for subsidies on sugar beets compared with $225,000 last year, but despite the reduced assistance producers would receive an enhanced amount because the Federal government had allowed an increase of more than 60 cents per 100 pounds in beet sugar prices. This meant an additional $1.50 per ton in the price paid farmers for average sugar beets.

Thus, said Mr. Kennedy, growers who received $11 per ton for 16-per-cent beets will receive about $11.50 this year. The government felt sugar beet growers were entitled to the increase to enable them to meet higher labor costs and because it was hoped Ontario's two sugar plants—at Wallaceburg and Chatham — could be put into operation.

Subsidies on hogs had resulted in a steady increase in output. Ontario's production jumped from 1,667,000 in 1939 to 2,108,000 in 1944.

Under the cheese subsidy the price to the producer had been maintained at a level of 22 cents a pound, exclusive of the Federal Government premium on quality and the cheese milk subsidy of 20 cents per 100 pounds. The government proposed to maintain that price and "not let it go below the ceiling of 22 cents a pound in the period when the Federal government is taking all our cheese for export purposes."

Meanwhile Queen's Park observers awaited development in Speaker Stewart's ruling that no extra office space was available to the Labor-Progressive party and that its two members in the Legislature—Mr. Salsberg and Mr. MacLeod—could share space awarded to "miscellaneous parties."

Previously Mr. Stewart announced one office is allocated to government members, one to the official opposition and one to miscellaneous parties, which the C.C.F. has been occupying. C.C.F. spokesmen said they did not wish to share their quarters with any other party as it would destroy the secrecy of caucus.

Regarding hogs, Mr. Kennedy said the subsidy will be based on quality, Grade A and Grade B1, but did not list figures. Under the cheese subsidy the price to the producer had been maintained at a level of 22 cents a pound exclusive of the Federal government premium on quality and the cheese milk subsidy of 20 cents per 100 pounds.

"It is the policy of the government to maintain that price and not let it go below the ceiling of 22 cents a pound during the period when the Federal government is taking all our cheese for export purposes," said the minister.

He believed a change was coming in Ontario methods of selling cheese, which now often found farmers selling green, unripe cheese through practices started 90 years ago. With modern facilities for curing and storing cheese, there was no reason why producers should not retain the cheese until fully cured and ripened.

Other bills given second reading included amendments to the Marine Insurance Act, Companies Act, Ontario Municipal Board Act, Damage by Fumes Arbitration Act, Coroners Act, Insurance Act, Loan and Trust Corporations Act, Collection Agencies Act, Surrogate Courts Act, and the Territorial Division Act. Bills to amend the Mental Incompetency Act and the Money Lenders' Act were left standing on the order paper at the request of Aurelien Belanger (L.-Prescott.)

A number of private bills introduced at the third-day sitting of the new session were referred to the Private Bills Committee after receiving first reading.

Campbell Loans
are Life Insured . . . $20 to $1000

INSURED LOANS
Here's the better, safer way to get ready cash. For your protection, Campbell Loans include Life Insurance to cover the unpaid loan balance. In case of death your family is thus relieved of all obligation for your loan. The complete balance is automatically paid off by the insurance company. Campbell Finance Corporation is the only loan company to provide this valuable protection. And there is NO EXTRA COST for this outstanding feature.

REDUCED RATES
Campbell loan costs are now at the lowest level in our history. Only a few examples are given here, of how practical it is to borrow at Campbell Finance. For details on any amount from $20 to $1000 phone or visit our nearest office. Remember, Life Insurance protection is included in all quotations. It costs you nothing extra. Private interview rooms are always available to allow the greatest freedom for discussion.

LONGER TERMS
For your greater convenience, Campbell Finance allow repayment terms up to 20 and 24 months . . . On loans $300 and up 20 months are allowed, and 24 months for loans $501 and up. This means that you can repay your loan in nominal monthly amounts on a soundly planned basis. With the high level of taxes and increased cost of living, longer Campbell terms are most helpful in systematic debt reduction. From our many repayment plans a qualified Campbell expert can help you to choose just the right one to fit your special needs.

4 LOAN PLANS
Campbell Finance provides a wider choice for borrowers with four different types of loans. Married couples can borrow money quickly without endorsers. Loans on your signature only (up to $100) are fast and simple to get. Also loans on various common types of security require no endorsers. From our four kinds of loans you can easily select a plan that will fill every requirement. Of all the people in Canada who borrow from licensed lenders, 1 out of every 4 uses Campbell Finance—specialists in personal loans for over 18 years.

Foreign Agents Trying to Steal U.S. Bomb Secrets

By CLAIR JOHNSON

Washington, March 7 (AP) — The House of Representatives Committee investigating un-American activities said today foreign agents are trying to steal United States atomic bomb secrets.

Chairman John S. Wood (Dem.-Ga.) told newspapermen the committee had authorized him to announce that an investigation has disclosed the theft attempt.

He added that the committee is co-operating with "other government agencies, particularly the war department."

Mr. Wood phrased his remarks cautiously in discussing the inquiry with reporters. He declined to name the nations involved.

Asked whether the investigation showed any connection between the reported theft efforts here and those recently announced in Canada, Mr. Wood replied:

"I don't know. I'm not sure just what agents were at work up there."

The Canadian government has accused Russia of attempting to obtain secret information, including data about the atomic bomb. Moscow has said the data obtained from Canadian citizens was of no special interest to Soviet authorities.

Mr. Wood said the committee had authorized him to say:

"We have been conducting an investigation for several months to see if subversive forces are at work against the government in connection with development of atomic energy.

"Information we have secured shows decidedly that there are efforts being made to obtain information that the United States government hasn't authorized to be given out.

"There are influences in this country trying to obtain this information in an illegal way.

"American people may be involved, but it is primarily a foreign attempt."

TRENTON

F. Marsden Held For Robbery

Trenton—Shortly before midnight Wednesday night Trenton police received a call that a man had been assaulted and robbed in a laneway in the downtown section.

The victim, Andrew Dobrindt, Trenton, stated that he and a so-called friend had visited a few of the local hotels during the evening. After an argument they parted company. Dobrindt started for his rooms, and when opposite a laneway near his residence, was struck, pulled into the laneway and robbed of a sum of money.

Within an hour, Fred Marsden, age 22, John St., Trenton, was arrested by Constables McCall and Jensen and charged with robbery with violence.

PREPARE FOR NAVIGATION

Fort William, March 7—(CP)—Preparations for the opening of navigation gained speed yesterday as intermittent rain softened harbor snowfields. Harbor ice-breaking operations are expected to start about March 15 and the tug James Whelen is receiving a final checkup and minor repairs in preparation for the job. Capt. F. J. Dyer, sub-agent of the Department of Transport, reported the ice has not yet started to honeycomb in Thunder Bay.

CAPTURE FIRST GAME

St. Hyacinthe, Que., March 7. (CP)—Victoriaville Tigers last night captured the first game of a best-of-five semi-final provincial hockey league playoff by shading St. Hyacinthe Saints 3-2.

Victoriaville took a one-goal lead in the first period only to see the home team come back to tie the score in the middle frame. Tigers again went ahead near the end of the period and added another early in the third.

Bailiff's Officers Postpone Attempt To Evict Woman

Weston, Ont., March 7—(CP)—An 84-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Catharine Ferguson was confined to her borrowed bed with "heart trouble" today and sheriff's officers, who already had removed all furnishings from the tiny home, postponed attempts to evict her and her elderly son and daughter.

Mrs. Ferguson, who sat stolidly on her favorite chair Tuesday and refused to budge while officers walked out with furniture, linoleum off the floor and two stoves, was taken ill during the night and blamed it "on all this excitement."

When the officers left without completing the eviction Tuesday, neighbors supplied food and two beds for the three. They also supplied fuel to feed a faulty furnace that hadn't been used for years until the officers removed the two stoves—after first dumping the fires.

The eviction order followed a request of a war veteran-owner of the five-room frame dwelling in this Toronto district town that he be allowed to take possession. Mrs. Ferguson said she had been in the house nine years, that she didn't want to move, and that her rent was paid up to late this month.

Meanwhile, the North York township welfare officer, Reg Hewett, said he would "gladly pay the first month's rent to anybody who will give the Fergusons one or two rooms."

Trapper Shoots 3 Large Wolves Out of 4 in Pack

The unerring marksmanship of Sandford Laurence, veteran hunter and trapper of Marmora, proved a paying asset the other day.

As three shots rang out from his rifle three large timber wolves slumped over dead. The fourth member of the pack made a successful getaway.

Laurence was running his trap lines near Poplar Landing when a deer, obviously terrified, broke cover from a nearby thicket. Close on its heels came four large wolves.

He watched the chase for a second, then carefully taking aim fired four rapid shots. The deer bounded away to safety, while the remaining wolf raced to the woods and disappeared.

The hunter brought his "bag" to the office of County Treasurer Ross Bailey yesterday and claimed the bounty.

Three other wolves, one of which exceeded six feet in length, were shot during the past two days bringing the total county winter bag to 17. These animals were shot and killed by James Oliver, Actinolite; G. Yearwood, Huntingdon township and Arnold Ray of Rawdon.

World Day of Prayer Marked on Friday, To be Observed Here

Friday, March 8th has been set as World Day of Prayer and in Belleville as in many other parts of the globe the occasion will be observed.

This (Thursday) afternoon a Dominion broadcast was scheduled to be delivered from Montreal from 4.30 to 4.45 by Mrs. Gilbert Ferrabee, honorary vice-president of the Dominion Board of the Anglican W.A.

Friday's observance has been arranged in accordance with the plan of setting apart one day each year for this purpose, so that for one day each year Christian women hold the world together by prayer. Groups come together to worship and bring offerings for the furtherance of the work. The day begins at sunrise in the Fiji Islands and ends forty hours later on an isolated island in Alaska.

The program is sent to committees, national councils and mission boards to missionaries everywhere and translated into languages and dialects used at various services across the world.

On the eve of the day of prayer "the candles of peace" are lighted in New Zealand and the Pacific Islands and countless groups take up the service.

GUN HAS TWIN BARRELS

Chicago, March 7 — (AP) — A German gun with twin barrels concealed in a belt buckle—was turned in for registration yesterday. The buckle is four inches long, and an inch and a half in depth. A lever releases the front of the buckle, permitting the barrels to swing in a 90-degree arc, facing away from the wearer. Individual triggers permit firing of one cartridge from each barrel. The cartridges are approximately .38 calibre. Hubert L. Will, Chicago lawyer, said that he had obtained the weapon from a German officer.

FARMERS WORRIED

Fort Erie, March 7— (CP)—The mild weather welcomed by most residents of Southern Ontario has farmers in this area worried. They fear sap will rise early in the trees and late March and early April frosts will damage orchards.

LANDSLIDE A BLESSING

Cynwyd, Pa., March 7 —(AP)—A landslide, which tumbled a 40-foot hill into Mrs. Donald Hardy's back yard and collapsed two retaining walls, proved a blessing in disguise. Mrs. Hardy was planning to start house-hunting because the home she now rents had been put up for sale. "But the would-be buyers took one look at the backyard," she said, "and fled."

Mr. Churchill at Fulton, Mo.

At Fulton, Missouri, the former Prime Minister of Great Britain the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, on Tuesday spoke words of compelling interest on problems of the post-war era which has already begun. His subject "Sinews of Peace" gave him the opportunity to express to the world, for his address was broadcast, his opinions, built upon experience and his observation of the world as it exists. How to preserve the fruits of victory and peace for the good of the whole world was his subject. An address of such moment has aroused the worldwide interest coming as it did from one of the greatest statesmen of the world. That he intended to speak plainly is shown by his reference to the opportunity of addressing the people of President Truman's country "as well as my own countrymen across the ocean and perhaps some other countries too . . . The President has told you that it is his wish, as I am sure it is yours, that I should have full liberty to give my true and faithful counsel in these anxious and baffling times. I shall certainly avail myself of this freedom."

With the United States standing at this moment at the pinnacle of world power he said it was a solemn time for American democracy because of the awe-inspiring accountability to the future which goes with primacy in power. He saw an opportunity here for both the United States and Britain, which to reject, ignore or fritter away would bring upon the English-speaking peoples "long reproaches of the after-time." That they would prove equal to the severe requirement he felt sure. As to the work of the U.N.O. he said "we must make sure that its work is fruitful, that it is a reality and not a sham, that it is a force for action and not merely a frothing of words, that it is a true temple of peace in which the shields of many nations can some day be hung and not merely a cockpit in a Tower of Babel." Then he declared:

"Before we cast away the solid assurances of national armaments for self-preservation we must be certain that our temple is built not upon the shifting sands or quagmires but upon the rock. Anyone can see that our path will be difficult and also long, but if we persevere as we did in the two world wars — though not alas in the interval between them — I cannot doubt that we shall achieve our common purpose in the end."

His proposal was that "the United Nations Organization must immediately begin to be equipped with an international armed force," moving step by step but beginning now. He wants to see the United Nations begin to dedicate forces to the service of the world organization to be added to and grow as confidence grew.

No speech in the present day could omit reference to the atomic bomb and here Mr. Churchill was very definite — he declared it would be wrong and imprudent to entrust the secret knowledge or experience of the bomb to the world organization while that body is in its infancy. "It would be criminal madness to cast it adrift in this still agitated and ununited world," he said adding that no one had slept less confident because this knowledge was in the hands of the United States, Britain and Canada. "When the essential brotherhood of man is truly embodied and expressed in a world organization these powers may be confided to it."

Mr. Churchill pointed out that the liberties enjoyed by the United States and the British Empire are not valid in a considerable number of countries, some of which are very powerful. "In these states control is enforced upon the common people by various kinds of all-embracing police governments, to a degree which is overwhelming and contrary to every principle of democracy." He said "the power of the state is exercised either by dictators or compact oligarchies operating through a privileged party and a political police."

These were the two dangers he referred to, war and tyranny, as menacing the homes of the people. Other dangers are poverty and privation "which are in many cases the prevailing anxiety." "But if the dangers of war and tyranny are removed there is no doubt that science and co-operation can bring in the next few years to the world, newly taught in the hard school of war, an expansion of material well-being well beyond anything that has yet occurred in human experience." He foresaw this hunger and distress passing and said there is no reason except human folly or subhuman crime which should deny to all the nations the inauguration and enjoyment of an age of plenty."

Mr. Churchill declared that "neither the sure prevention of war nor the continuous rise of world organization will be gained without what I have called the fraternal association of the English-speaking peoples,," which he said required not only the growing friendship and mutual understanding between our two vast but kindred systems of society but the continuance of the intimate relationships between our military advisers, leading to common study of potential dangers, similarity of weapons and manuals of instruction and interchange of officers and cadets at colleges. It should carry with it the present facilities for the mutual security by the joint use of all naval and air force bases of either country all over the world."

The wartime leader of Britain said he did not believe such a special relationship would be inconsistent with loyalties to the world organization but that rather "it is probably the only means by which that organization will achieve its full stature and strength."

What is needed is a settlement today.

In regard to Soviet Russia he said that no one knew "what Russia and its communist international organization intends to do in the immediate future or what are the limits if any to their expansive and proselytizing tendencies." He expressed his great admiration for Marshal Stalin and the Russian people and declared there was goodwill in Britain and in the United States towards Russia and there is "a resolve to persevere through many differences and rebuffs in establishing lasting relationships." He referred to the growing sphere of influence of the Soviet behind "that line" of the iron curtain which he said "has descended across the continent from Stettin to Trieste. He added that "if now the Soviet Government tries by separate action to build up a pro-Communist Germany in their areas (the zone of occupation) this will cause new serious difficulties in the British and American zones and will give the defeated Germans the power of putting themselves up for auction between the Soviets and the Western democracies."

He saw "communist parties or fifth columns" as constitute a growing challenge and peril to Christian civilization. At the same time that he repulsed the idea that "a new war is inevitable; still more that it is imminent" and added that he did not believe Soviet Russia desires war."

He said western nations welcomed constant frequent and growing contacts with Russia and understood Russia's desire to be secure from all revival of German aggression.

He noted the strength of the British Empire and with the fullest co-operation of the British and American peoples he saw an overwhelming assurance of security," if we live faithfully to the charter of the United Nations and walk forward in sedate and sober strength seeking no one's land or treasures or seeking to lay no arbitrary control on the thoughts of men, if all British moral and material forces and convictions are joined with your own in fraternal freedom, the high roads of the future will be clear, not only for us but for all, not only for our time but for a century to come."

MUSICAL OUTCAST

Once I tried to be the tenor of a barber shop quartette.
I had longed to be admitted to our music-warbling set,
But the high notes tenors manage were a bit too much for me
And they told me when I tried them: "You are sadly off the key!"

There were other sad occasions in the years so swiftly flown
When I tried in manly fashion to become a baritone.
Then I yodeled "Danny Deever" and "The Road to Mandalay."
But, "You're off the key," they snorted in a most derisive way.

As a basso last I soloed, but I woke them from their sleep—
The many, many brave hearts who are slumb'ring 'neath the deep,
And the guests assembled snickered, and a wag inquired of me:
"Are you really seasick, brother, or just badly off the key?"

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the Great Divide?

"Divide" is a precise geographical term that describes the line, ridge or watershed separating the waters of two drainage systems.

"Watershed," which some authorities suppose to be an anglicization of German "Wasserscheide," meaning "waterparting," originally had the same meaning: that is, a line of high land that divides the waters flowing in one direction from those flowing in the other.

The Continental Divide of North America consists of a continuous line extending north and south from the Arctic seas to the boundary between Panama and Colombia. As a general rule, in the United States it follows the most elevated parts of the Rocky Mountains. Water that falls east of this line flows into the Atlantic and that that falls west of this line flows into the Pacific.

"The Great Divide" is merely a popular term, more or less indefinite in meaning, that is applied to a vast region in Wyoming, Colorado, Montana and Idaho traversed by the Continental Divide. The term is employed in somewhat different senses in different sections of the country.

It should not be presumed that the Continental Divide always follows the highest crests of the mountain ranges. There are places, in Wyoming for instance, where the traveller would never suspect he was crossing the Continental Divide. Sometimes the divide line traverses a plain or highland plateau many miles from the nearest mountain peak. In such places it is impossible to locate the exact divide line without surveying instruments. Even with such instruments it may be practically impossible to determine the critical level when lakes occur on these great heights.

Perhaps the most famous body of water of this kind is Isa Lake ("Isa" from Greek "iso," meaning "equal") in Wyoming on the Yellowstone Park plateau. This appropriately named lake has two outlets of equal elevation, and from one water flows into the Atlantic and from the other into the Pacific.

Figuratively "great divide" is applied to an important decision, to a crisis, and to death—"the undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveller returns."

Whitehall Notebook

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 7 (CP)— No one looks less like the usual conception of a trade unionist than debonair Sir Hartley William Shawcross, 44, attorney-general who spoke for trade unionists when he opened the House of Commons debate on repeal of the trade disputes act.

Speaking as a member of the labor goverment, many of whose members recalled bitterly passage of the act in 1927 after the 1926 general strike, Sir Hartley was like the movie conception of a successful lawyer for the defence. His dark smooth hair gleamed and his plum-colored tie was matched with a plum-colored handkerchief peeping from the breast pocket of his dark coat.

He spoke easily, coldly, with none of the wrath displayed by Foreign Secretary Bevin, who also took part in the debate. Mr. Bevin, who spent a lifetime organizing unions and fighting their battles, battered the dispatch box on the commons table as he emphasized his words.

Sir Bartley stood erect, his voice calm and his motions unhurried, as dispassionate as when he denounced traitors in recent London trials or presented the British case against German war criminals at Nuernberg.

When the general strike was staged Sir Hartley had been called to the bar for only a year. A man who took first class honors in all his legal examinations he was senior law lecturer at to 1934.

Pipe for Joe: Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, who goes from Moscow to be British Ambassador in Washington, is an inveterate pipesmoker. During a visit to London once he decided to take back an English pipe to generalissimo Stalin.

The familiar theme of wartime scarcity was sounded at the exclusive pipe shop he visited. Sir Archibald explained who he was, said he wanted the pipe as a gift for Mr. Stalin.

The salesman looked blank. Then a great light dawned. "If, Sir, it's for Mr. Joseph Stalin, I think we can spare one."

Fixed Neutrality Of Switzerland Problem for U N O

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Bern, March 7 — (AP)—Switzerland's fixed policy of absolute neutrality, which has existed in principle for some 4 1/2 centuries, raises a tough problem in her relations with the United Nations Organization, which thus far has not announced any method whereby membership can be accorded to neutrals as such, that is, stated that claim special exemptions.

We are likely to hear a good deal about this before long because the question seems bound to arise whether Switzerland is to be given preferential treatment. The Swiss will tell you they're anxious to co-operate with other nations in maintaining peace. They hope that the U.N.O. will find some method whereby at least a modified membership can be accorded.

Switzerland lies in the heart of the continent and it is the crossroads of the shortest routes from north to south and from west to east. That puts this little country of some 16,000 square miles decidedly on the spot, perched as it is on its mountains among Germany, France and Italy. Trouble among the major powers always meant grave danger of invasion for Switzerland.

The population of the Swiss federation of 22 cantons is drawn chiefly from three races — German, French, and Italian. German is spoken by about 2,000,000, French by close to 1,000,000 and Italian by the balance.

If Switzerland had abandoned her neutrality in a war involving France, Germany or Italy, she not only would have invited invasion but likely would have caused strife among her own people. This should be qualified by pointing out that in the Second Great War and Fascism.

As the Swiss put their case, they have full confidence in the Allied leaders who fought for the liberty of the world. They would gladly accept an invitation to join the U.N.O. if abandonment of neutrality were not involved, but as things now stand the question would have to be submitted to the Swiss people in a plebiscite. The consensus here is that the answer would be "no."

There is a widespread hope among Swiss statesmen that the U.N.O. will find a modus vivendi to take into account Switzerland's special position as a neutral. This policy runs back to the year 1515 when the Swiss suffered a great defeat in the Battle of Arignano at the hands of the French and withdrew from international politics. Finally the Congress of Vienna in 1815 recognized Switzerland's special status as a neutral.

It is suggested that perhaps a start could be made by accepting Switzerland in cases outside the military and political, that is, in such fields as the social, humanitarian and economic.

Welland Asks Province to Take Over Police Work

Toronto, March 7 (CP)— The Ontario government has under a consideration a request that it take over the policing of the city of Welland, it was learned.

A delegation from Welland recently saw Attorney-General Blackwell to make the request but he could not be reached for comment. It is reported that a provincial police inspector has been asked to study the matter and report.

C. L. Snyder, Deputy Attorney-General, said he was not familiar with the situation, although he understood Welland made a request, first city to ask the province to take such action. Several smaller municipalities are calling on the provincial police to handle their policing, he added.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

JUST DON'T INTERFERE

A reader complains that in a talk titled "How to Regulate the Alimentary Canal" a few weeks ago I apparently digressed from the subject to go off on a buggy ride behind Topsy, my one and only horse — surely everybody around Penn Yan will remember Topsy — she was a handsome sorrel of medium size but enormous oats capacity and the most appealing brown eyes — I'd give all the automobiles I have ever owned, or ridden in for one summer month, a Whitfield low-sill, patent-leather dash, rubber-tired buggy and Topsy and the use of a small house in or around Penn Yan.

The reader perhaps expected I'd prescribe some new-fangled physic to regulate the alimentary canal. I'd be happy to recommend a good physic if I believed any such medicine were necessary or in any way good for anybody to take every week, month or season.

On the contrary I know that the regular use of any sort of laxative, cathartic, purgative or cleaner-outer, as the gullible customers call it, whether every day, once a week, once a month or every spring never does a bit of good and usually does more or less harm.

Now, friends, if you will lay aside the almanac and switch off the radio long enough to listen, I wish to state as earnestly as I can that there is no better reason for attempting to regulate your bowels than there is for attempting to regulate your breathing or your heart action. These functions are all autonomous, self-regulating, if you just don't interfere with them.

I can't quite believe it, but they tell me there is a kind of wrist-watch now that never needs winding — it winds itself — how in Sam Hill — but they assure me the contraption really runs without winding. If they are not kidding me, that would be as nearly like the autonomous control of the alimentary canal as any human contrivance could be.

Of course I do not promise that an old alimentary canal that has been abused for years with physic, to say nothing of pap or sissified food, will settle right down to regulating itself the day its owner skips the customary dose of physic. The first day is nothing at all. The second day is just the second day. It is not till the fifth day without physic has come, dragged on for a week or so, and gone that the victim of the habit need begin to worry. I'll agree that if Nature has not resumed complete control by the end of the five-day period, the victim may take a physic and, when he has recovered composure, have another go at breaking the habit later on. In any case I promise the victim of the constipation habit that no serious harm can come from just not interfering.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How to Grow

I am 16, weigh 128 pounds, 5' 2" tall. Hope to become a physical education instructor. Handicapped in school athletics by my low stature.

(S. A.)

Answer — In your place, Sam, I'd supplement my regular diet with a good daily ration of calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D, ask my family doctor about thyroid treatment, drink not less than a quart, better three pints of milk every day, and keep right on with swimming, short races, tennis, baseball, etc.

Dandruff and Dry Scalp

Son, 13, has much dandruff and very dry scalp. It seems worse since he began wetting his hair so much to keep it parted.

(Mrs. J. W.)

Answer — Water, of course, removes the natural oil from scalp and hair. Much better to use a wee bit of oil, such as fresh castor oil and lanolin, equal parts, or any simple oily pomade. If the home treatment described in "The Hair and Scalp" is followed for a few weeks it will control the dandruff for many months. Send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for the booklet.

Eczema

Troubled with eczema for years, it comes and goes but never clears up . . . doctor said it was sort of a throw-back to asthma which my father has, and that it can't be cured unless it goes away by itself.

(B. W.)

Over a year ago I sent for your paper on Eczema, followed advice about calcium and vitamin D and am now almost entirely free of it, besides feeling better than for years.

(Mrs. J. H. E.)

Answer — Deficiency of calcium and vitamin D is a contributing factor in many cases of chronic eczema, recurring hives, spasmodic asthma, migraine (periodic sick headache preceded by fortification spectra or other aura.) Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet on Eczema. If you want the booklet "The Calcium Shortage" inclose ten cents.

An Embarrassing Compliment

THE appointment of an individual as executor of your estate is an expression of confidence in his or her integrity and ability. It may, however, prove embarassing to the person so named. An executor has to deal with a variety of difficult problems. Many are highly technical . . . some require more time than can be conveniently spared. An executor hesitates to take a holiday; he may feel guilty if illness interferes with his duties as executor.

Witness Says He Drove Harris To Ajax Home

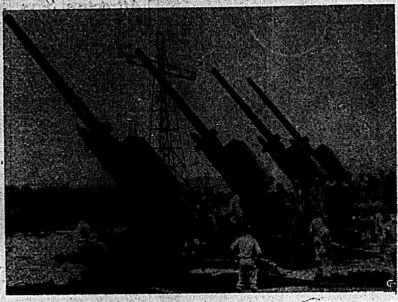
Whitby, Ont., March 7. (CP)—Gordon Loudfoot of nearby Ajax testified Wed., that Lorne Harris, of Ajax, charged with the strangle-slaying of Mrs. Audrey Lyons in her Ajax home last Nov. 10, drove him to Mrs. Lyons' home for a "couple of pints of beer" the night before her body was found in the bedroom of the home.

He told an Assizes Court jury he never had met Mrs. Lyons before but that he, Harris and a 15-year-old girl visited Mrs. Lyon and that when he and the girl left in the early morning of Nov. 10, Harris remained.

"There were no marks on Harris' face while I was there," he replied to a question. "I saw Harris again the next day. He had a mark on his left cheekbone below his eye. He told me he slipped and fell on the way home the previous night."

Harris, 21, married and father of a child, was charged with the murder of Mrs. Lyons, 23-year-old mother of two, a week after discovery of the slaying. Her husband was stationed in Newfoundland with the R.C.A.F. at that time but has since returned home on compassionate leave.

RADAR-CONTROLLED STRATOSPHERE CANNON



A battery of four 120MM (4.7") stratosphere cannons controlled by radar and equipped with an electronic brain, pictured at Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds. This weapon fires a 50-pound shell over 12 miles high. The ammunition is loaded in two parts, as may be seen here. The shell is placed in first, followed by the propellant in a cartridge case. This weapon is the U. S. army's principal hope of defence against the 3,000-mile-per-hour atomic rockets of the future.

Spain Claims Franco Blocked Plans of Axis

London, March 7 (AP)—Spain, fighting back against the movement abroad for replacement of the Franco regime, has maintained that her government aided the Allied powers during the war by preventing Axis domination of the Mediterranean, North Africa and the Near East.

"Hitler planned to enter Spain Jan. 10, 1941. We saw the intention of the two dictators to incorporate Spain into the Axis and so to dominate the Mediterranean, and with it North Africa and the Near East," the Madrid radio said last night.

"The one who prevented the carrying out of these ambitious plans was neither Great Britain nor the United States of America. The one who prevented it was Generalissimo Francisco Franco," the broadcast declared.

"Spain did not want to enter and did not enter the war in spite of all the coercion of the Axis powers, with their troops on our frontiers, ready to break in and march down on Gibraltar."

Yesterday's Spanish order barring all French nationals from Spain and her possessions, a retaliatory step against the French action last week in closing the French-Spanish border to commerce, was regarded calmly in Paris.

French government circles said the restriction did not "change the situation at all," since all intercourse between the two countries had been severed effectively by the border closing.

The Spanish government in exile continued to urge in Paris that the Allied powers sever all relations—diplomatic and commercial—with Spain, saying that such action was the only means of forcing Franco from power.

WANT TAX REMOVED

Toronto, March 7 (CP)— The Ontario Municipal Electric Association passed a resolution asking the Dominion government to repeal the eight per cent war revenue sales tax on all domestic hydro bills.

The resolution said: "This is a special tax on the consumers of the household electrical energy and not universal in its application to all the citizens of Canada as is the sales tax on merchandise."

The convention also passed a resolution recommending formation of an electric service league in Ontario to include the municipal systems and to have the objective of seeing that safe and adequate wiring is installed in all new homes as well as those already built. The resolution said wiring in many existing houses is below par, reacting "adversely to the full use of electricity."

LOCOS WIN AGAIN

Kingston, March 7 (CP) — Kingston Locos last night defeated Peterborough 9-6 in the second game of a best-of-seven games O.H.A. Intermediate A group final series.

The next game is to be played Friday night at Omemee, if the ice is satisfactory.

Soft ice held up the start of the game 15 minutes and slowed play considerably.

SET RAIL STRIKE DEADLINE

Cleveland, March 7 — (AP) — Heads of two big railroad brotherhoods, the Trainmen and Engineers, Wednesday set 6 p.m., E.S.T., March 11 as the deadline for a progressive strike which would tie up the United States rail system.

The actual walkout could be delayed 30 to 60 days by the president's appointment of a fact-finding committee as provided by the Railway Labor Act.

The Dominions

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 7 (CP)— Lord Jowitt who is Lord Chancellor and a government spokesman in the House of Lords, has declared the labor administration's attitude towards the Dominions as "we want the closest possible co-operation ..We want to have no secrets and no reserves from them at all"

The Lord Chancellor cited Prime Minister Mackenzie King during discussion of foreign policy and relations with the Dominions. Mr. King, addressing the British parliament in 1944, said that in considering new methods of organization care must be taken that these new methods appear to attempt to limit the Dominions' freedom of decision or that people outside the commonwealth gathered the impression a separate bloc was being formed.

"We should be very foolish, I think, to disregard the warning of such a statesman as Mr. Mackenzie King," said Lord Jewitt.

"We want to bring them (the Dominions) in in every way we can, and if we can find any way of improving the present relationship we shall not hesitate to adopt it, but we are not going to lose the substance for the form."

The Earl of Perth, Liberal, said that high commissioners to the Dominions, or personalities specially chosen by the Dominions for that purpose should come automatically to meetings called to discuss foreign policy and defence. The organ might be similar to the committee on imperial defence with a special secretariat composed of officials of departments mainly concerned.

Viscount Templewood, Conservative, formerly Sir Samuel Hoare and Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said he believed that in years immediately ahead "we shall find the post of High Commissioner in the Dominions will become one of the most important posts in the whole of our overseas service.

Lord Jowitt said he agreed a high commissioner fulfilled "a most important function" and if it would be stressed or underlined by any alteration in status he would be glad to do it.

"So far as the government are concerned, we should be very glad to look into that at any time, because we fully realize that these high commissioners are playing, and have played, a most important part in the happy relationship which fortunately exists today between this country and the Dominions."

FORMERLY WITH EDMONTON UNIT

Niagara Falls, March 7 (CP)—Captain Gordon Lunan, one of nine persons held in connection with espionage activities in Ottawa, formerly served here as signals officer with the Edmonton Fusiliers

Capt. Lunan, named by Prime Minister Mackenzie King as "the head of a group of agents, acting under Russian direction," was described by acquaintances here as "a charming character".

J. C. Bridgen Closes 54 Years Of Railroading

Smiths Falls, March 7—(1946)—Fifty-four years of railroad service starting as waterboy at the age of ten and ending as conductor for the Canadian Pacific Railway were chalked up by J. C. (Joe) Bridgen when he stepped off his van at 2:30 a.m. on February 28, at Smiths Falls, after bringing in his last freight from Trenton.

To prove he was still "young", in a moment of playfulness, he "took on" Trainman D. M. Dunham in a sparring match. F. J. Liston, assistant superintendent of the Smiths Falls division, representing L. R. Bangs, of Toronto, superintendent of the Trenton division; J. White, local chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; and the third crew member, F. P. Butterill, were on hand.

Looking back over his long service from waterboy on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, now part of the C.P.R., to his last run as conductor on the through freight, he found, as so many other railroaders have before him, that his hobby was railroading. He mentioned fishing and hunting but didn't seem convinced that they would be much help for his well-earned leisure.

With a last look around he pointed to his caboose. "It's one of the old ones", he said. "They don't make 'em that long anymore. They are good to ride in". Looking over the interior he explained, "We always keep it spotless. It gets a little dirty in Winter because of dust from the stove but in Summer it's real clean always."

His railroad service was only broken when he served overseas in the 3rd Canadian Division in World War 1. Before enlistment he had been a trainman working out of Kingston and in 1918 he returned there. In 1924 he was conductor on the Kingston subdivision and in 1926 transferred to Smiths Falls.

As he put on his coat to leave the caboose he gave a little farewell speech. "I'll miss you boys. A man couldn't have a better crew."

FINLAND'S PRESIDENT?

Premier Dr. Juho K. Paasikivi who, it is believed, will be successor to Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim as president of Finland. The latter resigned. Retirement of the ailing 78-year-old chief executive, wartime commander of all Finnish armed forces, had been expected for some time.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Doris Osborne, Albert St., is progressing favorably after a major operation in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Colden, Lois and Jimmy, of Hamilton, spent several days last week with the former's mother and brother, Bobbie.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Atherton, and Bobbie, of Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alford and Grant of Belleville, spent Sunday, March third, with Mrs. Ida Colden and Bobbie.

F/O. and Mrs. Donald McKee, Ottawa, have returned home after visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. McKee, Cedar Street.

LAC. Gerry Maxwell, R.C.A.F. is leaving for Edmonton, tomorrow, to take part in the Muskox Expedition after spending a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Maxwell, Donald St.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the Rouse-McEntee wedding on March 2, in Cobourg was Mr. E. Flesch, of this city.

Miss June Kent of the Royal Bank staff, is holidaying in Toronto and Alliston.

Mr. Stanley Mitchell of Oshawa, spent the weekend with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Kent, Corby Library Apartments.

Mr. Will Cooke, Foxboro, spent a few days with his daughter, Mrs. Sherwood Benn, Toronto.

The winners of Saturday night's regular euchre held in the Engineers' Hall are as follows: ladies', Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Spring; men's, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Hill and Mr. Doran. The proceeds from the weekly euchre parties are to be donated to the Amps' Fund.

Mrs. Nelson Hannah, Ann St., spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Sarles, Stirling, also a day with her father, Mr. Will Cooke, Foxboro.

E. Gladney Feted Before Departure For New Zealand

A delightfully arranged bridge and bridal shower was given Miss Elizabeth Gladney on Monday evening, by three of her friends, Mrs. E. S. T. Walker, Miss V. Humphries, and Mrs. A. C. Wilkin, at the latter's home, St. Agnes' Manor. After bridge and a delicious tea, at which Mrs. J. W. Howard poured, the guest of honor was presented with several pieces of Wedgwood and a corsage of roses, for which she graciously thanked her friends. Miss Gladney leaves today for San Francisco from where she sails on the S.S. Monterey to join her fiance, C. Barton Whitmore, of Lower Hutt, New Zealand.

ROSLIN Y.P.U.

The Roslin Young Peoples was held on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sills, with twenty-two members present. The collection was then taken. A short business period was discussed. The program was given over to Earl Gray, the missionary convener. The leader gave an interesting reading on National Day. Games were played and delicious refreshments were served.

BARN DANCES POPULAR

Toronto, March 7 — (CP) — Barn dancing is taking on a new lease of life in halls and clubs in and around Toronto, a survey showed last night. The younger set apparently would just as soon sashay their honeys and swing those pretty girls to the tune of the fiddler as cut a rug to the shriek of the juke-box.

Meals in Britain Under New Cut In Food Rations

(Editor's Note: Edith McCook, wife of a member of the London Bureau of The Canadian Press, tells in the following article first of two, how the British housewife feels about recent food cuts.

Written for The Canadian Press

By EDITH McCOOK

South Harrow, Middlesex, England, March 7 — (CP) — It was a glorious victory, but its immediate legacy is greater scarcity of food and monotony of meals, an average British housewife finds.

"I'm getting tired of bread and cheese," Mrs. Harold Atkins, South Harrow, in Greater London, said when The Canadian Press asked how a typical British housewife feeds her family in this belt-tightening year.

Mrs. Atkins, a competent Scottish homemaker married to a Harrow builder and contractor, finds the food problems of the post-war world baffling.

Mrs. Atkins' food problems are increasing just when, because of the toll of war, she should be treating her nerves with respect. Harrow lies uncomfortably between three major airfields and throughout the war it was on the enemy's direct line to the Midlands.

Against a background of war strain and fatigue she looks with dismay on further cuts in the restricted British diet just announced.

"Shortage of fats is what I find hardest," Mrs. Atkins said. In a family of four, when no meals are eaten outside the home, the former eight ounces weekly had not been sufficient and seven will be even worse.

Bread has not been scarce, but it requires butter or margarine to make it palatable, since jam is hard to get and cheese must be spread thinly to cover all its multitudinous uses.

Fish is unrationed but difficult to get, yet since meat is rationed so strictly it has become of great importance. The family gets tired of it boiled and steamed, but fats cannot be spared to fry fish.

A Sunday pie and one or two jam "tarts" for week-day suppers use up the remainder of the fat, cakes, cookies, creamed sauces, potato chips, have all left her family table. So too have soups. There is neither fat nor milk for creamed soups and few bones for meat soups. Dripping is used often to replace butter on bread so it can't be spared for preparing lentil, bean, or split pea soups.

Pancake Supper Held By Y. W. Guild

The Young Women's Guild of Emmanuel Church had a most delicious Pancake Supper, on Shrove Tuesday, in the Bible School Room. The tables were very attractive with their white cloths and several vases of waxed sweetpeas.

The guests were received by Mrs. T. S. Russell, who also acted as treasurer for the occasion.

The serviteurs were Mrs. Wilbur Wright, Mrs. William Dennis, Mrs. Fred Clark, Miss Berjeel Gannon and Miss Helen Caverly. Replenishing the tables was Mrs. James Gannon.

It was indeed a pleasure to have two members of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. John Rigby and Mrs. Flay Weese assist in replenishing the tables.

The effort put forth was well rewarded when the treasurer reported gratifying results.

Women's Activities

WELLMAN'S W.I.

Rawdon.— Mrs. John Rainie and Miss Emma Rainie were hostesses to Wellman's Woman's Institute with a large number in attendance.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, of Belleville, who is a valued member of the Federated Board of the W.I. of Canada, gave a graphic picture of her recent trip to Vancouver.

Mrs. George Watson presided and conducted the opening items She also sang a duet with Mrs. Lorne Watson "A Basket of Old-Fashioned Roses" and gave a splendid paper on the subject "How We Are Governed".

Mrs. Carl Clancy delighted with a reading. The president was absent for this meeting.

EVENING AUXILIARY BRIDGE STREET CHURCH

The regular monthly meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church was held in the Sunday School room on Tuesday evening, March 5, at a quarter to six. Supper was served by Mrs. Harris' group after which the meeting took place.

The Christian Stewardship Secretary, Miss Grace Tucker, gave her report concerning the year's objective. The president announced the World Day of Prayer in the Baptist Church on Friday, March 8, at three p.m., and the Presbyterial on April 4 at Trenton. Mrs. Howie's group was in charge of the topic for the evening discussion, which centred around the forses of evil which are ever around one in the world, and the necessity of always being on the alert to combat them. The Call to Worship and the Bible reading, and a short reading called "The Watchman", all emphasized the need to be wide awake to these forces of evil. Following the discussion and ably illustrating one of the greatest of these forces in the world—alcohol,—a film was shown called "The Pay-Off", sponsored by the W.C.T.U., showing the effect of alcohol on accident hazards and family welfare. Since modern youth bases decisions on facts, it is believed that facts from authoritative sources should be placed before the young people to aid them in making wise decisions.

A very enjoyable item on the program was a solo "Beside the Green Pastures", by Miss Atkinson.

Mrs. A. W. Marner Honored at Tea

In honor of Mrs. A. W. Marner, (nee Frances Sinclair), a tea was held at the home of Mrs. W. Ellison recently. The guests were met at the door by Mrs. A. McGilvray and shown to the register in charge of Mrs. H. Mack and Mrs. Sid Leader. Receiving the guests in the living room were Mrs. Ellison, Mrs. Marner and her mother, Mrs. H. Sinclair.

The lace covered tea table was centred by lovely red tulips, flanked by lighted white tapers set in silver holders. Tea was poured during the evening by Mesdames G. F. Millar, Geo. Lamont, S. Barnes, and R. Trumble assisted by Misses Bette Weir, Margaret House, Betty Phillip, Phyllis McLean, Mesdames W. C. Hemenway, W. J. Burden, M. C. Richardson, A. Kirk, W. C. Tarves and W. Wilson. The guest of honor was presented with a chest of flatware. Other hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames W. McKay, P. Grant, E. Sackville, L. B. Thompson, J. O. Begg, J. I. Bell, C. McWilliam and Nelson.

IVANHOE MISSION BAND

The Ivanhoe Mission Band met on Saturday afternoon, March 2, at the home of Mrs. Earl McMaster. The meeting opened with the President, Shirley Reid, in charge. Doris Twiddy read the Scripture reading. Carlyle Rollins took up the collection.

The Mission Band purpose was repeated by the members after which a short poem was read by the President, Mrs. E. McMaster, read a story entitled "Little Boy's Prayer. The fifth chapter of the Study Book was read by Doris Twiddy and he Mizpah benediction closed the meeting. Everyone then worked at their scrapbooks and refrashments were later served by the hostess.

NO CURE FOR BABY'S COLDS

. . . But You Can Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes which drag down vitality and resistance. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets—easily crushed to a powder if desired. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of the irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish . . . and in this way they encourage restful sleep. Used with confidence by thousands of Mothers for over 40 years, too, for teething fevers, constipation, and other simple baby ailments. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Get a box of Baby's Own Tablets today. Only 25¢. If they fail to help, call your physician at once.

BEAUTY ARRIVES FROM BRITAIN

A handsome package of reverse lend-lease arrived in New York on the S.S. Filipp Mazzei. She is Virginia Kelley, British actress, who is en route to Hollywood after entertaining British audiences for five years with her singing and acting.

Music, Dancing Elocution Teachers Combine Effort in Successful Recital

The variety recital presenting some seventy young performers from Queen Alexandra School on the afternoon and evening of March 1, was a credit to the several teachers who had trained the children for this concert.

Piano, violin, guitar, dancing and recitation numbers delighted a full auditorium of parents and friends at both performances.

The Home and School Association of the school sponsored this enterprise and is enthusiastic in its praise and appreciation of the invaluable co-operation received by the various teachers of cultural subjects in the city.

Miss Phyllis May trained two excellent choral groups, each including about forty-five children, which gave vocal interest to the occasion. The seventy young artists who gave splendid individual performances were pupils of the following teachers:

Miss Leona Riggs, Sister Biblianna, Sister Mary Aurea, Mrs. John Deacon, Prof. E. W. Wheatley, Miss Jessie B. Tuite, Miss Barbara Diment, Miss Madeline Walden, Miss Lazelle Brown, Mrs. E. Veley, Mrs. Don Williams, Miss Bessie Handley, Mrs. Geraldine Wensley, Mr. Harry Wagner, and Mrs. E. W. Wheatley.

Rawdon

Rawdon — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell entertained the Two by Two Club Sunday evening with twenty-five in attendance. The pastor conducted the worship service and all enjoyed a sing song. Irvin Reid led an interesting discussion on "How to Make a Better Community." Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Mrs. Paul Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thrasher and Teddy were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thrasher.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Mulheron, Mount Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks, Margaret and Joanne, Carmel, also Miss Winnie Phillips, Belleville.

Second Breakup of Grand River

Brantford, March 7 — (CP) — Second break-up of the Grand River this winter now is in progress here but there is no flood threat. Ice sixteen inches thick is still solid on the west side of the river while a gradual break - up has opened a channel on the east side.

Wrinkles Are Attractive Says N.Y. Hair Stylist

Vergnes, a Frenchman who regularly styles coiffures for the Duchess of Windsor, Helen Hayes and Barbara Huton, said in an interview today that the natural wrinkles give character to the face.

"Many mature women try to fluff up their hair kittenishly so as to draw attention away from wrinkles," he said. "They look like cocker spaniels. The surest way to point up a wrinkle or skin blemish is to try to hide it. To me, a wrinkle merely emphasizes a woman's personality."

Holloway

Halloway — Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend took supper on Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Foster, Moira.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morgan called on Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moran on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson and family and Mr. John Townsend took dinner on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Townsend.

Mrs. Arthur Wilson returned home on Tuesday after spending several weeks with her daughter Mrs. Clarence Marshall.

Kenneth Demille spent Saturday with Norman Paul Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Snider and family Wellington, took tea on Sunday evening of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend spent the weekend in Toronto the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Phillips.

Mr. Earl McMaster, Ivanhoe, called on Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen on Thursday evening.

On Wednesday evening a meeting was held in the Halloway United Church and it was decided to form a Young Adult group with Collin Donald as president. Rev. L. Shorten conducted a worship period and several short interesting films were shown. It was decided that the group should meet weekly and the necessary conveners and officers were nominated.

Should a Marriage Announcement be Acknowledged?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I have just received an announcement of the marriage of a friend of mine. I have never met her husband. Should I acknowledge this announcement; and if so, how should I address the reply? F.

The usual advice given about acknowledging a marriage announcement is that "it isn't required and it isn't necessary". With this advice I definitely disagree. I believe that if someone, even someone we know very slightly, is so thoughtful as to include us in the list of friends (or acquaintances) to be sent the news of such an important milestone in her or his life, we should show some appreciation for this thoughtful gesture to us. If it is a mere acquaintance, a brief note will suffice: "Thank you for sending me the good news. To you both, best wishes for your happiness and future welfare." To a friend we would naturally write more intimately, depending on the closeness of the relationship. And quite often, when we know no invitations were sent for the wedding, we acknowledge the marriage announcement, if we feel so inclined, by sending a wedding present.

Your acknowledgment - note should be addressed to your friend, the bride; and in the body of your note you send your "congratulations and best wishes" to her husband even though you have not met him.

Sign Informal Name in Wedding-Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

The other day my husband and I went to a house wedding, and for the first time in my experience I was asked to sign a wedding guest book. What form of name should I have signed. . . "Mrs. John Smith" or "Marie Brown Smith"?

Reader

I hope you signed your informal name, for this is the proper form of signature for this kind of book—Marie Brown Smith.

When Eating Cake, Use a Fork

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

At a recent dinner I noticed that several of the guests used their spoon to eat not only the ice cream but the cake also. I ate my cake with the fork. Which is correct, please?

S. R. V.

Since the hostess provided a fork, you did the proper thing to use it in eating the cake. So many people (including these several guests you mentioned) are so unnecessarily perverse about not using the correct silverpiece, when there it is so conveniently provided for them!

She Should Consult Her Priest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

My fiance and I are both Catholics, and since he is a divorced man, I would like to know if we can be married in church and if I can wear the traditional white wedding gown and veil. My fiance was married by a justice of the peace, not in church, and we would like to know if there is any church rule that would prevent our being married in church. A. M.

Your priest is the authority you should consult about this.

Each Attendant Pays for Her Own Costume

Dear Mrs .Beeckman,

1. When my fiance returns from overseas, we are to have a church wedding. Do I pay for my attendants' dresses?

2. Is it proper for my niece to be ringbearer, or may only a little boy be ringbearer?

H. H.

1. No. Although you choose the costume of your attendants, each attendant pays for her own. But you or your family provide the flowers to be carried by the attendants.

2. Yes; a ringbearer may be a little girl, dressed much the same as a flower girl.

Individual Thank-You Notes Alway Best Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just been told by one of my co-workers in the office I have just left to be married, that all the girls in the office (there are about twenty) are contributing to a joint wedding gift for me. When this gift arrives, should I write each girl an individual note, or will it be all right to send one thank-you letter to the entire office?

, B. L.

Since each girl is contributing to this joint gift for you, each girl's contribution to the fund is really her individual gift to you, and therefore each girl should receive an individual note of thanks from you. The one inclusive note addressed to the office will, of course, take far less time to write, but it won't be in good taste and it won't make a proper bow of appreciation to each girl who made a generous bow of friendship to you.

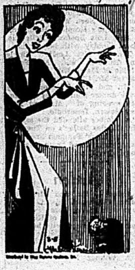
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Pretty hands have pretty Manners



Exercise your hands. Wave bye-bye

There are more reason than one why hands and fingernails should be beautifully groomed. By attending carefully to necessary details that make for attractiveness, cleanliness and smoothness of surface, you have an incentive for graceful movements of the hands. Without perfect appearance, the hands resort to furtive, awkward motions and graceless gestures. They are folded in the lap, as if hiding from observing eyes. Girls with plain hands have been known to sit on them or tuck them in skirt pockets. That's not beauty Hoyle. Cream them, lotion them, keep the nails in perfect condition; be proud of them.

You may consider a cultivated repose most becoming — it depends upon your temperament or character in a way—or you may prefer a more active form of hand expression. Hands can be silent or they can talk. Unless they express themselves eloquently, they should be still. Gestures should not be too frequent. Hands always on the wave are distracting to some people. You know the woman who can't say the word "North" without pointing in that direction, which seems pretty senseless.

In order to have grace, the wrists should be flexible. Exercise them. Wave bye-bye. Massage them with creamed fingers.

Experiment with your hands. Watch their behavior. You can do that by letting them go inert. Then shake them. Wring them together. Lift one hand above your head; note the pose of the fingers. Shake and flutter them, loosen the wrists, relax the arms.

Drop your hands in your lap. If each hand forms a lump, with fingers curled under, they are no feast to the eye. Let one thumb rest over the other, fingers interlocked, first fingers extended full length. Then hands are pretty. They are graceful. Keep the wrists together, as you keep your ankles together when you are in a sitting position.

If muscle relaxation is under control, you can go ahead and use your hands conversationally. They will not speak out of turn. They will contribute qualities of interest and attraction, will express personality.

This season of the year hand care must go on daily. In the summer time, when one perspires and the surfaces of the hands are moist, one does not have to resort to lotions. But when the North winds blow, hands get into a dreadful condition in just a few days, especially if one is boss of the kitchen, has the hard-working mitts in and out of cold or hot water forty times a day.

Watch out for vegetable stains. Remove them by passing the pulp of a cut lemon over the flesh. Use creams freely and with plenty of friction.

CREAM CHEESE AS SUBSTITUTE

Smiths Falls, March 7—(CP) — Smith Falls residents, after stretching their reduced butter ration to the utmost, have started using cream cheese as a substitute.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Both Young Women Have Their Charms—He Can't Choose Between Them

Something over 200 years ago a bemused English poet wrote the following lines:

"How happy could I be with either,
Were t'other dear charmer away!"

Apparently he was in the same highly uncomfortable fix as the bewildered marine who wrote this letter:

"Dear Miss Fairfax,

"I was discharged from the Marine Corps about a month and a half ago.

"My problem is this. You see, I'm in love with two girls. I had a lot of plans for this one, but when we went out, she acted quite cold toward me, so I started going out with this other one. She always acts nice and time just goes by so fast when I'm with her.

"But now I found out that the first girl really loves me, and I like both of them very much. I'd hate to hurt either one of them, but I'm afraid to go back with the first girl, so I'm still going out with the second, and the first girl really loves me and she, feels awful hurt and I feel awful because I hurt her.

"My buddies tell me that I'm making a decision too soon. What should I do, Miss Fairfax? I like both of them equal. Should I go back with the first one, or should I just go with both of them and different ones to find out who I really like?

"Mixed-up Marine"

The strategy of love is a lot toughter to figure out than the strategy of war, isn't it, "Mixed-up Marine". Looks as if your retreat might have been a bit too precipitate in the first place, and evidently to an unprepared position. Perhaps you ought to have held that first position a big longer.

But in any event, it sounds as though you've already got the answer pretty well figured out yourself. That is, it would be much wiser, at this point, to go out with both girls, and some others; too, for awhile before you make up your mind about any one of them.

Your buddies have the right idea: that you're trying to make a decision too soon. Give yourself a little time. After all, you have not been back in civilian life long enough yet to have become accustomed to the luxury of having an unlimited number of girls to choose from. All the girls are dazzling to a man who's been away from them as long as you have.

So just take it easy for a few months more, and don't concentrate too hard on any one girl, no matter how nice she is, or how much she seems to love you, or how fast the time flies when you are with her. Take a lot of them out and have a good time with them all. When you really fall in love with one of them, you'll know it. You won't have to ask anybody to help you make up your mind. You'll be mad if they even try to!

LEFT CAR A LONG TIME

Brantford, March 7 (CP)—It is said patience is a virtue, but a farmer who lives near here thinks it can be carried too far.

One day last April a stranger came into his place and asked if he could leave his car in his yard until he could get a wrecking truck from Brantford to tow it away. The car had a flat tire.

Tuesday the farmer asked the provincial police if it could be moved out of his yard. He thought the man should have moved it by now.

White Without Bleaching

FOR a wash that's really sparkling white—get Oxydol with its lively "Hustle-Bubble" suds. Oxydol suds are so supremely active they lift out the last possible trace of dirt. And even your grimiest clothes—except for unusual stains—come White Without Bleaching.

Actual tests prove that Oxydol gets clothes cleaner and whiter than less-energetic soaps can ever hope to do. It even acts to prevent those "dirty grayness" particles that form in the water—stick in clothes—then turn yellow or gray when you iron them.

Yet Oxydol is really safe for washable colors, rayons and your own precious hands : : : Get Oxydol now—for a wash so clean it's White Without Bleaching.

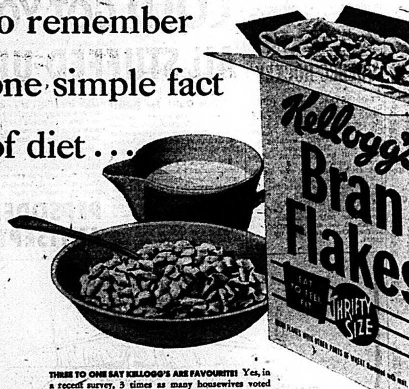
WHY Daly's is Delicious

• Daly's Tea is delicious because it is a high quality tea. Ask your grocer for Daly's Tea. You'll enjoy it.

The famous 30-day test has convinced thousands how important it is to remember one simple fact of diet . . .



Kellogg's Bran Flakes
THRIFTY SIZE
BRAN FLAKES WITH OTHER PARTS OF WHEAT

and how downright good Kellogg's Bran Flakes TASTE!

ON EDGE ALL THE TIME . . . because I forgot one simple fact. Then I tried Kellogg's 30-day test. That simple change of diet really helped me keep fit . . . feel grand during working hours, too.

MAKE THIS 30-DAY TEST

1. If you're really ill, see your doctor! But if you are just feeling dull and headachey, depressed or cranky all the time, you may only be suffering from incomplete elimination. This is especially true if you're over 35! Yet there's no need to let it make your work a grind or spoil your fun! Just take this simple precaution:
2. Start now, to eat Kellogg's Bran Flakes every morning. To keep fit the natural way, get more of the "bulk" your system needs by eating delicious, gently laxative Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. They help keep food wastes moving promptly, supply valuable minerals and proteins, too.
3. Just thirty days and you'll prove it for yourself! Simply eat a big, crisp bowlful of Kellogg's Bran Flakes every morning. You should soon see what it's like to feel on top of the world again—with lots of energy for extra things. And Kellogg's are so downright delicious you'll never want to give them up!

Keep fit with Kellogg's every day in the year!

FLEMING HOLDS TWENTY RECORDS IN HORSE RACING

Canadian - Born Driver Says He is Not Retiring but Just Recuperating

Pinehurst, N.C., March 7 (CP)—The tall, gray-haired Canadian leaned over the rail in the Carolina sunshine with a critical gleam in his eye as he watched some of the future champions of the harness horse world being exercised at Pinehurst race track.

"What do they mean—I'm retiring?" he asked, without taking his eye from the track. "I'm not retiring. I'm just recuperating from that smashup in Delaware last year. By next year I'll be back in there driving another two-minute record."

That is how Vic Fleming of Dundas, Ont., holder of 20 world records, co-holder with Doc Parshall of the record for driving the biggest number of two-minute horses, and one of the greatest drivers of the harness horse grand circuit over the last 30 years, feels about rumors that he was retiring from driving which have reached his home town.

Vic, who grew up with horses on his father's place in Dundas, where he was born Christmas Day, 57 years ago, broke into the grand circuit in 1915 after driving in Canada from boyhood.

Last September he was injured in the $5,000 2:04 pace at Delaware, Ohio. He is recuperating at the stables run by two of his sons, Billy and Charlie, who have a dozen horses in training here. Another son, Jim, is also in the game, training at Norristown, Pa., and a fourth, Jack, is associated with a Toronto company.

Sons Take Over Training

Billy and Charlie have taken over active training for their father and are chips off the old block, for Billy was the fifth leading driver on the grand circuit in 1941 and holds the world record for the half mile, 0:59 3-4, made with Billy Direct, while Charlie has a world record for teams at 2:04 1-4. Both of them have just been released from service in the United States army.

Vic's 30 years on the track is like a history of the sport because he has figured in so many record performances.

The greatest horse he ever drove? Fleming's answer is swift to that one. The pacer Billy Direct, owned by Dan McConville, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and P. J. Downey, Worcester, Mass., which he drove in an exhibition mile at Lexington, Ky., in 1938 in 1:55, for the world's record. Fleming says he does not believe that time will ever be beaten.

His first great race was in the free-for-all at Lexington back in 1920, when he drove Louie Grattan, owned by Billy Stroud and Bob Merrigold of Hamilton, Ont., to victory over Single G., one of the most famous horses of all time, and Sarnado, which breezed two heats in 2:00, for a world record for mares at that time.

FELLER OFFERED $300,000 FOR 3-YEAR TERM

Head of Outlaw Mexican League Also After Williams and Greenberg

Mexico City, March 7 — (AP)—Bobby Feller, Cleveland's ace pitcher and one of the highest paid hurlers in organized baseball at a reported $40,000 a season, has been offered $300,000 to jump to the Mexican League for a three-year period, president Jorge Pasquel disclosed today. Feller would be paid $100,000 a season.

"That is nothing," smiled the head of the so-called "outlaw" league. Next season he said he hopes to get Hank Greenberg and Ted Williams, slugging outfielders for Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox, respectively.

"I'm getting in touch with them right now," he told the Associated Press in an interview. He did not say how much he plans to offer Greenberg and Williams. Neither did he say if Feller had replied to his offer.

Referring to organized baseball's criticism of his independent circuit, Pasquel declared: "We are ready to fight with them in any way that may be necessary. If they want to come and scrap it out they'll have to put out $30,000,000. I would invite them to come here with all expenses paid, with a car and a chauffeur at their service so that they can learn to know our organization and our league. We are building up our league on a long-term basis and have the money to do it. This is not a fly-by-night league."

Pasquel said a $2,000,000 "baseball city, excelling any baseball plant in the United States" will be built here by 1948. Plans call for it to seat 52,000 and have cushioned seats "like in theatres."

Major leaguers who already are reported to have jumped to the Mexican circuit include Danny Gardella and Nap Reyes, of New York Giants; Luis Olmo, of Brooklyn Dodgers and pitcher Alejandro Carrasaquel of Chicago White Sox.

Hockey's Big Seven

Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks, back in service after missing three games as the result of an injury, scored one goal last night as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Black Hawks 5-2, and boosted his total in the National Hockey League scoring race to 21 goals and 23 assists for 54 points. In second place, Gaye Stewart who counted a goal, giving him 33 and 13 for 46 points. A tie for fourth place developed between Clint Smith of Chicago, Ab Demarco of New York Rangers and Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens, all with 43 points. Blake has 24 goals and 19 assists, Smith has 22 and 21, and Demarco has 19 and 24. In seventh place, Elmer Lach of Montreal has 11 goals and 31 assists for 42 points.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

KINGSTON HERE—MEBBE

It all depends on that fickle-minded cuss, the weather man who all winter has been sending the faithful scampering from long undies to silken shorts, and from perspiring brows to frozen tootsies, whether the first game of the junior "B" playdowns between the Kingston Saints and the Belleville Bruins will be a reality tomorrow night or just another of those postponed affairs.

• • •

At time of writing, the bobby-soxers are beginning to get that soft dreamy look in their eyes and the swains are hovering between decisions to wear neckties and roll their pants down, or stick by standard winter equipment. The ice in the Hume Arena is beginning to assume a tired, and wish-it-was-all-over look, and already, tis said, a couple of fishworms have poked periscope snouts above the surface to see if the pike are running in the river.

• • •

However if the Weather Bloke gets over his sudden attack of Spring laryngitis, and decides to send in a couple of divisions of frost troops, there is a strong possibility that the game will be played. And he must do it, but quick. It takes more than a couple of hours to get the ice in any sort of condition after one of these prolonged warm periods, and if there is no change in the weather by Friday ayem, it is extremely doubtful if the joust is staged here.

BASKETBALL GALS READY TO GO

Coach Ed Shortt has his intermediate and junior girls basketball squads in training for the championship tournament being played at the Oakwood Collegiate Institute Toronto, early in April. Following is the tournament schedule as released yesterday:

Junior—April 5, Belleville vs. Hamilton; April 6, Stratford vs. Toronto. Final, April 6, 7.00 p.m., winner of (1) vs. (2).

Intermediate "B"— April 5, Belleville vs. Hamilton; Cobourg vs. Toronto; Peterboro vs. Niagara Falls; April 6—Winner of (2) vs. winner of (3). Final, April 6 at 8.00 p.m., winner of (1) vs. winner of (3).

• • •

"These draws," remarked Ed. "give the winners of game one in each series the edge, as they will go direct into the finals, playing against teams that have already played one game the same afternoon, while they will have had 24 hours rest."

"If Belleville can cop their first games against Hamilton their chances of provincial titles are extremely bright," he went on. "In the two years that our girls have been runners-up for the Intermediate "B" title, they have had to play, the Saturday afternoon game and then lost in the final to the squad with 24 hours rest."

• • •

The big coach stated that he had no indication of the strength of the Hamilton teams but he believed their intermediate team is the junior outfit that won its class title last year. "And," he smiled, "they were a smart little aggregation."

• • •

The Belleville cage colleens are getting the benefit of the coaching of Squadron Leader Bob Willis, who before joining the RCAF, coached the Toronto Sunday Morning Class to five provincial championships. Squadron Leader Willis is co-operating with Ed Shortt and between the two the girls are rounding into good basketball shape.

• • •

The junior girls, all under eighteen are reported to be responding to coaching in smart fashion and officials feel they will be worthy junior representatives of the city. Most of them will be eligible for junior competition next year and several are good for two years in the younger ranks.

• • •

Members of both squads are battling for positions on the teams. Selections won't be made until a late date when the strongest representations of both teams will be chosen. The girls are showing plenty of enthusiasm and pep and those who are eventually selected will know that they are on the squad by virtue of their basketball ability.

• • •

Following are the personnel of both junior and intermediate teams, 15 in each squad, 12 of whom can be used in any game. All are registered and eligible to play.

Intermediate "B" — Marion Salisbury, Captain; Dorothy Rowbotham, Peggy Ronsby, Shirley Marinoff, Helen Garrow, Dorothy Wonnacott, Eve Allison, Adeline (Peewee) Lepore, Arlie Gilbert, Nora Stollker, Ruth Roblin, Leola Burkholder, Marguerite Aselstine. Jo Ann Lepore, Doris Mansfield.

CHIPLETS

That broken-stick protest that arose from a Petes-Locos Intermediate game a short time ago is getting more free newspaper publicity than a Victory Loan drive.. The only difference is there was some sensible reason for the V. L. propaganda.. A Beloit, Wisconsin basketball squad composed of members of the House of David are anxious for dates with teams hereabouts.. The gents with the facial spinach are said to be topnotchers, just got out of the armed service, and can kick their elongated goatees aside with remarkable aplomb to sink the leather apple.. The bewhiskered gents expect to tour Ontario and are anxious to cross basketball rapiers with any jousters who might care to take them on.. Basketball broke a precedent of long standing down in Sanford, Florida the other day when Shortstop Jackie Robinson and Pitcher John Wright, two negro athletes, reported for Spring training with the Montreal Royals, Brooklyn's farm club in the International League.... The event didn't cause much stir with the palefaces in the south for only seven spectators were on hand to see the colored gents in early action.. They went through routine practice drill, so reports from the southern centre state, and failed to create as much excitement as a dog fight in an alley way.. And this ain't hay, brother.. The 40-day racing session at Hialeah Park in Miami that ended the other day attracted 768,811 paid admissions or an average of 19,222 daily.. The boys unloosed their lettuce luggage and tossed $53,308,007 at the bookies, or an average of $1,332,700 daily.. Ray (Sugar) Robinson, unofficial world's champion of the welterweight belters, has signed for a June 10 fight with the winner of the Jimmy Doyle-Art Levine scrap.. The fight is scheduled for the Cleveland Stadium.

LOOT RETURNED

Munich, March 7 (Reuters) — Works of art worth about £33,000,000 ($148,500,000) looted by the Nazis have been returned to the countries which owned them, it was made known last night. This represents only a small fraction of the German's accumulated loot and the monuments and fine arts section of the military government of Bavaria estimates it will take at least two years more to complete the task of collecting and handing them back.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, March 7 (CP) — New Westminster Royals failed to make the Pacific Coast League playoffs but the fact they were still in contention until the last couple of days was a tribute to the coaching job turned in by Clarence (Mo) Moher in his first year in senior hockey.

Moher—Just 30 and youngish for a senior coach—was behind the eight-ball strategically all season.

Royals were organized late to fill out the northern division of the P.C.L. and seven of his players had been rejected by other teams...The team was limited to 12 players through most of the season and 11 in the final few weeks...Of 58 games in the schedule only 19 were played on home ice...Royals travelled 16,000 miles in playing 39 "away" games...They played 14 games in 23 days and six in the last 10 days of the schedule.

One-third through the season New Westminster was only a half game behind the league-leading, all-star Vancouver Canucks but Royals faded when they ran out of gas grinding through the heavy schedule.

Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell reported that for one game at Seattle the rink officials sold several seats of the "players' bench." The rink boss apologized and coach Paul Thompson of Vancouver Canucks said that was all right, his substitutes could go to the dressing room when not on the ice. When needed for a change of lines he would send for them.

"You can't do that," said the Seattle mogul. "The dressing room is about a mile of corridors away."

"That is all right," soothed Thompson. "It might slow up the game a trifle but they can't stand up all night can they?"

Alf added: "The players' bench was cleared of fans rather quickly."

QUEBEC HOCKEY

Lachine, Que., March 7. (CP)—Lachine Rapides last night defeated Sherbrooke Randies 4-1 in the second game of the best-of-five provincial hockey league semi-final playoff, evening the series 1-1. Third game in the series will be played at Sherbrooke Sunday.

A crowd of 2,500 saw Bobby Morin start the Rapides on the victory trail. He scored the first goal midway through the opening period, converting a pass from Phillips. Herb Carnegie scored the only goal for Sherbrooke in the second period, his brother Ossie serving up the assist.

COLD GOT YOU ALL STUFFED-UP?
Do This Quick for Relief!
If you are sneezing and snuffling from a cold . . . all stuffed-up, with your nose and throat raw and sore—combat this distress, as thousands do, by gargling with new Pepsodent Antiseptic.
The reason it's recommended is this: Standard laboratory tests prove new Pepsodent Antiseptic kills millions of germs that go with colds. The very type of germs that many medical authorities say often heighten the misery and prolong the effects of a cold.
Isn't it only common sense then, to gargle with new Pepsodent Antiseptic at first sign of a cold! What better way to combat millions of germs that swarm on mouth and throat surfaces as far back as you can reach... back where illness often strikes first!
So treat a cold this sensible way: Get plenty of rest, avoid exposure, dress warmly, drink plenty of liquids...and gargle frequently with new Pepsodent Antiseptic. See if you don't relieve discomfort almost at once!

CHOICE OF LEADS

An honor card lead contains vitamins A, D, E. C. and B complex. You can recognize them when you see what is shown by the top of a sequence or a sequence top of an honor group.

The top is led from A K, K Q J, K Q 10, Q J 10, Q J 9, J 10 9, J 10 8, 10 9 8, 10 9 7. The sequence top is led from A Q J, A J 10, A 10 9, K J 10, K 10 9, Q 10 9.

As for the vitamin deal, A admits the card below; D denies the card above; E expects the second or third card below; C considers the possibility of a non-touching honor above.

B complex is the bewildering lead of an honor when it is not in sequence with a lower card. This complicates things for partner unless he discovers it in time.

With a choice of two honors to lead, prefer the one that calls for the highest honor. An ace lead comes before a king or lower; a king before queen or lower; jack before a ten; the ten is the last choice.

By now you have heard me tell you about honor leads in all the plain and fancy rule twists. Hereafter, we will dabble for a while in the meanings of lead cards that are lower than an honor.

Before we switch to low card leads, let me remind you again that leads follow an order of preference. As a higher honor lead comes before a lower honor, an honor card lead comes before a low card.

Suppose it was your lead from this hand:

♠7 5
♥Q J 9 4
♦Q 9 7 2
♣J 10 9

The queen of hearts is led before the club jack. Because the queen is a higher honor than the jack in the choice of sequences.

As between the sequence top lead and the small card lead from the diamond suit, lead the sequence top. It comes before a small card lead.

Palookas abuse the cards that they choose.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 7 (AP)—Lew Ayres, a boyish-faced actor who found fame as a young soldier in "All Quiet on the Western Front" and later as Dr. Kildare, was inducted as a conscientious objector four years ago amid a flurry of controversy.

A couple of months ago he was discharged after gaining the respect of the soldiers for his service as medical corpsman and chaplain's assistant.

Lew now is acting opposite Olivia De Haviland in "The Dark Mirror" for International. He is thin and his face is tanned and lined, but he still has that boyish look, despite his new mustache.

"I decided I would quit pictures after I went into the service," he said. "I thought I might enter the ministry or medicine—some field where I could accomplish something important. Making movies seemed to be very trivial.

"But when I went overseas, I changed my mind. I realized how important movies are to the lives of so many people. Why, I even became a fan myself. We would sit in a pouring rain in the jungle, just to watch a film.

"I would like to appear in pictures that are entertaining, but that also provide some kind of uplift to people in their problems."

On his spare time away from the studio he has a few dates, takes walks, swims a little and does a lot of reading.

Twentieth Century-Fox is having difficulty casting "the late George Apley." Ronald Colman thinks the part is too old for him, Clifton Webb would rather do a Noel Coward play and the star of the stage version, Leo G. Carroll, does not have the name power to sell it. Now the studio is angling for Ralph Richardson, the fine English actor...Joan Lorring is the latest to test for the role of Sophie in the film version of Somerset Maugham's "The Razor's Edge." So far Bonita Granville has the inside track.

Toronto Leafs Keep Alive Playoff Hopes by Defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5 to 2

Canadiens Humble New York Rangers and Boston Bruins Take Detroit

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs went to Chicago last night and hammered the Black Hawks into a 5-2 defeat, which means that the Toronto Stanley Cup holders still can't be officially counted out of the National Hockey League playoffs.

At Montreal, the league-leading Canadiens humbled the tail-end New York Rangers by 7-3. And Boston won a 4-2 victory over the Red Wings at Boston.

The net result of the Wednesday battles was to stretch the points between the top teams in the N.H.L.'s hottest finish. Canadiens now have a three-point lead over Chicago, with Boston another point behind. The fourth-place Detroit Red Wings are four games ahead of Toronto — and the Leafs have five games left before the schedule runs out on St. Patrick's Day. Two of these games are against Detroit, so that coach Hap Day's boys still have a hope.

In Chicago Syl Apps scored the first for Toronto on a pass from Bill Ezinicki, and Clint Smith tied it up in the first period. Apps scored his second goal on a penalty shot at 2:12 of the second period, and after that the Leafs were safe. Elwyn Morris made it 3-1 and Gaye Stewart made it 4-1. Pete Horeck got one for the Hawks after 13 minutes of the last frame, but Ezinicki's goal from Nick Metz and Morris made it 5-2 for the Leafs.

Hawks were skating furiously and in one collision at mid-ice Metz was laid out. He returned after a few minutes and evidently was not hurt badly.

Canadiens Had Little Trouble

At Montreal the Canadiens had little trouble disposing of the Rangers, although they were ahead only by a 4-3 count entering the last frame. Edgar Laprade got the first for New York and Jimmy Peters tied it up in the first period.

Kenny Reardon made it 2-1 for Canadiens and Alfie Pike tied it up. Then Maurice Richard, and Butch Bouchard scored, so that Grant Warwick's goal — the fifth in six minutes — left New York still trailing 4-3.

Canadiens were flying in the last period. Reardon, Richard and Peters scored in succession—each their second goal of the night.

At Boston all the Bruins goals came within 18 minutes of the 1st period — two from Milt Schmidt, one from Jack Crawford and one from Woody Dumart. In the 2nd stanza Fernand Gauthier scored on a backhand shot from 30 feet out, and Detroit's second goal was a lone effort by Joe Carveth after 15 minutes had gone in the final period.

N. H. L. LEADERS

(By The Canadian Press)

Standing — Montreal, won 25, lost 16, tied 4, points 54.

Points — M. Bentley, Chicago, 31 goals, 23 assists, 54 points.

Goals — Stewart, Toronto, 33.

Assists — Lack, Montreal, 31.

Penalties — Stewart, Detroit, 69 minutes.

Shutouts — Durnan, Montreal, four.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

MILT SCHMIDT, BOSTON, who scored two and assisted in a third goal as Bruins downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2.

SYL APPS, TORONTO, with 2 goals and one assist in Maple Leafs' 5-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

JIMMY PETERS, MONTREAL, scoring twice and assisting in two other goals when Canadiens whipped New York Rangers 7-3.

BUFFALO BISONS WIN AMERICAN LEAGUE TITLE

Rogers Leger Establishes Scoring Record for Defencemen With 56 Points

(By The Canadian Press)

Buffalo Bisons clinched the American Hockey League championship last night by eking-out a 2-1 verdict from New Haven Eagles before a home crowd of 7,596 fans.

Rogers Leger established a scoring record for defencemen with the winning goal at 13:51 of the third period, a hard drive which was deflected into the net by Sandy Mulne, New Haven defenceman. It was Leger's 56th point of the season and his 22nd goal. He set the previous record last season with 21 goals and a total of 55 points.

Bob Dawes scored for New Haven in the second period after a long dash from centre ice. Fred Hunt sent the puck sailing past Sugar Jim Henry in the New Haven nets in the third period and Leger broke the stalemate shortly after.

In the only other game scheduled in the A.H.L. last night, Hershey Bears strengthened their hold on second place of the Eastern Division by trouncing Pittsburgh Hornets 6-2.

A crowd of approximately 4,500 Pittsburgh fans saw Hershey's Joe Bell lead his team-mates with his 40th and 41st goal of the season, gaining him a place alongside four other players in the league's history who have scored 40 or more times in one season.

Durocher Says Walker has Lost Rightfield Job

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Dixie Walker, Brooklyn Dodgers' veteran holdout, has stayed at home so long he has lost his job as regular right fielder to Gene Hermanski, a strapping young fellow just out of the armed service, says Manager Leo Durocher.

"I don't care if Dixie does sign his contract now," Leo said. "He can't play rightfield on my ball club. He can't beat Hermanski out now."

One of the most popular players in Flatbush history, Walker is demanding better pay than he received last year. The latter figure, highest drawn by any member of the Dodgers' third-place club last season, was popularly supposed to be around $20,000.

Hermanski, who might well figure in the first authentic instance of a robust, but unknown, young serviceman beating an established star out of his job, hit .300 for the Dodgers in 18 games in 1943. By coincidence, that is exactly what Walker hit in 154 contests last year.

Their respective ages are Walker 35, Hermanski 24.

AT THE BELLE

"They Were Expendable"

No vehicle could more aptly have been chosen to make Robert Montgomery's return to the screen after an absence of four years on naval combat duty, than "They Were Expendable", which is now on the Belle Theatre screen.

This heroic M-G-M picturization of William L. White's absorbing best-seller tale of the part played by Torpedo Squadron No. 3 in the Philippine campaign might have been a slice of Montgomery's own experience in the war, in which he served as a Lieut. Commander in the South Pacific.

Unfolded with breath-taking realism and stark drama, the picture faithfully follows White's narrative of the gallant group of PT skippers who find themselves expendable in the fight to slow the Japanese offensive. Their six PT boats battle against overwhelming adds, gallant crews whether they are victorious in sinking an enemy cruiser or are forced to sink their own boat when it is sabotaged, reveal an obstinate courage that is a glorious tribute to this branch of the service. Only a few of Squadron No. 3 survive in the thrilling action of "They Were Expendable", but this powerful story of their devotion to duty will live as a saga of grim bravery.

Montgomery as Lt. John Brickley, commanding the squadron with an iron will, brings the character completely to life in what will rank as one of the finest portrayals of his screen career. John Wayne, co-starred in the role of Lt. (j.g.) "Rusty" Ryan, second in command, gives a forthright and honest performance, with Donna Reed adding a romantic touch as a nurse whose devotion makes things easier for the "Expendables". The picture owes much of its distinction to the brilliant direction of Capt. John Ford, himself a veteran of Navy action.

OSHAWA GENS. AND ST. MICHAEL'S MEET IN FINALS

St. Mike's Beat Galt 6-1 and Oshawa Puts Out Marlboros 6-4

By The Canadian Press

It's Toronto St. Mike's and Oshawa Generals in the O. H. A. Junior A finals, with their best-of-seven series scheduled to start at Maple Leaf Gardens next Monday night.

Two semi-final series wound up last night as St. Mike's trounced Galt Red Wings 6-1 in the fifth game of a best-of-seven series and Oshawa Generals took a 6-4 triumph over Toronto Marlboros to win their best-of-three series in straight games.

The Irish are defending champions as the title series opens. They won the crown last year and set out with characteristic Irish determination to hold it this season. Generals, on the other hand, have held the title several times in the last few years and are almost equally determined to take it back to Oshawa.

Second game of the final series between the traditional rivals is scheduled for Oshawa one week from today. Third will be in Maple Leaf Gardens the following Saturday afternoon. Dates for the other games have not yet been fixed.

Some 12,470 persons saw St. Mike's win last night in Maple Leaf Gardens. After winning three consecutive games, they had dropped one to Galt, but came through in the fifth game to win easily.

Victory came in a blaze of glory as the flash majors broke through for three goals in the third period as they held their opponents scoreless.

McLean of St. Mike's scored the only goal of the first period. Costello added another at the start of the second frame. Lyl Wiseman gave Galt its only tally at the halfway mark, and Johnny Blute lengthened Toronto's lead in the closing minutes. After that, a third period goal by Ed Harrison and two by Tod Sloan clinched it for the Irish.

Oshawa's Ike Hildebrand added to his laurels by scoring three goals as Generals beat Marlboros on Toronto ice. He ran in five tallies and earned two assists in the opener Monday night when Generals won 10-1 in Oshawa.

Cutts, Curik and Lowe scored the others for Oshawa last night. For Marlboros, Fryday, Massard, Allwell and Lovelace each tallied once.

Score was tied three-all at the end of the second period, but in the last stanza Generals collected three goals and Marlboros replied only once.

Proprietor of Belleville's Newest Industry Finds "Business Good"

"Business," remarked Eddie Schreider, former star athlete and coach of this city, and now owner of one of Belleville's newest industries, "is very good."

Eddie recently acquired manufacturing space in the Greenleaf building on Station Street, and started operations producing store and advertising display fixtures. His new organization is called the Customs Sales Company.

Employing eight people, the new place of business was a hive of activity today. There was a redolent smell of newly-sawn wood accentuated by the more pungent aroma of duco.

"Right now," remarked the young 'boss', "we are busy making plywood containers for magazines for a large number of shops in the city and district. Later we intend branching out into the cabinet-making phase of the business."

Don Barrett, who alternates between the jobs of assistant manager and spraying department head, busied himself applying a coat of lacquer to a trim new desk. This department is an entity of the business and has modern spraying equipment.

In the factory proper which is located on the second floor, the hum of bandsaws, jig-saws, circular saws, planers, drill presses and sanders, was apparent.

Another phase of the business and one that is meeting with success, is the remodelling of office furniture. Repairs, retouching, lacquering and actual construction are embodied in this department.

In operation for the past two months, the company is rapidly forging ahead in its sphere of small manufacturing operations. Prospects at present, look extremely bright for its future.

Mr. Charles Jezzard, woodworking and cabinet-making expert is the foreman of the new plant.

Retail Merchants Division C. of C. Names Directors

Personnel of the 1946 committee of the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce was announced at the directors' luncheon on Thursday by Chairman James Galloway.

Elected by ballot to serve on the committee this year are Messrs. Enos David, Art Francis, James Galloway, Ed Logan, Jack McIntosh, Jack McVeigh, Harold Seldon, Ed Shapiro and T. A. Tucker.

Guests at the luncheon were Mr. J. N. Adams, Toronto, of the inspection staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Messrs. Bruce Lattimer and Tommy Carruthers of the Belleville Junior Board of Trade.

In a brief address Mr. Lattimer, who represented President Malcolm Robb, of the Junior Board, outlined the aims and future activities of his organization.

He felt that the Junior Board would fill a long-felt want in the city, is well organized, has elected a strong executive and has outlined a variable program of civic and other activities.

Membership of 83

"At present," he said, "the junior organization has a membership of 83 and has formed four strong committees. One of the most important of these is that which will have to do with government and civic affairs. Other committees will look after public speaking; publicity and a "Boost Belleville" campaign."

"Every member of the Board," he said, "will have a job to do. There will be no loafers."

Mr. Carruthers, who is secretary treasurer of the junior organization told the directors that plans were underway to publish a small pamphlet which will outline the advantages of Belleville and which will be placed in every business letter leaving the city, or as many as possible.

Mr. Bone to Represent Chamber

Director Jamieson Bone, who is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Regional two-day conference slated for Cobourg March 12 and 13 will represent the local Chamber. It is expected that Directors Trudeau and G. A. Freeman will also attend the parley in an official capacity.

With reference to the annual dinner of the Chamber, Director Galloway who occupied the chair in the absence of President Lorne McDougall, stated that the president had made efforts to get the Hon. George H. Doucett, Ontario Minister of Highways as guest speaker. While nothing definite had been arrived at, it was quite probable that the minister would accept the invitation.

Director Trudeau suggested that in event of the minister being unable to accept, that the name of Mr. I. G. Needles, vice president and general manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company be taken into consideration. Mr. Needles, he pointed out was an excellent after-dinner speaker and in his opinion would have a vital message for business men of the city.

POLICE COURT

From the standpoint of city finances, Friday morning's city police court was of a very non-productive nature as no less than 7 persons convicted on charges of intoxication or other breaches of the L.C.A. were given sentences "on the hill" in lieu of payment of the conventional fines.

Five were sentenced on 'drunk' charges and will spend ten days "on the hill" dating from the time of their arrest, while one other will serve a like period for "having" and still another was sentenced to one month in jail on a second offence drunk charge.

Robert Allen was ordered to pay $20 toward repairs of a highway sign which was damaged as result of a motor accident last October. Allen was also ordered to pay $3.50 court costs.

E. E. Follwell, acting as counsel for the accused stated the Highways Department was prepared to pay costs of repairing the damaged highway sign, but Magistrate T. Y. Wills disagreed.

"I do not want to see this man get off scott free," commented the magistrate, "and I do not think the Highways Department will object to a small donation. I order the accused to pay $20 toward the cost of repairing the sign."

Two non-support cases, one of which was withdrawn, completed the morning docket.

Columbian Squires To be Presented Windbreakers

The Columbian Squires, of this city, junior provincial softball champions of 1945, will be signally honored in the City Hall on Monday night next, when Mayor Frank Follwell will present them with handsome windbreakers and crests, the gift of the city in appreciation of honors won on the diamond last year.

The youthful champions will also be presented with the handsome silver trophy emblematic of the Ontario junior title while each player will receive a miniature replica of the trophy.

The trophy, miniatures, windbreakers which are made of horsehide, and crests are now on display in the windows of the Goodman Gents Furnishing Store, Front Street, and are the envy of other softball players of the city and district.

Canadian Legion To Hold More Social Evenings

The opinion that more social evenings are needed to keep the members interested was expressed at the regular meeting of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 99 held on Thursday evening in the clubrooms. The membership is increasing with every meeting as more boys return home. Nine new members were initiated last evening, these being inducted by the president, Lt.-Col. H. E. Smith.

The resignation of Major Robert Graham, D.S.O., as first vice-president of the Legion, was regretfully accepted. Mr. Graham is returning to the permanent force and will not be available for the meetings. Leroy Madden, who served as first vice-president last year, was again nominated for the office and elected unanimously, the members feeling that one with wide experience should be in the position at the present time.

It was announced that A. D. Piper, 3rd vice-president of the Canadian Command of the Legion, would be the principal speaker at the Vimy Day dinner. Plans for the Easter Monday dance are proceeding and it is expected this will be one of the best social functions of the year. A minute of silence was observed for the fallen comrades and particularly "Scotty" McEwan, who recently died. Comrades Madden and Ellerby of the Pensions committee stated that a large number of cases had been dealt with and adjustments made. Comrades Jake Yanover and D. Mason were appointed by the Legion to act on the Civic Recreational committee, which will meet in the near future to further plans for a Community Centre.

A number of new chairs were purchased for the club rooms. D. Mason was in the chair during the discussion period and many subjects vital to the returned man were discussed.

Parking Areas On Riverside Drive Will be Improved

Immediate development of the Riverside Drive project as a parking area to relieve congestion on Front Street received approval of city council in committee on Thursday evening when it was recommended the city engineer be authorized to resurface the area as soon as possible with cinders and fine stone.

Recommendation to proceed with the project and develop as a parking area came as result of the tabling of a report from the special committee which has been appointed to further investigate the Riverside Drive possibilities when Department of Highways signified their non-approval of the Bridge Street entrance. The committee was headed by Alderman Harold Armstrong as chairman of Regional Planning with Aldermen Trudeau, Wilbur, Hyde, E. E. Follwell and the city engineer as members.

According to the recommendation the area to the rear of Front Street business establishments would be laid out to the best advantage for the convenience of entrance and departure by motorists using the area for parking. It was agreed that adequate lighting should be installed and the city solicitor was authorized to get from property owners their final price for property on which the city has option.

It was also recommended that the committee be authorized to seek an appointment with the Highways Department to seek authorization and approval for the Bridge Street entrance to the Riverside Drive project.

The chief of police and the city engineer will be asked to consider the possibilities of developing a system of one-way traffic for alleyways leading from Front Street to the parking areas.

The late Mrs. Horwood, who was in her 84th year, was born in Cornwall, England, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Pearce. For a considerable time she lived at Point Anne and two years ago she went to reside in Oshawa. She was a member of the United Church at Point Anne.

Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. Percy Gray, Oshawa; one son, William George Horwood, Point Anne; two sisters, Miss Lillian Pearce and Mrs. John Tompkins, both of Cornwall, England; three brothers, George Pearce of Cornwall, England, and John Pearce and Richard Pearce, both of Australia.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until late Friday afternoon, then at the home of her son, Mr. William George Horwood, Point Anne; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Late MRS. RACHAEL BABCOCK

The funeral of Mrs. Rachael (Sero) Babcock, wife of Howard Babcock, 78 Foster Avenue, took place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, on Thursday afternoon to Christ Church, Tyendinaga, where service was conducted by the Rev. Rural Dean Herbert Pringle, who also said the committal prayers at Christ Church Cemetery.

The bearers were P. Lewis, G. Lewis, John Sero, Joseph Sero, T. Stailkovich and T. Powless.

Maj. P. Ketcheson Appointed Sec'y Conservation Club

Waterloo, March 8 — Major P. Ketcheson of Napanee has been appointed Secretary of The Carling Conservation Club with headquarters at Waterloo, Ontario. A native of Belleville, Major Ketcheson has been an ardent advocate of conservation for many years.

The new secretary of The Carling Conservation Club is president of the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Protective Association, and is a director of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. He is also a member of the Reforestation Committee for North Fredericksburg township. He brings to this new post a wealth of experience in promoting the conservation of Canada's fish, game and other natural resources.

Major Ketcheson is a veteran of the First World War, enlisting with the Argyll Light Infantry and having served overseas with the Canadian Scottish, he was invalided back to Canada in 1917. He served for the remaining years of the war as military representative on the Conscription Tribunal for M. D. 3. During World War Two he was active as public relations organizer for the Ottawa Valley on six successive war loan drives, stamp drives, and assisted the Red Cross campaign in eastern Ontario.

Why Policeman Watches

Hamilton, March 8 — (CP) — McMaster University had its own espionage rumor when reports spread that a uniformed policeman who patrolled the grounds was watching for agents spying on atomic research. Rev. H. E. Bridge, educational secretary, said yesterday the policeman watches for athletes from other universities who might deface McMaster on the eve of important intercollegiate games.

Mr. John Ness, of Imperial Oil, who will speak to the Junior Board of Trade Monday evening.

Well-known figure in Canadian petroleum production circles, Mr. John Ness of Imperial Oil Limited, will be the guest speaker at the first regular meeting of the recently organized Belleville Junior Board of Trade which will be held at the Hotel Quinte on Monday evening. Announcement as to the guest speaker was made by the president, Mr. Malcolm Robb.

Born and educated in Edinburgh, Scotland, Mr. Ness joined His Majesty's Geological Survey in 1903, later having superintendence over its mapping division. He joined the geological department of Imperial Oil in 1919 with which firm he is still associated as public relations department member. He is a member of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and in 1921 was awarded the Leonard Medal for his paper "Search for Oil in the West."

Chamber of Commerce Directors Unanimously Endorse a Motion Protesting Against Parking Meters

The Board of Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at its weekly luncheon on Thursday unanimously endorsed a motion requesting the City Council "not to permit the introduction or installation of parking meters, until a committee is formed to further investigate the matter."

The motion was presented to the board by Directors James Galloway and Irvine J. Hefkey.

Speaking to the motion, Director J. J. Trudeau stated that he believed the merchants of the city were unfavorable to the installation of the meters. "The City Council passed a motion authorizing the installation of 250 parking meters in the city at a cost of $62.50 plus an installation cost of $4 per standard. The meters will be installed on a trial basis with the city retaining 25 per cent to cover the cost of handling, and the remaining 75 per cent goes to the company until paid for."

"I maintain," Mr. Trudeau said, "that Belleville cannot as a city go ahead with this proposition unless it feels that it will be a permanent and profitable installation."

It was not so much a matter of meters, Mr. Trudeau went on, as it was the problem of downtown parking. Until something is done about this the city should not bother with meters.

Farmers Against Meters

Mr. Jack McIntosh told the board that every farmer he had spoken with about the proposed meter installation "was death against it. One lady from Foxboro," he said, "told me that they had a co-operative in the village from which they could buy practically everything but dresses. If these meters are installed she had said, we in Foxboro will do all our trading at the co-op. And the money goes to Peterborough."

The city parking by-law had not been enforced during the winter months for years, Mr. Trudeau told the board. "We cannot state the meter ordnance will be enforced and if the city police department does not enforce it, the company will blame the police. We are going to run into difficulties in this respect. The police can and will enforce the parking by-law if the city and merchants back them up."

Jamieson Bone was of the opinion that the City Council might have inquired of cities which have installed meters as to the amount of revenue derived. "Something has to be done about this parking problem" he stressed.

"If the city council is not prepared to listen to the merchants," Mr. Hefkey pointed out, "then at least it should take more time to investigate the matter."

Areas Should be Lighted

The back area parking spaces should be lighted at night and supervised was Bruce Lattimer's opinion. "Farmers," he said, "have complained about the darkness and on many occasions have had their cars entered and goods stolen not to mention spare tires. They do not want to park there under present existing conditions"

"The retail division of the Chamber of Commerce was being canvassed regarding a protest to the city against the installation of the meters," Mr. Galloway said, "and the response thus far was 100 per cent against installation."

Asked by Mr. Freeman how the meters operated, he said, "they are operated by nickels and coppers."

"And they'll be watched by coppers" remarked Jamieson Bone.

Not Matter of Nickels

"It is not a matter of nickels," Mr. Trudeau said. "I think our pavements on Front Street are too narrow to permit the placing of the meter standards. I will support Mr. Lattimer's point and suggest lighting and supervision of the back parking areas and the enforcement of the existing parking by-law."

Jamieson Bone told the board that he was not in favor of sending the protest to the City Council. They have been appointed to represent the people so let them use their own judgment."

"Why should a certain city official request that the meter installation matter be re-opened after the city council had turned it down?" Mr. Galloway demanded to know. "It doesn't look feasible to me."

"I am not taking up the cudgels on behalf of the city council or officials" replied Mr. Bone. "They can stew in their own juice as far as I am concerned."

"This Chamber is interested in the merchants of the city and as such should forward this resolution," Mr. Hefkey said. On standing ballot the motion carried unanimously.

Russia Indicates She Will Ignore Monetary Parley

(By JOHN F. CHESTER)

Savannah, Ga., March 8 (AP)—Strong indications that Russia might completely ignore the International Monetary Conference appeared here Thurs., on the eve of the 35-nation meeting on nearby Wilmington Island.

A State Department representative in charge of advance arrangements reported that the Soviet government had not even replied to an invitation to send an observer to the sessions that will formally organize the $8,800,000,000 international monetary fund and the $10,000,000,000 international bank. Both institutions born at Bretton Woods are aimed among other things at promoting foreign trade on a multilateral cooperative basis.

By Thurs., no reservations have been made for a Russian representative in the General Oglethorpe Hotel, picturesque scene of the conference.

Two other countries invited to send observes will be absent — Haiti and Liberia.

The observer class was set up for nine of the 44 countries present at Bretton Woods which have not yet ratified the agreements or subscribed to their quotas in the fund or bank. Denmark was given a tenth such invitation.

Considered Enigmatic.

Russia's position in regard to the whole international monetary setup long has been considered enigmatic. At Bretton Woods her representatives fought for and received quotas larger than would have been possible on any straight foreign trade basis.

She agreed to subscribe $1,200,000,000 to the fund and a similar amount to the bank placing her behind only the United States' total for both of $5,925,000,000 and Britain's $2,600,000,000.

Moscow's only public reason for not ratifying the agreements was that she wanted more time to study the proposals.

Some observers have pointed out that under the fund Russia would be required to disclose not only her official gold holdings, an international secret, but also her general import and export figures, also largely secret.

Under the fund, however, she could draw eventually up to 200 per cent of her quota and since the stability of her foreign exchange would not be involved, she could conceivably use the money for short term purchases of goods. Her borrowings from the bank within reason would be limited specifically only by the soundness of the projects for which the money would be used on a long term basis.

FRONT DOOR'S THE WAY

Toronto, March 8 (CP)—From now on, Mrs. Mary Neff wants anybody coming to her house to ring the front door bell so she can let them in. "What's the front door for?" the rooming house proprietor said Wed., after a bewildering experience this morning when a man climbed a tree to the front verandah of her home and got in through the window.

Mrs. Neff rushed to phone police. They rushed to the house and arrested a man she identified as a former roomer. He said he wanted to visit a friend in the house and had no key.

FOUR QUEENS ARE TARGET ACES

Four beauty queens who hope some day to beat target kings engage in a little clay pigeon practise at Miami, Fla., under the tutelage of John Boles, movie star, who appears to have his eye on the more intriguing sight. Left to right they are: Billie LeMay, fishing queen; Jeni Freedland, fashion queen; Libby Walker, Orange Bowl queen; Ruth Byrd, Miami press photographers' queen; and Maxine Hereik.

Threat Letter Received By Counsel's Secty.

Ottawa, March 8 — (CP)—Mrs. Fernande Joubarne, secretary of Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier and one of the key figures in the beginning of Canada's bizarre spy inquiry, received a letter warning her that "if there are any more stories about you in the newspapers you will not be around to read them."

Mrs. Joubarne, who received the letter in Thursday morning's mail, turned the document and the envelope over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who said it was too early to reach a conclusion as to the portent of the letter.

The letter warned Mrs. Joubarne she was to take no further part in the espionage inquiry and said that if she was called as a witness in "the big case" she was to "forget about the people who came to see you last September."

This was assumed to be a reference to Igor Gouzenko, young cipher clerk of the Russian Embassy, who visited Mr. Mercier's office last September, bringing with him a bulky packet which he said told of the ramifications of the spy ring, then unknown to Canadian authorities.

Mrs. Joubarne assisted Gouzenko, obviously in fear of his life and accompanied by his tearful young wife, in getting in touch with Canadian officials. The current Royal Commission inquiry resulted from Gouzenko's disclosures to the Canadian government.

The letter to Mrs. Joubarne was typewritten on ordinary white bond paper and bore as a signature the words "three star." Mailed in a cheap envelope, it was postmarked in Ottawa and carried Wednesday's date.

It began with a statement that too much already had been published about the spy case and added: "The whole thing was started by you and the damn press. If you had kept quiet everything would have run along smoothly."

More annoyed than disturbed, Mrs. Joubarne said she believed the letter came from either a practical joker or a crank.

She said R.C.M.P. constables who went to her office to obtain the letter offered her police protection but she had not decided whether she felt this step necessary.

Gouzenko and his wife now are in protective custody of the R.C.M.P., under heavy guard.

British House Praises Canada For Large Loan

By JAMES McCOOK

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 8 (CP Cable)—The British House of Commons received with hearty "hear! hear!" the news of Canada's $1,250,000,000 loan to Britain and following Prime Minister Attlee's announcement, members of various parties immediately offered their appreciation to the Dominion.

C. E. Davies, Liberal, asked the Prime Minister to convey to Canada "the gratitude of the whole House—for only the latest instance of the memorable services Canadians have rendered."

Amid cheers, Mr. Attlee said: "The feelings of this House will be conveyed by me to the Canadian government."

R. DB La Bere, Conservative, shouted: "Canada has been magnificent"—and new cheering broke out.

W. J. Brown, independent member for Rugby, asked if it was not conceivable that similar loan arrangements made between the United Kingdom and other Dominions "might spare us as a nation the humiliation of what is going on in Washington.

He was referring to the proposed $3,750,000,000 United States loan to Britain which now is before Congress for approval.

Mr. Attlee replied that there was a difference between loans in the sterling and dollar areas.

Anthony Eden, acting leader of the Conservative opposition, rose as soon as the Prime Minister had finished his statement and said as far as the opposition could see, it was a satisfactory arrangement which, while carrying obvious economic advantages to the United Kingdom, would in the long run prove equally beneficial to Canada.

Marmora

Marmora — The last pre-Lent euchre party to be held under auspices of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild took place in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening with Group 2 in charge. Eleven tables were in play and the prize winners were James Gordenier and Mrs. Alonzo Ellis. Refreshments were served at the close.

The Sacred Heart Church and Anglican Church observed Ash Wednesday with special services. Low Mass with distribution of the ashes was celebrated at the former church at 9 a.m. with Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at 7.15 p.m. Rev. H. J. Farrell officiating. At St. Paul's there was a celebration of Holy Communion at 10.30 a.m. at which the rector Rev. J. M. Brownlie officiated.

Mr. Hilliard McGarvey is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Rev. J. M. Brownlie was in Kingston on Monday.

Miss Joyce McInroy underwent an appendectomy in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday.

Mr. John Morrison is erecting a new residence on the site of the planing mill formerly operated by Stanis Bertrand.

The arrival of spring is practically accepted here. First the crows appeared then the robins and groundhogs. Owners of sugar bushes are tapping the trees and report a good run of sap. Earl O'Connor Tom O'Connor and John Rombough are among those who have already tapped. Geo. Fox of Malone displayed a pussy willow on Wednesday the first he had found this early in the year.

Miss A. Koski who is attending Toronto University, spent the weekend at her home in Deloro.

Messrs. Ralph Neal, George Forestell and F. R. Wells are attending the Hydro Commission convention in Toronto this week.

Mrs. M. Donovan, of Toronto, is visiting relatives here.

Senior Sunday School Class Holds Banquet

The Bethany Senior Boys Sunday School class held a Father and Son banquet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Eggleton on Monday evening. Thirty fathers and sons were in attendance to share in an enjoyable evening. After dinner a lively sing song was conducted.

Mr. Clayton Eggleton officiated as Toast Master and proposed the Toast to the King. Duane Martin, class president, proposed a Toast to Rev. J. R. Trumpour who in return replied to the Toast.

A Toast to the fathers was given by Cecil Walker and a reply to the sons by Mr. F. Walker. This was followed by another Toast to the teacher of the boys' class Mr. Eggleton by Norman Ritz. Praise was given Mr. Eggleton on his faithful service during the past 3 years. An instrumental given by Douglas Wannamaker was well received.

The guest speaker Rev. L. Shorten of Foxboro was introduced by John Wilson.

Mr. Shorten chose as his theme Philippians 4 chapter verse 8. "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

Following this a vote of thanks was given to Mr. Shorten for his inspiring message by Gerald Eggleton.

A piano instrumental was rendered by Norman Ritz following which thanks were given to all who took part and to the ladies who prepared and served the splendid dinner. The evening was concluded by the friendship circle.

Keeping Premises Clean Helps To Destroy Insects

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 8 — (CP) — This is the story of a five-year battle waged against a new kind of saboteur, an enemy from within which invaded Canada's granaries during the war and destroyed great quantities of foodstuffs before the tide was turned.

It was the war against the grain insects, the weevils, beetles and moths which wormed into the great grain elevators, bulging with precious, golden wheat, and ate swiftly and steadily through the bins, multiplying by the millions as they went.

In peacetime, the ever-present insects found little opportunity to establish themselves in the country's fast-moving grain stores but with the outbreak of war hugs stocks of wheat piled up, awaiting transportation overseas, and the insect saboteurs went to work.

Leaders of the invasion were the Indian meal moth, the rust-red grain beetle and the granary weevil.

Two men — H. E. Gray of the Agriculture Department's entomology division and B. N. Smallman of the Board of Grain Commissioners — have been directing the long battle against the insects and so successful has been their campaign that the pests now are in retreat.

The entomologists began their campaign by recommending methods of insect control and showing the elevator owners and operators how to apply them. This work was effective, but only to a degree.

In the spring of 1945, they changed their tactics, inviting grain elevator representatives to attend a short course in insect control.

When the course was over, practically every elevator company had assigned to one of its staff the task of keeping its premises in such clean condition that the insects would find it difficult to stay there. This work has been continued for the protection of Canadian grain standards.

Stripped Frames of Planes Burned Says Official

Ottawa, March 8 — (CP)— A War Assets Corporation official said Thurs. frames of a considerable number of Anson training planes were burned at Brantford, Ont., recently because, in their stripped condition, no buyer could be found.

The official said the practice was to strip planes of saleable parts such as the engines, then sell the remnants. In one case in the past, the remnants were sold three times, each buyer took the parts he wanted, then left the rest.

When nobody could be found to buy the skeleton, it was burned rather than pay rent for the space it occupied.

GIVEN REFORMATORY TERM

Brampton, Ont., March 8 (CP)—Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier Thurs., sentenced Kenneth Putman of nearby Norval to two years less one day in reformatory on a charge of manslaughter. A jury at the Peel County Spring assizes last night convicted Putman on the charge, which arose from the death of Mrs. Verna Bignell of Norval in a car accident last Dec. 21.

Mrs. Bignell was killed when her stalled car was hit by another car.

AWARDED DAMAGES

Mrs. Carrie M. Smallman, 46, of Thorold, Ont., was awarded $25,100 damages in her breach of promise suit against the estate of the late Frank Moore, 63, Thorold coal dealer. This was the first time since 1824 that a breach of promise suit was filed in Canada against a dead man's estate. A divorcee and mother of three, Mrs. Smallman brought suit for $100,000, claiming that Moore postponed promised marriage because of his sister's illness, then died suddenly last April.

CANADIAN BRIDES FOR AUSTRALIA

Ottawa, March 8 — (CP)—Another large group of Canadian brides of Australian servicemen will sail from San Francisco on the Monterey on March 15 to make their homes in Australia, the Australian High Commissioner's office announced today.

Included in the group of about 120 are wives, widows and fiancees and some children.

PRISONERS RECAPTURED

Guelph, March 8 (CP)—Provincial police recaptured two young prisoners who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory here.

The two John Durno, 16, Mt. Dennis, Ont., and William Cooper, 16, Hamilton, were taken into custody near Breslau after having slept the night in a district barn.

End of Old Bridge Crashes Into Mattagami River

Timmins, Ont., March 8—(CP)—One end of an old bridge over Mattagami River crashed into some 60 feet of water today when the pilings gave way under its west span. The 100-foot bridge is no longer in use and was being dismantled for use in other parts of the province.

One of the workmen, Angelo Pigon, blamed a sudden unseasonal thaw for the collapse. "I figured the whole thing was due to collapse any time. Once the ice starts to break up in the Mattagami it breaks fast. But we did hope to get the span away before she went."

The central wooden structure is preventing the collapsed span from sinking further into the river. At present some 20 feet are under water.

The Ontario Department of Highways was removing the bridge to use one span at New Liskeard and the other at Englehart.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL AND GRANTED BAIL

Cayuga, Ont., March 8 — (CP)—William Warring Tuesday was committed for trial when he appeared for preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter arising from an accident Feb. 15 near Caledonia, Ont., in which William Burke of Caledonia was killed. Warring was granted bail.

CANADA UNLIMITED — The Formative Years

The Telephone—by Jack Martin, O.S.A., C.P.E.

The Wonder of the Age

YOU CRANKED A HANDLE and put a little gadget to your ear and listened—then lo and behold! A voice spoke to you!

That was the telephone of the '80's, given to the world by the labours of Alexander Graham Bell in his Brantford workshop. But to the rural women of the day, it was more than miraculous. It was deliverance from the bleak isolation that they had thought would always be the lot of a farmer's family.

No longer in times of sickness would children have to suffer and perhaps die for the want of prompt medical attention or advice. No longer would the dawn to dusk toil of women be unrelieved by the sound of a friendly voice.

In the cities, businessmen were quick to make use of this new means of communication. In rural areas the telephone was among the first of many inventions that were to bring the comforts and conveniences of urban life to the farmhouses of Canada.

Thus, the telephone was a great unifying element that brought Canadians together to work side by side for the common good. It fostered the co-operation that was the foundation of the national spirit of the pioneers and which, in the future, can and will be the inspiration for the greater development of a Canada Unlimited.

Today in our purchase and holding of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, we have another unifying element with which to build a shining future for our nation.

India and Food Shortage

The famine threat in India is part of the world food crisis resulting from the war and bad weather in grain-producing areas in 1944 and 1945. The failure of the north-east monsoon rains in South India, a tidal wave and cyclone in Madras and Punjab and Sind droughts aggravated the condition. War's havoc in Europe and Asia added to the causes and liberation came too late for any increase in the sowing.

The estimated shortage of 3,000,000 long tons of grain in India for 1946 means famine. To a country whose people subsist largely on rice, with wheat as a substitute, such a shortage threatens starvation to thousands, and under-nourishment to millions. In Madras, the province hit hardest, the grain deficit will be about 25% by May 1st.

In 1943 1,500,000 people died in Bengal where the shortage was only 5%. While the famine threat is more widespread than it was in 1943, the Government of India is in a better position to deal with the crisis, and the Viceroy is trying to mobilize all forces and make the best possible use of existing supplies. During the Bengal famine of 1943 it was Lord Wavell's energetic action immediately on his arrival in India as Viceroy which helped to meet the crisis in distribution in Calcutta. Early in February of this year Lord Wavell toured the threatened areas in South India and conferred with officials there.

Measures taken by the Government of India and the Provincial Government include price control of rice, wheat and millet and rationing of 533 towns with a total population of 55 millions has been undertaken. The basic daily ration is one pound of grain per adult and in Madras and some other provinces during the present emergency it has been reduced to twelve ounces with an extra four ounces for heavy manual workers. The 1,500 calories in 12 ounces is 1,100 calories a day below the desired minimum for the Indian climate. This means undernourishment for a people whose diet is already ill-balanced. There is no rationing in the villages which mostly grow their own food.

Steps are taken to prevent speculation and black market operations. To prevent hoarding and assure even distribution the Government arranged to buy and store large stocks of grain. Imports it is hoped will increase from Siam and Burma while India's claims are being pressed by a delegation to London and Washington for grain allotments from the Combined Foods Board.

Britain in her peace agreement with Siam demanded Siam hand over from accumulated stores of rice, up to 1,500,000 tons and sell at a fair price all further surplus until September 1947. This rice will be allocated by the Combined Foods Board which will presumably take into consideration India's condition.

There is a "Grow More Food" campaign which has been running since 1943. The results are not spectacular largely because it was not possible in wartime to improve water supply and manures and fertilizers. However by 1945 this campaign resulted in increases of 300,000 tons of rice, 300,000 tons of millet and a corresponding tonnage of wheat.

There are long-term measures which have been taken to increase India's food production and provide a more balanced diet. More land will be under cultivation while irrigation, the use of fertilizers, better seed and instruction, will help to increase the production.

Britain, though she imports food, will import no rice at all until world supplies are adequate and will reduce wheat imports by nearly 250,000 tons and instead will increase flour extraction from wheat to 85 per cent which means not only darker bread for Britain, but less eggs, bacon and poultry because less wheat for these purposes will be available. Fat rations will be reduced because India must retain half the peanuts formerly sent to Britain.

Lent

The season of Lent has come and in its mood many will find something they do not find in other seasons that will soothe and enrich their lives. From the turmoil of the great world with which mankind is so familiar many turn at this season to measure their responsibilities and to undergo adjustment to the supreme values and realities of life.

Montreal Herald has an apt reference to the particular conditions of this time. "Whether imposed by church rules or by individual choice, Lenten dietary restrictions carry a special and urgent significance this year," it says.

"They represent not only a sense of penitence and a wholesome disciplining of the flesh, but an actual saving of food which may, in turn, save human lives in distant lands.

"If distribution machinery is working efficiently, such a Lenten curtailment in food consumption can constitute a real factor in the world food situation.

"If it alleviates, however slightly, the sufferings of some on whom the cold hand of famine is already tightening its grip, it will accomplish a very Christian purpose.

"At least it is an approach to Lent worth considering in this troubled year, 1946, an appropriate thought for Christendom's day of penance."

So Lent can mean much in this year as it gives thought to others and millions of others in other lands, whose condition has been for months one of the most pressing mankind has ever known.

The world has learned something through war and dislocation of populations of the travail of life and can better understand the spirit of Lent than before and find it of great help. Man's hope and prayer and effort will be that from this testing time of individuals and peoples will come a great boon to the world.

Singing Waters

Now comes the time of singing waters, when the late winter thaws begin to melt the chains of ice. On mellow days rivulets run along the sled tracks on the pasture slope where the countryman has been hauling out wood. The trickling waters course around the ends of barns and ice houses, corn cribs and woodsheds. They flow across the farmyard and into the icy ruts of roads. Listen closely and you can hear them singing a quiet, contented song.

The pasture brook receives tiny streams from the slopes on either side. Often at the edge of spring snow-melted waters course over the ice that still locks the pebbly brook bed. Meadow brooks overflow their banks and broad dark bands of water move slowly along toward the river. When cold nights come the morning sun reflects myriad jewel gleams from the thin silvery sheets studded with brown grass stems.

On the gentle slopes of mowings diminutive trickles move slowly among the crowns of the grasses. In the maple sugar grove trickles wind in and out among the massive trunks. Nature calls in spring and from countless hills and slopes over the northland the symphony begins to tune its instruments and send singing waters to the ocean and lakes and rivers. The climbing sun sends more direct rays, the south breeze flings out its advance scouts, the season lifts its baton and the tiny streams begin the soft slow movement that will soon swell to crescendo. There will be times of hesitation, times when the voice of the first movement will be hushed for a period. But as soon as winter begins its retreat one knows there will be only delaying actions. When the singing waters begin their tunes spring is drawing on.

NO ICE FISHERMAN

For pleasures strange I do not wish.
Through ice I do not care to fish.
Too bitterly I feel the cold
With patience long a line to hold,
And shivering on a lake or brook
I'm sure I couldn't bait a hook.

They tell me it is very nice
Within a shanty on the ice;
A little stove to keep you warm
Against the winter's raging storm,
But I prefer at home to sit,
Content to take their word for it.

Lest someone come with hot retort,
I quarrel not with any sport.
I grant to every man the right
To choose his favorite delight.
I merely say, for fishing I
Prefer the weather of July.

Let him who likes it, with a pole
Sit, frozen, fishing through a hole,
Insisting charcoal keeps him snug,
And wait for perch his line to tug.
I'll wave at him—the hardy buck!—
And stay on shore and wish him luck.

We'll Remember England

London March 8 (CP)—Headed "Last Look", 35 lines of type surrounded by pictures of English scenes from a pub to Thames bridges summed up in the final issue of the United Kingdom edition of the Maple Leaf the nostalgic impressions every Canadian soldier has had of England as he goes home.

This "remember" piece was unsigned but it was written by Capt. Jack Scott assistant editor of the Canadian forces newspaper who before enlisting wrote a column in the Vancouver News-Herald.

We'll remember many things that mean England.

We'll remember the smoke curling from a thousand chimney pots all in a row, with a hedge-lined road where cottages stood with a thatched roof and casement windows, the wet chocolate mud on a certain parade square, the sound of Bren guns in the early morning across green, steaming fields, and the small pub with smoked beans and a barmaid who had two dimples in her chin.

We'll remember a bleak high-ceilinged railway station with the rain coming down outside, the grey stone castle on the hill over the town, the church spires that were always on the horizon, the wonderful fish and chips and terrible coffee, the endless swarms of silver fortresses three miles up in the early summer sky and the red brick barracks.

We'll remember the patch-work quilt of countryside below the belly of a Dakota and a hot sleepy day in Falmouth harbor with a song by Dinah Shore coming across the water from a mine-sweeper's radio, the sign in the butcher shops, "sorry no offal today" the slow surf along the pebble beach at Brighton on a grey day and the huge sign saying "Schweppes" standing untouched in the midst of bomb damage

We'll remember standing in a London doorway with a red glow across the roofs of the town and the hollow coughing sound of ack-ack guns in the yellow daffodils beside an artificial lake in Kew Gardens a front seat in a double-decker bus going up the long curve of Regent Street, an ancient hurdy-gurdy organist cranking out "Johnny Got a Zero" the surging crowds at night in Piccadilly Circus with the lights reflecting on the wet pavement and the side-long look of the ladies walking their pekinese the Sunday afternoon peace of a warm day beside the duck pond in St. James' Park and the Queen going by in a purple car.

We'll remember many things that mean England.

High Moral Code Explains Swiss Economic Success

Bern, March 8. (AP)—Switzerland, whose territory for the most part stands on edge and towers into the clouds in the form of the Alps, is one of the few countries of Europe having economic and financial stability in these post-war days.

The country's relative prosperity is the reward of neutrality, but that observation doesn't afford a full explanation. The war was a long way from being a period of sunshine and flowers for the Swiss. The roots of Swiss economic success are in thrift, honesty, a high moral code and national unity.

There has been virtually no Swiss black market. The Swiss don't hold with making profit out of the distress of their fellows. They believe rather in joint effort and mutual assistance, as witness the co-operation between capital and labor, and the active participation of the whole country in making the rationing system work.

Switzerland is comparatively wealthy and yet about its only natural resource is waterpower.

The country is dependent on imports for most things including part of its food.

The hard-working Swiss do the economic hat trick by importing raw materials, fabricating them and exporting enough of the finished products to maintain favorable trade balances abroad under normal circumstances. Many of their exports are precision instruments like watches, for which they've long been famous.

Nature took most of the farmlands to build her mountains, but still the natives work all the available ground. Dairying is the main agricultural pursuit. Wine is a valuable product.

Insurance business of all kinds is highly developed. So is banking, for Switzerland has money. Thus blessed, she is granting credits abroad despite the fact that some experts are pessimistic about the political and economic situations in surrounding countries. Swiss bankers favor this because it gives them a chance to put their cash to work.

However, the biggest single Swiss asset is the Alps. Switzerland long has been the winter playground of Europe, and it has equal attractions for summer vacationists. Before the war tourists contributed $100,000,000 annually to the country's coffers, and the Swiss now are making big plans not only to reclaim but to increase this lucrative business.

Germans spent the most money here, and now that their trade is lost the Swiss are looking to the western hemisphere for visitors. Many Allied soldiers in this part of the world have had an opportunity to visit Switzerland.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

Washington, March 8, (CP)—There are several hundred really frightened people in the United States and they are people who don't scare easily.

They are the members of the Federation of Atomic Scientists, the men who made the atomic bomb possible and know best what it can do.

These men are frightened because the masses of the people from top to bottom of the social structure, seem unable to grasp, or indifferent to, the tremendous potentialities of this new power.

They read and hear careless and casual talk of a third Great War and of possible future defence policies which seem to ignore their own warnings that atomic bombs have made large-scale war obsolete and that any idea of a war between atomic armed powers would mean the end of winner and loser and probably the end of the world.

These scientists readily admitting their fear have launched an intensive publicity campaign to bring home to the people and their rulers, the danger to mankind if atomic power is not universally controlled for the benefit and safety of the human race.

They stress three points: There can be no secret there can be no defence and there must be world control.

Some of their frightening facts are these: Atomic bomb factories in the United States are working 24 hours a day and employing 65-000 persons; bombs many times more powerful than these dropped on Japan are being prepared; it is possible to send radio directed rockets thousands of miles to hit within two or three miles of a desired target; atom bombs may be deposited in a large city and detonated at any time, years later by radio signal from another country.

Other powers can have atomic bombs within three to five years these scientists say, and they added: "There is no defence nor is there likely to be."

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and Nickel Plate Road, in full page advertisements, are calling attention to the strange fact that while animals can be shipped through from coast to coast, humans cannot travel across the United States without changing trains. They point to the fact that Canada has two trans-continental lines on which pullman passengers can travel from coast to coast without changing. In this country there is a barrier running down through the Central States. Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans are the main junctions. The two railroads are offering to unite with any other railways to provide through travel facilities.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

WELL, FOR HEALTH'S SAKE, DO SOMETHING

In a symposium on the use and abuse of rest in the treatment of various medical, surgical, obstetrical and neuro-psychiatric conditions, Dr. Karl Menninger, of Topeka, Kansas, said in part:

"Dr. Weir Mitchell's prestige, influence and persuasiveness were such that his 'rest cure' for the treatment of neuroses influenced American medicine for fifty years . . . The fatigue theory of the neuroses which so impressed Weir Mitchell . . . Diagnosis of nervous exhaustion, nervous fatigue, fatigue neuroses, nervous breakdown from overwork, nervous weakness, neurasthenia and so on continued to fill the records of hospitals, clinics and private practitioners. Treatment based on these diagnoses and Weir Mitchell's example were (sic) developed, exploited and popularized — modified rest cures, relaxation treatment, vacation treatment and what I have called 'trip treatment' — sending patients away on visits to California, Florida, Europe, or on fishing trips, hunting expeditions and the like.

Modern psychiatry regards this conception of neurosis and those forms of treatment for neuroses as entirely false in theory and unsound in practice . . . treatment which is not only futile and expensive but very often definitely harmful"

I have been driving at that same idea here for years. But let Dr. Menninger continue — he has a good sound positive suggestion for every poor geek who imagines his trouble is weak nerves or nervous exhaustion.

"The neuroses and psychoses... are a result of misdirected energy rather than the lack of sufficient energy . . . The problem of treatment . . . aims of redirection of the wasted energy . . . Human beings are impelled by instinctual" — instinctive is the usual word but we psychologists simply must exercise our special vocabulary — "impelled by instinctual forces to attempt certain modifying relationships with respect to their environment."

Now there's as neat an example of concealing meaning in language or thought in words as I have stumbled on—I have puzzled over it long and hard and I'm not at all sure I have solved it, but I plump for what Dr. Menninger reveals, perhaps by way of a hint or clue, in his next sentence. "From earliest infancy", he adds, "they want to DO SOMETHING". "As they grow older and the aimlessness of infantile manipulation of the environment" (I take it this means the futility of the childish attempt to manipulate or control the environment) "becomes an organized pattern, this something which they do to the environment turns out to be modification of it, either destructive or constructive. Both forms of activity, creative and destructive are natural or normal in every human being. . . "As long as an adequate amount of both is possible for an individual, he does not develop a neurosis or a psychosis."

That's all we have room for today. Remember this: If you are "nervous" or "neurathenic" about or from your business, professional or domestic difficulties or responsibilities, don't seek recreation or rest in the bleachers, the grandstand, the orchestra section or the balcony. DO SOMETHING yourself, even if it is just a walk around the block or in the country.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Red Itchy Eyes

My eyes are always red, injected, itchy, sometimes lids swollen. Eyes feel as tho sand or cinder in them. Saw where you said such trouble sometimes comes from lack of vitamins, but I don't know which vitamins.

(A.F.H.)

Answer — Riboflavin (formerly called vitamin G or vitamin B_2) deficiency may so manifest itself. Best food source of riboflavin is milk — you must polish off not less than three pints of milk every day, or its equivalent in milk derivatives — butter, cream, cheese and various dishes in which milk is a main ingredient. Else supplement your diet with a good daily ration of vitamin B-complex in liquid, capsule or tablet form.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is a bill of attainder?

The Federal Government and the States are forbidden by Article 1 of the Constitution to pass any "bill of Attainder," and Article III declares that, "The Congress shall have Power to declare the Punishment of Treason, but no Attainder of Treason shall work Corruption of Blood, or Forfeiture except during the life of the Person attained."

In American constitutional law a bill of attainder is a legislative act imposing a penalty without judicial trial or due process of law. When the punishment is less than death the act is termed a bill of pains and penalties, but as used in the Constitution "bills of attainder" embraces bills of pains and penalties.

Bills of attainder may affect the life of an individual or confiscate his property, or both. Such bills are a sort of legislative lynch law. In passing them a legislature goes beyond its legitimate function and exercises the powers of prosecutor, judge and jury. It passes on a guilt or innocence of the accused without the forms and safeguards of a judicial trial, determines the sufficiency of testimony and proof regardless of the established rules of evidence and fixes the measure of punishment according to its own notions of the seriousness of the alleged offence.

The first bill of attainder was passed by the English Parliament in 1459. When a person was convicted of treason or a felony the sentence involved death or outlawry, confiscation of all property, loss of all civil rights and capacities, and "corruption of blood."

The condemned could not sue or testify in any court nor claim any legal rights or protection whatever. Corruption of blood meant the condemned and his descendants could never bequeath or inherit any property or succeed to any title or position of honor. Thus innocent descendants were punished for what their ancestors had done. Of course, these severe penalties for treason and felonies were gradually mollified through the centuries. All bills of attainder working corruption of blood and perpetual forfeiture of property were abolished in England in 1870.

The framers of the Constitution, regarding bills of attainder as cruel and unjust, forbade both Congress and the States to pass ordinary bills of attainder. Likewise they forbade Congress to pass attainder of treason working corruption of blood, or forfeiture of property except during the life of the condemned.

DREW SAYS BUCK WORKING FOR SOVIET CANADA

Premier Links Two Labor-Progressive Members With Communists

Toronto, March 8 (CP)— The second session of Ontario's 22nd legislature approached the end of its first week today after a fourth-day sitting enlivened by a proposed Throne Speech amendment and a blunt attack on the Labor-Progressive Party by Premier Drew.

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver, whose supporters include 10 Liberals and two Liberal-Labor members, moved the amendment yesterday after a one-hour address in which he criticized the government by saying it had implemented "only five or six" of the 22 points in its 1943 provincial election program.

Premier Drew, after replying in part to Mr. Oliver's criticism, assailed what he termed the "vile and despicable anti-Christian doctrines" of the Communists, whom he linked with the Labor-Progressive Party. The Premier urged organized labor to purge its ranks of "this Communist fifth column."

The legislature's two Labor-Progressive members, A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods and J. B. Salsberg (Toronto St. Andrews) exchanged remarks across the floor with the Premier when the latter quoted Labor-Progressive Party Leader Tim Buck as saying his party must further the spirit of the teachings of "Marx, Engles and Lenin."

Mr. MacLeod interjected "hear, hear" and Mr. Salsberg said "I'd rather quote Lenin than Dempster"—an obvious reference to Capt. William Osborne-Dempster, key figure in pre-election charges last summer that the Progressive Conservative government maintained a political "gestapo."

Have Truth at Last.

The Premier then linked the Labor-Progressive party with the Communist party and, addressing his remarks to Mr. MacLeod, asked if the member would say "hear, hear" to that.

"Hear, hear," said Mr. MacLeod.

"Hurrah," rejoined the Premier. We have the truth at last."

In his speech, which stated the Communist party was organized in 1919 by three men who came from Moscow with $60,000 in "Russian gold," the Premier traced the growth of the party and the ultimate choice of Mr. Buck as its leader. He accused Mr. Buck of working for a "Soviet Canada."

Premier Drew spoke after Mr. Oliver moved the Throne Speech be amended to add these words:

"But the House regrets that the Speech from the Throne contains no indication or assurance that the Government will implement its pre-election promises particularly in respect to housing, labor, public welfare, elimination of duplicate services, removal of hydro from political control, rural hydro extension, health measures, reduction of taxation and assurance of adequate supplies of basic necessities."

Referring specifically to forestry, planning and development, labor, agriculture, welfare services, health, hydro and juvenile delinquency, Mr. Oliver said Government action in most departments had been confined to appointment of royal commissions, which he described as a "time-wasting instrument of Government."

Wants Athletic Centres

In discussing juvenile delinquepcy, the Grey South member suggested establishment of recreational and athletic centres throughout Ontario. The Liberal party favored the principle of the minimum wage for men forecast in the Throne Speech but would try to ensure it was a minimum rather than a maximum. Government labor laws were described by their sponsors as the "best in the world" but he defied anyone to find the legislation. Twice the legislature authorized appointment of a select committee on labor legislation but it had not been appointed.

An Ontario housing commission had been promised, but three years later found "not a scantling lifted nor a nail driven. Also promised in the 22 points were mothers' allowances and old-age pensions, yet the only increases were granted in neccesitous cases for a limited period, with the Federal government paying 75 per cent of the cost.

To Answer Points

Premier Drew said many points raised by Mr. Oliver would be answered later in the debate. Meanwhile it should be noted that criticism of the planning and development department was unjust. If Mr. Oliver would visit the department he would find many evidences of activity. Similarly an effort was being made to reach an agreement on Dominion-Provincial relations and juvenile delinquency was really a matter of "parental" delinquency to be attacked through homes, schools and churches.

He reviewed educational measures, paid tribute to Ontario industrial workers and termed the province's labor legislation the best in Canada. Inspection provisions had been extended and the Workmen's Compensation Act broadened.

On housing, he stressed that the housing problem as such — a Federal responsibility — should be distinguished from the problem of emergency accommodation. The Ontario government had asked the Federal authorities for permission to use material from hutments of military camps, or, alternatively, to provide "billeting" authority as was the practice in Britain. Prime Minister Mackenzie King replied the suggestion would be given "immediate consideration."

First Reading Given

First reading was given a bill which would enable husbands or wives to testify in a court action that they did not have intercourse with the other party to the marriage "at any time before or during the marriage."

The bill, introduced by Attorney-General Blackwell, is in the form of an amendment to the Evidence Act which would permit persons to give evidence of "non-access."

It was learned the amendment was proposed to cover a situation which arose in a Toronto case where a soldier who had been overseas brought an action against his wife, who had borne a child after he had been overseas more than nine months. The suit was dismissed when the Judge ruled that the possibility of aircraft transportation to Canada supported the presumption of legitimacy. Under the Evidence Act, the soldier could not give evidence of non-access.

Other bills given first reading included those to amend the Mothers' Allowance Act so a mother deserted by her husband for a specific period may claim the allowance and continuation of the allowance until the end of the school term in the case of a child who reaches 16 in the middle of a school term; an amendment changing the amount which may be loaned a co-operative association; an amendment to the Farm Products Grades and Sale Act providing for licensing of those engaged in sale of farm products; and an amendment to provide for a wholesale fruit and produce terminal in York county.

Refused Separate Office

The two-man Labor-Progressive party in the Ontario Legislature, refused a separate office in Queen's Park by Speaker W. J. Stewart, overcame its housing problem by receiving a visiting delegation in the legislative chamber.

About 12 striking employees of Rogers Electronic Tubes, Ltd., visited the buildings to ask intervention by all political parties in the dispute between the United Electrical Workers (A.F.L.) and the company.

J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog.-Toronto St. Andrews) took the delegation into the empty chamber because he couldn't find privacy anywhere else. Impressed, the delegation remained for the afternoon sitting.

WARD SLAIN

Adopted recently by a New York lawyer, identified as Wilbur Stammler, Captain George David Leist, airlines pilot, shown in air transport command uniform, was shot to death in an expensive suite at the fashionable Wardman Park Hotel in Washington, D.C. Leist's wife, Ruth, told police she saw Stammler shoot her husband. She ran from the suite. When police arrived they found the body of Stammler slumped over the body of the pilot, a bullet through his own head. The District of Columbia coroner said he will issue a certificate of death by suicide in the case of Stammler, and one of murder in the case of Captain Leist.

Former Publisher Toronto Weekly, S. Thomson, Dies

Toronto, March 8 — (CP)—An outstanding authority in Canada on the law of libel, who left publishers in general indebted to him because he succeeded in establishing a precedent in libel cases, Strathhearn Boyd Thomson, 84, died at suburban Thornhill yesterday.

Former publisher of "Hush," Toronto weekly, from which he retired shortly before the war, Mr. Thomson was in the courts a number of times over articles published in his paper. It was in one of these actions that he was instrumental in establishing that once a person has sued for libel and been given judgment he cannot sue other persons for the same libellous publication.

The case opened at Winnipeg over an article published in Hush in 1931. Leon Lambert, a St. Boniface, Man., fireman, and his wife, Mary, claimed damages against Winnipeg distributors of the newspaper and ultimately collected $5,000 from various news agents.

After a lapse of more than five years the Lamberts instituted action for $10,000 against Mr. Thomson and Sammy Lichtman, Toronto news dealer. The trial judge favored the publisher but on appeal to the Ontario Supreme Court judgment was given in favor of the plaintiffs.

Carried Case to Supreme Court

Mr. Lambert then carried the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, contending the right of the Lamberts to sue had been met with the judgment they originally obtained. The Supreme Court found in his favor. Previously it had been contended that every newsboy or other person who assisted in circulation or publishing a copy of a paper containing a libel was responsible.

In another case over an article in Hush, Mr. Thomson charged aggravated assault against Allen Case, director of the Ontario Jockey Club, H. B. Johnston, Toronto and John Bosley, Moncton, Md., aftermath of a fracas at Thorncliffe race track, Toronto, in 1929. Case and Bosley were acquitted and Johnston was fined $300 or two months.

Instituted Civil Suit

Mr. Thomson then instituted a civil suit against Case and Bosley, claiming $15,000 damages. The case was settled out of court with no announcement of terms.

A year later, the publisher went to provincial police with a request for protection because, he said, his life had been threatened over an article in Hush concerning a dope ring.

Born in England, where he was a well-known athlete and won several boxing awards, Mr. Thomson was keenly interested in the breeding and showing of hunters and race horses. He was an acknowledged authority as a judge of show horses.

His widow and one son survive.

Borstal System Tries To Save Wayward Youths

By TIM DICKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The English village of Borstal in Kent gave its name to a system which several prominent Canadian jurists have endorsed as a possible solution for this country's problem of how to correct lawbreakers once they are caught.

Starting point for establishment of the plan was a series of British surveys which revealed that thousands of persons between the ages of 16 and 21 years who entered prisons each year constituted a veritable recruiting ground for the dangerous professional criminal of later years.

Great Britain set up the plan in 1908 by passing the prevention of Crime (Borstal) Act and the Children Act after strong protests against a penal scheme under which young persons and even children were sudject to the same harsh penalties of imprisonment imposed on older persons.

Instead of the ordinary systems of imprisonment, the Borstal form of detention under special rules seeks to develop mentally, physically and morally all young persons detained—who are referred to as inmates, not prisoners. The term is not less than one year nor more than three, and, except in special cases, no sentence of inprisonment can be passed on any person under 16.

At Borstal, Kent, experiments with youths aged 16 to 21 were carried out in an old convict prison prior to the passing of the act, and the name was applied to the new system.

Institution For Girls

None of the present institutions are at Borstal. The establishments for young men are at Chatham, Feltham and Portland, and the one for girls at Aylesbury.

The Borstal act empowers a court to order detention of any person between the ages of 16 and 21 "where it shall appear to the court that by reason of criminal habit or tendency it is expedient that the offender shall be subject to such instruction and discipline as appears most conducive to his reformation and to the repression of crime."

Basis of the Borstal system is the principal that, up to a certain age, every offender may be regarded as potentially a good citizen; that his lapse into crime may be due either to physical degeneracy or a bad social environment; that it is the state's duty at least to try to effect a cure, and not to class the offender offhand and without experiment with the adult professional criminal.

The Borstal act also set up an association to aid the rehabilitation of all persons of both sexes discharged from Borstal insitutions. Statistics show that two of every three Borstal "graduates" are reclaimed.

Chief difference between the Borstal plan and the ordinary prison system is that Borstal institutions treat an inmate as a person worthy of trust rather than as a felon who deserves only severe treatment for his offences against safety.

An important factor is what the British term the "personality" of the superintending staff. The Borstal commissioner himself, and, in a descending scale, governor, house master and a carefully selected instructing staff hold a strong optimism and belief that by an appeal to what is best in each individual —his honor, love of sport, and personal pride—it is possible, but not easy, to recreate young natures and dispositions not yet thoroughly depraved.

DISAGREE OVER BRITISH LOAN

"General" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of Coxey's army in 1894, when the General led a group of 122 people to Washington in an attempt to make a speech from the Capitol steps, Washington, D.C., on unemployment. He was arrested for stepping on the grass, and was imprisoned for 20 days. Now 92 years old, on the side line during the hearing today when the Senate Banking Committee heard Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson testify in favor of the loan. General Coxey said he would like to testify before the banking committee against the British loan.

Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson opened the administration's fight for the proposed loan to Great Britain by warning Congress that failure to grant the credit may result in economic warfare with disastrous consequences to world prosperity and peace. Muskrat Season In This District Opens Saturday

Prospects for one of the most successful muskrat seasons in many years are being entertained by Bay of Quinte district trappers this year with rats being reported unusually plentiful.

Trapping season in the Belleville area is scheduled to commence on Saturday, March 9th, according to an announcement from the Game and Fisheries Department.

Adding considerably to the financial prospects of the forthcoming trapping season, the price of muskrats this spring will be the highest in years, according to local buyers who intimated top grade skins would bring up to $4 each.

Reason for the plenitude of muskrats reported this year is given as a result of the relatively short season last spring when the early break-up permitted muskrats to get out into open water long before the trapping season had concluded. As result there was increased breeding during the past summer, a fact which is substantiated by the vast numbers of muskrat houses which now spot district marshes.

THIRTEEN SHOT

Canberra, March 8 — (Reuters) —Thirteen Japanese convicted of war crimes, including the murder of an Australian prisoner of war, were shot by a firing squad at Morotal in the Molucces at dawn Wednesday, Army Minister Francis Forde announced here today. It was the first mass execution of Japanese war criminals by Australian authorities.

Slightly Cooler Weather Helps Flood Conditions

Toronto March 8 (CP)—Flood waters of Southern Ontario rivers and streams continued to recede today as weathermen forecast slightly cooler weather.

A sudden release of tons of ice sent the Thames River at London on a rampage until at one time yesterday the water was 12 1-2 feet above normal level. The flood reached its peak about 5 p.m. then gradually receded.

The flood did no damage in London as at its height the water was 10 feet below the top of the west London breakwater, but damage was extensive in the flatlands around the fourth concession of London township. Several cellars were flooded.

Homes in the area escaped harm because they are built high above ground as a flood precaution and the water did not reach first-storey floors.

In the Toronto area late last night, No. 2 highway was under two feet of water for about 200 yards as Duffin's Creek near Pickering continued to overflow. Buses got through, but automobiles were held up. Ice in the creek had not yet broken up.

The Grand River, which flooded highways and low-lying land in the Brantford area, started to return to normal after ice jams collapsed.

Second German Prisoner Now On Trial for Life

Medicine Hat, Alta., March 8—(CP) — Trial of L. Cpl. Adolf Kratazn 24, one of three German prisoners of war charged with the murder of Pte. August Plaszek, 42, in Medicine Hat camp in July, 1943, goes into its second day today.

Sgt. Werner Schwalb, first of the trio to be tried, has been sentenced to be hanged at Lethbridge next June 26. Pte. Johannes Wittinger, 30, goes on trial following Kratz.

Sgt. Maj. Richard Elstermann, acting leader of the prisoners in the Medicine Hat camp testified yesterday he had called a meeting of camp leaders July 21, 1943, to discuss what was to be done about a group of prisoners who, were reported to be plotting the overthrow of the camp leaders.

He was still on the stand when the trial, before Chief Justice W. R. Howson and a six-man Alberta Supreme Court jury, was adjourned. The Crown is expected to call about 29 witnesses.

Others who testified yesterday were Detective Corporal A. R. Bull and Constable J. M. Campbell of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Kratаz, a native of Coblenz, served in France in 1941 and later had six months on the Russian front before being sent to Italy and then to North Africa in 1942. He had fought in Rommel's Afrika Corps only three months when he was captured at Tobruk by Free French troops.

Plaszek was a former member of the French Foreign Legion who also was captured while with the Afrika Korps.

GIRL TAKES OWN LIFE

Vancouver, March 8 — (CP) — Ruth Watson, 19-year-old former member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, who disappeared last Dec. 10 and returned eight days later with the explanation that she had been visiting friends in Prince Rupert, B. C., was found dead yesterday in the living room of her Kitsilano district home. Police said the girl was lying face down on two chesterfield cushions and a pillow. A gas fire place was turned on full and papers were stuffed under the doors.

Accuracy . . .

Astronomers at a leading observatory estimate that the earth rotates with an accumulated error of hardly one-third of a second a year, or about thirty-seven seconds a century. No man-made timepiece can do as well as that, but a fine watch, such as Longines, leaves little to be desired in the way of accurate operation. Recently, at competitive accuracy trials for wrist watches held at a government observatory, a series of Longines wrist watches won highest precision honors. Longines watches have won more honors in the field of precise timing than any other timepiece and are indeed, the world's most honored watches...Your inspection of our Longines models, for men and women, is particularly invited.

Miss Pauline (Peggy) Townsend, of Stirling, was guest of honor at a delightfully arranged three o'clock tea recently at 117 Colbeck Street, Toronto. Mrs. Frederick Hutchinson and Miss Hazel Hutchinson were joint hostesses. Among the thirty guest relatives and friends were the Misses Margaret Colby and Betty Redfern, of Belleville.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend, of Stirling, entertained about forty ladies to a trousseau tea recently. Mrs. Townsend was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. Don Heath of Bethel, Mrs. M. McMullen, of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Lorne Watson, of Wellman's.

Mrs. S. Elliott, of Bethel, and Mrs. P. MacMullen, of Mt. Pleasant, served refreshments.

During the afternoon Mrs. Harold Elliott, of Bethel, contributed several delightful piano solos.

The staff members of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Belleville, met at five o'clock, on February 26, in honor of Miss Pauline (Peggy) Townsend, bride-elect.

Miss Townsend, who is a graduate of the University of Toronto, has been with the Belleville Laboratory, for two years and a half and two summer holiday terms.

A. B. Baird, chief entomologist, acting as master of ceremonies, spoke with appreciation of Miss Townsend's services and made a presentation of a blonde mahogany library table. Miss Townsend spoke with warm appreciation and thanks to all the members of the staff for their kindness in arranging the social hour and for their beautiful gift.

Women's Activities

MARMORA I.O.D.E.

Marmora.—The regular meeting of the Marmora Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on March 5, at the home of Mrs. J. R. Aitchison, with Mrs. Aitchison, regent presiding.

The regent read a letter from Provincial Headquarters outlining the present status of various funds to which the Chapter had contributed during the war years, and urged the continuance of support to those funds still functioning.

Mrs. P. Eamer, educational secretary, gave a very interesting and complete discourse on the manufacture and intricate a features of silk stockings.

Discussions took place with regard to the knitted afghans which are to be completed and forwarded to headquarters.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Barlow, with Mrs. W. Dickson and Mrs. P. Eamer as hostesses.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

Foxboro.— Mrs. George Hicks opened her home for the W.M.S. on Thursday last.

The President, Mrs. W. Simmons was in charge. In the absence of Mrs. S. C. Gay, the minutes were taken by Miss A. Clarke.

A splendid Temperance reading was given by Mrs. M. C. Reynolds and Mrs. Daniels reported cards and letters sent. Mrs. C. Finkle reported for the Mission Band and Mrs. Shorten was appointed delegate to the convention in Trenton. Mrs. G. Priest and Mrs. E. Tummon have charge of the Easter Service in April when a dinner will be conducted in charge of the Mission Band.

Mrs. J. W. Daniels then conducted the program which consisted of the Scripture lesson from the Nineteenth Psalm, read by Mrs. J. G. Sills, a pleasing solo, "Just For ToDay" given by Mrs. Hamilton, and a most interesting synopsis of the last three chapters of the Study Book given by Mrs. George Priest in story form.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Hicks and refreshments were served.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.M.S.

The March meeting of the Holloway Street W.M.S., was held in the church parlor on Tuesday with Mrs. L. Reid, the president, taking charge.

The leader of Group two, Mrs. Holmes, took charge of the educational and devotional part of the service.

Chapters Four and Five of the Study Book were presented by Mrs. Holmes and this talk was followed by a questionnaire on the work of Rev. Mr. Currie in Angola.

Mrs. Daniels rendered a solo, "Show Me My Task", in a rich contralto voice.

The reports of the various secretaries were given and approved.

Mesdames White and McKee received the offering.

Mrs. Holmes was appointed the delegate to attend the Presbyterial in Trenton, on April 4.

Regret was expressed, that by the removal of Mrs. Cameron to another town, the W.M.S., would lose one of its honored members.

The transfer of Miss Eliza Donnan from Stirling W.M.S., to Holloway Street, W.M.S., was read.

Mrs. McMurray, C.G.I.T., representative spoke a few words of appreciation of the progress that the girls were making in so many ways, and especially commended them for assisting Sunday mornings, with the junior congregation.

Mrs. Hubbs presided at the piano throughout the meeting.

WALLBRIDGE W.A.-W.M.S.

Wallbridge.— The March meeting of Wallbridge W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance and with the President, Mrs. A. Clare, in charge. After the opening exercises and reading of reports a short discussion followed, re ways of raising money. Mrs. K. Kingston kindly gave an invitation to the Society to meet at her home for the April meeting. Rev. Mr. Hillis closed with prayer.

The W.M.S. meeting immediately followed in charge of Mrs. W. Badgley. After the opening exercises and reading of reports., Rev. Mr. Hillis was asked to take charge for election of a president. It was moved and seconded that Mrs. W. Badgley, 1st vice president, act as president for the balance of the year and that Mrs. W. Sine be 1st vice president. It was decided to hold the "World's Day of Prayer" service at the home of Mr. Nobes on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Helen McKee was presented with a Life Membership Certificate in the W.M.S. In her absence Mrs. E. Lane expressed thanks for it. Mrs. S. Nicholson gave a reading on Christian Stewardship. People get awfully tired physically and mentally, but they consider the results gained are worth the struggle. But when they get tired spiritually, they retire from active church work, and don't realize their loss. Apostle Paul's advice to these people would be: "Be not weary in well-doing for in due season ye shall reap, if ye faint not". Mrs. K. Kingston gave a short Temperance reading. Mrs. Cecil Sine was appointed as delegate to the convention in Trenton in April with Mrs. E. Lane as alternative.

Mrs. Badgley then continued the study of African Missions from the Study Book. Mrs. W. Sine gave a short account of what is being done to cure and prevent diseases prevalent in Africa. Mrs. Elliott gave a short reading showing the results from the work of Dr. Currie in Chissamba.

Thank-you letters were read from Mrs. Ross Fisher, Mrs. Hilton Shorey and Mrs. Roy Woods, for plants that had been sent them while in the hospital. Mr. Hillis on behalf of himself and Margaret, thanked the societies for expressions of sympathy during their recent great bereavement. They were appreciated very much.

The meeting was closed with singing and prayer. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ketcheson for her hospitality.

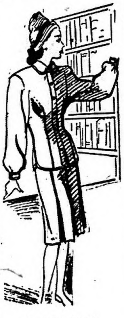
Shirt and Skirt Suit



A campus favorite

By VERA WINSTON

THE SHIRT and skirt suit is the latest to score on the campus, for it is a huge college girl favorite. Here it is, fashioned of gray wool. As can be seen, the jacket is cut just like a boy's shirt. The sleeves are full at the underarm, and caught into a tight wrist. Silver buttons are used for fastening the jacket. The skirt has three box pleats to give a softening touch.

Joan Crawford And Ray Milland 'Oscar' Winners

By FRANKLIN K. ARTHUR

Hollywood, March 8 —(AP)— Ray Milland and Joan Crawford last night were the recipients of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' Awards for the best performances of an actor and actress in 1945.

An attack of influenza robbed Miss Crawford of the moment of glory of which every cinema actress dreams — stepping up to receive her Oscar. But friends, headed by director Mike Curtiz who accepted the award in her behalf at the theatre, decided that even a temperature of 102 should not cost her all of the thrill that goes with winning the highest honor Hollywood's thousands of workers can bestow.

They went to her home and there, while Joan sniffled and cried, handed her the statuette.

"Usually," she choked, a little ruefully, "I'm ready with the wisecracks. But I can't say anything. My tears speak for me."

The 18th announcement party was a night for veterans. Milland, Welsh-born, has been in Hollywood 13 years. And his performance as the pitiful drunk of "The Lost Weekend" sparked that picture to one of the greatest sweeps since "It Happened One Night" hit the screen in 1934.

Weekend Best Picture.

For Paramount, "Weekend" won the selection as the best picture. For Billy Wilder it won the directional award and a share of the palm for the best written screenplay with Charles Brackett.

Other major awards went to James Dunn for his superb job as the drunken father in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and to the one comparative newcomer to films, Anne Revere, who played a mother in "National Velvet." They were chosen for the best supporting performances of the year.

To Peggy Ann Garner went a special award as the most promising child actress. The songwriting fame of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II was enhanced by selection of their "It Might As Well Be Spring" as the best original song. For black and white photography, Harry Stradling was named for "The Picture of Dorian Gray." Color honors in the same category went to Leon Shamroy for "Leave Her to Heaven."

Writing awards, besides the Wilder-Brackett combination on "Weekend," were gathered in by Richard Schweizer, whose Swiss-produced "Marie-Louise" was chosen the best original screenplay and Charles G. Booth for "The House on 92nd. Street" — best original motion picture story.

USED INFRA-RED RAYS

Washington, March 8 (AP) — The Germans developed techniques for detecting enemy men and machines in darkness with invisible infra-red rays that have certain advantages over radar at short distances. A report of American experts who unearthed many of Germany's wartime secrets disclosed yesterday that the Germans effectively used these searchlights of invisible light in two days.

GUILTY OF MORAL CHARGES

Norristown, Pa., March 8 (AP) —Mr. and Mrs. George W. Balles, operators of the closed Co-educational Warminster Academy, were found guilty of morals charges late yesterday. They will be sentenced March 15. Witnesses included boy and girl students who testified the Balles had corrupted their morals and committed indecencies.

REWARD OFFERED

Winnipeg, March 8 — (CP) — A reward of $200 was offered today for information leading to the capture of the slayers of 73-year-old John Mytafir, a pensioner, fatally injured in a North Winnipeg robbery attempt last Friday night. He died in hospital Wednesday. Police said Mytafir was slugged by two young men, now sought to answer a murder charge.

Your Teeth; Watch Them!

Margaret O'Brien cleans her teeth after each meal

By HELEN FOLLETT

FIRST and foremost of qualities that make up the composition of physical loveliness are beautiful teeth. Sound teeth are necessary if one is to keep well and strong. And don't forget that the most effective weapon for combating dental disease is the toothbrush that should be used after each meal.

Bacteria is ever-present back of those prettily tinted lips. It has been found that the greatest number of bacteria is present in the mouth in the morning. After the teeth are thoroughly brushed, the bacteria drops more than fifty per cent. By luncheon the count goes up 20 per cent, drops that much after brushing, increasing again before dinner to 75 per cent.

Little Bugs

These little bugs are responsible for decay. They should be fought vigilantly. When you brush your teeth, don't let it be just a swish and a promise. Groom the mouth pearls until they shine. If the gums bleed and are pale, massage them. Doesn't take long.

But no matter how much care you give your biters, decay may occur. That is why it is necessary to visit the dentist every six months. He will catch cavities when they are young, give them proper treatment. He will remove tartar that forms at the roots of the teeth causing abrasions and infections.

Professional attention is a must. An examination of the teeth of young children in any school will find a large percentage of pupils with teeth in need of attention. If you are a mother, don't fancy that baby teeth aren't important; they too, should have the services of the dentist.

Tooth decay is brought about by the acid that is produced when the germs in the mouth act on the stagnant food materials found there; that is the theory of many dentists. The acid dissolves the enamel of the teeth, a cavity results. So brush, brush, brush, then brush again.

Toronto, March 8 — (CP) — Abraham Vanek of Toronto yesterday was committed for trial on seven charges of illegally selling sugar without receiving ration coupons as required by Prices Board regulations. His son, Jake, jointly charged with four of the alleged offences, also was committed for trial.

Freshet-White Ensemble

By PRUNELLA WOOD

SPRING is not really far behind in the averagely wintry climates just now; a fur-touched ensemble in a hopeful shade is a good high-style wardrobe investment.

This wool suit and matching cape is made of wool in a shade which is called variously white wine, winter white, white rum. In honor of the thaws at hand, when the little streams will bounce and churn, we are terming it freshet white.

The black fur which lines and tuxedos the cape is black tingona lamb.

Fashion Flashes

VERY SMART PRINT frocks take the fashion spotlight. Black silk crepe with a closely massed print of figures, lanterns and coaches, is used for a handsome frock made with a skirt that drapes to a bustle-bow in back. Deep V-neckline meets the point of the wide, set-in midriff.

We are watching the return of the fez-type hat for Spring and wondering if that means the fez will be featured next fall. Worn way back off the forehead is a fez of smooth white straw with a cascade of bright red poppies at one side. Black, wide-mesh veil.

Sleek and smooth American broadtail processed lamb is gaining popularity, a nice alternative to expensive real broadtail. American broadtail is used for a good-looking triple-tiered capelet with a stole front shaped at the waistline. A change from fluffy furs!

.No matter what suit fashion takes the play, there's always a demand for the tailored black suit. One house shows a beauty in men's wear black worsted, a one-button model with tapering revers. Flaring pocket flaps are set high on the hipline of the jacket, which is bound in very narrow black satin. The satin is suggested for the blouse and gloves.

No need for small daughter to stay home when it rains, not with charming rain togs sized specially for little tots. Plastic-coated nylon in bright green with sun yellow trimming the shoulder epaulettes and cuff of the attached hood add up to a very smart rain cape.

Big success in the teen-age suit field is the Eisenhower field jacket. A nice model is in brown and white hound's tooth check woollen worn with a brown flannel skirt that is styled with slip hip pockets.

Reply to Formal Invitation to Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Will you please tell me the correct reply to an invitation to a formal church wedding and reception? H.T.

A reply to a church wedding invitation is not necessary unless it is requested. But to a wedding reception invitation, a reply is definitely required. An acceptance or regret of the formal invitation should be worded in the third person; should be handwritten on the first page, preferably of double-sheeted white letter-paper; and should be spaced similar to the form of the invitation.

Acceptance:

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. George Foster's kind invitation for
Tuesday, the fifth of March

The regret:

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson regret that they are unable to accept
Mr. and Mrs. George Foster's kind invitation for
Tuesday, the fifth of March

Guests at a Wedding Anniversary Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1. My husband and I have been invited to a reception a friend is giving in honor of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of her parents. Since the parents are not close friends of ours, what would be a proper gift to send them in recognition of this occasion? My husband feels that it should be a gift in silver, while I think that flowers might be more suitable. In either case, the gift or flowers should be sent before the reception . . or am I wrong?

2. The reception hours are from four to six. Does this mean that guests are given the privilege of arriving and leaving during that specified time?

3. And what would be the proper length of our call? B. E.

1. Since you and your husband are not close friends of the guests of honor, it would not be expected that you send a consequential gift to them, and I agree with you that flowers would be an appropriate gesture for you to make. Your flowers should be sent to arrive on the morning of the reception, so that they can be planned as a festive part of the reception background. Since your invitation was by courtesy of your friend, perhaps you and your husband might like to send her a corsage. And of course it is quite proper for you to send the anniversary couple some simple gift for their home. . .it need not be a gift of silver.

2. Yes.

3. You might stay about a half hour. . . or longer, if you wish.

When an Engagement is Broken

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Last year, when my daughter's boy friend was here on a furlough, he gave her a wristwatch as a parting gift. Just before Christmas he gave her an engagement ring and at the same time a jewelry ensemble. As an engagement present she gave him a wristwatch. Now their engagement is broken and she is returning the engagement ring to him. She and I would like to have you tell us if she should also return the wristwatch and other jewelry he gave her. Also she would like to know if it is right for her to expect him to return the wristwatch she gave him if she doesn't return all the jewelry gifts he gave her. S. C.

Your daughter should return not only the engagement ring but all gifts her former fiance gave her (photographs too, and letters) . . . a right-thinking girl does not want to have any things that remind her of the broken engagement. Her former fiance should also return to her any presents that she gave him, particularly the wristwatch, her engagement gift to him.

Her New Son is "Jr."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I have a new son whom we have named after my husband, but we can't agree about what suffix is correct with his name. My husband was named after his father, and has always written "Jr." after his name. But since his father died several years ago, does he become "Senior" now, and our son "Jr."? Or does my husband remain "Jr.", and our son become "3rd"? W. S.

After the death of his father, your husband should have dropped the "Jr." from his name. He is now "senior" (thought it is not necessary to use this suffix with his name, and your son is "Jr.".

Thanks for Funeral Flowers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Will you please tell me the correct form to use in thanking for flowers sent for a funeral? And would writing a mote to each one be correct? S. L.

Every message or expression of sympathy— notes, cards either mailed or left at the house or funeral parlor, and memorial flowers—should be acknowledged by a personal note written by some member of the family or a close friend of the family. When flowers are thanked for, a definite reference should be made to the individual floral piece sent.

An acknowledgment for flowers may read,

Dear Mrs. Monroe,

Your expression of sympathy touched us all very deeply, and the roses you sent for mother's funeral were a beautiful memorial tribute to her. We deeply appreciate your kindness and friendliness.

Most sincerely yours.

The Experts Say

BY HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 8. (CP)—With the butter ration cut, Canadian homemakers are busy re-organizing their butter budgets. Though much has already been said on the subject of stretching the limited supply, the agriculture department home economists offer these suggestions:

When planning to use butter as a spread on toast or sandwiches, be sure to have the butter soft—it covers more space. Take it out of the refrigerator ahead of time so that it has a chance to warm up, but don't let it melt. This is one time when plans for breakfast begin the night before. And speaking of breakfast, if you feel that all those slices of toast use up too much butter, try increasing the amount of morning cereal and decreasing the toast.

So that each member of the family will get his fair share of butter it is a good idea to cut individual portions and place one on each bread-and-butter plate or all together on one plate.

If buns, rolls or biscuits are to be served, they may be lightly buttered in the kitchen before placing on the table. Or, for a family supper, the rolls or biscuits may be broken open or cut, sprinkled with a little grated cheese and toasted in the oven for a minute or two.

Crackers or soda biscuits may easily be eaten without butter, particularly if they are of the salted variety. If you can't get this kind, sprinkle them with a little salt before they go on the table.

Small squares of bread toasted in the oven or browned in the frying pan with a bit of bacon fat make excellent croutons to go with the soup course.

The homemaker who really has a butter problem is the lunch packer. Everyone knows how sandwiches literally "eat up" butter. If the sandwich filling is of a creamy consistency you'll need little or no butter. If it doesn't belong to this type you may feel the need of some butter. In that case, spread the butter only around the edges and omit it in the centre. It's the edge of the sandwich that usually has the thinnest layer of filling and incidentally, it is the first bite.

Here is a consumer section recipe for Cheese and Egg Spread that is an excellent butter saver.

Cheese and Egg Spread requires one tablespoon of mild-flavored fat, one teaspoon grated onion (optional), 1 1-2 tablespoons flour, two tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, 3-4 cup milk, one tablespoon vinegar, 1-2 pound freshly grated cheddar cheese, two chopped, hard-cooked eggs.

Melt fat and cook onion in it for one minute. Add flour, sugar, salt and mustard and stir well until blended. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add vinegar and cheese and continue cooking until cheese melts and mixture is smooth. Add eggs and cool. Store in a covered jar in a cool place. Make 2 1-4 cups of filling.

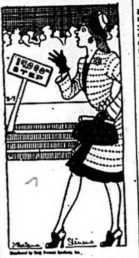
Ethel Smith, that enchantress of the electric organ, makes colorful, exciting music, but when it comes to clothes she goes in for monotone outfits. Here she is, ready for Spring, in a costume whipped up for her by Sophie. The navy blue satin suit is designed to accentuate Miss Smith's tiny waistline. Blue suede shoes and gloves and a blue satin envelope bag conclude this attractive outfit.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Be kind to your feet; they will be kind to you



During an afternoon of shopping, a woman may take 19,000 steps.

You'll never believe it, my little chickadee, but surveys prove that, during an afternoon of leisurely shopping, a woman may take more than 19,000 steps, traverse more than eight miles. If the average woman were to take herself out to a country road, clip off eight miles, she would consider herself worn out and exhausted. Shopping is something else again. You're out for dress loot. You're seeking treasures with which to glorify yourself. But the little feet do not know anything about that. Unless they are properly shod, you are doing them an injustice.

It is smart these days to look comfortable. The woman who hobbles along on thin-soled shoes with spiked heels belongs to the pre-war period, before women made an effort to be useful, to appear capable and efficient. Silly shoes are not correct. If you are to march on cold pavements, wear shoes with substantial leather soles that will protect your feet from cold and moisture. Cold feet bring red noses. They also bring colds. There is a close bond between noses and colds, as everybody knows.

When buying shoes for walking, see that the soles are made of leather that is flexible, that gives gently with the movements of your precious hoofs, yet firmly supports bones and tendons. Because leather is made from the hide of animals, it is porous. It keeps the feet free of moisture inside and outside the shoe.

Don't make a selection just for style. How your feet get along has much to do with how you get along, not only in perambulating, but also in your relations with yourself and your family. Hurty feet will cause wrinkles. A twinging toe sets the alarm bells of the nervous system ringing. With the nervous system yowling, there is no composure, no poise. It is the belief of your good-looks reporter that many a curdled disposition has been caused by narrow-toed shoes and high heels.

Never wear the same pair of shoes two days in succession, if you want your feet to be healthy and comfortable.

It is predicted—by those who have their ears to the fashion ground—that walking shoes based on a variation of the moccasin vamp may become popular before long. Platform soles are likewise expected to increase in popularity now that leather is more easily obtainable for the sturdy but flexible soles that these models require.

The best way to watch your beauty steps is to wear properly-fitted, comfortable shoes.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's Put up With a Wandering Husband for a Long Time— Now She Can't Take it

Many a patient wife puts up silently for a long time with her husband's philanderings, living desperately in the hope that he will finally tire of playing around and come home to settle down once more— and they'll live happily ever after.

Unfortunately, that rarely happens.

What usually does happen is that before the wandering husband gets fed up on his stolen sweets, his wife gets fed up on him. Or if not actually fed up with him, then she reaches a breaking point where she just can't take it any longer.

That's what's happened to the wife who writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am 29 years old and married nine years. I've known my husband for the last 15 years, so I know it wasn't a get-married-quick affair.

"My husband has gone bowling with his workers every week one day for the past three years, but now he also goes out drinking once in a while. I have never complained except about the fact of his coming home so late and getting so little sleep.

"Recently one night he went out telling me about the boys wanting him. When he got home he had lipstick all over his mouth, but I still didn't say anything. He did, though, in his sleep, talking about where he was, and when I questioned him about it, he said he wished he did it more often and that I should just forget about it; that all I wanted was him tied to my apron strings. Oh yes, he's done it before, but I never questioned him, as I just didn't want to believe it.

"But now it's got so I just can't go on living with him.

"At first I thought perhaps he was doing it because all he spoke of was a family, and luck wasn't with us for a long time. But now we have a little one a year old, but things have gotten worse. He doesn't fuss over her like fathers usually do, although he'll hold her once in a while. But he always manages to get some place else when he's home weekends. He knows we'll never have any more, and keeps saying it, and cheapens me in front of people.

"He did all these things when we were first married, but stopped for awhile, and now, although I love him deeply, I cannot go on sharing him.

"A Worried Wife."

Since you have reached the point where you feel you cannot go on with this man any longer, now is the time for you to make a definite decision in the matter, and then act on it. If you do not do this, I am very much afraid you will find yourself just drifting along with the situation, growing more and more unhappy and upset until you really break down. And you don't want to do that. Your baby needs you.

I think you certainly should get away from your husband for awhile and give him, as well as yourself, a chance to think things over. Have you any family or other relatives with whom you might stay? It would be a good plan, I think, not to make a threat of it, telling your husband you were leaving because he had treated you so badly. If possible, just say you are tired, and have decided to make your family a little visit and get rested. He'll get the point without you making it, and if you've left without a quarrel, it will be easier to come back, if things work out so that you feel it is the thing to do. Don't go back, though, unless he comes after you. Let him be the one to suggest it. And if he doesn't suggest it, if he appears perfectly content to let you go, you're far better off away from him. Then you can begin to plan to make a new and happier life for yourself and your baby.

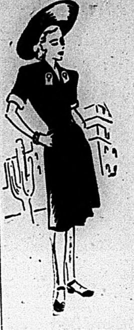
Brown Study



Dark brown linen dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

BROWN IS AN important color for resort wear just now and is expected to rank with black, gray and blue as the leading color group for Spring-into-Summer wear. Pure linen in dark brown makes this very personable dress, a nice model for the young or more mature figure. It is very simple in design and the white touches at collar, where the tabs are buttoned back give a refreshing look. The white motif is repeated at the cuffs. There are four large self buttons on the bodice. This frock is typical of the well-bred clothes that mark the chic resort wardrobe.

NEW SPRING STYLES

Something new has been added to the Summer sartorial scene—the Cabana costume. One such costume consists of brief but rather full shorts of black taffeta with bars of white stitching to give a bold plaid effect. Shorts are teamed with a soft, wide-sleeved blouse of white crepe finished with a string bow of the white-stitched taffeta.

NEW COLOR

The theme of many of the new fashions is color—beautiful color, wisely handled. Butterscotch-colored woollen is used for a softly tailored dress that is worn with a loose, boxy jacket of flame-colored tweed faced with the sheer butterscotch wool of the dress.

EVENING DRESS

Stark simplicity in an evening dress usually means perfection of cut and fine fabric. Pure silk black taffeta is used for a handsome dress, unadorned, made with halter neck and low-placed bustle bow. A wonderful background for jewelry.

STYLE AT WESTERN RESORTS

Reports from smart western resorts tell of the growing popularity of the long coat of white fleece, loose and easy, but with a belted back.

Believe 24 Horses Will Start In $100,000 Stake

By The Canadian Press

No less than 24 horses were being mentioned as certain starters as trainers went to the entry box today for tomorrow's $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap and the record of 20 in the 1935 'cap appears a cinch to be beaten. It costs $500 to enter and $500 more to start a steed.

But regardless of the ultimate number of starters, the ninth running of the mile and one-quarter handicap, richest race in the world, boils down to three main factors: First Fiddle; Mrs. A. L. Rice's front-running twosome of Sirde and Snow Boots; and Somebody Else.

First Fiddle, the Ed Mulrenans' great gray charger, is the probable 5-2 favorite. Now fourth on the all-time money-winning list with $361,595, the Fiddle can jump to second by taking the winner's end of over $100,000 (if 24 start). Second money, $20,000 will put First Fiddle third, ahead of Sun Beau but behind Seabiscuit.

LEAFS STILL HAVE HOPES OF GETTING INTO PLAYOFFS

Will be Eliminated, However, When Toronto Loses a Game and Detroit Wins One

(By The Canadian Press)

A battling band of Toronto Maple Leafs hockey players returned today from a vital victory at Chicago, hanging on to a faint hope of still reaching the National Hockey League play-offs.

The Stanley Cup team is in just about as bad a position as it can be without being officially eliminated. Leafs now are four games back of Detroit and the fourth and last play-off spot. They have five games. So have Detroit. Two of these battles are between Toronto and Detroit.

It simply boils down to the fact that Detroit would have to lose all their remaining games and Leafs win all theirs if the Leafs are to get into the play-offs. And the Leafs are hoping that the age of miracles is not yet past.

This heart-breaking finish for the Leafs starts with a home battle against the Montreal Canadiens Saturday night. The high-flying Canadiens now enjoy a three-point margin in first place over the Hawks.

If the Leafs vanquish Canadiens, the next stumbling - block is the game at Boston Sunday. Then the Leafs play at Montreal next Thursday, entertain Detroit a week from Saturday, and finish the schedule with a game at Detroit March 17.

The Canadiens-Leaf battle at Toronto is the only game this Saturday. On Sunday Detroit will be at New York and Canadiens will be at Chicago.

Then comes the last week of the schedule and the jockeying for position among the play-off teams. And at almost any time those teams will be officially and finally settled — the first time that Detroit wins a game and Toronto loses.

CAPS LENGTHEN DIVISION LEAD

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitals lengthened their lead in the Western Division of the American Hockey League last night as they halted a late surge by Providence and edged out the Reds, 5-4.

A crowd of 5,021 saw Cliff Simpson send the Capitals away in front with a closeup shot in the 25th minute of play, but Providence tied the count 30 seconds later when Alex Shibicky drove the puck home. Mud Bruneteau flicked a rebound in the net at 10.52, and Indianapolis led the show at the end of the second period, 2-1.

Shibicky tied the score for the second time when he counted at 4.05 of the third period, but Simpson gave the Caps the edge once more as he scored an unassisted goal on an angle shot at 5.41. Les Dougles scored twice at 9.07 and 10.12 to give Indianapolis an apparently safe three-goal lead, but the Reds kept trying. Scherza connected at 12.06 and Jacques Lavoie put the Easterners back in the running at 15.04, but the Reds' effort to tie it up in the last five minutes failed.

The following comes from the pen of the Peterboro scrivener of sport — and speaks for itself: "Our [illegible] contemporary in Kingston, Mike Rodden, rubs it in for all he's worth on the locals' loss last Saturday. Not against the Petes — whom he carefully points out "are liable to bound back with a bang" next time—but against Coach Jim Ellis. Mike is still mad at Jimmy for catching him wrong on a refereeing rule and putting in a protest, and he devotes much of a lengthy column to blasting "Master-mind Ellis". He even says: "When a Moses comes to the scene he should be able to prove his claims in competition and not in the committee room." For Mike's benefit, we might point out that Ellis has proven his ability in competition for many years — but he doesn't like to see his team beaten, naturally, and jumps at the chance to kick on a misinterpreted rule by a referee. Don't they all?"

Due to ice conditions in the Hume Arena, the first game of the Junior O. H. A. playdowns between the Kingston Saints and the Belleville Bruins scheduled for tonight has been postponed, it was announced late today. Unless weather conditions change, the two-game total goals series will be played in the Harty Arena, Kingston.

DUROCHER STILL LACKS PITCHING, FIRST BASEMAN

Rickey Bringing Up Lot of Young Players Two or Three Years Away From Big Time

By GAYLE TALBOT

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 8 —(AP) — For all their preliminary gyrations, which included for the last month at Sanford, Fla., a sort of three-ring circus conducted by ring master Branch Rickey, Brooklyn Dodgers still lack pitching and first-basing of big league calibre.

If they do better than third place in the National League this year, it should call for a commission investigation.

Rickey, the genius of St. Louis, has had for the first time this spring an opportunity really to demonstrate his stuff on new ground. He has been working with hundreds of young ball players.

In time, say those who admire Branch's methods, he will give Brooklyn a raft of fine ball players, plus pennants. He has lined up, in all, 17 ball clubs to which he can parcel out future Brooklyn greats.

Leo Durocher puts it more succinctly: He needs pitchers and a good first baseman and fewer holdouts among his outfielders.

The best pitcher Lea can lay his hands on at the moment is one Hal Gregg, who won 18 and lost 13 for last year's third-place outfit. That isn't good.

The only reasons the Dodgers finished as high as they did were that their outfield hit well and the opposition was wartime and weak.

Outside Gregg, Durocher names Ed Heal and Vic Lombardi from last year's staff as probably starters, and neither has much.

JOE LOUIS STARTS TOTRAINFORCONN

West Baden, Ind., March 8 — (AP) — A four-year period away from strenuous training ended today for Joe Louis.

The world's heavyweight boxing champion launched a 49-day tuning up program here in the first phase of his conditioning in preparation for the defence of his title against challenger Billy Conn June 19.

The second phase begins May 1 when he starts his boxing drills.

Louis, discharged last October after serving three years and nine months in the army, appeared eager to get started.

Louis, who will be 32 years old May 13, weighs 220 pounds, 13 above his fighting weight. He plans to melt off this excess by walking and jogging over the hilly countryside for an hour each morning, by outdoor exercises in the afternoon and eat only two meals daily. He also will play golf and ride horseback.

His training will be all out-of-doors. There will be no gymasium work, no boxing.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 8 (AP) — George Eastment, who moved up from high school coaching ranks to take charge of the Manhattan track squad this winter, says he has been trying all season to find out how fast Fred Sickinger can run. .Eastment probably won't find out tomorrow because Sickinger figures to beat Stan Callender by the usual two strides in the K. of C. 1,000 yard race ... But by next winter, Fred may be ready to give Les MacMitchell a tussle over the mile route ..The coach figurers Fred "can run anything from 600 yards to the mile in championship time." .. MacMitchell has been winning the miles but his times haven't excited the fans because Les hasn't learned yet to set a fast pace with no one to push him.. But if Sickinger pushes and Frank Dixon comes back to pull—well, as they say in Brooklyn: Wait till next year.

Jersey Justice

Jersey Jones, the reformed fight drum-beater, takes issue with Jersey Joe Walcott's story about flooring Joe Louis in training camp brawls.. "In the interests of truth (in news, editorials and advertisements)" reports J. Jones, who handled the press setup at Louis' camp, "it wasn't at Pompton Lakes but at Lakewood back in 1936. The first day Walcott ran backwards faster than Man O'War even ran forward and Louis couldn't catch him in one round. The second day Louis didn't waste time. There were two thunderous detonations, the first when Louis nailed Walcott on the chin, the second when Jersey Joe hit the deck.".. The next bout will be Jersey vs. Jersey.

Billy Southworth Thinks Cardinals Can be Beaten

By CHIP ROYAL

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 7 —(AP)—Billy Southworth isn't making any predictions for his Boston Braves, but he does think St. Louis Cardinals "can be beat" this year.

Coming from the former pilot of the Red Birds, and the top manager in both leagues as far as percentages of victories are concerned, that is quite a statement.

Billy explains it this way:

"The Cards lost one of their most valuable men when Walker Cooper was traded to the Giants. He helped my pitchers more than anyone else. You'll always find a top ranking catcher backing up every winning team.

"If St. Louis wins the pennant, they've got to count on Johnny Beazley for at least 20 wins. I don't think he'll be up to it this year.

"The Cards are going to miss Johnny Hopp. He's with me again in Boston, and am I happy. I'd hate to have to count the games he won for me, with his bat. They don't come any smarter than Johnny with the stick.

"Pennants are won several ways, but one this is sure — no team can afford to make a mistake in a close race and I think we're going to have the greatest competitive year baseball has ever known.

"The Braves may not win a pennant, but we will be trying."

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

Reinforced by ex-service stars, the New York Yankees are having what is termed a team re-union at their training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., with a number of the hard-hitting performers apparently ready to start in where they left off with enlistment back in 1943. A survey of the squad yesterday, however, emphasized the uncertainty of the pitching staff in spite of the presence of a couple of dozen tossers. Rated the No. 1 twirler is Spud Chandler while Marius Russo looks like No. 2 if he returns to form after an arm operation. The big remainder are grouped as question marks.

The Yanks boast a strong outfield in Joe Dimaggio, Charlie Keller and Tom Henrich; the infield is brightened by Joe Gordon and P. Rizzuto and the backstop standby is Bill Dickey. But the pitching is called Manager Joe McCarthy's special problem.

There was a time when playing and bench managers were about evenly divided in major-league baseball but it was pointed out at New York yesterday only two mentors will figure in the line-ups this season. These are Mel Ott of New York Giants and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland Indians. Last year Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox, Leo Durocher of Brooklyn Dodgers and Ben Chapman of the Phillies continued as performers but have dropped from the active roster.

One-armed veteran of the First Great War, Bill Hendry of Toronto this week realized the bowler's dream of bowling a perfect game of 450 in a scheduled game of a Toronto five-pin circuit. His 100 per cent score came in the last game of a three-game string.

Member of the league for the last 20 years, he boasts an average of several pins over the 200 mark and also plays a steady game of golf.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALLAN NICKLESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 8 — (CP)—A guy who takes his sports-loving British wife to her first ice hockey game and expects to concentrate on the play is an insufferable optimist and a sucker for a left jab.

Pay heed you some 40,000 Canadian veterans who married Britain's cream-of-the-crop. Your bride may have absorbed partial knowledge of the Canadian way of life by attending classes back home, but brother, they didn't tell her about hockey.

This, then, is based on personal knowledge and recorded with difficulty — because of bashed ribs and complaining muscles. Babe Pratt was lucky. He wore pads and had to stop only a few mere males.

Things started quietly. Beyond a few inane questions, embarrassing because they could be heard for a few rows around, there wasn't much ado during the pre-game warmup of the teams. There were audible snickers from some ill-mannered fellows at such as "Is Pratt a fullback?" — "How long is each half?" — "Why do they have such big legs?" (pads being unknown in soccer) and "Are the bottoms of the sticks made of rubber?" (this because of the black taping).

From the drop of the puck to the final bell, verbosity linked with violence and every goal-mouth play — and there were plenty — was good for an elbow in the side, or, at best, a pushing about.

Shrieks of laughter attended the scene of referee King Clancy being pushed over the boards. Laughter changed to indignation when a gent in the next row dared suggest in a loud voice that player so-and-so was a bum.

It was like that — right to the bitter end.

The post-game verbal reaction was better. It didn't hurt.

"I think that people accustomed to hockey games take too much for granted and miss the wonderful skating. I never realized they could do such incredible things on the ice, and at such speed.

"For the first 10 minutes while everyone was yelling for goals, I was saying 'how can they possibly skate like that?' when I got over that, for the moment, I could not follow the puck for awhile. It took me a time to attune my eyes to the speed.

"In most games there are high spots and dull spots — such as in football — but this game — never a dull moment."

"The comparison between hockey and cricket from a spectators' point of view? Well . . ."

LESSON NO. 930

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

CHOICE OF LEADS

Your partner's lead can make you bleed. So, hope he starts a daisy. Unless he picks a lead that sticks, it almost drives you crazy.

Each lead has a responsibility. It signals partner what you have and what you have not. The lead of an honor tells a different story than does the lead of a smaller card.

An honor is A, K, Q, J, or 10. Any other card is known as a low or small card. Thus, a low card is 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, or 2.

The lead of an honor tells so much, you should prefer it to any other lead. Only with no sound honor lead should you lead a low card.

Thus, with a choice between an honor card lead and a low card lead, prefer the honor lead. So what? This tells you that a low card lead shows a hand that has no honor card lead.

Be sure that registers. When you lead a low card, you deny having a sound lead of an honor card. Say it again. A low card lead denies having an honor card lead.

Let me be more specific. But first be reminded that the king is led from A K with others in a suit. And in all other cases, the lead of an honor is from the top of a sequence.

Consequently, when you lead a card lower than a ten, what do you say? That you have no combination of A K, K Q J, K Q 10, Q J 10, Q J 9, J 10 9, J 10 8, 10 9 8, or 10 9 7.

Suppose it is your lead from this hand:

♠9 6 3
♥Q 9 6 4
♦A 7 5
♣8 5 3

Your lead is the four of hearts. By that small card lead you say you have no honor card lead from a sequence in that suit. Else you would have led the preferred lead of an honor.

Not only that. Since an honor card lead is preferred, your low card lead denies having a sequence in any other suit.

When you don't do what you should, you say you can't.

400 CANADIANS ENJOY CURLING IN GERMAN CAMP

Artificial Ice is Placed in Transformed Airplane Hangar

By WILLIAM BOSS
(CP War Correspondent)

Bad Zwischenahn, Germany, March 8. (CP)—The roarin' game wi' broom and stane is sweeping the Canadian area of Occupation here with 400 Canadians weekly taking their turns over six sheets of artificial ice in a transformed airplane hangar.

The idea was started last Summer by Brig. Colin Campbell of Toronto, at that time overseas representative of the Dominion Curling Association. The C.A.O.F. curling rink now is under the guidance of Lt.-Col. R. F. Jobson, Montreal, overseas representative of the Association of Curling Clubs, with Capt. L. G. Mowatt, Calgary, as president of the Committee.

The men had to overcome climatic conditions and lack of necessary equipment, but some "scrounging around" turned the trick. Col. Jobson found an artificial ice-making plant and 12,000 feet of suitable piping were located and taken to the site.

Stones and handles posed the next barrier but auxiliary services in Edinburgh advertised in Scotland's newspapers with the result the Royal Caledonian Curling Club produced 76 sets.

Maj. J. G. Rollit of Montreal, of the Auxiliary Services staff at military headquarters, London, had the equipment forwarded to the continent. Brooms were shipped from Canada and the league was all set.

Two rinks were put in operation and within a week all six were going strong. Each brigade and divisional troops are alloted one day on the rinks, but Saturdays and Sundays are open to all comers.

A draw has been arranged and two rinks which prove themselves best will have an opportunity of going to Scotland to play with the Royal Caledonian Curling Association at Edinburgh.

Curling is open to all ranks of C.A.O.F. and Col. Jobson insists that 75 per cent of each rink, especially the two going to Scotland, be composed of other rank personnel.

ALBERTA RINK WINS DOMINION BRIER TANKARD

Defeats Northern Ontario Four in Playoff Game by 8 to 6 Count

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Saskatoon, March 8 (CP) — A veteran Alberta four skipped by Billy Rose won the Macdonald's Brier Tankard, emblematic of Canadian curling supremacy, here early today by besting a stubborn Northern Ontario rink from Kirkland Lake 8-6 in as thrilling a match as the 'roarin' game has seen in many a 'spiel.

In posting Alberta's fourth victory in 17 years of Brier bonspiel play, Rose and his men of Sedgewick—George Crooks, lead, Austin Smith, second, and Barley Swelin, third—took the hard road.

They wound up the regular nine-game round-robin play with seven victories and two defeats—enough to put them in a tie with the highly-favored Manitoba champions and Northern Ontario for first place. They barely edged out Ontario 10-9 for the seventh win.

But the Alberta champions — three of them come from the little community of Sedgewick with a population of 500 and Swelin from the nearby village of Hughenden —drew on courage and the 15 years curling experience each of them had when the play-offs came up.

Displaying the most perfect curling of the bonspiel they eliminated Manitoba 8-7 in the semi-final—revenge for one of their two defeats in regular play—and then triumphed in the final. With uncanny repetition Rose in those two games played knockout and draw shots dead on time after time.

Even at 11th End

Tommy Ramsay's Kirkland Lake quartet—Pat Colquhoun, M. G. (Stub) Coughlin, Wally Spencer and Ramsay—went into the 11th end on even terms with the Alberta representatives. The rinks had posted no score higher than a two and few of those up to that point.

But on the 11th Rose almost made sure of his championship. He had six in the house when Ramsay's last stone drew in to better five of them and leave him with only a single.

The last end was just as tense. Skip Ramsay was just a fraction too heavy on his last shot and his stone went too far leaving one Alberta rock in the house for another single and the Tankard.

The same deliberate caution was evident in the semi-final match with Leo Johnson's Manitoba champions. Going into the final end with the score tied 7-7, Lincoln Johnson, Manitoba second, drew around guard rocks into the front of the eight-foot circle. Austin Smith took out one of the guards but Manitoba's third, Harry Weremy, drew into the house.

Took Out Rock

Swelin took one counting rock out but went out himself leaving one Manitoba stone still counting as the crowd of 2,800 watched almost breathlessly. Weremy drew his second shot in to lie two and Leo Johnson drew a guard on his front rock but Rose immediately took out both guard and front rock and then after Johnson's last rock drew into the back of the house, placed a perfectly weighed inturn for the deciding point.

The three-way tie was the first since 1928 when Alberta Manitoba and Ontario finished even, Manitoba's Gordon Hudson eventually winning. Manitoba has won 10 times, Ontario twice and Nova Scotia once.

It was 2.30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. E.S.T.) when the final finished and nearly 3 a.m. when the new champions headed by the pipe band of the Saskatoon Light Infantry, marched back on the ice to receive the Tankard and individual prizes.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 8 (AP)—Are the wartime male stars worried about their chances for survival now that Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Tyrone Power, James Stewart and others are back from the service? It's true of at least one of them—Mark Stevens.

"After all," she said, "the major studios make about 30 big pictures apiece each year. Now that the war is over, each has about 15 leading men to choose from. That doesn't give the newcomer much hope."

Mark played opposite Joan Fontaine in "From This Day Forward" at R.K.O. and returned to his home lot, 20th-Fox, to appear in "The Dark Corner." His boss, Darryl Zanuck, has issued a memo ordering star billing because "when people see him they'll know he's a star." But Mark remains unconvinced.

"What's the use of kidding myself," he said. "I know I got the breaks because men like Tyrone Power and Jimmie Stewart were away at war."

Perhaps the reason for the actor's worry is that this is the first time he has a good job and a home of his own. And his wife is expecting a baby.

"I remember the days when I slept in Central Park," he mused, "and the days I stole tips in restaurants so I would have money to buy a meal."

Robert De Haven once sold magazines in front of Columbia Pictures' main gate. Came the war and Bob joined the air force. He downed 14 Japanese planes, won a decoration and recently, his honorable discharge.

For old times sake he paid a visit to the studio gateman and the rest of the story is standard cinderella fare. One of the executives spotted him persuaded him to make a test, then signed him to a long-term contract.

Bob will make his film debut in "Gallant Journey," and he'll play a flier.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bud Geary, Allan Lane and Tom London, in a scene from Republic's action-packed Western, "Trail of Kit Carson," now showing at the Capital Theatre. The added action hit "Captain Kid," stars Charles Laughton, Randolph Scott and Barbara Britton with a cast of thousands.

EASIER TO PRONOUNCE

Capetown (CP) — Mr. Omiros Eleftheriou Ierodiaconou said his name was a handicap in business and asked to have it changed to Lefteris. He was one of 52 who changed their names in the Union during 1945.

GIVEN LIFE TERM

Shanghai, March 8 (AP)—Isamu Ishihara, 36, former Honolulu schoolteacher dubbed the "beast of the east," yesterday was convicted of torturing American prisoners—most of them Wake Island marines—while serving as a civilian interpreter at Shanghai camps. He was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 20

But Timothy still stood there. "Can't afford to have my 'right hand' getting down on me. Look, now that Lora's going to be back awhile, and we have Miss Choate, I think you might take more P.M.'s get out more often. Have you noticed that the spring is here?"

"Yes, I've noticed," she smiled.

"Tell you what, I'm going to manage to get you out some way myself. I want to see some natural color come in your face. You used to go out a lot with me when I called on my 'little' patients," that was the way Timothy always spoke of his charity patients, "but of late you've been too busy. Perhaps we could manage it again?"

"I'd like it," she told him.

She was thinking that it probably wouldn't be very long before Timothy wouldn't have any charity patients to call on. Cynthia wouldn't share him with them; at least she didn't believe Cynthia would. The truth was, they took up a lot of Timothy's spare time, and he didn't have as much spare time as he once had had, since he was putting in so much time on his serum.

"The last times we were out together," she reminded him "we were caught in a rainstorm; then the snowstorm. Perhaps that was a warning," Gina was smiling, teasing of course, "the next time it might be something else."

"We'll take a chance," Timothy smiled and left.

A week went by and then another. Same old routine at the hospital and at the cottage for Gina. One stayed on duty during the day, went to bed early at night to be as fresh as possible for the next day's work.

As yet Timothy hadn't found a chance to get Gina away from the hospital for a little change, as he had wanted to do. He simply had too much on his mind, to say nothing of his constant care of his patients.

Never a day passed but that Gina answered the phone to recognize Cynthia's imperious voice, confident now and just a little bit patronizing, as well. More and more Timothy had to tell her he was busy. She took it very well for the most part, realizing, Gina supposed, that whatever Timothy was doing, it was in her interest.

One morning Gina went in Mrs. Sayers' room with her breakfast tray, after having finished her bath. The old lady looked very sweet and fresh in her silk bed-jacket, with her hair neatly combed and a bit of talcum dusted over her face. She said, surprisingly, "Well, Gina, I believe I've found one reason why I'm still around."

"I could think of a lot of them" Gina answered, as she spread the serviette and placed the tray over her lap. "Just think we have figs today. I even managed an extra one for you."

"You're always sweet, Gina. No, there's only this one earthly reason," the old lady went on. "This boy, Johnny. I hobbled in there once or twice to see him in the evenings, you know."

"I'm not sure you should have."

Mrs. Sayers ignored that. "And last night he came in to see me. And in a few minutes he's coming in again to say good-bye."

"He's leaving?" Gina straightened up after having moved the figs closer. She hadn't heard about 48 as yet.

"You see, he's not ill, never has been. But his aunt . she's a very timid woman, terrified that Johnny should be drafted. During the past two years she's drilled it into him night and morning about his delicate stomach, and the unsatisfactory condition of his heart. After awhile, she had actually made him believe it."

Gina took time to sit down beside her, listening eagerly. She thought it quite possible this had been the trouble with Johnny all the time. Once Timothy had said he acted as if he'd been mesmerized, or something. Well, it's likely he had been.

"I don't know yet just what words I used, or exactly how," Mrs. Sayers went on, "I managed to make him wake up to the truth. But he did see it all of a sudden; it was just like a light had suddenly penetrated his darkened brain. You see, for awhile, he was very resentful because both Doctor Gordon and Doctor Chester insisted that he was perfectly sound. Now he sees through it all, believes it was deliberately planned by his aunt, and he's leaving today to enlist in the Merchant Marine."

"And it was through you...." Gina's eyes were full of admiration, "that it all happened? I think it's wonderful, you're wonderful!"

"Thank you, my dear. In a way perhaps it was a small thing, but in another way, maybe it was something I was meant to do before my spirit could untangle itself from this old worn out body."

Gina patted her hand gently. "I hope you'll find a lot of other things to do just as wonderful."

Mrs. Sayers shook her head. "No, I had my chance once, but I was blinded by having too much money, I suppose. Money does that sometimes. It's a fascinating thing to have, you realize the utter uselessness of it only when you're old."

Gina was called to the diet kitchen then, where Nora was wrestling with a new formula Doctor Timothy was trying for one of his babies. He had succeeded at last in bringing some of the more sickly ones who'd been out at the Tri-State to the hospital here, where he could have them under his constant observation. It was done at his personal expense, as Gina knew.

Nora had been unable to find one of the ingredients for this new formula. Gina found it at once. It happened to have two names. Timothy had used one on the formula, and the other one was on the box. No wonder Nora was confused.

Lora was in a veritable seventh heaven. She and Pete were to start on their delayed honeymoon tomorrow. They would have 10 whole days together, after that Pete would be on his way to San Francisco. If Pete wanted her, she would go with him to the boat itself. She hoped he did. She was full of plans for the new house she was to build, as soon as priorities were lifted, which everybody hoped would be soon.

Pete said he wanted that to hold in his mind; his home with his wife in it waiting. He and his mother had always lived in a tiny, cramped apartment. His mother still lived there. But as for Pete, he wanted a real home with a garden, a front lawn and flowers. When he'd get real lonely out there in the Pacific, he'd picture himself at home. mowing the lawn, while Lora did things to the flowers. This was the sort of thing most soldiers thought of when out in the jungles and wastelands of the Pacific war zones.

When Gina went to the cottage that night, she found Barbara there, dressed to go out in a new flowered frock. She even had on a saucy little flowered turban and looked beautiful as usual. But she wasn't going out, she said. "Ever read Shakespeare, Gina?"

"Not often."

"Well, take it from me, he had a word to fit every occasion. Remember this one?

"'How much salt water you've thrown aside in waste,
To season love that of it did not taste.'"

Gina stared at her. "You mean Doctor Pryor that you ..?"

Barbara nodded. "I mean I've come to my senses. I never want to see him again. He's smug and almost pompous. He even tried to pull that old line about how his wife misunderstood him." She laughed, stopped a moment; then added: "I'd call Timothy Gordon a much more successful man, wouldn't you?"

"Without a doubt."

"But now that he's finished his serum," Barbara went on thoughtfully, "what do you think he'll do? I somehow don't believe he'll go the way of Lucian and some of the others. Though you can't tell."

Gina didn't know the serum was finished. She thought that meant that Timothy would be leaving Havenhill soon. She didn't believe he'd ever turn into a smug and pompous doctor. Timothy had too much good sound sense. But still, women could make men over; turn them into something they were never intended to be. She couldn't help remembering what Doctor Edson had said.

Gina didn't know that falling out of love could make anyone so happy. But Barbara was a changed person. She smiled at everybody, could be heard to be humming a little under her breath when not busy and always had a kind word for anyone who might be near. Strange, Gina couldn't help thinking.

One day Barbara took a minute to try to explain. "It's because I'm free, don't you understand, darling? I've been living in a deep cellar, and have suddenly emerged into the sunlight."

"Then it never was love, that is, real love," Gina said.

Barbara shook her head. "No, it wasn't real. But it was such a darn good counterfeit, I might have gone on fooling myself for years. That's why I'm happy because I found out in time." She stopped a minute then gave Gina a direct look. "There were times when it was awful, the loneliness, the constant yearning. Now when I realize I've shaken it all off just like one might an old, worn out cape—you can see why I feel as I do."

"I'm beginning to understand."

"Some of these days I'll meet a real man, if I have to go all the way to Iwo Jima. Just now. there's only one thing I really want. To get Patsy back."

"If we only could," Gina said, her eyes darkening with pain as they always did whenever she thought of Patsy.

"There is a way, darling," Barbara said and went on back to her patients.

That evening Gina was taking one of her customary strolls before going to her room, when she was suddenly joined by Phil Chester.

"There's only one thing that makes a girl walk around like this alone in the dark," he said as he came up and slipped his arm through hers.

"None of us ever get enough fresh air," she evaded.

"Are you trying to make me believe that's what's wrong with you?"

"There's nothing wrong with me, Phil."

"No. Listen, my girl, I'm a doctor; I may not be such a good one, but I can see things when they're right under my eyes. Is it Timothy? Haven't you given up hope yet, when you know he's getting ready to leave us all high and dry? His future father-in-law's orders, I understand.

"If Timothy is leaving Havenhill he has a good reason for it."

"Well, I suppose a rich wife and a wonderfully equipped laboratory would be considered sufficient reason. I'd consider it so, if it were I. But, still, I don't believe this is the reason why you're going around looking like a little white ghost. What is troubling you, if it's not Timothy?" He suddenly had a thought. "Is it this child? This Patsy something or other?"

"In a way I guess it is," Gina admitted. "You see, it's such an awful place where they took her, and no one to care for her. to love her. The very thought makes my heart ache."

"Don't you know, Gina, it's very silly of you to let yourself get thin and go on grieving about a child who's really nothing to you? I never could understand why you wanted to tie yourself down with the little tyke in the first place."

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was standing in front of her mirer this afternoon watching herself take her hat off and I said Hay ma, did you have a good time downtown this afternoon?

Such a question, who can have a good time shopping these days when you cant find a thing you're trying to buy and everything costs 5 times more than it would be werth even if it was what you wanted? ma said.

Proving I had picked out a bum question and I said, Well hay, ma, some lady called you up while you were out.

What, who? ma said, and I said, Some lady with a squeeky voice. She said she'd call you again I said.

Who was it, didn't she tell you her name? ma said, and I said, No mam, she had a squeeky voice.

Such a discription, why didn't you take a messidge? ma said. How many times must I tell you to always take a messidge when someone calls and I'm not home? she said, and I said, Well G, ma, I did take a messidge.

Well it's high time you volunteered the information for land sakes, what was the messidge? ma said, and I said, She said she would call you again.

You already told me that and I dont call it a messidge, ma said, and I said, Well anyways, ma, she had such a squeeky voice you're sure to reckonize it when you hear it, because I even rackonized it myself.

What? You told me you don't know who it was, ma said, and I said, No mam,, I just said she didn't say her name. She didn't have to because I knew it already. She was Shorty Judge's mother and she told me if I didn't tell you I broke her cellar window with my boomerang, she would tell you herself, and for you not to be serprised if she sent you the bill for having it fixed, I said.

Being the beginning of the sad part.

Windsor Council Declares War on "Gangsters, Hoodlums"

Windsor, Ont., March 7 (CP)—City council has declared war on "gangsters and hoodlums" in Windsor.

A resolution sponsored by Ald. J. Al Kennedy, who is assistant crown attorney for Essex County, was passed Tuesday night after he urged immediate action to combat gangsterism. The resolution clauses included a request for increased police personnel.

"I'm anxious for this council to tell the hoodlums and gangsters we are determined to fight to a finish," Kennedy said.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 8 —(CP)—The stock market was strong on the whole in the early hours but quiet. Only 675,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours. The industrials held an index gain of .83 at noon, the base metals were up .59 and the golds and Western oils had minor index gains.

The liquor issues were leaders in the industrial section, Hiram Walker, Distillers-Seagram and Industrial Alcohol A gaining a point or more. Prices were higher also for the steels, foods and papers.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, March 8 —(AP)— The stock market continued to reach for recovery today but without any appreciable display of animation.

The ticker tape loafed at intervals after a fairly active opening. Liquors, motors and specialties led the slow-going advance with gains of fractions to more than two points. A few notably "thin" issues enjoyed much wider jumps on a few sales. Advances were well maintained in most cases near the fourth hour.

Canadians were strong on the big board up to noon. Distillers Seagram jumped 2 1-2 points to 92, Canadian Pacific was up 1-8 at 19 3-4, Dome Mines advanced 1-4 at 26 1-4, International Nickel was ahead 1-8 at 38 1-8.

HOGS

Toronto, March 8 —(CP)— After an unsettled market with no quotations established for several days, Stratford early today reported Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs, down 50 cents cwt., at to farmers $17.75, to truckers $17.80, delivered. Quotations were unchanged at Barrie $18 delivered and Peterborough $17.15 plus transportation.

Hull reported prices down 25 cents at $18 delivered.

Brantford later reported a 50 cents drop at $17.50 plus transportation.

U.K. Wage, Price Level Must Keep Reasonably Stable

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 8 (CP Cable)— Cabinet action is impending to avoid a general upward wage surge in the wake of concerted campaigns by British workers for more pay and shorter hours, despite wartime wage increases averaging 80 per cent industries.

A labor ministry source indicated today no new compulsory wage control is intended but that a strong effort will be made to convince employers and employees that radical change in the wage structure would be dangerous during the reconversion period.

Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, has said flatly in the House of Commons there will be no wage-fixing by the government and wage adjustments will be left to existing negotiating bodies but at the same time he added:

"The government realizes the importance of seeing that wages settlements do not upset or thwart our economic structure and it is actively considering ways and means of meeting that situation"

The overall labor shortage and removal of controls on most workers could result in a general upward trend in wages as employers sought to maintain or increase staffs In the long run this would have a tendency to force upward the prices of consumer goods at a time when the administration is trying to avoid a boost in living costs, already 31 per cent higher than the pre-war level.

The government employment policy, however, is stated thus: "The level of prices and wages must be kept reasonably stable"

Increased production costs also would adversely affect Britain's all-out export drive, now gaining monentum.

Pending are decisions on wage demands by the three railway unions, the Engineering Joint Trades Council, the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, the National Union of Seamen, the Navigating Officers and Engineering Officers Union, and other labor bodies. These affect several million workers.

The Trades Union Congress, embracing almost all British unions, has been preparing a case for a general 40-hour week or submission to the government but it is not yet completed. The government view is understood to be that a 40-hour week would be fine on a long-term basis but that it is inadvisable to try to introduce it immediately in view of the current campaign for sharp production increases to boost exports and supplies for the home market.

BASKETBALL

Belleville "Y" Junior Girls won from Picton in an exhibition game played on the Picton floor Thursday evening 36-12. Picton turned out for the game with only five players, but Belleville had their full squad of 15 on hand, and loaned Picton one complete line, who scored 7 of Picton's 12 points.

Shirley Bunnett and Marg Taylor got 10 points apiece, and Barbara Kyle 7 for Belleville.

The game opened slow, but speeded up in the second quarter to see Belleville leading 16-5 at the half-way mark. In the second half the play was speedy and much closer than the score indicates. Belleville set up a zone defence that was hard to go through, and broke away for most of the points they made during the half, although they did make a few very fine passing plays that got goals.

The teams:

Belleville — Taylor 10, Kyle 7, Bunnett 10, Matthews, Delong, Tomaso 2, Wright, Holway 2, Kikes 3, Bishop 2. Total 36.

Picton — Layton 3, McKibbon, Rankin 2, Hawkins, Van Giesen, Dobbs 2, Lepore, Miller 2, Allen 3, Ketcheson. Total 12.

A return game will be played on Belleville "Y" floor on Monday, March 18th.

Fliers Waiting For Winners Of North Series

Trenton R.C.A.F. "Fliers" are still waiting patiently for the winner of the Peterborough "Legion"-Bobcaygeon series, the team they are to meet in the next round of the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" playoffs.

The Peterborough-Bobcaygeon series was to wind up in Lindsay Wednesday night but the game was called off for the very-popular-these-days reason—no ice. The game however, is slated for Friday night so come Saturday ayem, the Fliers should know who they'll have to tangle with in the next round in their quest for provincial honors.

The airmen have been trying vainly to arrange for ice in Oshawa and Kingston so they could limber up a bit but so far, have met with no success. Artificial ice in Belleville would come in mighty handy these spring-like days, not only for the Fliers but for our own Belleville "Bears" who are in the same boat while waiting to meet the Kingston "Saints."

The Fliers are very fortunate to have "Bernie" Merpaw back in harness for these "pay-off" games. Merpaw came back to take his place on the Bob "Bad Man" Murray, Johnny Perras line last Friday night against Bowmanville and marked his return by turning in a stellar performance.

If this weather keeps up, the play-offs will have to be played in either Kingston or Oshawa.

Bedridden Flier Designs New Bus to Aid Disabled

Halifax, March 9—(CP)—Blind, bedridden but indomitable Walter Callow, whose plan for a cigaret pool in 1944 brought cheers from servicemen overseas, now is organizing a fund from his bed in Camp Hill Hospital to finance his latest idea — a special bus for disabled veterans confined to wheelchairs.

Known as "The Human Log," Callow is a veteran flier of the First Great War when a plane crash led to the disability which has left him paralyzed for the last 15 years and blind for five. But motionless existence in the dark has not quelled his driving initiative to bring benefits to other veterans.

Callow's latest scheme aims to help the disabled veteran now forced to spend monotonous days in a wheelchair. Automobile manufacturers have given assurance that they can build the big carrier Callow has designed to accommodate 12 wheelchairs. Cost of the custom-built vehicle, which will have a ramp and door at the back, has not been determined but Callow is out to get it — for all 1,300 Canadian wheelchair veterans if possible.

Financing of the project has begun with the sale of a special "United Services Victory Souvenir" card, designed by Callow, who intends to sell them through school children of Nova Scotia. He has also enlisted the services of British Columbia children for wheelchair veterans on the west coast.

The case of one veteran at Camp Hill Hospital, who had been in a wheelchair for seven years and in that time left the hospital only three times, was cited by Callow who added, — "Think what it would mean to fellows like him to be able to go to baseball games, hockey games, wrestling matches, the fights — to go on a trip up the Annapolis Valley or spend a sociable evening with friends.

Planned Tobacco Bank

The wheelchair carrier is not the first product of the blind and paralyzed veteran's fertile imagination and organizing ability. Besides raising $12,000 to purchase cigarets for overseas men, he evolved the plan for the "tobacco bank" which was established in a slightly altered form by the government in 1944, delivering cigarets to men in the field three months earlier than they had previously received them.

In the campaign for special buses, more than 7,000 Victory Souvenirs have been sent out in recent weeks. Callow hopes that if the results are good both Canadian and United States governments will adopt his idea and provide enough wheelchair vehicles for the military hospitals of both countries.

"Think of it," Callow said, "for a young chap who had been active before he enlisted, to have to sit month after month, year after year, in a wheelchair with nothing to do — I tell you it is a pretty grim existence." Through his example of helpful activity, Callow also intends to convince disabled veterans now without hope, of their ability to gain happiness.

Col. J. L. Ralston, former minister of national defence, may have given some inkling during the war of the success the present scheme will have when he said if Walter Callow ever wanted something one might as well give it to him at once, because he'd get it anyway.

GAVE ATOM DATA

Dr. Alan Nunn May, British scientist who worked on the atomic bomb in Canada, has admitted giving secret atomic information to another person, but refused to disclose the person's name or nationality. Dr. May, who has been lecturing at King's College, University of London, was remanded to the Bow Street police station here for another appearance March 19. The 34-year-old Nuclear scientist was arrested and charged specifically with disclosing atomic secrets "which might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy."

300,000 Railway Workers in U.S. Postpone Walkout

Labor Front After a Week Of Threats Appears Brighter

New York, March 9 (AP)—The United States labor front, after a week marked by threatening strikes against communications and railroad systems, appeared comparatively quiet—and somewhat brighter—today.

The postponing of a walkout of nearly 300,000 railroad workers, scheduled for Monday, after President Truman named a fact-finding board followed settlement on Thursday of the wage dispute involving some 250,000 telephone workers.

As 17,300 Western Electric Company employees in New York and New Jersey ended their 65-day strike, special mediator Arthur S. Meyer in New York expressed hope a settlement might be reached soon in the 53-day work stoppage of 100,000 General Electric Company employees.

Earlier, Neil Brant of Washington, representative of the C. I. O. United Electrical Workers Union, told striking employees of the Westinghouse Company at Mansfield, O., that the company's 75,000 strikers would be back "in a couple of days" if they were offered hourly wage increases of 18 1-2 cents. The union had demanded 25 cents.

In San Francisco, international officers of the Independent Association of Machinists, ended a four-month-old strike of 7,000 machinists in Bay area shipyards, asserting it was "illegal and unsanctioned." They ordered disciplinary action against local leaders for what they termed the unauthorized walkout.

Accept 18 Cents an Hour Boost

Other striking machinists in the area, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and C.I.O., were not affected by the I.A.M.'s action. An estimated 50,000 workers have been kept idle by the machinists' strike but settlement of the shipyards dispute was expected to result in agreements on other contracts. Union spokesmen said the I.A.M. had accepted an 18-cent-hourly pay increase as against a demand of 30 per cent by strikers, members of the I.A.M.'s Lodge 68.

The C. I. O. United Auto Workers announced in Detroit that Nash-Kelvinator Company had granted an 18½-cent-hourly wage increase to 8,000 workers in plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis. The settlement was the fourth major wage agreement reached in the auto industry, Ford, Chrysler, and Hudson previously granting pay raises.

Still Stalemated

The UAW continued its negotiations with General Motors, but there were no indications of immediate settlement of the strike of 175,000 production workers. They left their jobs last Nov. 21 in support of demands for a 30-per-cent wage boost, but the union now is holding out for a raise of 19½ cents an hour, one cent more than the company's best offer.

After President Truman named a fact-finding board to study the threatened railroad strike by members of the Brotherhood of a Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, union president in Cleveland announced postponement of the walkout. They also advised general chairman of Brotherhoods on the 384 railroads where the union have members and Robert F. Cole, Secretary of the National Mediation Board.

The country's continuing labor disputes kept idle about 775,000.

U.S. Strikes At-a-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

About 775,000 idle in continuing labor disputes.

Major developments:

Railroads — Presidential fact-finding board named to study threatened railroad strike to open hearings in Chicago Tuesday; brotherhoods for nearly 300,000 workers involved announced postponement of walkout, which was scheduled for Monday.

Electrical — Special mediator in 53-day strike of 100,000 General Electric Company employees expresses hope settlement might be reached soon, as spokesman for C.I.O. United Electrical Workers Union says 75,000 strikers at Westinghouse who had demanded 25-cen-hourly wage increase, would end walkout if offered 18½.

Automotive — C. I. O. United Auto Workers, still trying to effect settlement of 109-day-old General Motors strike, says Nash-Kelvinator Company has granted 18½-cent-hourly wage boost to 8,000 workers in plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis.

Shipyards — Officers of International Machinists Union order end of four-month strike of 7,000 shipyards machinists in San Francisco Bay area, term it "illegal and unsanctioned," announce disciplinary action against local leaders; workers to get 18-cent-an-hour pay boost.

Mad Pianist to Give Radio Concert Sunday

Detroit, March 9 —(AP)— The mad pianist of Eloise, whose recent partial emergence from the limbo of insanity drew the acclaim of the music world, appeared publicly for the first time Thursday night in the audience of a Detroit Symphony concert.

The man, about 45, sat unnoticed throughout a performance at the Masonic Temple, and beside him were Dr. Ira Altshuler, local psychiatrist, and attendants from Wayne County Hospital at Eloise.

At the program's conclusion, the insane musician arose, applauded vigorously and said to Dr. Altshuler: "It was a very fine concert." It was the first coherent sentence the unnamed genius has spoken since he entered the mental institution nine years ago, after a promising musical career was interrupted by his affliction.

The musician, known to the hospital staff as "Maestro X," gave a weird and beautiful concert in Detroit Feb. 24 before 300 musicians. Their tribute to his unusual skill ranged from "genius" to a description of his playing as "exquisitely sad."

The man suffers from a form of negativism, the result of a split personality which has caused him to withdraw from contact with the world.

He will play selections from Liszt, Mozart and Chopin on a countrywide radio program Sunday night from the hospital, and will be heard on "We the People," over the Columbia Broadcasting System at 11 p.m., E.S.T., the doctor said.

Diet of Peas and Unheated Rooms Lot of Austrians During Winter

By JOHN PEET

Vienna, March 9 —(Reuters)— Austrians are emerging from a winter chiefly marked in Vienna by a diet of peas and by unheated rooms but they have escaped serious epidemics. They look forward to spring with considerable optimism, although in view of the world food situation this possibly is unjustified.

Agriculturally Austria was less hard hit by the ravages of war than at first supposed. In Lower Austria, where the heaviest fighting took place, there are still nearly 500,000 cows — 71 per cent of the peacetime figure, while the figure for sheep has risen by about 50 per cent compared to the 1938 figures.

In Syria in the British zone there are almost exactly the same number of cows as there were before the war and the number of horses has risen 40 per cent.

But cities like Vienna and towns like Weiner Neustadt are almost starving while in the surrounding countryside almost peacetime conditions prevail, because peasants are reluctant to hand over their products for paper money they consider more or less worthless.

The only remedy is for the wheels of industry to begin turning again so consumer goods come on to the market to satisfy the customers.

According to the latest estimates industry throughout the country is only working to 25 per cent of peace time capacity; but the coalition government under Chancellor Leopold Figl is making great efforts to get more factories back into production and to obtain raw materials and coal by barter arrangements with neighboring countries.

JOHN GLENNON, RECENTLY MADE CARDINAL, DIES

Journeyed to Rome For Consistory On February 21st And Was on His Way Home

Dublin, March 9 (AP)—John Cardinal Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis and the oldest of 32 Cardinals elevated to the Purple two weeks ago during consistories at Vatican City, died here today at the home of Sean O'Kelly, president of Eire. He was 83 years old.

The death was announced at President O'Kelly's residence.

The Irish-born prelate succumbed from complication which followed a congestion of the lungs.

His death reduced the membership of the Sacred College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic church to 68.

The passing of the Cardinal was announced by Msgr. John P. Cody, who said arrangements for the funeral were incomplete but that the prelate's body would be returned to St. Louis for burial.

Cardinal Glennon, who left the Irish Missionary Seminary at the age of 21 to serve in the Kansas City diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, had been a guest of Mr. O'Kelly since his arrival here from Vatican City last Monday.

He had received his red hat from Pope Pius February 21.

Cardinal Glennon was en route home from the recent consistories at Vatican City when he became ill.

The tall, white-haired Cardinal, oldest of the new members of the College of Cardinals, found it necessary to confine himself to his quarters for rest during part of his stay in Rome after the long trans-Atlantic flight and activities connected with the consistories. His physician at that time stated he was not seriously ill.

Prairie Cattle Being Diverted To Black Market

Vancouver, March 9 (CP) — Prairie cattle are being "diverted" from possible British Columbia markets by eastern black market operators buying at increased prices, Richard J. Burns, Vancouver manager of Burns and Company, packers, charged last night.

Coupled with a quota system restricting B. C. packing firms to 1940-41 volume, this may mean an "increasingly tighter" supply situation in summer and fall, worse than any experienced before, he said in an interview.

"There is undoubtedly an extensive black market in Eastern Canada diverting livestock east," he said. "B. C. depends on the Prairies for winter supply."

The "black market buying" is raising the price of livestock to packers, he claimed, and as the price of dressed meat can not be raised accordingly, companies are losing money on slaughtering.

Oscar V. Pearson, manager of Swift Canadian Limited in British Columbia, agreed that there would be a "tight supply," but added there would be livestock "if the price was right."

"Eastern buyers," he said, "are sending prices up."

The "Bat" Radar Guided Bomb Automatically Pursued Ships to Death

New York, March 9 —(AP)— The Bat, a glider-bomb with radar in its nose, by which it automatically tracked enemy warships and merchantmen for miles, twisting and turning with them, until it hit the target, was announced today by the Bell Telephone laboratories. The navy authorized the announcement.

The Bat is another of the war's secret weapons. It is the counterpart of the proximity fuse, that exploded shells when they were within 75 feet of the target. The Bat differs in having a guiding range of several miles and exploding when it hits.

The new weapon is a glider about 12 feet long, with a 10-foot wing spread. It is dropped by a mother-plane. In its nose are about 200 pounds of radar and automatic controls. The nose sends radar impulses to the target and picks them up as they are reflected back. The pick-up automatically guides the glider. The bomb behind the nose weighs about half a ton.

The name comes from the fact that a Bat guides itself in flight in a somewhat similar manner, using super-sound waves instead of radar. In fact before the Bat's sound device was discovered it was guessed that bats used some sort of natural radar.

The glider bat went into action in 1945. The announcement said the weapon crash-dived many tons of Japanese shipping. The only bat combat report released by the navy was one of the first, when two mother-planes sighted two Jap destroyers at a distance of 20 miles. From beyond the range of the Jap anti-aircraft guns, the mother planes dropped their bats. One glided straight to a destroyer and blew off the ship's bow. The fate of the other destroyer was not told.

For night work, the mother plane carried a radar scope set up so that whatever her bat spotted was visible to the pilot. He would release the Bat, after first having made certain that the ship spotted by the Bat's radar was enemy.

The development of the weapon began in April, 1942, by the Navy Bureau of Ordnance and the National Defence Research Council. Designing of the radar control was given to the Bell laboratories. The final models were built by the Western Electric Company.

The tests, on an old freighter, were made in the autumn of 1944. Eleven bats were dropped. One scored a direct hit, two others skip-bombed the target, four skimmed overhead harmlessly, three fell short and one went wild in a crosswind.

The big problem was to learn what had gone wrong with the bats whose impacts had destroyed them. That was solved by an unidentified hero who rode astride radar equipment fixed to the front of the gondola of a blimp. His instruments told what was happening in the automatic controls of nearby flying bats as they tracked targets. In that way the Bat was finally perfected.

'DEAD MEN DON'T TALK' BANDIT TELLS TAXIMAN

Driver Forced to Back Seat After Beachville Bank Robbed of Nearly $600

Beachville, Ont., March 9 (CP) —"Dead men don't talk!"

The gun-slinging bandit who late yesterday robbed the Beachville branch of the Bank of Montreal, snarled these words at taxi driver George Cousins and forced him, terrified, to the back seat floor of his cab.

Then, Cousins told police, the bandit forced Cousins out, took over the vehicle himself and completed his getaway from a robbery which netted him between $200 and $600.

"The gun looked like a cannon," Cousins, whose taxi was engaged at nearby Ingersoll, declared. "I can tell you I prayed to God right then. I pleaded with him not to shoot me. I told him I was a widower with three small children and I didn't know what would happen to the kids if he shot me.

"I don't know whether he felt sorry for me, but he finally took the gun away from my head and let me out of the car. He told me if I waited right there on the road he would bring the car back and give me a good tip... when he got out of sight I started climbing fences heading for the nearest house as fast as I could move."

The car later was found abandoned and undamaged at Woodstock, five miles west of here. Police blocked all roads in the area.

Overlooked Two Bags

Bank officials said the bandit overlooked two bags containing money being transferred to another bank.

Grannie to Move In Two Months

Weston, Ont., March 9 —(CP) —Grannie made up her mind last night — but definitely. She isn't going to move from her home here for two months.

Grannie is 84-year-old Mrs. Catherine Ferguson, who since Tuesday has defied efforts to evict her, together with her 61-year-old daughter Mary and her unemployed son, George, 41, from the five-room, two-storey house they have occupied since 1936.

It was decided last night that Mrs. Ferguson will be allowed to remain in the house for two more months and then two rooms will be available in the nearby home of Raymond Lynch.

The arrangement was arrived at when the owner of the house occupied by Mrs. Ferguson, Arthur Bredin, met a committee of friends and neighbors, who had rallied to raise funds to help Mrs. Ferguson fight eviction proceedings.

SOLDIER ARRESTED ON RAPE AND THEFT CHARGE

Espanola Woman Victim of Brutal Attack in Her Home

Espanola, Ont., March 9 (CP)—James Clark, 21-year-old soldier, was to appear in court today on charges of rape and theft following an assault on a woman yesterday afternoon in this town 40 miles west of Sudbury.

Clark was arrested by Provincial Police a few hours after carpenters calling at the home of an Espanola resident surprised a soldier in the act of assaulting the woman. The man escaped by the back door. The carpenters said the assailant had apparently tried to choke the woman after committing rape.

Police said that the woman answered the door when a man appeared asking if there was a room to rent, but the man pushed his way inside and attacked the woman. On a description given by the victim and by the carpenters police arrested Clark at his home.

The theft charge involves jewelry worth about $100 stolen when another residence was broken into in the early hours.

Accused was taken to Sudbury last night and will appear in Magistrate's Court today but preliminary hearing of the rape charge will be held here.

Mother's Dream Of Son in Trouble Proves too True

Sarasota, Fla., March 9 (AP)—A coroner's jury investigation of the deaths of two fishermen aboard a pilotless craft in the Gulf of Mexico developed a story of strange coincidence.

Mrs. Nellie Lanius of St. Petersburg told the jury she was awakened by a dream that her 50-year-old son, Ray, was in trouble.

Impelled by the dream, Mrs. Lanius said she boarded a bus for Sarasota, arriving two hours before Ray and Frank Nisher, 52, commercial fishermen of Nokomis, a nearby village, were found dead.

The boat, without guide, chugged around the gulf for an hour early yesterday before running aground on the beach at Treasure Island, about 18 miles south of Sarasota.

The coroner's jury returned a finding last night of death from unknown causes, but concluded the most likely was carbon monoxide from the open engine-pit.

CHINA DECIDES ON FIVE-YEAR PLAN OF RAILS, ROADS

Three New Railroads And 12,000 Miles Of Highways Will Be Constructed

Chungking, March 9 —(AP)— A five-year plan of highway and railway construction for China was announced to the Kuomintang Congress yesterday by Communications Minister Yu Fei-Peng. Yu said the government planned to build 12,000 miles of highways and construct three new railroads.

Chungking, March 9 —(AP)— A Chinese Central News Agency dispatch said today that Soviet authorities, after investigation of the slaying of eight Chinese Central Government officials Jan. 18, announced that "bandits" were responsible for the murders. The Russian announcement said Soviet investigators found that Chang Hsi-Fu, economics commissioner for Manchuria, and his seven assistants had been kidnapped from a train and killed.

All-Night Rain Adds to Flood Menace in Ontario

Toronto, March 9 (CP)—A new element today entered the Southern Ontario flood situation as an all-night rain checked the recession of swollen rivers and raised the possibility of further damage.

But from the weathermen came heartening word that a cold wave, which might end flood worries for the present, was on its way.

In the Hamilton area, rain yesterday and last night made the situation increasingly serious, especially southeast of Hamilton in the section between Caledonia and Cayuga.

In that vicinity water was three feet deep on the highway and traffic was halted as the Grand River went on a rampage.

Heavy rain flooded streets at Wallaceburg last night and residents said it might delay recession of the Sydenham River which has been two or three feet above normal for several days.

At London, residents expected little immediate threat of flood damage. The Thames River had dropped seven feet since Thursday when it reached its peak of 16 feet five inches.

Officials on the Grand River Conservation Commission at Brantford, credited the Grand Valley dam near Fergus, with holding back flood waters during the Grand River break-ups this winter.

London last night experienced its first thunderstorm of this year. It came on the heels of a rainstorm and lasted half an hour.

St. Thomas area farmers say the maple syrup season would be poor this year if mild weather continued.

Reds Accuse U.S. Of Infringing On Three-Power Pact

Claim Agreement Broken With Respect to Bulgaria

By GRAHAM HOVEY

Washington, March 9— (AP)— A new tension beset troubled Russo-American relations today with radio Moscow charging the United States violated a Big Three agreement on Bulgaria and is working to sabotage it.

The State Department has not yet acknowledged receipt of the sharp note from the Kremlin, but the Soviet broadcast reported it already had been delivered, and responsible officials here said privately that a reply already was being drafted.

The development capped an uneasy week which already has seen the United States register protests with Moscow on the situation in Iran and Manchuria, in line with the new sterner policy for international relations.

A State Department spokesman said there probably would be no official comment on the Soviet blast until secretary Byrnes returns to Washington. Mr. Byrnes was reported at his home in Spartanburg, S.C., for the week-end.

Officials admitted privately, however, that restoration of Bulgaria to a global list of trouble spots which may possibly extend to include Turkey had considerably widened the gulf of misunderstanding between the United States and Russia.

Declines to Discuss

Nikolai V. Novikov, Charge D'Affaires of the Soviet Embassy, delivered a note on the Bulgarian problem to Mr. Byrnes Wednesday. Mr. Byrnes declined to disclose its contents at his press conference yesterday, but last night the Moscow radio put out what purported to be the substance.

It said the American message to Bulgaria urged opposition leaders to seek "disruption" of the Moscow agreement, and charged the United States had acted "unilaterally," although copies of the communication were sent also to Britain and Russia.

The sharp nature of the Moscow attack prompted gloomy forecasts in Washington the tone of the forthcoming Russian answers to pending communications, one dealing with Iran and the other with Manchuria.

The note on Iran asked Russia to withdraw Red Army troops from that Middle Eastern country immediately.

Churchill Not Perturbed When Team Of Horses Threatens to Run Away

Williamsburg, Va., March 9 (AP) — Winston Churchill and Gen. Eisenhower narrowly escaped injury yesterday when two frightened horses harnessed to an open coach in which they were seated bucked and threatened to run away.

The near-accident forced cancellation of a scheduled horse-drawn tour of this aged colonial capital of Old Virginia.

Outside the rebuilt, picturesque and beautiful "palace" remodelled after the home of His Majesty's Colonial Governor, the 72-year-old wartime Prime Minister and the United States Army Chief of Staff climbed aboard the flimsy, horse-drawn coach.

Suddenly, photographers' flashbulbs startled the horses drawing the coach. As the horses reared, women screamed and State policemen shouted. Negro coachmen, in traditional liveries, struggled to quiet the frightened animals.

Amid a hectic scene of confusion and commotion, Mr. Churchill settled his hat a bit firmer on his head and took a deep puff of his long black cigar. Eisenhower reached over to grasp his elbow. Part of the harness snapped.

But perhaps the calmest woman in the crowd was Mrs. Churchill.

As one member of her party protested, "Gracious, to think that they had to come through the war to face this," she turned to say quietly of the coachman:

"He's a good driver. They'll be all right."

As hundreds of excited persons milled around the coach, officials of colonial Williamsburg, Inc., held a hurried consultation and changed their plans.

Out of the carriage climbed Mr. Churchill and Gen. Eisenhower and down the street they trudged. A sweating, worried Scotland Yard inspector, Mr. Churchill's bodyguard, mustered a handful of stocky Virginia policemen to encircle them as they walked and thus protect them from being overrun by the throng. Mr. Churchill blithely swung his cane.

In the Burton Parish Church, Mr. Churchill and his party found a few minutes' sanctuary from the crowd.

"I am afraid we've let you down," apologized John D. Rockefeller III, chairman of the occasion and host at a dinner for the British statesman last night.

"Don't mind, old boy," smiled Mr. Churchill. "I am having a lot of fun. I am enjoying it."

Overseas Closeups Of Canada's Forces

With The Canadian Forces Overseas, March 9 (CP)—At a farewell dinner given to the mayor, mayoress and prominent citizens of Torquay at the closing of the R.C.A.F. Repatriation Depot, Group Capt. J. A. Hutchison of Edmonton presented the South Devon holiday resort with a flag which once flew from Overseas Headquarters of the R.C.A.F.

The flag, with its central roundel a red maple leaf, will fly from Torquay Town Hall every Dominion Day and similar occasions.

Since VE-Day, the depot, which was commanded by Group Capt. Hutchison, has repatriated 33,000 Canadian airmen and women. It now has been moved to Topcliffe, Yorkshire.

When Lieut. W. M. Therien, Ottawa, was sent with 20 trucks to Friesoythe railway station in Germany on a "hush-hush" job, he didn't expect Lieut. R. H. Ashman of Brockville, Ont., to tell him 359 "important" war criminals and 213 witnesses were on an incoming train.

Guarded by one British officer and 30 men, the prisoners, with ranks ranging from major-general to private, were bundled into the trucks and driven to Esterwegen detention camp. The camp, commanded by Maj. S. L. Dymond of Toronto, is guarded by Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa.

Amsterdam is the only point within the Canadian Army Occupation Force area, where arrangements can be made for telephone calls to Canada. It usually takes four or five days to get a call through and the cost is 10 guilders ($4) a minute.

The 21st Army Group Officers' hotels in Paris have become leave centres for personnel of the Canadian Army Occupation Force. The Albany for officers and the St. James for other ranks, were operated by Supervisor Paul Willison and Assistant-Supervisor Miss Jean Cox, both of Toronto, for 12 months, but Willison now is on his way home and Supervisor A. Thomas, also Toronto, carries on the work.

The St. James has a film show each night and a dance four times a week.

The biggest thrill of two wars for Pte. Beatrice Freeman, C.W.A.C. of Toronto, was her return to Calais the same date she left it 26 years ago.

Pte. Freeman was returning from privileged leave in England when she docked in Calais Dec. 31, 1945. On Dec. 31, 1919, she sailed from Calais to England to be demobilized from the British W.A.A.C.'s

Born in Staffordshire, England, Pte. Freeman was a schoolteacher until 1918 when she joined the W.A.A.s. After demobilization she went to Canada to join her brother and sister in Toronto.

DID NOT WASTE TIME

Bern, Switzerland, March 9—(AP)—Alice Ziebel, 23-year-old Red Cross girl from Oshkosh, Wis., didn't waste a minute on her seven-day furlough tour of Switzerland. She fell in love with her Swiss guide, Ernst Steve Weber, and they were married in Lugano.

OUTSTANDING DANCE BAND TO PLAY AT PICTON ARMOURIES

Considered by musical experts as being possibly the most outstanding dance band in Canada today, Ellis McLintock and his orchestra will appear at the Picton Armouries tonight where they will play at a Picton Rotary Club dance. Although only 24 years old Ellis McLintock is considered one of the greatest trumpet players and has already been featured with Leopold Stokowski and his All-Youth Orchestra in a tour of the United States some four years ago. He formed his own sixteen-piece dance band two years ago.

Lovely Judy Richards, one of Canada's best known girl vocalists, is featured by Ellis McLintock. Miss Richards has made several coast-to-coast tours across Canada with Mart Kenney and Bert Niosi.

Be faithful to your skin care says helena rubinstein

In winter time, more than ever, your skin needs constant every-day beauty care. Harsh wind and weather, added to the extra hazards of soot and dust, are hard on a woman's complexion. To make your winter beauty care simple but effective, we recommend these two time-tested formulas.

Pasteurized Face Cream — Soothes and protects your skin from harsh wind and weather. In two formulas—one for dry and one for oily skins. 1.25 to 2.75

Beauty Grains — Use these purifying little granules, instead of soap, to cleanse your pores to their depths. Even after a single washing, your skin is clearer, whiter, finer! 1.25

Many Trappers Take out Licence To Hunt Muskrats

The reported substantial increase in the number of muskrat houses in natural habitats of the animals in this area, has resulted in the trapping urge springing up in many breasts this year which hitherto did not bother with the spring source of revenue.

Over seventy-five trappers have applied for trapping licenses already this season, Ed Thomas, issuer, said today, adding that this represents the largest number sold here in a number of years.

The earliest on record, the official season for trapping muskrats south of Highway No. 7 opened today.

In the mild spell six weeks ago, it is reported, the rats appeared ahead of the groundhogs and were seen running about fields near the marshes in which they were wintering. Recent mild weather has been opening creeks and generally setting the stage for the rats to appear for their Spring running.

The official decision of the department of Game and Fisheries is giving trappers an opportunity to set their traps in the marshes and along the banks of rivers.

Roads in South Part of County In Bad Shape

Unseasonable mild weather and recent rains, have drawn out deep frost so rapidly from the county roads and bridges system that many roads particularly in the southern part of Hastings are in extremely bad shape, County Engineer W. L. Langlois stated today.

All are rough, some are very soft and others have definitely bad holes and frost boils which call for careful driving on the part of motorists and truckers.

"In a few places," the engineer said, "water has covered short stretches of road, but flooding to date has not been severe with the exception of Mudcat Lane, Foxboro, on which water is so deep for a considerable distance that the road is now closed to all traffic. Users of this road are warned," Mr. Langlois said, "that it will probably be closed for some time."

Truckers are requested to reduce their loads immediately to minimize damage, and if a freeze-up does not occur within the next day or so, half-loading regulations will be put into effect.

Saturday Market

Egg prices held steady at last week's quotations of 40 cents per dozen on the local produce market on Saturday with mediums bringing 35 cents the dozen.

Fowl offering was not large and sold steadily at 40 to 45 cents, while a few capons were offered at 55 cents the pound.

On the outside market one vendor quickly disposed of his Spy and McIntosh apples at 85 and 75 cents the 6-qt. basket, while on the vegetable market potatoes were quickly bought up at 50 cents the peck. Sauerkraut sold at 15 cents the quart and a few winter vegetables at 50 cents the peck. Cooking onions were 75 cents the peck.

Two or three loads of mixed stovewood were offered at from $14 to $15 the cord.

Obituary

EDWIN HUBLE
(Campbellford — Bonarlaw)

Allan's Mills, March 9 — (Special)— Death came suddenly to Edwin Huble of Campbellford on Monday, March 4th.

The late Mr. Huble was a lumberman of many years' experience and was engaged as foreman by J. E. Ayrhart Wood and Lumber Co., at Bonarlaw, and while engaged in felling trees that had become lodged Mr. Huble was struck by one when it fell. Assisted by his men he was taken by Keith Brown to the office of Dr. Carleton, Stirling, but passed away before reaching the office, where examination showed his neck was broken.

His sudden death has created much regret in the district.

Born at Oak Lake, Mr. Huble was in his 62nd year. He was a member of a hunting club and members attended the funeral service on Wednesday afternoon.

The service was conducted at his late residence, Campbellford, and was in charge of Rev. Mr. Maxwell and Rev. Mr. Wilkinson.

The pall bearers were C. Bertram, Harry Waters, H. McKelvie, F. Rowe, R. Rowe, O. Mason.

The flower bearers were ten neighbors and fellow workers.

Left to mourn his loss are his widow the former Ada Post; one son, Elton; four daughters, Mrs. Morley (Madge) Tanner, Campbellford; Mrs. Gerald (Iva) Burkitt, Bonarlaw; Faye and Marion at home; one granddaughter, Shirley Burkitt; two brothers, Sam, of Acton, and Albert of British Columbia; and four sisters Mrs. Mary Peters and Mrs. Emma Emery, Peterborough; Mrs. Ada McCausland, Gormley, Ont.; Mrs. Peter Buchanan, Havelock.

Interment in Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock.

LATE SHERWOOD GERALD SCOTT
(Foxboro)

The funeral of Sherwood Gerald Scott, late residence Foxboro, took place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, on Friday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Foxboro cemetery was conducted by the Rev. J. W. MacDonald, minister of the Foxboro Presbyterian Church.

The bearers were William Woods, Herbert Watts, Edward Clarke, Lorne Herman, R. B. Hamilton and George Hicks.

MISS ELEANOR HOLMES
(Picton)

Picton, March 9 (Special) — Librarian here for the past 37 years, Miss Eleanor Holmes passed away at the home of E. H. Kelly here yesterday. She suffered a heart attack on Tuesday. In her passing, one of the best known residents of the town is mourned. During her long service at Picton Public Library, her pleasing personality and high qualities, won her wide esteem. In January, she was forced to relinquish the position due to a heart attack suffered in September.

Miss Holmes was a devoted member of the Anglican church and was all her life prominent in the activities of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene here. She served as president of the Women's Association and as secretary-treasurer for Life Members of the W.A. in the Diocese of Ontario. For 25 years, she served as organist and choir leader of this church. She held a high place where the arts and music were appreciated, being especially gifted in appreciation of music and literature. She was a member of the Tennyson Club.

Born in England, she came to Canada with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Hedley Holmes, in 1907. Her father was registrar for Prince Edward County for nearly 30 years.

The funeral will take place to the Church of St. Mary Magdalene Monday morning and will be conducted by Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, with entombment at Glenwood Cemetery.

Survivors are five brothers, Ven. Archdeacon George Hedley Holmes, Ganges, B.C.; Rev. John H. A. Holmes, Dean of Divinity at King's College, Halifax, N.S.; Lt.-Col. Arthur W. Holmes, R. C. A. M. C., Halifax; Leslie T. Holmes, principal of Wellington St. School, St. Thomas; Sidney D. Holmes, Ontario Department of Education, Toronto.

Absent Minded Shopper Gets Unpleasant Jolt

There is at least one local shopper who will hang tightly to his purchases the next time he goes on a shopping tour for the family requirements. The reason is that he lost his parcels in a rather simple manner on Friday.

The particular shopper, laden with his parcels, emerged from a Front Street store and seeing a friend outside a tobacco store, paused momentarily to talk. Unthinkingly he placed his parcels atop a parked auto and becoming so interested in conversation failed to notice the car owner drive away.

Suddenly the shopper remembered his parcels, but already it was too late. He looked up just in time to see his parcels turning the next corner, still atop the moving auto.

Relief Supplies Being Rushed To Hunan Province

Shanghai, March 9 (Reuters)— Relief supplies, chiefly flour, used clothing and medicine, are being rushed to war-ravaged Hunan province and Manchuria following reports describing the plight of millions of men, women and children in these areas.

Prompt action is essential to save some 1,500,000 lives in Hunan, says Horatio Hawkins, American representative of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in that province. Mr. Hawkins said 100,000 workers may be employed on road building work and these would be paid mainly in food. But there were thousands more for whom relief must be provided as well as doctors and medical supplies.

Surveys are being carried out by U.N.R.R.A. and the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation (C.N.R.R.A.) to determine the province's needs.

Plans suggested to provide work for the needy include the improvement of waterways and irrigation systems, road building, rebuilding of homes for war victims, help in rebuilding of hospitals, and work in mining and industrial fields.

In Manchuria, the need for immediate relief is almost as urgent. Pan Shiao-O, director of CNRRAs relief department, who has returned here from a 10-day tour of the northeastern provinces, said people in Manchuria are clad in thin, scanty clothing although the temperature has fallen at times below zero.

He said disease and pestilence are spreading fast and that Bubonic plague was reported to have broken out 40 miles from Changchun, the capital.

Food and transport were scarce in all areas.

Proceed With Plans to Form Flying Club

"Interest of residents of the city and district as exemplified in the meeting Friday night fully justifies our going ahead with former tentative plans to form and organize a Belleville Flying Club," said Charles M. Cawker, who with Messrs. Malcolm Robb and W. J. Brown, all experienced fliers were instrumental in the birth of the idea and of extensive groundwork prior to the meeting.

"I would say that over sixty people including thirteen ladies were present to hear potential plans and to discuss the possibility of the formation of the club. The result was very gratifying and former plans will now be put into execution," he added.

Mr. Robb will immediately arrange for a charter for the new flying organization, and as it was pointed out at the meeting, the fullest co-operation of the Royal Canadian Air Force Flying Club Association as regard to the procuring of two Tiger Moth aircraft through the facilities of the War Assets Distribution Corporation, is assured.

The meeting was more or less of a "feeler" in an effort to ascertain the attitude of fliers and non-flying people in the city and district, Mr. Cawker said. If the interest shown at the meeting had been nil, the project would probably have been dropped, but the presence of so many people now justifies proceeding with original plans.

Nine former R.C.A.F. instructors were noted among those present while an aeronautical engineer also was there. Gratifying to those in charge was the fact that thirteen ladies were present.

Efforts will be made in the immediate future or directly after the permanent organization of the club which will be completed in the near future, to secure either the Mountain View or Deseronto flying fields for the use of the club.

SARDINE NOT DWARF

The true sardine is not a dwarf fish, but the young of the pilchard, a species of herring.

The Good Old Days Really Had Something When it Came to Low Repair Costs to Family Chariot

In the present age of high labor charges and equally high maintenance costs for the upkeep of the family chariot, it would, indeed, be unusual to have the tank filled with gasoline, have the oil replenished and to acquire what seems like a major motor overhaul, all for the sum of four dollars and fifteen cents.

But just that amount is what Mr. John Doherty, local railroader, paid back in 1911 when he drove his then modern McLaughlin into a Peterboro garage for repairs.

Included on the bill was an item of 80 cents for four gallons of gasoline; 30 cents for three pints of "cylinder" oil; 30 cents for a carbide lamp burner and $2.75 labor charges for "grinding valves and cages, relining motor, cleaning spark and throttle gears, adjusting carbureter and cleaning spark plugs." Total amount of the bill was $4.15.

Driving Since 1909

Possibly one of the oldest motor car owners and drivers in the Belleville district, Mr. Doherty has been "driving" since 1909 when he purchased his first Model 8 McLaughlin with its two forward speeds. Then living in Lindsay, he had the above repairs effected on one of his trips to Peterboro.

Indication that present day service stations and garages are the outgrowth of carriage manufacturing businesses is the fact that the repairs on Mr. Doherty's auto were made by the "McLaughlin Carriage Company."

Although there were no speed limits on highways 37 years ago, the condition of roads and limitations of automobiles and tires proved sufficient to keep highway speeds within reason, according to Mr. Doherty. Then it took a good five hours to drive from Lindsay to Belleville and the driver knew he had been over the road.

Spring, Spring, Beautiful Spring

Irrefutable evidence is being produced that the girl in the diaphanous garments, has loosed her glamor guns on Old Man Winter and sent him scuttling for cover and a Ponce de Leon fountain of youth.

Red-breasted robins have been seen and heard in the city. The scarlet-breasted harbingers of the vernal season have moved in apparently, and hurled defiance at cold weather advocates.

Red-winged blackbirds, home from the sunny south are holding chirpy conclaves in swampy areas of the district such as along the Bay Bridge road.

Rural youths, aided and abetted by smiling oldsters, are shrilling the cry "Sap's Runnin' " in many parts of the district.

Sap Running Freely

Said to be one of the earliest seasons in years, the current tapping of majestic maples is said to be productive of gushing spouts and frenzied activities on the part of syrup makers. During the past few days the sap has been running consistently in one of the heaviest yields in some time.

The Moira River, under the spell of warm weather, is gradually shaking off its shackles of winter ice. The fields are gradually breaking up and the lower stretches of the river are marked with upflung jagged ice fields that are being held in check by the solid areas near the Canadian Pacific Railway Bridge.

On the street, pert young things are regretfully musing over putting that new fur coat in storage. Bobby-soxers, moon-eyed with anticipation of what warm zephyrs and new Spring toggery will do to the sweatered swains, are in the throes of delicious day-dreaming.

The teen-age lads already have that off-with-the-old-on-with-the-new look on beardless faces, and are busy thinking up new "jive" lines to greet the Spring crop of young lovelies.

Affects Head of House, Too

The nice weather has struck at the head of the house, too. Already, the conversation is switching from who will win the Stanley Cup to what chances there are of getting new rods and reels. It is understood a few have already dug out putters from winter hibernation and have indulged in a few practice swings in the living room, when the spouse is out figuring how much butter she can get during the next two weeks.

Seriously, according to Toronto reports, agricultural men are keeping their fingers crossed, eyeing the thermometer and murmuring incantations to the gods which protect fruit trees. They are hoping, that the warm weather will not start any kindred sap running in orchard trees.

Warm Air from South

The recent "bursting out" of Spring, it is explained by meteorological officials, is due to a flow of warm air from the Gulf of Mexico. The immediate prospects are for a slight decrease in temperature in the next two days, with no decided change before Sunday.

Maximum temperatures for the first week of March have been even higher than they were last year but then the false "Spring" did not arrive until mid-month. Between March 12 and 31 the temperature did not drop below 45 and toward the end of the month reached 74 degrees.

Fruit experts claim that a warm March need do little harm to fruit crops unless followed by a sudden change to below-freezing temperatures. Last year's crop failure was caused by excessively high temperatures followed by a freeze and by wet weather in the blossom period.

City Owned Lots Sold to Returned Veterans for Nominal Sum of $1

That city fathers intend to show appreciation to returned veterans planning to build homes within the city limits was shown at Thursday night's council committee meeting when three discharged men were sold city-owned building lots for a nominal sum of one dollar each.

Three applications from as many returned veterans for the purchase of lots were tabled at the meeting with councillors accepting the offer to purchase and then making a virtual gift of the lots. Satisfactory proof of overseas service will have to be furnished by the applicants. Returned men seeking lots were W. L. Glover who wanted a lot on Yeomans Street, and John Ronsky and Alfred Rowbotham, both of whom wished to purchase lots on Emily Street.

Other Lots Sold

Other city owned lots were recommended sold including three lots on Emily Street to Ross McKenna, John Frost and George Rowbotham; a Cannifton Road lot to Mrs. P. Gilbey and a lot on South Holloway Street to George Kingston.

As result of petitions being received from taxpayers requesting new sidewalks in certain areas of the downtown district, councillors recommended that they advertise the intention of building new sidewalk on the west side of Front Street from Bishop's Seed Store to the McColl Frontenac service station and from Zeller's Store to the Upper Bridge. New walks are also planned for the south side of Bridge Street from Front Street to Church Street, and on the south side of Campbell Street from Front Street to Pinnacle.

To Widen Street

Also under public works the city engineer was authorized to make preparations to begin widening Mount Pleasant Road according to plans of last year, and also to restore to original condition the boulevard and street pavement on east and west Bridge Streets, cost of same to be charged to Bell Telephone.

Four new street lights were recommended placed on Purdy Street, and also a new light on Charlotte Street. One new fire extinguisher was recommended for the fire department as well as the purchase of four new helmets and a new truck tire.

On motion of Alderman E. E. Follwell it was recommended that a quarter page advertisement be placed in "Canadian Vacations" magazine at a cost of $85. Materials and cuts for the advertisement will be supplied through the council tourist and publicity committee.

A pool room licence was granted to L. Wayne Francis, 61 East Dundas Street, Mr. Francis proposes opening a four-table pool room and to stock soft drinks and tobacco.

Extensive Program Planned For Quinte Seed Fair

Considerably more than normal interest is being shown in the 20th annual seed fair scheduled for Napanee on March 14-15-16 by the Quinte District Seed Growers' Association. Exhibit entries for the show are expected to be well over those of last year, according to fair manager, Howard R. Parnell, of Belleville.

A three-day program culminating with an auction sale of all grain, small seeds and potatoes on exhibition is planned for the show, while there will be a boys' seed judging competition and addresses by prominent department of Agriculture officials.

Friday evening there will be a banquet at which Watson Porter, editor in chief of the Farmers' Advocate, London, will be the guest speaker. Winners of the judging competition will be announced by A. H. Martin, and trophies will be presented.

Many Special Prizes

Besides the open classes for cereal grains and small seeds for which cash prizes are offered by the association, there are many special classes, including the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Special with suitable trophy valued at $25, awarded to the exhibitor winning the highest amount of prize money in Classes 1 to 26. The T. Eaton Co. Ltd. Special will go to the exhibitor winning highest amount of money in the regular oat, barley, wheat and buckwheat classes.

One of the features of the show will be the junior section in which boys and girls over 14 and under 21 years are eligible to compete. A pure bred Ayrshire heifer calf donated by Le Moines Point Farm, Portsmouth, Brodie Ness, manager, will go to the championship winner in the junior section.

R. Brodie Ness is honorary president of the Association, while Oscar Parks of Bloomfield, is president. Vice presidents are John Rickard of Newcastle, and B. C. Jackson, of Enterprise. Fair Secretary is C. W. Buchanan, of Napanee.

Struck by Car, Child Injured

Struck by a passing motor car as he attempted to cross North Front Street after being let out of school, eight-year-old Edward Wallbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wallbridge, Henry Street, had his left leg injured Friday afternoon. Ligaments of the leg were torn with a possibility of the member being broken, according to reports.

Driver of the car which struck the lad carried the injured boy to King George School following the accident, but failed to report the incident to police. Although still at home this morning, the injured boy will be taken to hospital for X-rays to determine if the leg is broken.

A second lKng George School student, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howard, Boswell Street, received a nasty bite in the face from a police dog as he was returning from school at noon on Friday. The incident occurred near the Belle Cleaners. dG kecpet cmfwy ETAOI NN

Daylight Saving Time Begins April 28th

Like many other urban centres across the Dominion, the city of Belleville will go on daylight saving time this coming summer it was decided by council members at their Thursday evening committee meeting. Councillors recommended that the city go on "fast time" on the last Sunday in April (28th) and continue on daylight saving time until the last Sunday in September. This would be in accordance with the schedule adopted by Canadian railways.

IN MEMORIAM

PIGDEN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Joseph Pigden, who passed away one year ago today.

One year has passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell;
The flowers we placed upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
What would I give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to see,
To hear her voice and see her smile
That meant so much to me.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Margaret O'Connor and family.

BOURETTE, Alberta—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away on March 10th, 1930.

Gone dear mother: gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by family.

CROSS — In loving memory of my dear mother, Minnie Cross, who passed away two years ago, March 10th., 1944.

Gone, but not forgotten.
—Ever remembered by son William of Corbyville.

COMMANDER ARRIVES IN TOKYO

Lieut.-General John Northcott, commander-in-chief of British Commonwealth forces in Japan, is shown (left) with Lieut.-General G. H. TEACH VETERANS SEXING CHICKS

Winnipeg (CP)—One of the most specialized and limited fields in Canada—the little known art of chick sexing — is broadening in scope under the guidance of a young Winnipeg couple.

Ray and Bernice Hansey, two of the 404 chick sexers in the Dominion, are operating under government supervision the only school of its kind in Canada, teaching eight former servicemen and women the secret.

Chick sexing, the science of separating cockerels from pullets, was introduced to Canada 13 years ago by the Japanese, from whom the Hanseys learned it.

"A good chick sexer must have a keen eye and a quick hand," Mr. Hansey says, and for that reason the students picked are all young, ranging in age from 18 to 25.

The two girls in the class, Ina and Alma Dougall, wanted to take the course so that they could be independent. "We always raised poultry at home," explained 20-year-old Ina, "and last spring we worked in hatcheries."

Although chick sexing is a seasonal work—only March, April and May—the pay is good at about half a cent per chick, especially with specialists like the Hanseys who between them can sex 3,000 chicks an hour.

At completion of the six-weeks' course, however, the students, picked from over 100 applicants, will be able to sex 600 an hour. "It takes years to get your speed up," Mr. Hansey said.

The course costs each student $300.

"That may seem a lot," Mr. Hansey said, "but we furnish everything."

CANADIAN ARTISTS FORM NEW COUNCIL

Toronto (CP)—The newly-formed Canadian Arts Council recently elected Ernest Fosbery of Ottawa as its honorary president. Herman Voaden of Toronto was elected president.

The new organization, composed of representatives of 16 Canadian cultural groups, was formed to continue the work of the temporary Arts Reconstruction Committee.

Claude E. Lewis, secretary, said: "It is the purpose of the Canadian Arts Council to give assistance to all persons or organizations interested in the cultural development of Canada."

The Council would interest itself in any projects which may serve the cultural development of Canada to give aid or inspiration to Canadian artists.

SAYS VON PAPEN IN 1945 ASKED SWEDEN'S KING TO NEGOTIATE PEACE

Stockholm, March 9 (Reuters)—A Swedish foreign office representative Thursday night agreed with a statement by Franz von Papen, former Nazi diplomat now facing trial as a war criminal by the Nuernberg tribunal, that he asked 87-year-old King Gustav of Sweden to negotiate peace in Europe.

While German ambassador to Turkey in 1945 Von Papen wrote to King Gustav asking him to act as intermediary for peace, the Swedish foreign office representative said.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR GOLD MINING IN SOUTH AFRICA

Johannesburg (CP)—Despite closing in 1945 of two of the 46 big mines and notice of intention to close by five others, gold mining interests of the Union of South Africa are confident that wartime difficulties of supply, working costs and labor will soon be reduced.

A. D. Viney, chairman of the Johannesburg Stock Exchange, said in a recent address that mining in South Africa was enjoying the greatest boom in 40 years. The boom is most apparent on the stock exchange where many small investors are entering the market.

In 1945, 12,213,415 ounces fine gold were produced in the Transvaal, the only important gold producing province of the Union. This was below the 1939 figure of 12,495,000 ounces fine, although the tonnage crushed was slightly higher last year. Working revenue last year was £101,847,061 ($458,311,774.)

Expenditure on wages in 1945 was higher than the peak year of 1941 but the labor force employed, both European and native, was considerably smaller.

Comparative figures were:

Europeans employed, 1941 — 41,000; 1945—36,000.

Natives employed, 1941—368,000; 1945, 307,000.

Wages in 1941 amounted to £32,800,000 ($147,600,000), as compared with £34,000,000 ($153,000,000) in 1945.

Dr. A. W. Rowe, director of the Witwatersrand Technical College, said recently there is little prospect of anything but full employment in the gold mining industry for a period longer than in any other industry. Gold is the chief source of South Africa's mineral wealth.

Favorable Outlook

In an address before mining students Dr. Rowe said the industry offered them security and prospects that could not be equalled anywhere in the world.

We have a specially favorable outlook," he said. "Our chief product has been put in an unassailable position by the Bretton Woods agreement and our supply of that product has been assured for a much longer period than we dared hope a few years ago."

Confidence that working costs will be overcome despite rising working costs was expressed by C. S. McLean, president of the Transvaal Chamber of Mines in a recent interview.

"The mines that have already closed and those that are about to close must be replaced and the industry is doing all in its power to develop the Far West Rand and the Orange Free State gold fields for this purpose," Mr. McLean said.

"These parts of the country are quite undeveloped and we require railways, roads, power and water facilities before any real mining development can begin."

Mr. McLean said the improvement in the supply of both European and native labor and reduction of difficulties in obtaining essential goods and materials was on the credit side of the problem.

"We know that British manufacturers are anxious to help us in this important aspect of development and this knowledge enables us to face the future with a measure of confidence."

SAYS CABBIE BORN SURGEON

London (CP)—A London bus driver was described by Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P., addressing the Socialist Medical Association as "a born surgeon."

"He spends every night in his library reading up on anatomy and physiology," she said. "He has a vocation but he has no opportunity."

Dr. Summerskill added that even a brilliant girl student could not get a medical education without adequate funds.

DEADLY PYTHON FARMER'S PET

Johannesburg (CP) The Transvaal village of Warmbaths experienced a few hectic moments the other day when it was visited by a 12-foot python.

With nothing better than lumps of concrete at hand, the citizens bombarded the hapless reptile until it was dead.

A local farmer arrived, distressed at what he saw, for the python was his pet. He had kept it in a huge cage in his yard and was carting it to the station for dispatch to a snake zoo when the python escaped.

WORLD'S CHAMPION COW

Battleboro, Vt., March 9—(AP)—Ionia Ormsby Queen of Michigan — who in 15 years has produced 126,281 quarts of milk and more than four tons of butterfat—Friday was hailed by the Holstein Friesian Association as the new world's champion cow.

Ionia Ormsby Queen has completed her 12th lactation, the organization reported, and has produced 252,563 pounds of milk and 8,071 pounds of butterfat.

TO SPEAK HERE

THE REV. W. A. CAMERON, B.A., B.D., General Secretary Board of Missions, Presbyterian Church in Canada, who will conduct both services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday. Dr. Cameron served as Home Mission Superintendent in Saskatchewan for some ten years, and as pastor of Knox Church, Weyburn, Sask., and Central Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, B.C., prior to assuming his present position as General Secretary of the Board of Missions. A special invitation is extended to all members and adherents of St. Andrew's to hear this trusted servant of the church at both services.

RECTOR WORKS AS REPORTER

Sarnia, Ont. (CP)—When Rev. George Stone reverently walks into the office wearing his round, white clerical collar, the Sarnia Observer's city editor knows he is to be given a story on a wedding or a funeral. It's about the only time Mr. Stone wears his professional collar to work.

Mr. Stone, rector of Point Edward and three Anglican churches in the district, also is part-time reporter on the Observer and has been for the last three years.

It is "an ideal sideline for any minister," says Mr. Stone. "It gives a wider interest in life and a tolerance toward human weakness. I have learned to understand people."

Nicknamed "Stoney" by fellow reporters, he wouldn't "cover" a murder unless it was "absolutely unavoidable. "Manhandling people for news is not my idea of constructive work," he says. "Boy Scouts are in my line."

Recently he had the unique experience of seeing his church destroyed by fire and then dashing back to the office to write a report that rated an eight-column headline.

Mr. Stone starts work at 8 a.m. and quits about 3 p.m. He drives an automobile, somewhat the worse for wear, to and from work. He usually makes about three parochial calls before going home for supper. Then at least three nights a week there are church meetings.

After all that he wearily slides between the sheets some nights and the telephone rings. Some barn is on fire and he must get out to get a story.

AUSSIE STUDENTS DO OWN HOUSEWORK

Melbourne, Australia (CP) — University students will make beds, sweep floors and do most of the housework in a new series of co-operative hostels to be opened at Melbourne University by the Students' Hostels Association.

The University Students' Representative Council will appoint a student-warden who will be responsible for food, management and other details. The hostels will accommodate, on a community basis, students from country areas and those unable to enjoy the more orthodox means of city living.

Two hundred students are housed already in hostels near the University under this scheme. The plan is being advanced as a measure to cope with 1,200 new students expected as a result of service discharges. Most of the hostels are old, large homes which have been reconverted.

RECEIVES EXPRESSION OF SYMPATHY

Morpeth, Ont., March 9 —(CP)—A transport truck driver whose vehicle struck and killed a six-year-old child Wednesday night in this community some 18 miles southeast of Chatham has received an expression of sympathy from the child's father.

The driver, Sidney Wright, of Harrow, suffered severe shock when he overturned the heavy transport in an effort to avoid striking Ronald Smith, who was chasing a kite. The father, James R. Smith, visited Wright and friends said that in spite of his own grief he was able to sympathize with the driver who is the father of a three-year-old child.

Capital Closeups

By JACK BRAYLEY,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 9 —(CP)—Transportation difficulties and the fact parliament will be in session likely will result in the colorful swearing-in ceremonies attending arrival of the new governor-general being held here instead of Halifax, port of disembarkation.

The swearing in of a governor-general requires the presence of the whole cabinet, all seven members of the supreme court and various other high officials. With the House in session and occupying the attention of ministers, it would be difficult for them to get away without adjourning the session. This is not considered desirable this year because of the rush of parliamentary business which must be dealt with before the governmental delegation leaves for the Paris peace conference next May.

There also would be the problem of transportation and finding accommodation at Halifax for the large retinue of ministers and officials who would have to be present at the ceremony.

Ceremonial: A special committee with Dr. E. H. Coleman, under secretary of state, as chairman, is studying the whole ceremonial problem.

The swearing-in ceremony itself poses some niceties of procedure. Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret would seem to be the logical one to install the new governor. Actually this is done by the senior puisne judge of the supreme court — Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin. The reason is that the chief justice automatically becomes administrator or acting governor as soon as the Earl of Athlone leaves the country March 16 and acts in that capacity until Viscount Alexander is sworn in.

Being acting governor, the chief justice cannot actively participate in the ceremony, but watches it from a special seat near the governor's dias. If the governor arrives April 8, the ceremony here would be held about April 10 or 11.

The ceremony — if it is definitely decided to hold it in the capital and not at Halifax — would take place in the Red Senate Chamber and be held immediately after arrival of the Governor's special train.

Sergeant in Disguise: Sgt. Bill Currie, 42, of Amherstburg, Ont., and a member of the public relations staff at defence headquarters here, is the only soldier in the Canadian army who doesn't wear a uniform on duty.

When Bill first enlisted he broke out in a dermatitis rash when he donned his uniform. At an army hospital at Windsor, N.S., the medical officer found he was allergic to the khaki wool uniform.

Bill has been going around in civilian dress ever since.

RESUME PUBLICATION

Columbus, Ga., March 9 (AP)—The Columbus Enquirer and the Ledger, morning and afternoon papers, have resumed normal publication with the end of a strike by pressmen.

The pressmen walked out last Friday after notice was posted of the employment of a new press room foreman. A joint union-management announcement said it had been agreed that the management had authority to retain control over its foremen.

Canada's Loan to Britain

Canada's loan to Britain of one and a quarter billion of dollars will meet with the hearty approval of Canadians for its purpose is to help "overcome Britain's temporary financial difficulties" in making purchases in Canada as Prime Minister Attlee explained in the British Commons. Prime Minister King made a simultaneous announcement in the Commons at Ottawa.

In the British House Anthony Eden said that it was a satisfactory agreement as far as could be seen, which will carry obvious economic advantages to the United Kingdom and would in the long run prove equally beneficial to Canada.

Growth in trade is the purpose of the loan. That it will have the result of benefitting trade between Britain and Canada is foreseen. It is said too that more than a billion of this will be spent by Britain in Canada within the next few years. It means a big export market for Canadian products.

British M.P.'s lost no time in making themselves understood as anxious to express their gratitude to Canada, members of the various parties immediately expressing their feelings of gratitude by saying "Canada has been magnificent," "Hear! Hear!" and by the expression of the thought that the "gratitude of the whole House — for only the latest instance of the memorable services Canadians have rendered"—be expressed to Canada to use the words of C. E. Davies to which Mr. Attlee replied that the feeling of the British Commons would so be expressed to the Canadian government.

Many Designs for Flag

Canadians are interested in designs for a distinctive Canadian flag. A news story in the Montreal Star says that already there have been 1,500 designs submitted with more coming in. According to officials of the committee appointed by Parliament to study the report, they have been getting the designs into groups and according to the article they have settled on twenty groups, with each group tacked on panels as large as a wall for the purposes of study.

Some designs are in red, white and blue colors with one maple leaf, the same colors with two maple leaves, the same colors with three maple leaves, a Union Jack, a Fleur de Lis or a beaver. These are some of the designs.

Canadians are greatly interested in their flag as this total of designs submitted indicates and they are giving the committee some work and study as that body has promised to give careful consideration to every suggestion.

British Exports Half Way to Pre-War Level

13,666 private cars were built by the United Kingdom motorcar industry during January compared with 11,165 for the whole of 1945. This shows the speed of the switchover to peace-time production.

The same advance is common to a number of other civilian industries, whose exports are already fifty per cent of the 1938 volume — carpets, pottery among them. Shipments of domestic pottery during the last quarter were valued at well over one million pounds and the United Kingdom is the only important pottery exporter in the world. While overseas demands are far beyond the present production capacity the proportion of decorated ware, made solely for overseas buyers, is higher than that of the utility goods for the home market. Big pottery firms are building extensions to their buildings and installing new plants and equipment so as to go full speed ahead when more labor is obtained. Heavy electrical products marked a value close on six hundred pounds for January in export orders. Then too British radio manufacturers produced almost as many sets in December of last year as in the preceding four months together. They still have a long way to go to reach their target, 947,000 for home market, 583,000 (mostly four, five and six valve sets) for export. Still they are getting well into their stride.

Labor is still the main problem in Britain's expanding civilian industries. One of such industries is that of textiles. At the end of the war there were two fields in which the United Kingdom it is said was not up to the standard of foreign competitors, machinery for various winding processes and automatic looms. In the first case the range is already being considerably increased and in respect of looms, those of United Kingdom manufacture are now on a par with the high standard attributed to some foreign products.

Volume of U. K. exports by the end of 1945 had reached half the pre-war volume. This achievement took place in the most difficult reconversion months. British producers aim for 1946 at one hundred per cent increase in present volume.

Hunting the Fox

The fox, that once sacred animal, is being hunted not with hounds but guns in several districts of England owing to the increasing loss of lambs. Incidentally, a Welsh shepherd of sorts tells me that the cunning "varmint" always selects a twin as an easier prey. In the northwest it is abused for its attacks on the sheep; in the south for its attacks on poultry; and perhaps in both regions its reputation suffers from losses for which other creatures, especially stray dogs, are responsible.

—London Spectator.

Butter for the Churning

The butter shortage has sent some farm wives to sheds and attics in search of old churns used by their grandmothers. Those who have come back with the "dusty things" have discovered that "churning isn't as easy as grandmother made it sound. Knowing just how long the cream should "set" is one of those things which only grandmother could tell — by "taking a look."

Before electricity came to the farm some women preferred the dash turn — a rig that looked something like a mop handle sticking out of a pail — while others used a barrel-like container which they spun "round and round" between a couple of pivot legs. In either case the cream came out butter.

When the cream had solidified, then it was put into a large wooden bowl and "worked" with a smooth wooden paddle. The more arm work that was put into the butter the smoother it looked and nicer it tasted. Extra butter either was packed away in large jars or molded into "bricks," depending upon how proud the woman was of her butter. The farmer's wife often got her "pin money" from the butter she sold.

Some of the city wives, we hear, are making butter in their electric mixers and with excellent results. Husbands, we imagine, will not be recklessly inquisitive as to how they do it so long as there is butter for the morning toast.

School for Servants of Royalty

A unique school in England prepares young men and women for domestic service in the Royal Households which normally employ about 1,500 servants. Established a century ago on the grounds of Windsor Castle, this school especially trains each student in one of nearly a hundred kinds of positions, such as those of seamstress, coachman, forester and telephone operator.

Miss Mary Keegan, the clever young Belleville actress, who has been delighting audiences in England for several seasons, is now appearing in St. George's Hall, London, England, taking the role of Judith Shakespeare in a new drama of that name by Alex. Nelson.

A Hawk, A Hunter, Two Partridges

By R. G. Sheppard, Game and Fisheries Overseer, in the Ontario Fish and Game Bulletin

It was a warm October afternoon with poor visibility because of soft fine rain. I stopped my car adjacent to a bit of woods. As I climbed the roadside fence, I heard the booming jump of two partridges almost simultaneously on the farther side of the kopje. I knew that I was too far off the to have been the reason for their flight. Could it be that another hunter was here before me?

I quickly slid to the ground and loaded my gun. In a matter of seconds, I saw three birds coming directly to me. One bird was flying above but making repeated dives, first at one, and then at the other of the two birds below. When sufficiently near, I had the good fortune to shoot one down.

My shot sent one of the remaining birds in a high banking turn which it failed to complete, because it was literally dive bombed out of the air by the pouncing bird above. They fell to the ground together only a few feet distant with one on top tearing viciously at the other with talon and bill. In my excitement I did not think about shooting again, but ran quickly to the spot. Almost instantly I saw the back feathers disappearing from the bird beneath, and a single claw stroke sever the head from its body.

Just then I was able to strike at the bird of prey with the muzzle of my gun which served to put it to flight, and I found myself in possession of two partridges, with only a single shot.

The falcon which gave me such able assistance was apparently a small species of hawk, no longer than a grouse. Its body was a dark brown with dark yellow under feathers about the same shade as those found on the underwing coverings of the flicker.

The episode makes one wonder whether or not partridge scarcity is owing so much to modern sporting weapons in the hands of men. In my experience I've never observed any sportsman who was as sure on a wing shot as that bird. One cannot help but wonder at the extent of destruction by these small hawks, the number of them, and how often one would need to make such kills for food?

DOG MORE IMPORTANT

Los Angeles, March 9 (AP)—Violinist Erna Rubinstein spent the night before her wedding hunting her bulldog and the night after with her mother, George Bruce, movie writer and producer, testified yesterday. He was a witness in her divorce suit, based on charges of physical cruelty. "My dog is more important than any wedding," he quoted her.

ICE FISHING SEASON OVER

Fort Erie, March 9 (CP) —Unless there is a decided drop in the temperature the 1946 ice fishing season is over. Veterans yesterday agreed that any attempt to go out from either the United States or Canadian shore this weekend will be dangerous. Warm rains this week did more damage to Lake Erie ice than almost summer temperatures.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Voting Plays Big Part in Swiss Municipal Affairs

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Bern, Switzerland, March 9 — (AP) — This country does not allow women to vote, but when you investigate the question you encounter the strange circumstance that the women in general don't appear to be anxious for suffrage in political affairs, although most of them would like a hand in settling social problems.

Many of the real crusaders for a complete voting rights are among the elderly women, who were active in the days when the militant suffragettes were a world phenomenon. Curiously enough, the younger generation, broadly speaking, would be content with partial suffrage, at least for the present.

The average Swiss woman is essentially a housewife and has the old-fashioned notion that the woman's place is in the home. Also Swiss politics are complicated and demand more of the voters' time than most housewives feel they can spare from their home duties.

There are few countries where citizens participate so intimately in the affairs of state as here in little Switzerland. The Swiss looks on this participation not as a "right" but as a "duty," with the result that he is constantly engaged in settling the problems of his community or the country as a whole.

To illustrate, take the city of Bern, whose government is 800 years old. Most local laws go directly to the voters, who are called up about once a month to deal with them. In some places the citizens even elect the school teachers by direct vote.

The Geneva Canton Council a few years ago passed a law abolishing taxes for people of the lower and middle classes and putting the whole burden on the rich. In Geneva all tax measures must be submitted to the voters as a whole, and in this case they turned down the law as being unfair even though the majority would benefit by it.

Three Alpine Cantons still have the old form of democracy which they have practised for more than 600 years. All the peasants get together in April with a lot of pageantry and, after debate, vote on the business of the Canton. They stand in a big circle—maybe 5,000 or 6,000 men — and vote by a show of hands. If the presiding official can't determine the vote in this way the circle separates into two opposing bodies and there is a count of noses. Everybody turns out for this town meeting, that is all the voters, but the chances are that somebody has to stay home — and that will be mother.

This intimate association of the citizen with local affairs extends to the national government. The Federal Assembly can pass a law, but if 30,000 voters ask for a plebiscite they can have it.

All Corvettes Sold

Montreal, March 9 — Almost a million dollars will flow into the Federal treasury, and another million and a half will be expended in Canadian shipyards as the result of the sale last month by War Assets Corporation of twelve Castle Class corvettes which had been declared surplus to the requirements of the Royal Canadian Navy on both Canadian coasts.

Incidentally, the last surplus corvette has now been disposed of. All Flower Class vessels, slightly smaller than the Castle, totalling 91, had been sold last fall.

Of the twelve Castle Class craft, the Chinese purchasing Commission, Ottawa, bought five for the Chinese Government. Three — the Orangeville, the Bowmanville and the Tillsonburg —were on the West Coast, and two — the Coppercliff and the Humberstone — on the East Coast. The selling price was $95,000 each, with the proviso that this would be reduced to $80,000 if reconverted in Canadian shipyards.

Three other Castles on the West Coast — the Hespeler, the Leaside and the St. Thomas — were sold a short time ago at $75,000 each to the Union Pacific Steamship Company of Vancouver for coastwise service on the British Columbia coast including the Queen Charlotte Islands. The company proposed spending upwards of $1,000,000 on reconversion of the three vessels in B. C. shipyards.

The other four Castle Class corvettes on the East Coast have been disposed of at $80,000 each with the proviso that reconversion be carried out in Canadian shipyards:—

Two — the Huntsville and the Kincardine — to Foreign Traders of Canada for the Yugoslav Government.

One — the Petrolia — to Dow and Symmers, New York, for the Greek Government.

One — the Arnprior—to Louis Levin, of Montreal and Toronto, on behalf of a syndicate which proposes to operate a Mediterranean service.

THAT BALMY HOME ATMOSPHERE

A medical colleague in Quebec writes:

I have been interested in your article "It Isn't the Heat It's the Aridity." For a few years back I have favored the theory that the dryness in our homes and other buildings during the season of artificial heating is at least a contributing factor of upper respiratory infections....

Thank you, Doctor, for not saying "colds." From what you say I wish to caution you to go easy with your investigation of the air conditioning question. It is donkey's years since I had that bug. I spent two winters in Buffalo, N.Y. doing little else but carrying buckets of water all day to the dozen humidifiers on all the radiators, but, by crackey, we had a bit of heaven in our house those two winters.

I managed to complete my experiments Doctor, without breaking up my family. But I shall never enjoy quite the same respect the members of the family paid me before. They did not deny that the fine balmy climate I achieved for the winter was kinder and pleasanter than the usual indoor Sahara, but for all of that they have regarded me as a crackpot ever since.

The trouble was that I had to lug the water all through the long hard winter for each humidifier evaporated at least a gallon a day. I know I could not have carried on but for one little thing —all comments and allusions by members of the family were on the facetious side, for no one dared to raise the question of hypothetical "dampness." In many homes, I am afraid, the "dampness" phobia would defeat such air conditioning.

In the pamphlet on the subject I am glad to send to readers who ask for it in writing (no clipping please) and inclose stamped self addressed envelope I name various sources of built-in air-conditioning equipment and the simple but efficient humidifiers I used.

Although evaporation of a mere quart or two of water in a day in a room may be helpful, it generally takes not less than a gallon a day in a small artifically heated room (no matter how heated) to maintain anything like ideal or comfortable, healthful humidity. Hence a pan or container of water whether heated or not, does not quite suffice — dipping in the water there should be numerous loops of wicks or absorbent material suspended on rack or frame above the water—to aid evaporation.

Almost every one who suffers at all from dry chapped, cracked skin, irritation of throat and nose or bronchial trouble and — well, perhaps we should omit reference to peevishness and irritability of temper—in the winter time will enjoy more or less relief from these effects of extreme aridity when the indoor atmosphere is kept fairly humidified.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Allergy

Recently I have developed what seems to be an allergy for alcohol. I drink rarely but lately even a small cocktail, beer or wine seems to make my lower jaw tingle, my lower lip thick, stiff and unmanageable. (A. J.)

Answer—There are two alternatives—have enough independence or character to decline the drink, or go whole hog and drink yourself unconscious of what a sorry state you are in.

Alcohol in Blood

Does alcohol enter blood stream? If so how long would it take to leave the blood if a person stopped drinking? (M. T.)

Answer—Yes. It is completely eliminated within a day or two after the person stops drinking. But the damage to the body cells, tissues organs is something else.

Babies Should Gnaw

Two grandsons 1 1-2 and 2 1-2 years old, persist in gnawing their wooden beds not just the paint off them but the wood itself.

(Mrs. I. McA.)

Answer—Danger of lead poisoning if baby gnaws on painted object. Gnawing on plain wood is all right—good for gums, teeth and jaw development.

Salad Dressing

Have been making French dressing with mineral oil for mother who is diabetic, and would appreciate learning whether this is proper procedure. If not, what type of oil is best suited for a diabetic? (Miss M. McL.)

Answer—It is items containing starch or sugar rather than things containing oil or fat that must be restricted more or less in the diet of one with diabetes. As a rule a diabetic may take as much fat or oil as any one. However your mother should have the benefit of medical advice about diet. Send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Training for Diabetes."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Is there a Jefferson County in Virginia?

Virginia has no County named after Thomas Jefferson, one of her greatest and most famous native sons. The Old Dominion did have a County named Jefferson, but when the State was dismembered, during the Civil War, Jefferson County became part of West Virginia.

How does adjective law differ from substantive law?

Substantive law consists of the general and fundamental laws enacted for the regulation of human conduct.

Adjective law consists of certain rules and regulations governing court procedure and the administration of the substantive law.

In other words, adjective law is a set of rules by which the substantive law is executed.

Sometimes, as in the case of the rights and privileges of Congress, it is not easy to distinguish clearly between the two classes of law. The acts embodying the privileges, usages, practices and regulations of the Senate and the House of Representatives combine some of the features of a substantive law of rights and some of the features of an adjective law of procedure.

Who said: "Truth is stranger than fiction?"

"Truth is stranger than fiction" is a popular condensation of a thought expressed in Lord Byron's Don Juan (1823):

> 'Tis strange — but true; for > truth is always strange,
> —Stranger than fiction."

"Truth Stranger Than Fiction" (1858) is the title of the autobiography of Josia Hensen, who was born a slave on a Maryland plantation and who was the reputed prototype of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Attend Annual O.R.E.C. Meeting

Ivanhoe, March 9.—Rev. J. F. Everson has just returned from Toronto, where for two days he had been attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Religious Educational Council. The annual meeting of the Ontario Boys' Work Board and a coaching conference for leaders of township Sunday School conventions.

The theme being emphasized by the Christian Advance leaders in 1946, is, "New Methods for an Old Message". In every department of Sunday School work, visual aids to teaching will be featured. This will include the use of pictures, posters, models, drama, flannelgraph, graphs, blackboard and bulletin board.

During the year 1945 the O.R.E.C. distributed 57 kinds of free literature and sold 230 kinds of literature by the Supply depot. This service was all on a non-profit cash basis and the amount of sales increased in five years from $4,787.83 in 1940 to $10,619.13 in 1945.

Ontario has 11,000 girls of the 27,000 in Canada enrolled within the C.G.I.T. program.

The O.R.E.C. gave leadership to 123 township Sunday School conventions in 1945.

The Boys' Work Board gave leadership to 460 groups with a membership of 7,037 boys.

The 1945 budget involved the raising of $22,608.54 while the budget for 1946 is set at $28,300. Each member of a Sunday School is asked to contribute five cents per year. This appeal goes out to the members of the Presbyterian, Baptist, United Church and Anglican communions and several others. It includes also personal gifts from friends and gifts from boys' and girls' groups through the sale of bonds, also bequests.

Rev. E. R. McLean of Toronto, is general secretary and Mr. Fred C. Cook, Bradford, is the president.

Given 20 Months On Theft Charge

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Reginald Harry Robinson, 30, was sentenced Friday to twenty months definite and six months indefinite in the reformatory on a charge of theft of $10,000 to $15,000 from the Federal Fruit Company last year, with whom he was employed.

Counsel for Robinson had asked leniency on the ground that his client had served more than four years overseas in the Canadian Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force. He won the D.F.M. and was mentioned in despatches for gallantry.

Robinson was employed by the company to purchase fruit in the Niagara belt last July. In his evidence, he testified the company had authorized him to buy at any price, and he said the whole of the money the company stated was stolen by him had been paid for fruit more than ceiling prices, salaries to other buyers, and other help and shipping cost.

He left his job Sept. 22 when he heard authorities were intending to investigate "the black market" in fruit. After a trip to the United States he was later arrested in Halifax.

Judge Parker, in passing sentence, said "I find it difficult to fulfill my obligation with a man who has done so much for his country. There was carelessness on the part of the Federal Fruit Company in the handling of its money, and it was almost an invitation for one to be loose with it."

Seen Leaving Home With Rifle

Walkerton, Ont., March 9 — (CP)— A few hours before Pte. Walter Lavallee was shot and killed at a Saugeon Indian Reserve residence Jan. 6, Neil Nashkawa, Reserve Indian charged with the murder, left his home with a rifle, it was testified Friday as the assizes court trial went into its fourth day.

Mrs. Abie Nashkawa, an aunt of Nashkawa, told the jury her nephew took the gun from that part of the house where he lived with his father, Dick Nashkawa.

Alvin Cordick of Owen Sound, testified that a rifle shown him by Provincial Police was the one he left at the Nashkawa home last November. That rifle had been discovered the day after the shooting, on a road not far from the Lavallee residence.

A pair of overshoes were found near the rifle and Mrs. Lucy Lavallee, widow of the army private who was killed two days after his return from overseas, had testified they were property of Neil Nashkawa, with whom she previously had admitted having illicit relations.

The trial is not expected to conclude before next Thursday, with some 25 witnesses yet to be heard.

Eight Surviving V.C. Winners Getting Settled

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 9 (CP)— The eight survivors among the 14 Canadians who won the Victoria Cross in the Second Great War are fading into Canadian life with little or nothing to distinguish them from fellow veterans now in the thick of the fight for re-establishment.

In fact, one salient point that emerged from a Canadian Press survey of their activities, was that they formed a typical cross-section of the hundreds of thousands of men who shared their war and their retreat from war.

Three of them the survey found, were still in the army. One was in parliament. One was back at his old job. One had launched an insurance career. One had quit a job and was hoping cautiously for another. One had left small town Canada for big town Canada.

Only One in Public Life

Ten months after hostilities ended in Europe, only one was in public life in any form.

He was Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt of Vancouver who returns to Ottawa this week for his second session as Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Vancouver-Burrard.

The other Dieppe V.C., Maj. John Weir Foote is a padre at Camp Borden, Ont., apparently intends to remain in the permanent army. A native of Madoc, Ont., he was chaplain of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry at Dieppe.

At Borden, too, is Lt.-Col. Paul Triquet of Cabano, Que., the hero of Casa Berardi crossroads near Ortona, Italy. He is on the infantry training staff there.

Future Plans Indefinite

Third V.C. still in the army is Maj. John Keefer Mahony of New Westminster, B.C. His future plans are indefinite. He won the V.C. on the Melfa River in Italy.

Like Mahony, Pte. E. A. (Smokey) Smith was working in Vancouver and living in New Westminster and, like Mahony he was unmarried. A sports enthuiast, he was selling life insurance and friends reported him "an excellent salesman."

His V.C. was won on another Italian River, the Savio.

The one other non-officer, Cpl. Fred Topham tried the Toronto city police force but resigned after a few weeks service because "I want to find something that will suit me better."

He had found civilian life "a lot better than the army," was single and intending to continue that estate "a long, long time."

Topham won the V.C. as a paratroop medical orderly on the western front.

Back at Old Job

The one man back at his old job was Maj. Fred A. Tilston of Windsor, Ont. Fitted with two artificial legs for those he lost in his V.C. action in the German Hochwald, he was vice-president in charge of sales of a business firm.

He was married two months ago to Helen Adamson of Vancouver.

Lt.-Col. David Currie, hero of the Falaise Gap, left the army last year, went back to Moose Jaw, Sask., where he had held a pre-war job in a garage but now is in Montreal.

SHOWERED WITH RICE

Washington, March 9 (AP) — Members of food commission from famine-stricken India looked with dismay yesterday at wedding party outside a church. Police Capture Escaped German, Seek Six Others

Toronto, March 9 (CP)— After going unidentified for two weeks in Canada's second largest city where he posed as a hospital orderly, 26-year-old Heinz Wirtz, probably the most artful of all escapees among German prisoners of war in Canada, today was back in the custody of Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the fourth time.

A day after his picture appeared in a Toronto newspaper police yesterday picked up the 26-year-old German after they received a tip from a fellow hospital employee, keen-eyed Stanley Burgoyne.

Claiming to be a Romanian, the swarthy, versatile German arrived in Toronto about two weeks ago after he escaped from a St. Thomas district farm with a registration card bearing the name of Michael Rehner, son of the farmer for whom he had been working.

His capture came while disciplinary measures were being taken against five other German prisoners of war, apprehended on their way to a dance in Toronto Thursday night, who had been sneaking out of a Cooksville, Ont. prisoner compound almost at will.

Only Six Now at Large

With the capture of the dark-haired Wirtz, a "willing worker" at the Toronto hospital, only six of the 35,000 German prisoners held in Canada during the Second Great War, are known to be at large, and are the object of an intensive police search.

Pictures of the escaped prisoners published in Toronto are bringing R.C.M.P. dozens of tips to track down, and police hope they all are as good as the information on Wirtz.

Wirtz, unlike the jitter-bugging prisoners employed in a brickyard at nearby Cooksville, wanted complete freedom. His escapes, all calculated affairs, gave him knowledge he used in the next escapade. He first escaped in 1941, again in 1942 and 1943.

The quintet from Cooksville, sent yesterday to the prisoner of war camp at Monteith in Northern Ontario, were satisfied with enjoying privileges to which they were not entitled.

They were meeting girl friends, attending dances and concerts in Toronto and going on sight-seeing tours to Niagara Falls.

JOHN GLENNON

Lay in State.

The Cardinal's body lay in state today in the President's mansion.

Flags of the United States, Eire and the Papal State flew at half staff over the mansion.

With him when he died were President and Mrs. O'Kelly, Msgr. Cody; and Commodore Alphonse MacMahon, U.S.N.R., the Cardinal's personal physician.

Commodore MacMahon had been at the Cardinal's side since he left for the papal consistory.

News of the death spread slowly through the Irish capital but among the first to hasten to the great mansion was Premier Eamon de Valera. With head bowed, the Premier appeared greatly affected.

Ailing Slightly.

Cardinal Glennon was ailing slightly when he left home, suffering from a mild case of bronchitis which weakened him and prevented his following the custom of prostrating himself before the Pope at the consistory in St. Peters.

The Prelate passed into a semi-coma last night and doctors virtually gave up hope at that time of saving his life.

At 6 p.m. yesterday, Msgr. Cody anointed the Cardinal and gave him papal benediction. Msgr. Patrick Dunne, vicar general of the archdiocese of Dublin, administered viaticum, the last rites of the church.

The tall, white-haired prince of the church, who had been an archbishop for 42 years, had stopped at Eire en route home from the consistories, to visit members of his family and officials. He had been a guest at the home of President O'Kelly since he arrived Monday.

Displayed Again.

The broad - brimmed, low-crowned red hat which he received during the consistories will be displayed again, a little more than two weeks after it was conferred by the Pope. The red hat it worn by a Cardinal on the day it is received, and is displayed again at his funeral. Cardinal Glennon's red hat will be on view while his body lies in state and during the Pontifical Requiem Mass in his honor.

He died among scenes once familiar to the young theological student who was graduated from All Hallows College near Dublin and came in 1883 to the United States, where he later fought from pulpit and rostrum for Irish independence.

Always a scholar, famed for ringing pronouncements on current problems, the prelate was known in St. Louis as a kind, modest man with a twinkle in his eyes and an interest in baseball.

Served 42 Years.

He was elevated to the purple after 42 years of service as the Archbishop of St. Louis.

He came to America—assigned to the diocese of Kansas City—in 1883 and was ordained a priest when he was 22 years old. He was consecrated Bishop at the age of 34 and was designated Archbishop of St. Louis at 41, becoming the head of an Archdiocese covering an area of 27,092 miles and embracing a Catholic population of approximately 500,000.

The Cardinal's death occurred within a few miles of his birthplace in the village of Kinnegrad, in Westmeath County.

The prelate was wistfully prophetic February 18 when he was notified officially of his elevation to the Cardinalate.

"It is a wonderful thing," he said at that time, "to be thus remembered at a time of life when I really should be forgotten, to be given this great honor before I die."

MYSTERY GOES WEST

Off to Lethbridge, Alta., on charges of obtaining money under false pretences, is John Galbraith, 19, mystery groom of Cornwall, Ont., alias Hans Schulte, Derek Heflin. He married Joyce Rabin, Cornwall, Ont.

17 GOVERNMENT BILLS ARE GIVEN SECOND READING

Brief Discussions on Labor Disputes Hold up Business of the Legislature

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Ontario Legislature members prepared for the second week of the new session today after a short Friday sitting which saw 17 government bills given second reading or steered through committee stages. Debate on the Throne Speech will be resumed Tuesday.

The only pause in the swift pace of routine business yesterday came when R. H. Carlin (CCF Sudbury) asserted that a proposed amendment to the damage by Fumes Arbitration Act was "inadequate". Earlier there was brief discussion on labor disputes at Toronto and Brockville, and on the possibility of developing lignite deposits at Onakawana, 125 miles north of Cochrane.

Asked by Mr. Carlin for a statement on the labor disputes, Labor Minister Daley said he was "fully conversant" with both situations and doing everything possible to reach satisfactory settlement. He said a meeting was scheduled for today between company and worker representatives in Toronto and that a conciliator was expected to reach Brockville by Monday or Tuesday.

Mr. Daley said workers at the Rogers Electronic Tubes, Ltd., in Toronto staged a one-hour sit-down following a disagreement over interpretation of a Regional War Labor Board directive on payment of an incentive bonus. The company had discontinued the bonus because of cancellation of war orders and had discharged the employees after a return-to-work ultimatum.

Negotiations Continue

At Brockville employees of the Phillips Electrical Company had an agreement with the company forbidding walkouts but had decided to "sit down" anyway. The management had discharged the employees but it was questionable whether that action could be termed a "lockout." The union involved in both cases was the United Electrical workers (C.I.O.) and negotiation efforts were continuing.

Mines Minister Frost said his department will "look into" the possibility of outside help in developing lignite deposits at Onakawana for fuel purposes. He spoke in reply to A. A. MacLean (Lab-Prog. — Toronto Bellwoods) who said a newspaper story mentioned that an unidentified University of Chicago professor might be able to help in developing the deposits.

Explaining the damage by Fumes Arbitration Act Amendment, Mr. Frost said an arbitrator now has sole authority to deal with claims of residents, principally in the Sudbury area, whose property has been damaged by sulphur fumes from such large companies as International Nickel. Often residents claimed compensation was inadequate and the proposed amendment was designed to create a municipal board of appeal from the arbitrator's decision.

Mr. Carlin said he has sworn statements from Sudbury district residents that damage often totalled as much as $3,000 and they received only $200 or $300. There were two ways to remedy the situation: force companies such as International Nickel to take steps to eliminate damage by fumes, or appoint an appeal board with adequate representation, including farmers.

Seventeen bills were given second reading or steered through committee stages yesterday as the legislature sought to dispense with routine business in preparation for resumption of the Throne Speech debate next week when night sittings will be held for the first time in the week-old session.

A. A. MacLeod (Lab-Prog.-Toronto Bellwoods) drew Mr. Frost's attention to a newspaper story which said a University of Chicago professor, who was not identified by name, might be able to help Ontario in development of lignite deposits in the Onakawana district 125 miles north of Cochrane.

Mr. Frost said his department hod "no information" on the matter but added "we are taking steps to find out" if such outside help in developing lignite deposits for fuel purposes would be helpful.

War Weapon Domesticated

Edgewood Arsenal, Md., March 9 (AP)—Another deadly war weapon has been "domesticated" for everyday use. This time it's napalm, a potent incendiary fuel used in flame-throwers and aerial bombs against the Japanese. Chemical officers expect it to be used shortly in bathrooms and kitchen sinks as a germicidal liquid soap.

SAP FLOWED EARLY

West Paris, Me., March 9 (AP)—Sap flowed early in West Paris maple orchards yesterday, and farmers, mindful of last year's maple syrup drought, made the most of it. Crews were sent into the orchards to tap trees when temperatures, reaching 60 today, turned the sap loose. The season usually starts late in March.

500 Mosquitoes Just Nice Meal For Nighthawk

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 9 — Terming overhead electric and telephone wires a major blot and eyesore on the Ontario landscape, the Ontario Horticultural Association adopted a resolution Friday urging the Ontario Hydro Commission and the Bell Telephone Co. to include removal of overhead wires as a major part of their post-war undertakings.

The society will send a request to the Ontario Government, urging the Department of Agriculture to provide urban councils with street planting stock from surplus trees in the several Provincial nurseries.

The necessity of bird conservation as an insurance against crop pests was stressed by Leslie Hancock, of Cooksville. In an address to the closing session of the Horticultural Society's annual meeting, he said:

"Nighthawks have been known to eat 500 mosquitoes at one meal; a Maryland yellowthroat ate 3,500 plant lice; a cuckoo ate 500 caterpillars; and a scarlet tanager ate 630 gypsy moth caterpillars. We certainly owe the birds a debt, and one which we can best pay by providing for their needs naturally. Suppose they do steal part of our cherry and strawberry crops. Let's plant more cherries so that there will be enough for birds and man," he said.

Boosts Kids' Sport To Beat Crime Wave

By BUS HAM

Washington (AP)—Sports long hav been close to J. Edgar Hoover's heart and now he has turned to the athletic world to take the lead in combatting juvenile delinquency and a growing crime wave."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation chief thinks this disturbing problem can best be tackled by such an approach because "every youngster in the country is interested in some phase of sports or recreation."

More than 600,000 persons — one out of every 23 in this country—have police records, "affecting everyone directly or indirectly," says Hoover.

More youngsters of 17 were arrested last year than offenders of any other age. Correcting this condition is no job for "any one group or segment" of the population, Hoover says.

"It's an over-all problem for all of us. We've simply got to take time out to help, business and professional people as well as all others. No one has a corner on the solution of this problem."

Hoover's convictions about the leadership that sports can play are born of his personal experiences and observations.

"Watch the youngsters who pick up a daily paper or magazine and what do they read—the sports page," he says. "Nothing appeals to a boy more than something virile like athletics.

"One of the troubles has been that too many were spectators; not enough were participants.

Veterans As Leaders

"Now this condition should be switched around. Our war experiences should help us accomplish this. Millions of men came out of the army as potential sports leaders.

"This is the time for them to jump in and act as leaders of the youngsters through the various veterans' groups. If we don't do this right away, it may be too late a few years from now when these men will have lost some of their interest in such activities."

Idle time on a boy's hands is one of the principal reasons for delinquency and crime, Hoover says.

"The answer is that keeping youngsters healthfully occupied is a 24-hour proposition," Hoover asserts. "You can't close up on them as if you were operating a store or shop, quitting every day at five or six o'clock.

"What happens in a city like New York? After school, thousands of youngsters have to play in the streets simply because the janitor doesn't stick around to keep the playgrounds open.

Professional sports as well as amateur, school, college, church and local groups must back up a program "properly and intelligently directed" to keep youngsters occupied.

He believes newspapers, "a great morale influence in every community," should pay more attention to the youngsters.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's plan to "give the game back to the kids" is a step in the right direction, Hoover thinks, but all sports will have to join hands.

Three Awarded Czechoslovak Military Cross

Ottawa, March 9 (CP) — Defence headquarters today announced the award of the Czechoslovak military cross to Lt.-Col. W. B. G. Reynolds, 33, of North Bay and Montreal; Major D. D. Sweeting, 33, of Winnipeg, and Major T. J. E. McClelland, 33, of Quebec.

Citations accompanying the awards said Lt.-Col. Reynolds planned the air support for the units of the independent army brigade group which took part in the offensive November 5, 1944. His "brilliant planning" helped considerably to make the action a success.

Major Sweeting was responsible for organizing the air support given to the brigade group whilst operating in the Dunkerque area.

Major McClelland also assisted in organizing air support given to the independent army brigade group while operating at Dunkerque.

Y's Men Hear Talk on V.D.

The regular meeting of the local Y's-Men was held Thursday night in the Y.M.C.A. and although all presidents of the Service Clubs could not attend, President Mark Vanner of the Kiwanis Club expressed his appreciation of being a dinner-guest at this meeting.

An interesting talk and discussion, outlining steps used and methods enforced by the Armed Forces for the prevention of V.D. was given by Dr. Anderson of this city who spent some four or five years as medical officer in the R.C.A.F., devoting his time to the instruction of personnel and his efforts to the prevention of V.D. among not only personnel but also the community from whence it came.

Carman Lowthier speaking on behalf of the Y's-Men thanked Dr. Anderson for giving his time to attend this meeting and discussing this very important matter with the club.

DEAD MEN

The gunman, tall, blond and good-looking and about 35 years old, told Cousins to wait outside the bank. Inside, the bandit asked teller R. F. Thurtell if he could arrange a loan and the teller told him he would have to go to the main branch at Ingersoll.

"I want it now," said the robber, shoving an automatic revolver into the teller's wicket. The bank employee handed over the money in the cage but ignored the money bags. Whereupon the robber ordered the teller and ledgerkeeper Jean Merrill, alone in the place at the time, to stay there for 10 minutes.

He raced to the door, re-entered Cousins' cab and ordered him to drive up the first side road beyond Beachville.

Cousins later told police: "I never expected to get out of it alive." He said he was instructed to stop a few hundred yards up the side road.

"The fellow got out and I expected he would shift up to the front seat with me. He opened the door on my side, shoved the gun in my ribs and said: 'You better get out.' He made me lie down on the floor at the back while he sat behind the steering wheel, holding one hand on the wheel and the other over the front seat shoving the gun in my face.

"He looked around and said: 'Dead men don't talk'!"

TWO GIRLS ATTACKED

Toronto, March 9 —(CP)— City police last night sought a man about 23 years of age who attacked two girls on Kingston Road in East Toronto. Margaret Lewis, 19, told police a man seized her as she walked on Kingston Road. She broke away and ran to her house. Also accosted in the same area was Lola Lummis, 20. She too managed to break away and run to her home. Descriptions of the attacker tallied.

WEDDINGS

FARRELL—DEANNARD

A wedding of special interest to many Stirling friends was solemnized in St. James' Church, Stirling, on Saturday, March 2, when Queenie Muriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Peterborough, was united in marriage to John Vincent Farrell, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Angus Farrell, Stirling. Rev. Father Lesage said the Nuptial Mass. Rev. J. T. Martin, of Deseronto, was present in the Sanctuary. During the ceremony, Rev. Father Farrell, of Marmora, sang several hymns, accompanied by Miss Betty McGee at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly attired in a floor-length gown of pastel pink, sweetheart neckline, tight fitting bodice, with peplum and double net skirt over taffeta. She wore a pink and blue feathered headdress with pink shoulder-length veil, elbow-length powder blue mittens and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Jean Farrell, only attendant and sister of the groom, was gowned in a lovely frock of daffodil yellow crepe de chine, shirred bodice and full-length skirt. She wore a matching floral headdress and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. James McParland, Peterborough, while Clare West and Joseph Bibby, acted as ushers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a wristwatch; to the bridesmaid, gold earrings; to the bestman, cigarette lighter and billfolds to the ushers.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Clare West, sister of the bride, who received dressed in royal blue crepe with corsage of American Beauty roses. She was assisted by Miss Mary Farrell, sister of the groom, dressed in black crepe, with white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

For travelling the bride donned a turquoise gabardine suit, over which she wore a chocolate brown coat with bleached wolf collar and brown accessories.

Amid showers of confetti, the happy couple left on a motor trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Buffalo. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Stirling.

Out-of-town guests were present from Woodstock, Hamilton, Deseronto, Marmora, Peterborough, Hastings, Belleville and Frankford.

HUTCHINSON—TOWNSEND

Pauline Alma, daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. T. F. Townsend, Stirling, became the bride of John Fell Hutchinson, Toronto, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John William Hutchinson, in a pretty ceremony performed by the bride's father, Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., in Victoria Chapel, Toronto, on March 9, at 12 o'clock. Wedding music was played in Mr. Clement Garton, organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John D. Medcof, Toronto, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of blush satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over her wrists. Her finger-tip veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a fan-shaped bouquet of red roses, bouvardia and maidenhair fern.

Attending the bride was Miss Reta Boese, Ottawa, who wore a floor-length gown of lemon sheer over satin, a shoulder-length veil of lemon net falling from a Juliet cap. Her bouquet was of bronze baby 'mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Frederick Hutchinson, Toronto, and Messrs. Reginald Carson and Harry Murphy, both of Toronto, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the "Diana Sweets", Bloor St., West, with the bride's mother receiving in a gown of navy "Queen" crepe trimmed with turquoise, and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was assisted by the groom's sister, who wore a fuchsia ensemble with a corsage of American Beauty roses.

For travelling, the bride donned an ensemble of steel blue gabardine with black accessories. The couple will take up residence on George Street in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests present included Mrs. Martin Boese, Trenton and Mr. Gerald Hicks, Ottawa.

CARTER—O'NEILL

Marmora. (Special.)— The Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, February 27, when Dorothy Agnes O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill, Marmora Township and William Joseph Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, Belleville, were united in marriage. Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father J. McDonald.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Norman Stover, of Peterborough. The groom was attended by Mr. Norman Stover, also of Peterborough.

The young couple will take up residence in Toronto.

REID—CAVANAGH

On Saturday, March 2, at seven p.m., Catharine Elizabeth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cavanagh, Belleville, became the bride of Alan Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Reid, Port Credit, in Port Credit Anglican Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. N. Knight, before an altar banked with red carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of romance blue chiffon studded with pearls. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a flowered hat in matching shades. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations and forget-me-nots.

Her attendant, Miss Alice Court, Belleville, wore a floor-length gown of pink net over taffeta with matching flowered hat and shoulder-length veil and carried a bouquet of red carnations and white snapdragons.

The groom was attended by Mr. John Steinmiller, Toronto, and Messrs. Thomas Cavanagh, brother of the bride, and Douglas Reid, brother of the groom, were ushers.

For the wedding reception, held at the home of the groom's parents, which was decorated with sweetpeas and snapdragons, the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece dress of lime green with gold accessories and a corsage of pink and rose carnations. The groom's mother received wearing a flowered silk jersey dress with blue accessories and a corsage of rose and white carnations.

The bride donned a pearl grey dress and blue top coat with brown accessories and a corsage of deep violet sweetpeas for the wedding trip to Hamilton and Niagara Falls. On their return the couple will take up residence in Port Credit.

Out-of-town guests present were the Misses Marie Doyle, Thelma O'Brien and Marion Fisher, Belleville; Mrs. Steinmiller, Miss Frances Fairley, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eddie, of Toronto.

Attractive Resort Dress

By VERA WINSTON

ONE OF THE most popular fabrics of last summer is back in the sartorial picture again for southern clothes now, and is being readied for town and resort clothes when warm weather arrives. This model is made of spun rayon that looks just like linen and takes dyes beautifully. The nice little dress shown here, is easy and charming for resort wear. Inside tucks shape the mid-section, minimizing the waist. Crystal buttons close the top above the small low-necked band closing. The sleeves have slit cuffs.

Mrs. Sparling Speaks to A.Y.P.A. On Social Work

With the activities of the social worker as her topic, Mrs. Sparling addressed the Christ Church Junior A.Y.P.A. at their last meeting. The address was the main feature of the program that followed the Ash Wednesday evening service which the group attended in a body.

Illustrating her talk with many actual case histories, Mrs. Sparling revealed the tangled tale of sorrow and trouble that a social worker becomes involved in. She touched briefly on the countless phases of social work and the many social service organizations, and expressed the hope that some of her audience would chose this wide and fascinating field as their life-work.

The members had first attended the evening service, and had then met in the Parish Hall. Attendance was slightly higher than usual, and the speaker was given an excellent reception. This is the third in a series of meetings dealing with social relationships of today; the first two covered labor problems and the making of a Christian peace.

The address followed a short business meeting, which featured a short discussion on the post-Lenten Drama Festival and the announcement of a box-lunch supper preceding the evening Youth Service on Sunday, March 10. The members will meet in the Parish Hall at 5:30 have supper together and then proceed to the service in which young people will take part. The program was planned by Group One under Gerry Bongard and Fellowship Committee Chairman Lorraine Gadlwell. The meeting closed with prayers by the president, Ed Waterhouse.

Woman Designs Plane Interior

Winnipeg, March 9. (CP)—A young Winnipeg girl who took drafting at university and decided to make that her career has found her future in the air.

Twenty-four-year-old Diane Dudley has the resounding title of Technician in charge of Interior Combination at Trans-Canada Air Lines. Actually, she designs the interior settings for the big passenger planes. . . and she's the only girl in Canada doing that sort of work.

Diane has always been interested in aviation, but, she says, she never really thought she would take such an active part in it. When she graduated in interior decorating from the University of Manitoba in 1942 she looked for a job at various war plants—with no luck.

And that was how she found her second love — newspaper work. She admits now that she found journalism colorful and fascinating "but six weeks of being a copy girl and I knew it wasn't for me."

Finally, she found a job in a war plant and worked there a year before she was released because new contracts failed to arrive. However, once Diane had had a taste of drafting work she knew she would never leave it. So she journeyed out to Stevenson field in suburban Winnipeg and spoke to officials of T.C.A.

Confident Applicant

She laughs now at how she got the job. "I explained to T.C.A. that they really needed me—and they agreed. That's how I became an aircraft draftsman."

Her job, at first entailed work with blueprints but after decorating the employees cafeteria she gradually worked into the selection of interior furnishings for aircraft.

She selected the colors and fabrics for the Lancasters used by T.C.A. and then wrote the specifications for the DC3s which the airline uses in inter-city runs. At present, she is busy with the interior of the DC6s for trans-Atlantic service.

Diane believes that aircraft travelling over water and ships flying over land should be decorated with different color schemes. She uses earthy, solid colors for ocean flights "because they give the passenger a sense of security." Less solid colors are used for land planes "to relieve the pattern of the scenery."

Flying also takes up a number of her free hours. Diane is working for her pilot's licence and already has five hours of flying time to her credit.

Annual Flowers

(Experimental Farms News)

While it is true that flowering perennials make a splendid showing during the early spring and summer, annuals play a part all their own in both the small garden and large estate. Where no perennials are planted, they are a quickly available source of bloom, both for cut flowers and for show. Gaps in the perennial border may be temporarily filled in with annual flowers and the attractiveness of a border may be prolonged by the addition of some annual flowers which continue their blooming period past the time of year when most of the perennials with striking colors have completed flowering.

Easy to Grow

Most annuals are easy to grow. For best results the plants should be well grown in a greenhouse or hotbed, pricked off once into flats and then set outdoors early in June. By this method, it is possible to produce sturdy plants that will start to bloom soon after they are set out. It also makes it possible to get bloom from those types of annual which require a long period of growth before blooming. Chief among the latter are snapdragons, the seeds of which are usually sown in late May. Many annual seeds may also be sown directly where they are to flower and a nice show of bloom secured late in the season.

Many Fine Varieties

At the Fredericton Experimental Station, states R. G. White, the growing of annuals has been carried on for many years with excellent results. In the process, many types have been evaluated until at the present time, the work has been confined to those types and varieties which experience has shown will under our conditions produce a blaze of color every year. Chief among these are numerous varieties of splendid snapdragons and a selected group of Phlox drummondi, stocks, petunias, marigold, salvia and zinnias.

Taking a lesser, but important, place are brachycome, celosia, cleome, cynoglossum, centaurea, cosmos, balsam, pansies, salpiglossis, lobeleia, and a few others. Cleome is a newer introduction that will surprise anyone with its vigor and beauty and which continues to bloom right up until frost cuts it down. It would also appear that the actual labor required to prepare land, produce the plant and care for annuals, is but little costlier than for the care of a perennial border of the same size.

School Sets Goal Of Social Reform

New Delhi, March 9. (CP)—Mrs. M. W. Nichol, member of the British parliamentary delegation in India, recently visited Lady Irwin College founded here in 1932 by the All-India Education Fund Association.

Subjects at the school, which aims at turning out capable wives and mothers, include; cookery, laundry, needlework, gardening first aid, home nursing and mothercraft.

Facilities are given to students to spend at least a week in a village to see conditions in rural India and the need for progress. Intention is to prepare the girls for the task of social reform.

Beauty or Not, You Can Click

Anne Baxter, film star, has animated charm

By HELEN FOLLETT

IT'S GRAND good fortune to be born good looking, no doubt about it. A neatly chiseled nose, a thatch of ambrosial hair, lovely eyes, the clear complexion to make life a bit gayer and sweeter. But if a girl hasn't these blessed qualities, she can create an illusion of beauty.

By what means? By cultivating charm, having gentle manners, a musical voice. By interesting herself in smart attire. Most of all, she must have animation, be wholly alive. Those drab dames who sit in sullen silence haven't a chance to make the good looks grade.

Physical Well-Being

Animation is impossible without physical well-being. The girl who would create the impression of loveliness must obey the rules of health. She must have a certain amount of work to do, a certain amount of play.

She must practice emotional control; giving way to one's feelings is to invite a long list of beauty griefs and a state of nervous exhaustion.

No cutting down on hours of sleep. Each day, one must have a few breaths of fresh air; please remember that, you demon house keepers who have your noses at the domestic grindstone, seldom stick them out of doors.

Vitality is a store of strength tucked away for emergencies. It helps one through days of sickness. It has a wonderfully exhilarating effect upon the mind and the spirit. With vitality you face troubles and difficulties with courage.

Mind the thoughts that go on inside your head; they make or unmake the human countenance.

Responsiveness, friendliness, ease of manner are worth more in the long run that perfect features. These any woman can acquire.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He Doesn't Write — Shall She Pursue Him and Find Out Why?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with a boy 18. I am 17 1-2. He has a job that takes him to different places. He came to our town about six months ago, and in October I got introduced to him by my father. I went out with him a couple of times.

In December, he asked me to go steady. Then on January 31, he got orders to move, and now he is 90 miles from here. I saw him the day he left, and he said he would write. Well, two weeks have passed, and I have not heard from him. So some girls at the shop said they would go to this place where he is for the weekend with me.

What I want to know is, should I go to see him?

H. J. M.

If 90 miles is not too far for you to go to see this young man, H. J. M., then it's not too far for him to come and see you. See what I mean? Why should you go to spend the weekend where he is? If he wants to see you, he'll come and spend the weekend in your town. And if he doesn't show any signs of wanting to do this, then you ought to have too much self-respect to go running after him.

But if you want a definite answer to your question, then here it is. No.

She Wrote to Him Against Her Mother's Wishes—Now She's in a Spot

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am seventeen years old, going on eighteen.

Just before Navy Day, a ship came to our city for examination by the public, as it did in other cities. My girl friend and I went on board. We met quite a few of the sailors, who were nice fellows.

One of them asked if he could correspond with me. Neither my mother nor my girl friend's mother approves of sailors, so I wrote to him without my mother's knowledge. Recently he wrote and told me that he was expecting to come here on a week-end pass. He knows where I live, and I'm worried that he will come to my house.

My mother thinks I am too young to have dates, especially with sailors. Please tell me what I should do.

Worried and Uncertain.

Things have a way of catching up with us, sometimes, don't they? I suspect, when you started writing to this boy against your mother's wish and without her knowledge, you didn't stop to look ahead and think that some day he might want to come and see you.

It's too bad your mother and your girl friend's mother have such a poor opinion of sailors. Because sailors are pretty much like all the rest of us—some nice, and some others, perhaps, not so nice, and you've got to be smart enough to learn to tell the difference.

Couldn't you drop this boy a note and explain the situation to him, and suggest that he write a nice note to your mother, asking if he might come to your house to see you? He doesn't need to mention the fact that you have been corresponding. If he's willing to write your mother, then he's undoubtedly the kind of boy she would be willing to have you know. If he doesn't want to do that, but suggests you meet him somewhere without your mother's knowledge, that he is not the right kind of boy for you and you ought not to have anything more to do with him.

He Breaks Dates With Her Now What Will He Do If She Marries Him?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 20 and I'm going with a boy who is a few years older than I.

He has asked for my hand in marriage, but I haven't given a definite answer as yet. I'm very much in love with him, and he has told me quite a few times that he was in love with me, too. But sometimes I wonder about him. He will take a drink once in awhile, and when he does, he breaks dates with me, which I do not like very much. I met him in August and I've been going with him ever since.

He has been in service four and a half years and served eighteen months of that overseas. He was honorably discharged in June. I would like your advice on whether or not I should go ahead and marry him.

Twenty-Year-Old.

You are a wise girl to hesitate about marrying this man, and I would certainly advise you strongly to take plenty of time to think it over well before giving him an answer. He does not sound to me like a good matrimonial bet.

If he can forget his dates with you so easily now, he'll forget them much easier after he's got you tied up to him, and will leave you out on a limb many, many times to your mortification and sorrow. Moreover, it would be bad enough if he merely forgot them. But if it's drinking that makes him forget, the outlook is still less optimistic. My advice to you would be to put him out of your mind right now. I don't think you'd be sorry if you do, and there's a strong probability that you'll be sorry if you don't.

She Loves Him— He Says He Loves Her—But She Doesn't Quite Trust Him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I think a lot of a young man who is overseas. He has told his sister, whom I chum around with, that he loves me very much. And I have never loved any boy as I love him.

I was at their home one night and he had another girl there. She had heard he was home on furlough and thought she would come and see him. He says he doesn't like this girl, and has told me many time that he loves me, but after seeing her at his home, I don't know whether or not to believe him. Would you?

I knew him well before he went into service, but never wrote to him. How much older do you think a boy should be than a girl for them to get along happily together? What I really want to know is, should I write to him and wait for him?

The Girl in Waiting.

Whether or not people get along happily together depends far more on whether they love and respect and trust each other and have lots of interests in common, than it does upon their comparative ages. There's no rule about the difference in age at all.

And I rather doubt if you love this boy as much as you think you do, when you can doubt him so easily. Why shouldn't you believe him when he says he does not like the other girl and does love you? If you suspect him of two-timing you already, I'm afraid you're getting off to a bad start.

Moreover, I don't really see how either of you can be seriously in love with the other if you never even corresponded while he was away. Of course, write to him if you want to. As for waiting for him, that's up to you, but you'd be foolish if you passed up chances to have good times with other boys.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Birthday Party for a Very Young Lady

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1. For my little daughter's birthday party I would so much like to have place cards, but I have been told that this is incorrect for such young guests. Is it?

2. Should she open her gifts when they are handed to her or wait until all the gifts have been presented?

3. Should the games be started when only a few guests have arrived, or should we wait for all the guests before we begin?

4. Should my daughter greet her arriving guests at the door or in the living-room?

H. T.

1. No. Give the young guests the delight of seeing their names on festive place cards and the joy of taking these cards home with them as souvenirs.

2. She should open each gift as it is handed to her (her young guests will be deeply disappointed if she doesn't!). And yours is the responsibility to teach her to say an enthusiastic "Thank you", and to convince the giver that she is delighted with the gift. . .no matter what it is! And incidentally you should guide her "to the sweet way of appreciation" by having her write a nice little thank-you note to each present-giving guest. . . or if she is too young to be able to write yet, you should write these notes.

3. Your party will get off to a merrier start if you and she, after three or four guests have arrived, start a simple game that can be joined by the other guests as they arrive. Young guests don't relish being held up in their amusement program!

4. Your daughter should be at the door to greet her guests as they arrive and to receive their eager "Happy Birthday" greeting. And she should be at the door as they leave, to say "Good-by. Thank you so much for coming, and thank you for the lovely present you brought me.",

Wedding Announcements Issued by Her Stepmother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

When I was a baby my mother died, and two years afterward my father remarried. My stepmother has been wonderful to me, as devoted as a mother would be, and we love each other dearly. Three years ago my father died, and my stepmother and I have continued to live together. Now I am to be married at a very simple wedding with only a few guests, but I would like to send formal announcements. Could my stepmother properly sponsor these announcements? And if so, how would they be worded?

Ruth

An endearing story of a perfect stepmother, and since you and she have always had a devoted mother-and-daughter relationship, please give her the honor she has earned by having the announcements read:

The Girl's Mother Should Invite the Boy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

We live in the suburbs of the city where my 16-year-old daughter attends school. In April the girl's club to which my daughter belongs here is to give a Spring dance, and she wishes to invite to it (and to stay overnight in our home) a boy who lives in the city. Is her invitation to him all that is required?

Mother

Definitely not. You, as the hostess of your home, should write an invitation to the boy, not only assuring him of your welcoming hospitality but also, for his and your plans, suggesting the approximate time of his arrival, the plans for the dance, and inviting him to spend the night at your house.

All American Silk

By ALICE ALDEN

THE FIRST post-war All American silk of Brazilian yarn, thrown and woven in the United States, has been used to create some delightful dresses. Lisette Verea designed the delightful print of Polynesian dancing girls, an all-over pattern in black and white on "burnt onion" tan. The top is made with softly crossed-over front and the skirt has front fullness, softly handled. The self belt is touched up with circles of bright gilt metal. The all-American silk is one of the exciting features of this exciting post-war fashion era and augurs well for the future.

Flowers on the Communion table at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday were given by Mrs. Thomas E. Neal in memory of her husband who died two years ago, and another basket was placed by Mrs. L. R. Green in memory of her aunt, Mrs. Caldwell, a former resident of Marmora, who died in Toronto last week.

Mr. J. H. Neath, proprietor of the Royal Hotel left on Tuesday for Montreal where he will board a Transatlantic Air Liner and fly to Scotland to visit his mother, who resides at Peterborough, Northampton, England. She will celebrate her eighty-sixth birthday on March 15th and Mr. Neath hopes to join her for the occasion.

Mrs. H. Neath is spending a few days in Montreal this week and her mother, Mrs. Nuttall of Toronto is visiting at the Royal Hotel here.

MINERALOGISTS CAMP OUT

Phoenix, March 9 — (AP) — Some of the 300 delegates to the Rocky Mountain Federation of Mineral Societies' convention have solved the hotel problem in crowded Phoenix—they're camping out. Warned of the housing shortage here, a number of them brought their camping equipment and are camping in a city park.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Fashions in Faces

It is expected that feminine figures will change to conform to the modes of the moment. When the boyish shape prevailed, the busty girl felt like retiring to some vast wilderness. Now that the bust is accented, little Miss Skinny, is resorting to counterfeit bosoms. As figures change so do faces. Well, why not? Beauty whimsies furnish a certain amount of excitement, which may be good for the circulatory system.

Today's model beauty is as different from yesterday's as swing is different from "The Last Rose of Summer". Years ago the girl on the magazine cover had a Cupid's bow mouth, dimples, a round face, and she looked as if she didn't have much sense. Take a look at the dolly of 1946. Thin faced, steamlined eyebrows, ears out, up-swept hairdo revealing a noble —if not manly—brow.

Remember the wax ladies that once graced the shop windows? Maybe you don't. Maybe you're too young. They were lovely pink and white cuties with blonde wavy hair. They were quaint, held their hands in a naive fashion. Now see the supercilious, nose-lifted dummies, arms contorted, figures twisted, that stare at you from the display of merchandise. They have a fascinating sort of ugliness and, though somebody may hurl a brick at us for saying it, it is our belief that plenty of sophisticated girls try their best to look like them.

Dieticians and physical education instructors will transform a cream puff figure into slender loveliness, put curves on bones that are scantily padded with flesh. A first class hair stylist will give you a coiffure of high rating, no matter what the color of your hair may be, or how much you have of it. What the make-up artist can do is beyond words to express. So, if you are a bit bored with the woman in the looking glass, if you have a working balance in the checkbook, you can buy yourself a new you. It has been done, time and again.

Get out the album of snapshots, taken when you were ten or fifteen years younger, Mrs. America. You'll laugh heartily at the clothes, but you'll be amazed to find that, though you were just a college girl at the time, your face certainly looks funny. One thing or another is completely off key.

There was a time when it was considered shameful to reveal the ears, so they were curtained with wavy tresses ,some of which were demountable, rested in the dresser drawer at night. Cover your ears now and you're dated—and not by the new number you met last week.

Joan Crawford and other stage and movie stars started to widen their lips, making the mouth as large as the facial premises would permit. Now that's out. Lips are normal. Eyebrows, too. We're getting back to first principles, it would seem.

Eyebrows, too! Were're getting back to first principles

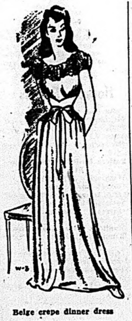
New Evening Line



Beige crepe dinner dress

By VERA WINSTON

THE ROUNDED hipline is handled in many new evening fashions to achieve a nice contrast to otherwise very slim, fluid lines. Beige crepe makes a very nice dinner dress that has the hip and yoke line cleverly detailed by chenille dotted net. The seaming below the bustline effects a smooth midriff. The rounded hipline is achieved by buckram underneath. The net is a deeper beige with brown chenille dots.

New Ration Book Some Time in Fall

Ottawa, March 9 (CP)— The Prices Board announced Friday a new ration book—6th since Canada began rationing of foodstuffs during the war— is being prepared and will be distributed to consumers "some time in the early fall."

O. W. Rodomar, administrator of rationing for the Prices Board, said that, on the basis of present rations coupons for meat and sugar, the current book will be exhausted early in the fall, making a new book necessary. He added:

"Early announcement of the new ration book is being made to keep before the public the continuing critical world food shortage and the great part Canada must play in helping to feed the starving millions abroad."

Full details of distribution will be given later but it is planned to use the same system of distribution as in the past. Ration books will be handed out at distribution centres staffed by thousands of volunteers and organized by the 627 local Ration Boards across Canada.

Foods at present rationed in Canada are butter, meat and sugar and preserves.

Blitzed Britain Fully Aware Of Her Discomforts

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 9 — (CP) — Blitzed Britain is fully aware of her post-war discomforts and doesn't try to conceal them from visitors.

A four-page printed leaflet, issued by the Travel Association of Great Britain and Ireland and addressed to overseas visitors to the British Isles, sets out in detail just what travellers may expect. It covers subjects from accommodation to tipping.

The one-paragraph foreword warns visitors that Britain is no longer as luxurious "as she used to be" and adds:

"The differences between the past and present are legion, and it is because so many of these differences are uncomfortable that we offer the following notes by way of warning, explanation and apology."

It explains there are few things more difficult to find than accommodation—"The shortage is acute and the remedy still far off" — and supports its case with the following statistics:

Bombs damaged 23,990 hotels and licensed houses, of which 7,803 are in London. In addition, 2,699 hotels have been requisitioned by government departments and other claimants and that London's population has increased by nearly 2,000,000 in the last year.

In case visitors are misled by the restaurant meals they eat, they are told hotels and restaurants consume only four per cent of the country's food. The only thing preventing a visitor from having six dinners in six different restaurants on the same day is expense, but "there are very few people indeed who can afford to over-eat."

Under the heading "Annoyances at Large," the leaflet says that "under this heading comes so wide a choice that we are at a loss where to start" and "to a long list of impossibles could be added a longer list of unprocurables."

MARMORA

War Workers Disband After Six Years of War

Marmora — Marmora community War Workers have disbanded after the past six years of highly successful effort. Twice a year boxes were sent to every man and girl from the district, who were in the services.
